Warm Area Detected On Mars

PASADENA, Calif. (Reuter) — Discovery of a mysterious area on Mars where the temperature rises suddenly was made by the Mariner 9 Mars probe Monday.

A scientist at the Jet Propulsion Laboratory in Pasadena said the area lies about 1,300 miles southeast of the towering Nix Olympica formation, one of the most prominent features of Mars.

Dr. Ellis Miner said "we have no idea what this could mean yet." He said that perhaps there was some internal source of heat, but declined into the idea that whether it was a volcano.

Miner is a member of the team responsible for Mariner's infra-red radiometer experiment which measures the temperature of the soil. One of its main task is to look for "hot spots" which might indicate that sources of heat exist inside Mars as they do on earth.

The scientist was careful not to call the mystery region a hot "hot spot" until data relayed by the spacecraft's infra-red instrument had been studied further.

Soundings of the region taken as Mariner swooped about 1,000 miles above it during the space craft's second orbit Saturday showed it to be about 12 degrees warmer than the surrounding area which had an average temperature of 55 degrees.

Miner said maps of the region did not show up any significant feature and it will be 18 or 20 days before the spacecraft crosses the region again.

Mariner is still giving a perfect performance after three days in orbit. Monday it fired a six-second burst of its rocket engine to adjust the orbit.

China Sends Seamen To U.S.

WASHINGTON (AP) — Confidential U.S. justice department reports say a Hong Kong-based seamen's union is slipping mainland Chinese into the United States on espionage missions.

A secret FBI analysis included in government reports obtained by The Associated Press says the Hong Kong Seaman's Union is putting members aboard flagships of non-Communist nations to sabotage or capture the ships in case of war or to jump ship in non-Communist ports and engage in espionage activities.

The reported entry of the union seamen has coincided with the wave of illegal aliens from mainland China who, other justice department reports say, have overwhelmed the immigration and naturalization service in the United States at the rate of 4,200 each year.

In addition to espionage activities, the intelligence reports say, some Chinese aliens have been arrested carrying narcotics shipments destined for U.S. markets.

The reports say the Chinese aliens have been entering the United States by jumping ship and crossing the Canadian border, or by jumping ship in U.S. ports.

The immigration and naturalization service has had some success in working with Canadian authorities to smash several of the smuggling rings, but immigration sources say that no sooner is one ring disbanded than another springs up. And, sources say, only one in 10 of the illegal Chinese aliens is caught and deported.

The latest U.S. immigration officials said they broke up a ring smuggling Chinese aliens from Vancouver into the United States at Bellingham and Blaine, Wash., at $1,600 a man.

One group of Chinese aliens was captured as the men crossed the border on foot a mile east of Blaine. Another group made it to the New York metropolitan area. Three of them, arrested in Newark, N.J., told investigators they first made contact with the smugglers in Hong Kong.

Earlier this year an American Canadian authorities broke up and stopped a Montreal-to-New York smuggling operation but the intelligence reports say operations in Montreal may have started up again and another smuggling operation appears working between Toronto and Detroit.

Justice department officials say there could be as many as 2,500 mainland Chinese are illegally entered the United States each year, and another 1,700 jump ship in U.S. ports. It is estimated that 5,000 entered between 1965 and 1970.

One immigration report said the illegal aliens operate by developing "a guerrilla infrastructure" in the U.S. The FBI analysis describes the Hong Kong Seamans Union this way:

"HKSU enjoyed virtually complete opposition to United States military operation in Vietnam and distributes seamen from serving aboard ships carrying strategic materials to Vietnam. Conversely, the HKSU encourages seamen to sail on ships bound for North Vietnam. HKSU has approved a policy of placing Communist agents in Western ships for the purpose of sabotage or capturing in the event of future hostilities.

"The Chinese seamen recruited in Hong Kong serve on ships calling at major world ports, thus providing a ready source for counter service and intelligence collection."

Sault Bishop Explains Synod Called for Social Conscience

NORTH BAY, Ont. (CP) — The Roman Catholic synod at Rome called for a new social consciousness that would not allow the world to be indifferent to the opulence in a few and abject misery for many, Most Rev. Alexander Carter, Bishop of Sault Ste. Marie, said Monday.

The bishop said in an interview on his return from Rome that it was acknowledged that the church does not have the competence to give economic solutions to the problems of the world. So discussions were based more on matters of conscience.

"We discussed and analysed the obvious injustices," he said, including racial discrimination, persecution of minorities, exploitation of underdeveloped nations and the disproportion of money spent on armament, compared to development.

"It was not a matter of accusing anyone so much as acknowledging the state of social inequity existing in the world. We call this, in religious terms, 'living in a state of social sin.'"

Bishop Carter said the World synod of Catholics, held Sept. 30 to Nov. 6, proposed a call for conversion, particularly among the more affluent nations, and a new social consciousness.

It was further proposed that the church itself set an example, he said.

"We propose that we begin to study our own pastoral priorities, our investment policies and our use of such funds as may exist in some churches—although many of the churches are poor—to determine if we can make better use of these resources for the good of the community.

"However, we realize that only on a national and international scale can problems of this dimension be solved. That is why we suggest that the governments of the world should be willing to sacrifice some of their autonomy and set up an international authority to oversee all nations, whatever their background, which would draw up a code of international conduct.

"In this respect the church can contribute by instilling in her own members a sense of need for such global action.

It would be naive and unrealistic to ask governments to make sacrifices which the bulk of their people are unwilling to accept."

Bishop Carter said it is hoped all churches would make an effort by developing a human Christian conscience among members.

The Canadian delegation called for a raised commission of men and women to study the role of women in the church, he said. The synod also discussed women's rights in society, including equal pay for equal work and admissibility to posts of responsibility based on competence.

Bishop Carter said a proposal to accept married men for ordination in cases of grave need or in particular pastoral situations did not win majority approval although many of those voting for it represented a large conference of bishops.

Synod went on record as wanting to maintain the law of celibacy as it exists, he said.

NO-GIMMICK GUARANTEE

This guarantee is different. We go all the way to make sure you are satisfied.

1. YOUR TIRE WILL BE REPLACED FREE within the first 20% of tread life, if a defect in workmanship or materials causes failure. That's right. Free.

2. From then on, YOU PAY ONLY FOR THE TREAD YOU HAVE USED. Let's say you have problems when you have used up two-thirds of the tread. All you pay is two-thirds of the warranty price at the time of replacement.

3. The guarantee has run its course when the tread is worn down to the 2/32" safety wear bar indicators. Why? Because government safety people say tires shouldn't be used with so little tread. That's why the government regulated that all tires should have wear bars moulded into the base of the tread.

4. What about ROAD HAZARD DAMAGE, such as a cut, snag, bruise or puncture? You'll agree that such damage is certainly not our fault. We don't go around scattering broken glass on the road! BUT we will still replace tires damaged by road hazards if they can't be repaired. Replacement cost is based on tread wear, as in item 2, above.

But if you pick up a repairable puncture, we'll ask you to pay the repair costs. That seems fair.

5. An important point: NO SALES SLIP IS NEEDED. We think it's ridiculous to expect you to keep track of your sales slip for a year or two, as most tire guarantees insist.

6. Another big difference. This guarantee is GOOD ANYWHERE IN CANADA OR THE U.S.A. If you're on a trip to the other end of Canada, or if you're in El Paso, Texas, your guarantee will be treated with respect. By any Firestone Store or Dealer. With no delays or quibbling.

Many tire guarantees must be taken to the dealer from whom the tires were purchased. That may be okay ... for stay-at-homes.

7. The only exceptions are fair and logical. See if you don't agree.

Racing drivers who tear up a drag strip can't use their guarantee too.

And if your wheels are out of alignment, you can't blame the tires if they are abused to an early death.

This guarantee is to protect motorists who use passenger tires for what they were designed for ... and who take reasonable care of their cars.

8. One word sums up this No-Gimmick Guarantee. It's fair.

WE THINK IT'S WHAT CONSUMERS WANT. AND DESERVE.

Guelph Doctor Says Hospitals Abuse Privileges for MDs

TORONTO (CP) — A Guelph physician said Monday that hospital privileges in his area are so abused that a probationary doctor was made a department head and three non-specialists were represented to the public as specialists and allowed to charge high fees.

Dr. J. R. Loudoun, a general practitioner in Guelph for 30 years, was testifying before Health Minister A. B. R. Lawrence's committee of inquiry into hospital privileges in Ontario.

He said that St. Joseph's Hospital in Guelph and Guelph General Hospital were given a very nice warning" whenever the Canadian Council of Hospital Accreditation was to make an inspection—usually every two or three years.

"We'd put everything shipshape and then go back to the old system," Dr. Loudoun said the committee when public hearings resumed. He said the abuse of the privilege system in Guelph was typical of what was happening in most areas of the province with hospitals of 100 beds or more.

The health minister ordered the inquiry after local doctors complained they were unfairly denied staff privileges at North York General Hospital and never given reasons for their rejection.

The inquiry is considering the existing system of appointing doctors to hospital staffs and of admitting patients to hospitals to determine if inequities exist.

Under the present system, a doctor must submit a hospital privileges application form with his credentials to the institution's medical advisory committee. The committee evaluates the application, then recommends acceptance or rejection to the hospital board of governors.

Dr. Loudon said the usual procedure is for the applicant to appear before the medical advisory committee briefly, then leave while the committee makes up its mind on his application.

"No minutes are kept at the meeting and if they decide he's not for their staff he gets a 'no' and that's it."

Dr. Loudon said a regional or provincial board of medical and lay members would be more unbiased and competent to judge the abilities of doctors than local committees.

"It's not practical to have local hospital privileges granted by those who are in competition, I can't believe they can be completely objective."

Dr. Loudoun said granting of hospital privileges in Guelph amounted to "closed-door decisions based on who belongs and who doesn't."

Medical advisory committees in the Guelph hospitals met in private and often rejected applicants for no valid reasons, he said. The committees "undoubtedly" had a bias which could be personal or financial.

He did not identify by name the probationary doctor who became the department head, the three non-specialists drawing the higher fee rate for specialists.

Empress of Canada On Her Final Voyage

MONTREAL (CP) — For Captain Bill Williams, leaving his ship means divorce and the end of a love affair.

On Monday he held a wake for the Empress of Canada which leaves Montreal today on its last voyage to England, ending regular passenger liner service between the two countries.

"People say every seaman is a bigamist," he told a hushed and sad audience in the ship's Club Lafayette lounge, "because he marries a ship first and then a woman.

"The Empress was also "the end of a 25-year love affair between myself and this ship.

"Those years have seen many changes . . . but Montreal has been good to me. To a seaman it is a second home."

Canadian Pacific announced last week the ship was being sold because there was not enough business to make it profit.

The CP Ships fleet had dwindled from 14 passenger ships before the Second World War to a scant three at the beginning of the 1960s.

In 1964, the Empress of Britain was sold to the Greek Line and last year the Empress of England went to Shaw Savill.

The demise of passenger service has prompted many longtime passengers to write letters and make phone calls, said a company spokesman.

At least one woman was crying on the phone and Staff Chief Lawrie Steadman said one man even tried to get time off work for the last voyage to Liverpool today.

Two previous Empresses of Canada sank. The first served in the Pacific Ocean and was torpedoed by an Italian submarine in 1943. The second was destroyed by fire in Liverpool harbor in 1953.

Captain Williams said he probably felt a little "sadder than most" because he joined the last ship as it was still being built in Newcastle, England, in 1960.

"It is my proud boast that I served in all three Empresses of Canada," added the master of the last ship. "I wish I could. Captain Williams was a cadet on the first and on part of the third duty on the second.

He expressed sympathy "for those who have never sailed in her. I promise they will never know what they have missed."

The last Empress carried 1,100 passengers on transatlantic routes and 750 on cruises to the West Indies and the Mediterranean.

"To everybody, a passenger ship has a certain glamor," Captain Williams reminisced.

He said he'd probably go to a nightclub in Europe. Ronnie Dunn said many of the crew are too old to start a new career.

"I think it is really terrible that a British ship is not sailing to Canada," said Dunn, who will retire after 43 years with CP Ships.

B.C. Member of Parliament Goes to Court on Pollution

WASHINGTON (CP) — A Canadian Member of Parliament and the Canadian Wildlife Federation started a joint court action Monday to protect the British Columbia coast from potential oil pollution from seagoing tankers carrying Alaskan oil.

David Anderson (L—Esquimalt-Saanich) and the 150,000-member federation sought court permission to intervene as interested parties in a legal suit filed by three American conservation groups who oppose a proposal to carry oil from the North Slope of Alaska to the United States mainland by pipeline and tanker.

Herbert Pittle, a U.S. justice department lawyer in charge of the case, said the Canadians suit "raises some very interesting questions" about the right of foreign citizens to join U.S. legal proceedings. He expected it would take some time before the department decides whether to oppose Canadian participation.

It is believed to be the first time a foreign citizen has sought to intervene in a U.S. environmental court action.

Anderson told a news conference he presumes appeals can be carried as far as the U.S. Supreme Court by either party, indicating a lengthy court battle ahead. A preliminary hearing is expected to be held in U.S. district court here within five days, he said.

Legally, the Canadian and American litigants can only seek to ensure that the U.S. interior department obeys a law which requires it to consider the pipeline's impact on the environment before it issues a permit for the pipeline to be built.

Anderson said Canada "did its best in a traditional diplomatic sense" to assure that its interests are taken fully into account before a permit is issued.

But diplomatic channels could not succeed "if one party isn't interested in replying" to the other party's objections.

The MP said he had advised External Affairs Minister Mitchell Sharp, Environment Minister Jack Davis and the prime minister's office that he was filing suit. They had neither encouraged nor discouraged him.

His particular concern is the danger of collisions or oil spills as a result of tankers plying the international Juan de Fuca Strait and Cherry Point/Kwad, near the B.C. border.

Japanese Emperor Has Some Regrets

TOKYO (Reuter) — Emperor Hirohito said today he had "deep regret" at a constitutional research during the Second World War, but was sorry for some of the things that had occurred.

He said he had acted to end the war on his own at the request of the then Premier Kantaro Suzuki.

Chief Cabinet Minister Sumiki left everything to my discretion to make a decision, but that decision was taken as the responsibility of the prime minister," the 70-year-old emperor explained.

The emperor spoke of his wartime role during an audience with 24 foreign correspondents in which he answered 13 questions submitted in advance. The audience was arranged as a sequel to the emperor's recent European visit.

The emperor, with 68-year-old Empress Nagako at his side, was asked to comment on demonstrations in Europe by groups blaming him for taking Japan into the war.

He explained: "In this country my grandfather Meiji established constitutional government and I have acted in compliance with the wishes of Meiji and acted as a constitutional monarch.

He was asked if the emperor was sorry for what happened in the war.

Hirohito replied: "Yes, there are certain things that have happened for which I personally feel sorry."

He was asked to comment on criticism of Japan for being an "economic animal" and allegations that Japan was reviving its old wartime militarist policies.

He replied: "I have heard such comments (concerning economic animals) and I do not think there are absolutely any signs in this country and the signs, I'm afraid are exaggerated."

ACTOR RETURNS

Toronto actor Francis Jourdan has just returned from 10 weeks in Paris filming Vampire with Jackie Burroughs.

Monday Good on NBC

NEW YORK (AP) — NBC skipped its regular programming Monday night and gave viewers a refreshing change of pace.

The network came up with a dramatic show, a musical comedy and a star-studded vaudeville show—all of which provided a well-rounded evening of viewing.

First came The Snow Goose, adapted from Paul Gallico's 30-year-old short novel. It was a warm, sentimental story about two lonely people brought together by their mutual affection for a wounded bird, which they nursed back to health.

Dames at Sea, which followed, was originally an off-Broadway musical comedy spoof of the extravagant Busby Berkeley-era musical movies that started with Forty-Second Street.

Ann Mangret played the little country girl who walked off the bus from Utah on to a stage and became a star the same day. Ann Miller was the tasty star of the show and had one dandy dance number. Ann Mearn, in a blonde wig, played the good-hearted girl-friend—a role that usually carries the best comedy lines—but not in this show. Fred Grayson, as the show's director, mugged a lot.

Festival at Ford's, the third of the specials, came from the Washington theatre where President Lincoln was assassinated. Bob Hope's monologue, directed to an audience of government officials and congressmen, was especially sharp, funny and bold.

With all that talent, the tour sped by fast.

Probe Shows Ulster Prisoners Ill-treated But Not Tortured

LONDON (CP) — Prime Minister Edward Heath, in one of his toughest statements yet on the Ulster crisis, has reaffirmed his pledge of an unswerving military campaign to eradicate terrorism in Northern Ireland.

"The attempt to destroy the fabric of society in Northern Ireland cannot be tolerated," the British leader said in a speech to a banquet Monday night.

"Terrorism serves only to postpone the day of reconciliation.

"That terrorism must be brought to an end and that we are determined to do."

Heath spoke on the eve of publication of a report by a government-appointed three-man commission on the British Army's methods of extracting information from suspected terrorists in Northern Ireland.

Political sources quoted by British newspapers said these methods have been shown to involve physical ill-treatment of prisoners.

But the government, the sources said, will stand on the commission's report that this ill-treatment fell short of the brutality and torture alleged by suspects now released.

Its line will be that extraction of intelligence from suspects is essential to save lives of civilians and troops, and that the means used were justified, the sources said.

More than 800 men have been arrested as part of Northern Ireland's battle against Irish Republican Army guerrillas as fighting to merge Ulster with the Irish Republic. The battle has cost more than 100 lives since internment started Aug. 9.

As Heath spoke, Opposition Leader Harold Wilson was telling a Belfast news conference that the Ulster situation has become "very serious, very dangerous." Wilson in visiting government and opposition leaders in Ulster and the Irish Republic.

Heath, while stressing the government's military commitment, also expressed willingness to discuss political reforms with Ulster leaders and opposition representatives.

"If at some future date, the majority of the people in Northern Ireland want unification and express that desire in the appropriate constitutional manner, I do not believe any British government would stand in the way. But that is not what the majority want today."

Welfare Recipients Denied Jobs

HAMILTON (CP) — Ontario should pass legislation to outlaw discrimination against welfare recipients seeking employment, David Biggs, a spokesman for the Hamilton Welfare Rights Organization, said Monday.

Mr. Biggs, a welfare recipient, told members of the provincial study group on employment opportunities for welfare recipients that his 300-member group advises people not to tell employers they are on welfare.

"We have heard of members of people who were convinced they had a job until the employer found out they were on welfare," he said.

The four-man study group was formed last month by Thomas Wells, minister of social and family services, to recommend ways to decrease the number of single employable men on welfare.

The organization said in a brief that the creation of the group illustrates "Mr. Wells has already made up his mind that there are many freeloaders on welfare and he intends to cut them off as soon as the task force shows him what is the politically expedient way of doing it."

Generally Takes Broken Bone Ten to Twelve Weeks to Heal

By G.C. THOSTESON, MD

Dear Dr. Thosteson: Would you answer some questions about fractured bones? How long after the fracture does knitting or healing start? Is it normal for the hand to be darker in color?

Is it necessary to wear a heavy plaster cast? Isn't a lightweight aluminum cast sufficient? Or isn't there some other lightweight material?—Mrs. C.L.

First stages of healing start almost immediately, just as is true with wounds in soft tissues, but complete healing is likely to take longer. Completion of healing depends on many factors. Which bone was injured? How severely? How accurately was it possible to set the fracture? What about the nutritional state of the patient? And age?

Generally speaking, healing is complete in 10 to 12 weeks, but you can see how much that may vary.

The type of cast depends largely on whether it is a weight-bearing bone that has been fractured. That would require a plaster cast.

Bones not under stress often can be splinted with a lighter material, but there again other considerations may intrude. How extensive is the fracture? Will the weight and bulk of a heavier cast help keep a patient from putting too much strain on it? Is the fracture so located that a light splint will give adequate support?

Discoloration of the hand (with an arm or wrist fracture) could be related to hemorrhage at the site of the fracture, or from changes in the skin resulting from inactivity of the part while the cast is in place. The discoloration should later clear up gradually.

Dear Dr. Thosteson: I have two questions. Will eating ice hurt you other than being bad for your teeth? Also, I brush my teeth with soda. It cleans them well, but I always swallow some.—Mrs. F.W.

Ice is just congealed water, so eating ice won't hurt you if you don't wreck any bridgework crunching it. The soda won't hurt you, either, unless you happen to be on a low-sodium (low-salt) diet.

Dear Dr. Thosteson: I have a problem of complete prolapse of my cervix, before and during pregnancy with my second child. I had hoped that it would return to proper position after the baby was born, but it has not. Is removal of the uterus necessary? Is there a chance the condition will correct itself? Is it advisable to get pregnant again?—Mrs. G.L.M.

The condition will not correct itself because of the relaxation of tissues. However, a suspension operation can be done so that removal of the uterus is not necessary. Subsequent pregnancy probably would be all right, but on this point you had best be guided by your own doctor's advice, on the basis of your particular situation.

Dear Dr. Thosteson: I read in your column that Seattle is the only place where successful surgery for hiatal hernia has been done. Would you give me the name of the doctor and place where the surgery is performed?—Mrs. B.N.

There's a serious mixup here somewhere. Seattle has fine medical facilities but it is by no means the only place where hiatal hernia is successfully repaired. I don't know where you got any such thing, but it wasn't in this column.

What the Stars Say

Wednesday, November 17

Aries (March 21-April 19). Now the time certain loans have been written off, as hopes of a payment have grown dim, is the most debt, though, isn't final after all. Cash comes in shortly.

Taurus (April 20-May 20). The terms of upcoming alliances will be presented by potential partners on a take-it-or-leave-it basis. There's little hope that you can write your own ticket.

Gemini (May 21-June 21). Short-term job assignments can be viewed as more attractive if they'll add new skills to your professional repertoire. Learn all you can.

Cancer (June 22-July 22). Light-hearted attitudes in your latest romance are due to deepen substantially soon. You'll be surprised to find yourself really getting involved.

Leo (July 22-Aug. 22). Happiness on the home front should soon start to become less of a burden and more of a reality. What is needed is a strong central figure in the family.

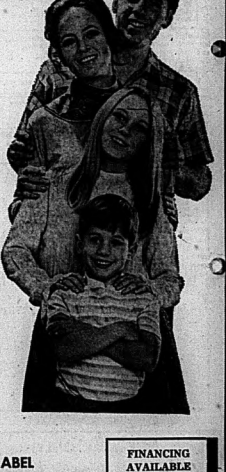
Virgo (Aug. 23-Sept. 22). Messages, calls, short-distance travel are the new highlights of the next four weeks. You'll accrue greater benefits if you remain openminded, refuse to court prejudices.

Libra (Sept. 23-Oct. 22). Today's New Moon places a strong focus on earning power, income, expenditures. Determination and patience can win you concrete increases. Don't take no for an answer.

Scorpio (Oct. 23-Nov. 21). The spotlight falls on you now, as you attract more with personal fly than with accomplishments. If you do have a few achievements to your credit, so much the better.

Sagittarius (Nov. 22-Dec. 21). You'd better learn to play defective, as a new influence points to much information being handed out behind the scenes. Secret deals, marriage work to your advantage.

Capricorn (Dec. 22-Jan. 19). Long-range ambitions get a strong boost in the next weeks, as your career opportunity opens up again. It may take a step down the ladder before you can take a big leap up.



Aquarius (Jan. 20-Feb. 18). Activity and prestige are up for sale now, the only price being your ability to apply a little self-discipline. The period is unproductive only for the lazy.

Pisces (Feb. 19-March 20). All life aims are consolled now by a strong, sure knowledge that you can guess what's coming next. Lean on intuition, no logic, to plan your next move.

TODAY'S BIRTHDAY: Determination to reach your goal cancels out time-wasting, plus sure-seeking inclinations. You manage to slacken this self-driving pace in February, but time to avoid exhaustion.

Gray Denies Canadian Forum Article Based on His Report

OTTAWA (CP) — Amid tumes of "tattletale gray," Finance Minister Herb Gray denied in the Commons Monday that an article in Canadian Forum magazine was based on the report on foreign investment he has submitted to cabinet.

Mr. Gray, echoing Prime Minister Trudeau's terse statement Friday, said the article "was based on only one draft" of a study prepared for official discussion prior to cabinet scrutiny.

External Affairs Minister Mitchell Sharp said it was an "early draft of a study prepared for the government in connection with the whole question of foreign ownership."

In a series of oblique responses neither minister would say whether the ideas for policing foreign investment outlined in the magazine document are the same as proposals under discussion in the cabinet. They did not say that the final draft of the study was substantially different.

Mr. Sharp at one point said the idea of a federal agency to screen the activities of foreign-owned companies and to oversee investments was one of several methods proposed for control.

He also said the published reference to encouraging banks to invest more in Canadian industry was a matter proposed to the government.

In their replies, the ministers said a number of separate studies had been compiled along with the main Gray report and the published article was one of them.

The gold pen of a U.S. diplomatic attache flashed in the Commons gallery as Mr. Sharp fielded questions on the article, which the Forum said was a summary of the Gray report.

Conservative House Leader Gerald Baldwin led the assault, saying there was a fair suspicion that the government deliberately leaked the document "for either domestic or international political reasons."

"It was either a theft because of slipshod and slovenly security or the tattletale gray of a deliberate leak."

Both he and New Democrat Leader David Lewis sought, without success, to have the government release the Gray report, which has been before the cabinet since last spring.

Mr. Sharp also was asked whether the subject would be discussed at the federal-provincial conference under way here. He said the federal government did not intend to raise it.

Some provinces have. Ed Broadbent, (NDP—Oshawa-Whitby), asked whether bank regulations may be changed to ensure that more funds are invested in Canadian industry.

"It is obvious from what has been revealed that this is one of the matters which has been brought to the attention of the government," Mr. Sharp said.

"But the government still has to make its decision."

The published report had been abbreviated and was not a statement of government policy, he said.

Prime Minister Trudeau and the government wanted to reach a decision on foreign investment "as quickly as possible," but he couldn't guarantee a statement before Christmas.

Mr. Gray, brought into the cabinet in 1969 to launch the current study, sat silent throughout most of the questions.

"I have no knowledge at this time as to how any information may have reached The Canadian Forum in an unauthorized way," he said, replying to a needling question by former prime minister John Diefenbaker.

Mr. Sharp said the RCMP hadn't, at that point Monday, been asked to investigate.

Tax Change Helps Rich Is Claim

VANCOUVER (CP) — The provinces and the upper middle class will lose while the federal government and the wealthy benefit from major changes in Canada's tax structure taking effect Jan. 1, the Canadian Tax Foundation was told Monday.

John Bossons, a professor of economics and finance at the University of Toronto and a research associate with the university's Institute for policy analysis, said federal legislation to establish a capital gains tax and abolish death taxes is "highly advantageous" for the federal government and the wealthy.

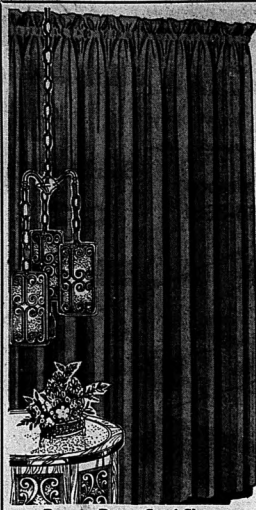
"The big losers from this exchange are provincial governments and those middle-class individuals who are in the process of accumulating wealth," he told about 1,400 taxation specialists from business, universities and the professions attending the foundation's annual conference.

Mr. Bossons and other speakers at the opening session of the three-day meeting criticized elimination of estate taxes and aspects of the capital gains tax, which the federal government has tied together under Bill C-259, a new Income Tax Act, while offering to help any province wanting to implement its own estate tax.

"It is difficult to find any social or economic rationale for eliminating the estate tax," Mr. Bossons said.

"From a social point of view, the combination of eliminating the estate tax and imposing a tax on capital gains serves mainly to increase the concentration of wealth and to reduce social mobility."

The capital gains tax—a levy on profits from sale of investments—would be applied to increases in the value of investments when a person dies.



Tax revenues lost over several years through elimination of estate taxes would be sufficient to pay for a reduction in personal income taxes of about 10 per cent for individuals with incomes about $15,000 a year.

Elimination of the tax "turns out to be the equivalent of a lump-sum transfer of approximately $4.5 billion to individuals who currently own wealth that would be taxed in future years under the estate tax," Mr. Bossons said.

BIRD FARMER

WATERVILLE, N.S. (CP) — James Featherby read his first book on ornamental pheasant and game birds four years ago and now he is rapidly turning his 80-acre Waterville farm into a bird-lovers' paradise. He has 42 of these birds on the farm and expects to increase this number by at least 100 within a year. The birds range from White Silky Bantam chickens to striking black and yellow Reeves pheasants, which feature tails measuring up to seven feet in length.

Cabinet Document Leak Shocks Sharp

May Call Mounties To Conduct Probe

OTTAWA (CP) — The federal government launched an investigation Tuesday into a leak of a confidential cabinet document on foreign domination of the Canadian economy, regarded as one of the most serious security breaches since Prime Minister Trudeau took office three years ago.

External Affairs Minister Mitchell Sharp said the government would call in the RCMP if necessary in efforts to find out how the document, dated July 23, was acquired by Southam News Services.

Publication of the document in the Montreal Gazette Tuesday came just five days after the Toronto-based Canadian Forum magazine published an edited version of Revenue Minister Herb Gray's assessment of foreign domination of the Canadian economy.

Mr. Sharp said leakage of the cabinet document was "far more serious" than publication of the Gray Report. The document says that the cabinet has agreed in principle to the main Gray report recommendation—establishment of a screening agency to oversee proposed foreign takeovers of Canadian firms.

The Gray report was a study prepared by a civilian servants for cabinet consideration while the document published Tuesday was an actual record of cabinet proceedings, usually the subject of stringent security safeguards.

Hundreds of civil servants had access to the Gray report, but only the prime minister, his 29-man cabinet and a handful of aides, advisers and top civil servants had access to the cabinet document, said Mr. Sharp.

The external affairs minister confirmed in the the Commons that "it is clear that a member of the press or members of the press have gained access to a confidential cabinet document."

Outside the House, Mr. Sharp told reporters he was "shocked" by the leak and the "whole system of government" would have to be changed if there was no guarantee of cabinet secrecy.

Two paragraphs dealing with the document were published in a Southam News Services story Saturday, after the Canadian Forum article appeared, and the full document was published by Southam papers Tuesday. The Gazette version was the first to reach the government's attention.

Mr. Sharp confirmed the document's authenticity aside from minor discrepancies and said its release will put great pressure on the government to make a formal policy statement on the subject.

The cabinet was to take a final look at the Gray report in September, Prime Minister Trudeau has said, but this was "derailed" by President Nixon's Aug. 15 surcharge announcement.

It is unclear whether the July 23 cabinet agreement has been scrapped, or further discussion simply delayed until things settle down.

In the Commons, Conservative Leader Robert Stanfield moved adjournment—under the circumstances a motion of censure—that was defeated 181 to 89.

Almost all of the question period was given over to procedural opposition challenges to the government to produce the published documents in the House.

Surprisingly there was no debate on the content of the documents, which U.S. authorities already have said would create a significant change in direction for Canada in regard to foreign investors in Canada.

Other motions aimed at government security procedures while Mr. Sharp was taken to task for allegedly misleading members by saying the cabinet hadn't agreed on a foreign ownership policy.

No New Payments Planned

Trudeau Halts Battle On Equalization Grants

OTTAWA (CP) — A predicted fierce battle over Canada's equalization payments turned into a mild skirmish Tuesday. It apparently ended after Prime Minister Trudeau firmly announced there was no new territory up for grabs.

The present system of channeling tax money from the richer provinces to the poorer ones will continue as it has. And if the warring provincial premiers were disappointed, they were also relieved that they didn't lose some of their existing grounds.

The battle lines, as they were drawn Monday when the federal-provincial economic conference began, were between the have and have-not provinces. Generally, the have-not provinces wanted a better deal from the equalization system, while the have provinces wanted a re-examination of the program.

Mr. Trudeau rejected both arguments.

Noting "a sharp difference of view" among the provinces, he said the system "is probably unequalled in any other federal country."

"Equalization is alive and well in Canada," a happy Premier Gerard Regan of Nova Scotia said afterwards. He had wanted an expanded program and had predicted the fierce battle.

And on the other side of the battle lines, Premier W. A. C. Bennett of British Columbia said he was not too disappointed with the federal decision because he really didn't expect any change at this conference.

None of the provincial delegations appeared particularly upset by the federal decision on an issue that clearly dominated proceedings. And most were optimistic about future changes.

While Mr. Bennett optimistically said his request for a review of the present system will arise again, Quebec Premier Robert Bourassa, who wanted the present system expanded, also was optimistic that the matter will come up again.

Premiers William Davis of Ontario and Peter Lougheed of Alberta, both representing have provinces, wanted the equalization plan re-examined.

Mr. Davis suggested the payments "are likely to have been a major factor in dragging the whole economy significantly below its potential." Mr. Lougheed, said he would put up with the plan but "there's got to be a reasonable limit."

The prime minister said the federal government is making more than $1 billion in equalization payments this year. The total in 1967 was $548 million.

As is normal with these closed-doors conferences, there were some conflicting views.

points expressed, as provincial delegations sent out sheafs of statements for the benefit of waiting reporters. But all agreed that no new nation-shaking decisions had been made.

Mr. Trudeau did announce two changes in federal programs affecting the provinces.

The federal government would in future guarantee that provinces would suffer no decline in income from one year to the next. And he also said that upper limits on loans to students would be increased.

Each province now is assured its income will not be less than 95 per cent of its previous year's income. So far it has never been applied, since there hasn't been that big a drop in provincial income.

But Premier Allan Blakeney of Saskatchewan said Tuesday that if the new 100-per-cent system had been in effect before his province would have received an additional $14 million in 1970-71.

Assam Border Fight Staged

NEW DELHI (Reuter) — A further incursion into Indian territory by Pakistani troops increased tensions today along the Indo-Pakistan border.

The border-crossing report, by the Press Trust of India, was the second Indian allegation of Pakistani troop incursions in two days.

The border-crossing report, by the Press Trust of India, was the second Indian allegation of Pakistani troop incursions in two days.

The news agency in another report said British Prime Minister Edward Heath had written a personal letter to President Yahya Khan urging him to seek a political solution with the eastern region's elected leaders.

Quoting official sources in Shillong, the Press Trust of India said Pakistani troops and Razkars, a para-military force raised in East Pakistan, crossed into the Mizo hills district of Assam from the Chittagong hill tract of East Pakistan Monday.

Indian border security force personnel beat back the intruders, who suffered heavy losses, said PTI. Two Indians were killed. Pakistani light machine-gun and rifle fire continued across the border until early Tuesday.

'Major' Speech Tells Little

NEW YORK (Reuter) — Treasury Secretary John Connally gave no hints of new American initiatives in the world monetary dispute when he made what had been billed as a "major policy address" Tuesday night.

Financial observers said Connally's assertion that the new economic program announced Aug. 15 by President Nixon was for the good of the world and that moves by U.S. trading partners were required to move the monetary dispute off centre were generally reaffirmations of U.S. policy.

Both in the address delivered before the Economic Club of New York, and at the impromptu news conference he forehand, the treasury secretary emphasized that the program should not be interpreted as protectionism or isolationism but rather as part of the strengthening of the shield that the United States provides the Western world.

Connally did not look for a quick solution to the monetary impasse but stressed repeatedly at his news conference that the U.S. is prepared to meet its trading partners half way.

Barbara Greer, charged with living with two relatives in a rented family residence, was given a suspended sentence by Justice of the Peace Raymond Gill. Miss Green said later she plans to appeal.

Two Men Burned In Blast

By IAN ROBERTSON
Staff Reporter

One unidentified workman is in "very serious" condition at Belleville General Hospital and a second in only fair condition, as the result of an explosion this morning at Hastings Manor on the Trent Road.

A spokesman for the home said two employees of Francis Hankin Company of Toronto, were working overtime to fix a burner-heated pot. This material, consisting of silicon, wax being used to line mortar joints on a smoke stack. The material is forced into cracks by a pressurized gun. The home is spending $5,000 to convert its heating system from coal to gas.

The spokesman could not say if the explosion occurred before the fire, or if the fire followed the explosion.

"I haven't any idea. The foreman on the job hardly speaks any English," he said.

One of the workers received, in the words of a hospital spokesman, "extensive burns to his face, back and legs. We are very, very, concerned about this patient."

Work in the boiler room began last week and was expected to be completed by today. A temporary halt in construction has been called.

Although the furnace was running at the time, the manager spokesman emphasized the work being done had nothing to do with the operation of the furnace.

Smoking Drivers Called Unsafe

BRISBANE, Australia (Reuter) — Heavy smokers have been warned to think twice about driving.

The Queensland director of air pollution control, A. Gilpin, says anyone who smokes 20 or more cigarettes a day suffers from impaired vision and judgment.

He told the annual conference of the Australian Automobile Association Tuesday: "If you smoke heavily, think seriously before taking your car on the highway, and if you smoke and drink you shouldn't be able to drive at all."

Gilpin said that road safety campaigns concentrated on alcohol and ignored the hazard of the smoking driver, but a smoker at the wheel breathed in more carbon monoxide from his cigarette than from his car.

Natural Gas and Copper Sought

U.S. Trade Official Leaves for Russia

WASHINGTON (Reuter) — Commerce Secretary Maurice Stans leaves today on a trade drive that could lead to U.S. industry pouring millions of dollars into Soviet enterprises.

Trade officials said U.S. firms are interested in investing in Soviet natural gas and copper deposits to bring them into full commercial use.

The gas, shipped in liquid form, would have a wide open market in the United States where projects have been curbed because of a gas shortage.

Stans, the first member of President Nixon's cabinet to visit Moscow, and a party of 10 arrive in Moscow Saturday after having two days of trade talks in Stockholm. After a 10-day stay in various Soviet cities the party will go on to Poland for more trade discussions.

The mission could lead to Nixon signing a formal trade agreement when he visits Moscow in May.

Stans told a news conference in New York Tuesday that he would explore in Russia the possibility of U.S. capital being used to develop resources in a joint venture.

He said there was some possibility of extending export credit to Communist countries, and cited what he described as Russia's need to develop its resources and increase its supply of consumer goods.

U.S. trade with Russia last year amounted to $200 million. Stans goes to Russia with already in his pocket a $121 million deal announced 12 days ago to sell grain to the Soviet Union.

Robert Smalley, a commerce department official and a member of the Stans party, said today that the visit was mainly on an exploratory mission, to see what the Russians want to sell and their terms.

"Mr. Stans could bring back a bagful of possibilities," he said. This will be followed by a series of U.S. trade missions expected to go to Moscow during the next few months.

SS Trustees Opposed To New Hiring Policy

Separate school trustees here have gone on record in opposition to new teacher hiring policies recommended by the Ontario School Trustees' Council.

The council wants the first Monday in January, 1972, to be the day for beginning advertising and teacher engagement.

In former years, boards could not begin hiring teachers until late spring. But now, with a surplus of elementary teachers in Ontario, the Council believes there is no need for the mad scramble of late spring, when boards competed for the teachers available.

However, "open hiring" will be deplored at a meeting of boards, such as the Hastings-Prince Edward separate school board, its superintendent E. J. Neville, told trustees at their regular meeting last night.

Large boards can estimate in January the approximate number of teachers they will need when school opens the following September. But small boards must wait until all resignations are received in late spring before they can hire. By this time, Mr. Neville indicated, the best teachers will already be under contract with other boards.

Trustees directed the superintendent to contact the Ontario Separate School Trustees' Association and indicate their objection to open hiring.

He will also send a memo to all teachers, asking them to inform administration as soon as possible after they know they will be resigning from the system.

Other points in the hiring policy met with no objection from the board, but it agreed the policy would be ineffective unless all boards held to the gentlemen's agreement.

The trustees' council recommended that boards refrain from placing advertisements unless they are prepared to grant interviews to all applicants, that boards discourage the use of large display advertising as an economy measure and that teacher hiring centres for secondary school teachers no longer be operated unless an emergency occurs.

Color TV Stolen

A thief or thieves who broke into Ireland's Furniture and Appliances store at 380 Front Street last night, may have been interrupted before they could complete their haul.

Although a pile of appliances was discovered near the door, only a $350 color television set has been reported missing.

Entry was gained after the back door was forced.

Grey Cup Preview

Football fever spread through the Legion Hall last night as members of the Belleville Sales and Ad Club enacted plays that would never, ever be relived in the CFL. Prizes were awarded to the winning team and the first runners up. Referees were Terry McCabe and Bruce Lynch. Jack McBride, (centre standing) urged support for the two teams while Richard Needham (left seated) and Ernie Colebourne mused on the possibilities of the players living through the exercise. Jim Needham was the guest speaker for the evening.

Jobs for Six Recommended

The Belleville Recreation-Arena committee will recommend that city council apply for permission to hire six young adults currently unemployed or on welfare to assist in various local social aid programs.

Their employment will be part of the provincial government's new Project 500 scheme in which 500 persons between the ages of 18 and 24 will be drafted from the unemployment lists to work over the next five months. The committee hopes to begin the program by December 1.

Those selected will be paid between $85-$100 per week and guaranteed a job lasting four or five months. Their names will be put forward by social service agencies and the local Manpower office.

Two of those hired would be employed by the committee to work with the Hastings County School Board in helping to co-ordinate the Community School concept at Queen Victoria School and Queen Mary School. The remaining four will help conduct a community survey of senior citizens.

East Lake Cat Now A Celebrity

EAST LAKE (Staff) — Iddy-Muff, a sleek slate blue feline owned by Mrs. Pat Dunkley, East Lake, recently became top-cat in a jungle of competition.

The year-old tom defeated 33 other household cats to win the title of Household King Cat at the first annual Limestone Cat Club international cat show, held in Kingston.

Mrs. Dunkley, a first-time exhibitor remarked "I was so excited that I clapped, too, when he won."

Mr. Gebhardt arrived in Kingston from New Jersey to act as judge for the cat show which drew 172 pampered felines and 34 household cats. He has also been invited to London, England, and Japan to judge other major shows.

Iddy-Muff, who won six first place ribbons, one second and a fifth at the Kingston cat show has not allowed fame to turn his head.

Yesterday he retired to his private castle, constructed in the Dunkley kitchen to purr over his victory and to recover from the excitement of flocks of admirers.

Mrs. Dunkley, proprietor of Quinte Kitty boarding kennels, noted that Iddy-Muff is the offspring of a mating between a long time family pet and an elusive stranger.

The 14-pound feline earned his peculiar name from his uncle, Miff, who met an untimely death on the highway.

Mrs. Dunkley, fondly recalling Miff, dubbed her grey kitten Little Miff, since he closely resembled his deceased uncle. Little shortened to little and eventually became Iddy.

The handsome tom now answers to Id when summoned from his castle.

Iddy-Muff is sharing the limelight of his recent success in show business with Mrs. Dunkley's three other cats, among them a purebred Russian blue female, believed to be one of two in Ontario.

Other felines at Quinte Kitty boarding kennels include Wee Willy and TA who has the dubious distinction of balding regularly owing to a vitamin deficiency.

UNICEF Christmas Cards Are Unique

To mark its 25th anniversary, the United Nations Children's relief organization, UNICEF, has released a set of special cards, reproducing a number of rare Vatican art treasures.

Some of these unique cards unveil several art pieces that have never before been made public.

Special permission was granted from the Holy See to print the cards, which depict paintings such as a very rare 15th century Byzantine illuminated manuscript and another showing the Nativity. The third illustrates the Adoration of the Magi. These art objects come from the Vatican Library, founded in the middle of the 15th century.

Centred around the theme of The Joyful Child, the 1971 regular card series is hailed by Kenneth Lyons, volunteer greeting card chairman of the Canadian UNICEF committee, as "probably the widest and most diversified selection of greeting cards and calendars we've ever produced."

Although several of the cards have been printed in Canada, only two actually reproduce works by Canadian artists. One, which has been sold out in Belleville, is a colorful tobogganing scene from the National Gallery. The second shows a winter valley scene.

"This rather annoys me," Belleville distributor Mrs. Jack Ralph, of 11 Rumewood Drive, said yesterday.

Mrs. Ralph has been selling UNICEF cards in Belleville for the past five years and finds the voluntary job both enjoyable and rewarding.

"I get to meet a lot of folk who come to my home for their cards and gifts. As well, it's for a worthy cause and this makes it even better," she says.

In 1970, Mrs. Ralph sold $1,240 worth of cards. "It's hard to get volunteers to sell from downtown, so I keep the distribution point at my home."

The family's front hall is piled high with orderly packed boxes of cards. The 16 regular designs are sold for $1.50 in packs of 10. The same items, but in a more expensive variant, sell for $2.25 a box.

UNICEF cards and calendars are sold in more than 130 countries and form a major source of income for their work with mothers and children in the developing countries of the world. All card designs are donated by artists or galleries.

Funds collected either from sale of such items as cards, children's Hallowe'en contributions and direct donations are funnelled into a central account. For each dollar's worth of UNICEF aid, the co-operating country provides $2.50 worth of local goods and services.

Mrs. Ralph said the work of her and her husband has had a profound influence on their children. When Christmas rolls around, the youngsters don't mind getting one gift and count themselves lucky, she says.

UNICEF Makes for Full-time Job

Needham's Predictions Gloomy

During his appearance at the Belleville Sales and Ad Club last night, Richard Needham, writer for the Globe and Mail, claimed "a depression comparable to the 30s is coming upon us. Quebec will be gone in the next three or four years . . . and my life Canada will be one part of the United States."

Against everything except women, children and the country of Canada (not the government), Mr. Needham "cramped over" everything that was sacred to the North American way of life," said an amused member of the club.

Supporting his claims of things to come, Mr. Needham said, in one of the few serious moments of his address, "I don't know one Canadian who is working to stop the Yankee takeover, all the intellectuals of Quebec and the students are fighting for the cause of an independent province and our federal government is so obsessed with welfare that depression is the only route."

During the evening, Mr. Needham had something to say on just about anything, including calling the Canadian flag "a red dollar sign on a white background, symbolizing the purity of George Hees.

"I'm against government power when it is centralized. I think welfare should be restricted to those who are physically handicapped, and as far as being a sex pervert, in my city (Toronto) anyone who performs woman falls into that category," said Mr. Needham.

"All children should be given primary education, a minority should proceed to high school, and only a tiny minority should go on to university," carried on Mr. Need h a m. "Furthermore, none of my children shamed me by going to university."

Mr. Needham is a grade 10 dropout.

Realizing that he had strayed a little from the interest area of the group, Mr. Needham said, "as advertisers, only tell the truth when all other forms of deception have failed."

Jerry O'Connor, past president of the club, thanked Mr. Needham for his address saying "I don't agree in all cases with Mr. Needle (Needham) but I wish I was as funny."

With another timely saying, Mr. Needham closed his evening saying, "you escort friends and relatives to the station or airport only to be really sure they are gone.

Bolivia Next In Travel Series

The highest country in the world will be the subject of the Kiwanis Club's next film presentation in its 19th annual Travel and Adventure Series.

Bolivian Adventure, with Romain Wilhelmsen narrating, will be shown Thursday, Nov. 25, at 8:15 p.m. in the Centennial Secondary School auditorium.

The film includes scenes of the jewel of the Andes Mountains, Lake Titicaca, at two miles high the most elevated large body of water in the world, as well as the lush green world of the Amazon rain forest. The pre-Inca city of Tiahuanacu is visited by Mr. Wilhelmsen's camera and various lost missions, forts, weapons of war and treasures are uncovered for viewers.

Mr. Wilhelmsen, from East Lansing, Mich., began a stage career upon graduation from Pasadena Playhouse and appeared on Broadway for two years. He soon discovered, however, that his heart was not in acting so he left the stage for a life of exploration and photography.

During the filming of Bolivian Adventure, Mr. Wilhelmsen encountered many strange experiences. At one point in the land where Che Guevara and Butch Cassidy and the Sundance Kid were caught, he found himself in the middle of a genuine Latin - American revolution. "complete with speeches, machine guns, machetes and horsemen." He also had trouble breathing in the mountains where the air is so thin that "a golfer can easily hit a ball 400 yards with a two-iron".

Tickets were sold on a series basis although some may be available at the door.

Stolen Cars Recovered

Police in three districts were involved in the overnight recovery of two stolen cars last night.

City police reported the theft of a car from the rear of the Hotel Quinte at 9 p.m. yesterday. Owner of the vehicle is Reginald D. Sproule of 15 Valleyview Crescent.

At 2 a.m., officers from Trenton Police Department alerted Ontario Provincial Police, who discovered the car at Bayside.

A second vehicle, owned by Mrs. Audrey Woodcox of 47 Safe Boulevard, was reported stolen from the rear of the Canadian Hotel at 1.30 p.m. yesterday.

The vehicle was found in a ditch by the Trenton Police Department at 3.30 a.m. They notified OPP officers, who in turn, turned the case over to Belleville police. The car had been abandoned.

Children's Recreations Displayed at Library

The boxes were made by Quinte-area youngsters as part of the annual Young Canada's Book Week contest, September 15-23 has been set aside by the Canadian Library Association to promote reading among the junior crowd.

This year a record 115 entries were received, most of them from public schools where teachers asked pupils to create the three-dimensional scenes for art projects. The contest was open to anyone up to the age of 13.

Prizes to the four winners will be presented at the library Saturday at 10 a.m. The talented quartet includes Jackie Devries of Belleville District Collegiate School, grades one and two; Walter McWilliams of Prince Charles School, grades three and four; Anne Caroline Julien of Sir John A. Macdonald School, grades five and six. A special award will be given to Ronnie Vesterfelt of William R. Kirk School.

Entries will be on display for the next two weeks.

Judges were Moira Secondary School art teacher Rod Greig and his wife, also an artist.

Special patron for Young Canada's Book Week this year is Indian actor Chief Dan George. His message to children points out the difference between the verbal teaching methods of his people and the written education most Canadian youngsters receive.

The children's library staff will also be presenting a puppet show for schoolers and the William R. Kirk School in conjunction with this week's celebrations. Everyone is invited to see the show and a visit to the library Saturday morning.

Purse Snatched

Mrs. Mary Smith, 76, of 133 Charles Street, had her purse snatched at 5.15 p.m. yesterday.

As she passed the corner of Dundas Street and William, a youth, ran along beside her and snatched the purse she was clutching in her left hand.

The youth made good his getaway into the Queen Alexander public school yard.

He has been described as a heavyset white male between 15 and 16 years of age with light coloured hair, approximately five feet, five inches tall, wearing dark pants and a hip-length dark coat with white fur collar.

President in Driver's Seat

Election Prospect Cools Opponents of Nixon Policies

By ROD CURRIE

WASHINGTON (CP) — If 1972 were not election year in the United States, a variety of efforts to mitigate the effects of President Nixon's economic policies on friends and neighbors might have got a more understanding reception in Congress. As it is, the elected representatives now are particularly sensitive to the fears and desires of their constituencies.

And the fears and desires across the U.S. these days are centred on the state of the nation's economy, the dread of unemployment and the curse of inflation.

The president Nixon sees this and is taking harsh steps—in an uncharacteristically visible manner—to bring things to rights.

Recent polls indicate a substantial increase in his popularity, and observers suggest this is due in part to his strong stance on the economy, including wage-price controls at home and a no-nonsense attitude to trading partners in the face of a balance of payments crisis.

When spokesmen, political observers suggest, are following the lead of the business community in the White House.

To the ordinary people, perhaps particularly those unsophisticated in the complex workings of international trade matters, the spectre of a real danger that the value of the U.S. powerful U.S. dollar has been a sobering experience.

Although many congressmen, and thoughtful Americans elsewhere, are alarmed and even angry at the effect the 10 per cent supplementary levy on imports and other measures are having on trading partners and nations, for the moment they are preoccupied with domestic woes.

In the current Senate debate on the tax bill, a number of senators have sought to make amendments so far to tack on amendments that would diminish the effects of some clauses on Canada and some other trading partners.

Although they've got some sympathy, and a number of colleagues have expressed concern over what they consider the dangerous protectionism of the measures, they've generally been free-wheeling John D. Connally, the treasury secretary, hasn't yet much muscle behind such moves.

As some observers have suggested, it is difficult for a senator to push for relief for Canada, say, or that for Japan, when the only party of the international scene. With the political season opening officially with the new session in January, March they are particularly inclined to what the folks back home think and say.

John B. Beaton, of Ottawa, who has been credited with doing much of the scientific research work behind what may be a major contribution to the fight against cancer, is a son-in-law of Mr. and Mrs. Fred Douglas of Belleville. Mrs. Beaton, nee Helen Douglas, was well known in Belleville during her residence here.

Leonard Conner, retail sales manager of the Bakelite Co., who addressed the monthly meeting of the Sales and Advertising Club in the Quinte Hotel, spoke on the technical and promotional aspects of plastic. Mr. Conner is a graduate of Toronto College, mines and Metallurgy, 1938.

District No. 6, Registered Nurses' Association of Ont., held its annual meeting in the Ritchie Memorial Nurses' Residence at Belleville General Hospital. The district association comprises chapters from Colborne, Brighton, Lindsay, Trenton and Belleville. The Ontario Association has raised $8,000 for the Bonded Retiels, Nurses' Fund and of that amount approximately $600 has been secured by District No. 6.

Mall's Influence

Quinte Mall manager David Blandford's concept of the mall not only as a shopping complex which he anticipates will be duplicated in other communities but as a community centre featuring exhibitions, fund-raising promotions and the like, is very much in tune with the public response to this Belleville enterprise.

When Mr. Blandford remarked to a Rotary audience here Monday that he thought mall store owners were happy with developments he could have been echoing the sentiments of the public too. An establishment such as the mall, concentrating as it does many commercial enterprises in a bright and attractive atmosphere, is like a magnet. It is a place not only to shop and meet friends and the community at large, but in the promotion of cultural happenings it is fulfilling another useful function.

Yet if the mall, along with downtown and the community's overall commercial services, caters to many human interests and needs, it is only a part of the total environmental picture. In our emphasis on the commercial aspects of daily life we may tend to sidetrack other disciplines. For instance we need also the inspiration of personal creativity in our home life, we need contact with the outdoors, with nature, with sport and recreation. Imagine for instance what a boon it would be if we had a sporting complex concentrating several recreational functions in one area, in the same way the mall concentrates a variety of commercial needs. As it is our area sporting facilities are scattered and separate, a factor which might have something to do with the complaint of a letter to the editor on this page today. Belleville, the writer says in effect, is no place for single people.

The mall then is an important addition to the Belleville scene. Who knows, maybe developers (who by over every looking to more larger complexes) might consider this sporting and recreational aspect and provide such facilities. Belleville, after all, is growing, and it would be useful to consider additional recreational facilities, on land and on boats, to supplement those already available.

Movie Fare for Children

Guelph Mercury

Ed Gaspar, manager of the Odeon Theatre here in Guelph, must be thinking of the old adage these days. Time and again he has received complaints from parents about some of the films he shows in his theatre are not fit for children.

But what happened when the Odeon management decided to correct that situation and run a film festival of top quality international films for the children. The theatre was virtually empty for the first film showing on Oct. 16. Where were all the children of the parents that complained there were no films fit for their children? We don't know but we do know that they were not in the Odeon Theatre watching what was probably one of the best films for children that has ever come to Guelph.

Last Saturday, in an attempt to correct that apparent wrong in the film festival, Mr. Gaspar provided a showing of the films chosen to view the films in the festival, free of charge. Five parents turned up.

Hijack Incident

Air Canada pilots want stronger government legislation against air piracy — and this as a result of the hijacking of the Vancouver-Toronto DC-8 flight at the weekend. And what a hijacking it was; there have been others lengthier, flights at the behest of weapon-toting individuals exhibiting clear signs of mental instability, but few could rival this one for the erratic behavior of the hijacker and the checkered course the plane's pilot was obliged to fly at his command.

We doubt if Canadian planes will end up with sky marshals aboard, as in the U.S., but certainly greater staff will be drawn up than checks on passengers. One minor side benefit of this episode could be slightly improved knowledge of Canada and Canadians by Americans following the abrupt diversion to Great Falls, Montana. For that matter should all we know of Montana is from Don Cooper ,who has exhibited films in the Kiwanis series here, and also that it was the home state of actor Gary Cooper, in a continent of romance-sounding names, we have always thought Montana is one of THE places one should visit.

Meanwhile, the crew of the DC-8 are deserving of the highest praise for their courageous manner in which they handled this emergency. Truth indeed is stranger than fiction. We have seen several films on this theme, and would not be surprised if another were made based on this real-life drama.

Incidentally, this episode followed by only a short while a meeting in Montreal of several pilots and stewardesses who had been involved in similar hijackings, mostly to Havana. The meeting was arranged to give members of the International Air Transport Association, with headquarters in Montreal, a first-hand account of the perils passengers and crew face during these incidents.

Reds Claim Taiwan

The Communist Chinese have wasted no time in getting down to what they consider as basics at the United Nations. There was the Peking delegate, acting as if he was an old hand at the game of international politicking, and claiming sovereignty over poor ousted Taiwan. For the Nationalist Chinese this was adding insult to injury. But as one American delegate pointed out, the Communist Chinese were merely reaffirming known positions. After all, what else could they say? Complain that New York is too dangerous a place for any self-respecting diplomat?

Is There No Middle Course in Politics?

Editor,
The Intelligencer.

Lately, the editorial page of The Intelligencer has surpassed itself in its vituperative castigation of the Left. Skilful editorialists, supported by the comments of Richard Jackson and others leave the impression that troubles plaguing our society can be laid to the doorstep of those daring to question the philosophy of the capitalist society.

The unemployment, poverty, pollution, frustration and racial tension that beset capitalist society cannot be attributed to the Leftists — they are a direct byproduct of the extremes of the Right, as was the innovation of socialist and communist philosophies.

Or course the existence of such a deplorable state of affairs encourages the radicals of the extreme Left just as in the communist countries, the extremes of the regime encourage and promote a sympathetic swing to the Right.

In the western world the market system has flourished for centuries. Utilizing its early industrialization, the market system has advanced steadily with its doctrine of free enterprise to the point where the profit motive has succeeded in dividing the world into two camps — the "haves" and the "have-nots". Within the west itself this same division of the "haves" and the "havenots" now manifests itself in the social unrest of the day as the pollution of the profit motive creates even greater inequities.

Choosing to ignore the cause, many of our columnists elect to treat the after effects by lambasting the Left and making it the villain of the piece, not the right with its encouragement and support of a system that generates continual cycles of unemployment, recession, war, poverty and inequity.

Writing about the racial discontent and militancy of the colored people the editorialists of the Right never fail to get in their licks at the "subversive elements" of the Left. Readers are never reminded that the gold hungry slave trader of the 16th century was the first to decimate whole tribes of Africans and establish as the dogma of communism, having no relevance to the needs of society today, its preoccupation with profit will ultimately destroy it.

By the same token, the proponents of dialectical materialism, in the guise of the "dictatorship of the proletariat," in its present form, is unpalatable as its free enterprise adversary.

Today there seems to be no room for a middle of the road philosophy — one has to be either extreme right or extreme left and in the long run, one is as bad as the other.

WILLIAM C. HOCKLEY

EDITOR'S NOTE: We have heard this argument before from Mr. Hockley, who does not seem to know which way to turn. Right or left, he finds so much the system that produces this polarization but rather people; some fall naturally into the capitalist mold and to the Right in politics... others, both professional people and workers, lean to the Left. This is a natural process, given the freedom and private enterprise system of western democracy. As Dr. Morton Shulman, a member of the New Democratic Party says in his book, "How to one Can Make a Million" Most of our disenchantment with the Left, however, lies in the fact that a great deal of the urban violence stemming from that quarter, the activism on university campuses, letters to Toronto newspapers from anti - American academics and the public affairs programming of the CBC, not to mention U.S. networks, are so destructive in character. "Burn baby burn" to quote one of the Panthers' earlier catch phrases, seems to be the order of the day among the extreme Left wing at least. Or should it be "Kill baby kill?"

Postage Stamps for Needy

Editor
The Intelligencer.

Again, at Christmastime, I think about all of the cancelled postage stamps, discarded for the lack of something constructive to do with them. These seemingly worthless articles are sold in bulk by the Scarboro Fathers to companies that supply stamp collectors. The money thus obtained aids the world's needy regardless of religion.

In one year I have received over 100 pounds of used postage stamps in large and small quantities from individuals, from service clubs, from companies, etc. They add up quickly if every one collects them.

It hardly takes a second to rip the cancelled stamp off an envelope, leaving a bit of paper around it.

This can be YOUR way of helping the world's poor without costing you a lot of time or money.

Preparing for Federal Election

By DON O'HEARN
From The Intelligencer's Queen's Park Bureau

It was a matter of passing attention and you may not have even noticed the newspaper report.

The managers didn't know why they were being called in, they assumed it was for some form of a victory celebration.

But it wasn't this. Rather it was to tell them to go to work now on getting ready for the next federal election campaign.

And therefore it was the signal for a most important political development in the province.

From this meeting and other developments it has become evident that Premier Davis, his government and the provincial party machinery, will be all-out behind the federal party in the next election.

If so, this will be the first time that this has happened in more than 30 years. It also could have very important implications.

In 1940 there was one of the very political developments of our post-war political period.

In that year Leslie Frost won the Ontario Progressive Conservative leadership and the premiership that went along with it.

Frost won through the personal efforts of George Drew, Hywel, who was moving up to Ottawa to lead the federal party for Frost against Leslie Blackwell.

His proposal was to maintain a control over the provincial party, which he said, could never do under Blackwell but felt he could easily do under Frost, until then a relatively unpleasant Frost. He particularly wanted to control the provincial party machinery, which was powerful.

He got Frost in all right. But then in a few days he got a shock. For the new leader made it clear to him that he intended to be the boss and he wasn't going to take control and personal politics.

Since then there has been little political co-operation between the two political levels of the party.

In 1957 and 1958 Frost did openly support John Diefenbaker. However, even in those elections the full provincial machine was not in action.

Frost left it to the individual members. If they wanted to work and put their supporters with the interests of the party. And a good many did. But there wasn't a unified effort.

The significant factor is this the provincial party after its past years has grown and been close to the people has a very efficient machine.

While the federal wing is weak politically. And even in the years of Diefenbaker power while it was able to get strong local organizations in some ridings never grew able to build a good province-wide machine.

Premier Davis apparently intends to break this tradition that has prevailed since Frost. (One other indication is that ad hoc, non-political propaganda and policy group that planned the provincial election has been at work on the federal vote.)

With the Trudeau Liberals heading down from 60 seats in Ontario, many of them having been held at one time by P.C.s, there could be considerable influence on the result of the next federal vote.

Nothing in City For Young Adults

Editor,
The Intelligencer.

A brief word, if I may, on a local problem which ought to be rectified — the exodus of young single people from Belleville.

No attempt is made to make this city appealing to single people in their early and middle twenties.

There are no singles clubs, nor are there any attempts by local entertainment facilities to cater to singles in their twenties. Local clubs and organizations do or sooner get-together's for singles.

As a result, young people, especially university graduates, leave Belleville and launch their careers elsewhere.

The local taxpayers subsidize the public and high school education of these young people, only to lose their talents to another city or town which offers the same job but an improved social life.

To sum up, Belleville is a prison to a single person in his or her twenties.

The nature of my work dictates that I remain in this city until next September, a prospect which I do not relish. This city seems to have nothing socially to offer my age group. (I am 24) and I, like so many before me, will not return.

DISAPPOINTED

Today In History

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

Nov. 17, 1871 . . .

The Suez Canal had its official opening 102 years ago today—in 1869. The first canal was dug about 200 B.C. and was periodically restored. The modern Panama canal was opposed by Britain at first and work on it was stopped several times. Britain later bought shares in the canal.

Ottawa and the Provinces

Grashy La Voix de l'Est:
The provinces have good reason to reproach the Canadian government for not consulting them before making so important decision, and especially a decision concerning them. This way of acting is indefensible.

In the case of fiscal reform, for example, it was the place of the federal finance minister to inform them much sooner of the decision to make this reform into effect next January.

The provinces would thus have had the time to co-ordinate their fiscal legislation with the Canadian legislation.

Another important point is the division of revenues between Ottawa and the provinces. The latter complain not without reason of the insufficiency of their income.

Mr. Benson naturally would prefer to be the master of decisions, to see these conferences called to have everybody agree without objections.

But that is impossible in a framework such as Canada where, so long as economic disparities will continue to exist, the provinces ask solutions to their problems often different from those desired by the Canadian government.

That is why Ottawa must at all costs, in a word, make greater respect for provincial rights. That is why Ottawa must establish more useful mechanisms of collaboration and consultation, mechanisms through which it will be possible for the two levels of government to reconcile their viewpoints and find mutually satisfactory solutions.

Ottawa certainly has no interest in weakening the provinces financial situation. The stronger the latter are, the better they will be able to meet their obligations and the less serious will be the problems that they governments must resolve.

Arena Renovation Suggested As A Winter Works Project

Winter works programs newly inaugurated by the federal and provincial governments may enable the city of Belleville to renovate the Memorial Arena at a substantial saving to taxpayers.

City council will hear a recommendation from the Recreation-Arena committee to tap into the $59-million fund Ottawa has made available to municipalities for stepping up winter employment.

In addition, the provincial government has allocated $30,488 to Belleville for winter projects.

Among the suggestions made to the committee by recreation director Lorne Williams are the complete renovation of the canteen area of the lobby; a new lounge room, ventilation fans for the main roof, additional low surface lights and improvements to the public address system.

Committee chairman Donald Soutter would also like to see the removal of steel girders which presently interfere with sight-lines in many parts of the arena. This step would be the first move toward major expansion of the building expected sometime in the future.

The works programs are designed to stimulate employment by paying labor costs to persons whose names have been taken from unemployment or welfare lists. The federal government will also contribute 37 per cent of costs other than those involving labor while Queen's Park is offering 16 per cent assistance until March, after which the allotment drops to 12 and one half per cent.

The city will still be required to pay for most of the materials used in upgrading the 40-year-old building but Aldermail Soutter suggests that since the programs are basically one-year affairs, no guarantee can be forthcoming that the work could be done at such a saving to taxpayers in the future.

The committee now is obtaining estimates of the costs involved and hopes to have its formal submission ready for Monday's council meeting. Deadline for grant applications is December 31.

UCS to Submit Proposal for Community Survey

The United Community Services of Belleville, sometime this week, will be making its try for a portion of the $100-million made available by the federal government for winter work projects.

Operated on a similar basis to the Opportunities for Youth Program, the Initiative Program must provide at least 30 man - months of work. The pay involved for the group must not exceed an average of $100 a week.

Approved by the UCS board of directors, a four - man committee evolved a scheme that would employ 13 people from the early part of December to the end of May.

"Recognizing the need for a body of information of this kind, we are trying to get a plan of Community Life Statistics approved by the federal government," said Isidore Cooperman, director of the UCS.

The plan to be submitted comes in two parts listed as 1) determine the needs of special groups in the community, and 2) study, in depth, of two contrasting neighborhoods.

"In terms of dollars and cents, we'll be spending upwards of $30,000," said Mr. Cooperman.

This first part of the program to determine the needs of special groups in the city is designed to gather information, to allow other organizations in the city to become more effective.

"At the moment we have no way of knowing how many shut-ins there are in the city or for that matter how many people would like the assistance of a volunteer worker when it comes time to buy the groceries," said Mr. Cooperman. "We need this information, so that we might have an intimate look at the people of the city, so that we (the members of the UCS group) can better serve them."

The second part of the study, dealing with the comparative study, or study in depth of two contrasting neighborhoods, is designed to show the differences in attitudes in the two areas.

"This will not be just a program to milk funds from the federal government, to provide employment, but will serve as a valuable source of information," said Mr. Cooperman. "Perhaps on its completion, if we see the need, ongoing services will arise from the findings of the eight interviewers to be employed by the program.

"In all probability it will be graduates of local high schools who will fill these positions as well as two research assistants and two typists," he said. Only those listed with Canada Manpower, will be considered.

Canada works and you can be a moving force in creating jobs for Canadians.

Canada works when Canadians get involved together. So the Federal Government is putting 498 million dollars to work, through a series of specific programs, to help create jobs for Canadians.

CANADA WORKS WITH YOU

You're a major force in making the program work. We're counting on you, either on your own initiative or through your community groups, to come up with ideas for the Local Initiatives Program. For example, you may have a social service project or an idea to expand a cultural program, or improve substandard housing, or assist the handicapped—just about anything that makes your community a better place.

The Training-on-the-Job Program will expand opportunities for training for those who are unemployed or have little work experience.

For those with some basic work experience, the Canada Manpower Training Program has been extended to help provide additional learning.

CANADA WORKS WITH BUSINESS AND INDUSTRY

Included in the Federal Government's plan is a program of tax credit or direct payments to employers to encourage them to add trainees to their staffs through the Training-on-the-Job Program. This will help the trainee get valuable work experience that he can apply in many jobs.

CANADA WORKS WITH MUNICIPALITIES

The Local Initiatives Program will help municipalities to create additional jobs through worthwhile community projects. Provincial governments will work with municipalities to use this program to support and spur community projects that will give jobs to people in your community.

CANADA WORKS WITH THE PROVINCES

There's a Federal-Provincial Employment Loans Program designed to finance additional capital works projects. Some projects may be done by the provinces, others by municipalities with provincial approval. We'll be speeding up the program of the Central Mortgage and Housing Corporation to get homes, student housing, and sewage treatment projects under way.

Loans will also be made to exhibition commissions, boards and associations to get people working on multi-purpose fair and trade buildings.

CANADA WORKS WITH FEDERAL PROJECTS

There will be more job opportunities in maintenance and improvement activities on Federal buildings; transportation facilities; forest and park projects; and many others.

WHERE IT ALL WORKS TOGETHER

It starts at your Canada Manpower Centre. For advice and assistance on any of the programs you feel apply to you or your community, contact your local Canada Manpower Centre. They'll be happy to help you.

By ALICE DENHOFF

What in the world is Cock-a-leekie Soup? Why, "tis a soup the Scots well love, a mixture of chicken and leeks. Put the two together in a wonderfully savory broth, add rice, and you've got a chicken soup that is a complete meal, wholesome and tasty.

Chicken is rich in nutrients and is complete protein that is indispensable for maintaining and repairing tissue, muscles and cells. In fact, chicken has a protein content that no other meat exceeds and few equal, according to the National Broiler Council. Anyway, let's get busy with:

COCK-A-LEEKIE SOUP

2 broiler-fryer chickens, whole or cut in serving pieces
3 teaspoons salt, divided
¼ teaspoon pepper
2 celery tops
2 bay leaves
2 quarts water
12 leeks or 18 whole scallions
1 cup uncooked rice

Put chickens in deep kettle. Add 2 teaspoons of the salt, celery tops, bay leaves and water. Bring to a boil; cover tightly, then reduce heat and simmer 1 hour, or until chicken is tender. Remove chicken; strain broth. Return broth to kettle.

Meanwhile, slice leeks or scallions. There should be about 5 cups. Add remaining salt, leeks or scallions and rice to broth. Bring to a boil. Cover and simmer 25 to 30 minutes.

Yields 6 to 8 good main-course servings.

How about a cress between meat and stew? It's served with knife, fork and spoon—the works. It's a good:

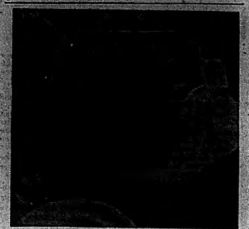
CHICKEN STOUP

1 broiler-fryer chicken, cut in serving slices
¼ cup (½ stick) butter or margarine
2 cups sliced celery
1 large onion, chopped
1 green pepper, cut in strips and halved
2 cups water
4 medium potatoes, quartered
2 tablespoons salt
½ teaspoon paprika
⅛ teaspoon thyme
¼ teaspoon black pepper
1 tablespoon Worcestershire sauce
1 (1 pound) can tomatoes
1 (1 pound) can whole kernel corn

Melt butter in a 5- or 6-quart kettle over medium heat; add chicken and brown on both sides. Remove chicken. Add celery, onion and pepper; to kettle and cook 5 minutes, stirring often. Add remaining ingredients, except tomatoes and corn. Return chicken to kettle; simmer 30 minutes. Add tomatoes and corn; simmer 10 to 15 minutes, or until chicken is tender. Serve with corn sticks, if desired, for a nice touch. Serves 4 to 6 and can be cooked a day ahead.

Another nice one is:

CHICKEN STEW WITH ONIONS



2 broiler fryers, cut in serving pieces
3 cups water
2½ teaspoons salt
1 cup coarsely cut celery tops
3 parsley sprigs
¼ teaspoon dried leaf tarragon
5 medium onions, sliced
3 tablespoons butter of margarine
1 cup evaporated milk, divided
3 tablespoons flour
1 egg yolk, beaten
2 tablespoons lemon juice

Place chicken in kettle; add next 7 ingredients. Bring to a boil; cover tightly. Reduce heat and simmer 1 hour. Remove chicken and place in a casserole; keep warm. Strain broth and boil rapidly until reduced to 2½ cups.

Blend ½ cup of the evaporated milk with flour until smooth. Add to stock and cook, stirring constantly, until thickened. Beat together remaining ½ cup evaporated milk and egg yolks. Add to hot stock and stir until slightly thickened. Stir in lemon juice and pour mixture over chicken. Sprinkle with chopped parsley, if desired, for a colorful touch.

Learn-in Centre Gives Special Help

TORONTO (CP) — One year ago a 13-year-old boy from suburban Etobicoke, enrolled in Grade 7, counted on his fingers. He could not multiply and did not understand the difference between a cent and a dollar.

This fall the same boy entered Grade 9 and is keeping up with the regular high school program.

His progress resulted from what he was taught at the Norsemen middle school learn-in centre. This is a pilot project launched by the Etobicoke school board a year ago for a dozen youngsters who had never earned a legitimate pass from one grade into the next.

Nine of the original dozen are making progress in regular Grade 7 and Grade 8 classes this fall. Some of them made up as much as four years' work in some subjects last year.

Two children of the dozen, whose progress was not spectacular, spend most of each day in regular classes. But they return to the learn-in centre for special help in their weak subjects.

Presiding over the centre is Noreen Hardwick, a teacher for 10 years. She says she is confident the 'self-image' learn-in centers that have marked the behavior of nine newcomers to the centre this fall will disappear. This is what happened with last year's dozen pupils, when they found they were capable of earning and began to gain self-confidence.

School psychologist Laura Ford said the learn-in centre starts with pupils in Grade 6. This seems to be the moment when they realize high school is not that far off for them, and if they are going to make it they have to start working now. They really try."

Visitors to the centre ask how children could get as far as Grade 6 without grasping the fundamentals of spelling, reading and arithmetic.

Mrs. Ford said they were moved along each year in line with a policy of keeping them with others their own age. Each succeeding teacher tried to take them song as far as time permitted in classes of 35 or more. But none of these children had ever covered a year's school work in one grade.

DISTRICT WOMEN'S INSTITUTES

UNIONDALE WI

November hostess, Mrs. Mary Sine for Uniondale Women's Institute had as her meeting an invited guest night. All members invited their husbands as guests to a fried chicken supper, with all the trimmings at Scott's Uniondale Hall. For entertainment, Kenneth Coach played the accordion, Harvey Couch, mouth-organ and Don Campbell the bank. They played many numbers as well as singsong numbers from the song sheets.

Kenneth Paul and Ernest Anderson, thanked the women for their enjoyable evening. Mrs. Robert Burkitt thanked the entertainers and presented them with an appreciative envelope of money.

December meeting will be to discuss the Christmas gift exchange and will be in the form of a potluck supper.

Hostess will be Mrs. Robert Burkitt.

WALLBRIDGE WI

On Thursday evening Mrs. Don Shorey was hostess for the November meeting of the Wallbridge WI held at her home with 15 members in attendance.

The theme for the evening was "resolutions". Mrs. Ed Vanderveide informed the group about several resolutions which had been presented and discussed at the spring board meeting. Members were concerned about proposed documents, non-returnable bottles, picnic sites along highways and the celebration of Canada's birthday on July 1.

Mrs. Gordon Garrison presided for the business session. Wallbridge WI will make donations to the Mental Health and Christmas Exchange organizations, as well as a gift of $25. to the Erland Lee Homestead, where the constitution of the first Women's Institute was written. This home is being preserved for its historical value and may eventually be used as a centre for Women's Institute activities.

The senior training class in the project "the knack of sewing with knits" is meeting on Tuesday nights under the leadership of Mrs. O. Chisholm. Institute members were invited by Mrs. Struthers, the home economist, to attend the 4-H club achievement day for "accessories for the bedroom" on December 4 at Moira Secondary School.

The delegate to the recent Trent Valley area convention held at Club Caswa in Belleville, Mrs. W. Johnston gave a report.

A silent auction, conducted by Mrs. DeHeer, was a successful and enjoyable venture.

After the business was concluded a social hour was enjoyed by all. Refreshments were provided by Mrs. H. Fisher, Mrs. H. Ketcheson, Mrs. A. Spencer and Mrs. F. Tucker. They were thanked by Mrs. Garrison.

Boxers' Outfit For Hot Pants

ROME (AP) — Valentino, a leading Italian designer, belatedly showed his spring and summer ready-to-wear fashions Monday, presenting what he called a boxing outfit—a new excuse for hot pants.

He also displayed 19th century - style cotton gingham dresses which he termed his "Uncle Tom's Cabin" line.

The boxers' outfits consisted of rather baggy satin shorts, in gaudy yellow satin trimmed on the side with navy blue and a wide elastic waistband. A matching open-necked shirt also topped long trousers in the same style.

Other designers presented their collections last month, so Valentino managed to focus the spotlight on himself alone.

His cotton dresses, in long or short versions, came in black and white or red and white gingham with full skirts, frill and lace.

Survey of Church Topic At Anniversary Service

MARMORA — Rev. Dr. Harold Vaughan, secretary for the National Division of Ministry and Education, United Church of Canada, was the speaker at the morning service on Sunday marking the 97th anniversary of St. Andrew's United Church, Marmora. His topic was Where It's At and was an overall survey of the church, how it came about and the situation it finds itself in today.

Guest soloist for the occasion was Mrs. Fern Brooks of Mark St. United Church, Peterborough, accompanied by Mrs. Owen Woodcock. The junior and senior choirs sang several numbers, one of which featured Mrs. Jackie Beatty as soloist. A hymn-sing preceded the service which was attended by about 150 people.

In the evening, 60 people took part in a fellowship supper and songfest before proceeding to the Marmora Senior School for a concert by the Vicinaires, a youth group from the Berean Christian School in Brockville.

The Experts Say
Hats Give Total Look for Many Outfits

MONTREAL (CP) — To get in on a revived interest in women's hats, designers and manufacturers can't just sit behind a desk like a big plum and tell women what they're going to wear," says Jack Dell, president of one of Montreal's few remaining hat manufacturing companies.

"Women are swinging back to hats to finish off a total 'civilized' look for every day outfits, not just dressy mommies," he said in an interview.

"But they have very definite and individual ideas on how such accessories fit into their way of life."

For the hat wearer that means choosing something practical, comfortable, and unctuishable but beautiful.

"We used to produce four lines a year," said Mr. Dell whose firm, Leopold Hats, sells about 200,000 hats annually to retail stores. "Now we're creating new things every week."

These new things include soft cloche-type hats, some sporting the emblems of National Hockey League teams, to close-fitting knitted and crochetde berets to striking small-brimmed models which frame the face or flare out slightly and feature trailing scarves.

"Brimmed hats of all types will carry over from this season to be very important next spring," Mr. Dell said.

But he admitted predicting long-range fashion trends is not a sure-fire proposition any more.

"Even seasons aren't really a factor any more," he said. "Women wear what pleases them even if it's a fabric and style that used to be associated with another season."

Winter still turns shoppers' thoughts to warmer headwear. Half of Mr. Dell's business is in fur hats ranging from long-hair fox and racoon to curly white sheepskin helmets retailing at $15 to $200.

But women will no longer be told when they will buy fashions for a coming season.

Mr. Dell said a trend back to hats now sweeping Europe will have a definite impact on styles here.

"But manufacturers have to get out and see what the people want before adopting to fashion influences. Hat wearers are the ones who say what's right for them in Canada."

Colorful Fall Decor At Marmora Tea

MARMORA — The last vestiges of autumn were used to decorate St. Paul's Church hall for the annual ACW tea and bazaar on Friday afternoon.

The lovely color of bittersweet mingled with the shades of brown in oak leaves and dried plants, presenting a lovely sight to the good crowd that attended.

The tea tables were covered with orange, gold, green and brown cloths and were centred with a tiny pot of chinese lanterns, sprigs of bittersweet, dried plants and tiny spears of bulrushes.

The smell of home baked goodies greeted everyone as they entered and enticed everyone to take home some of the delicious food. Mrs. Clayton Cronkright, Mrs. Ira Edwards and Mrs. James Clark were in charge of this table.

The sewing table was another popular place as shoppers looked over the plentiful supply of aprons, socks, caps, mittens, stuffed pillows and slippers with Christmas gifts in mind. Mrs. W. Leonard and Mrs. K. Trumble were kept busy at this table.

Pots of baby tears, several kinds of cactus, and African violets were only a few of the plants brought for sale by Mrs. Orville Leonard from her plentiful supply.

The white elephant table offered a variety of articles at moderate prices and was looked after by Mrs. R. G. Winters.

Mrs. John Lombard, Mrs. William Lavender, Mrs. Norman Kilpatrick, Mrs. Tom Devolin, Mrs. Don Robertson, and Mrs. Ross Kitcher looked after guests in the tea room.

Miss Mc. of Your Mind
by JOHN CONWELL

Do men give directions better than women?

NO; women win by a mile, and it would save a lot of aggravation if men would adopt a woman's method of giving directions. Many a man has floored gas into an accident trying to peer at the hard-to-see road signs; something that will rarely happen if he is told by a woman: "You go by a pink house with gray shutters, then think about turning left at that supermarket that comes right before the movie house."

Is love missed in a loveless marriage?

CERTAINLY, even if a man and a woman decide to marry in spite of acutely unwilling to each other that they do not love one another. It is not only that they will come to realize that love is needed for them to live with each other day in and day out. The husband and wife will also miss love because they expect it to enter their marriage even though they have made a pact to share their lives without it.

YES, if he wants to take the time and doesn't "cop out" by claiming that his illegible handwriting "is set at my age." A simple test he can make is to write without looking at his handwriting. He will be amazed that it seems more legible than his usual scribble. A little reflection will show him that the reason for the improvement is that he had concentrated on what he was writing and made sure he formed each letter."

Ann Landers

Square Dancing Leads to Romancing

Dear Ann Landers: There is this bleached blonde who talked my husband into taking up square dancing. In the close proximity of this fun pastime, she applied a little body English and they went from square dancing to love-making. I could see the sparks flying but I figured it was a harmless flirtation and would soon wear off. So we went on square dancing and I kept fooling myself because he insisted it was wonderful exercise.

Three weeks ago I caught them—in the station wagon, of all places. It just about killed me. My husband and I had a long talk. He says he doesn't know how it all happened. He doesn't want a divorce or separation. We've been married nearly 30 years and have never had any trouble. The blonde is also married and is not looking to break up her home either. The problem is that my husband wants to continue square dancing and I say nothing doing. What is your advice?—Billings

Dear Bill: In view of the circumstances, your husband should be willing to hang up his dancing slippers and get his exercise some other way. As for you—I suggest that you forget the whole thing and try a little body English of your own.

Dear Ann Landers: I have always been ashamed and embarrassed because of my handwriting. It looks like the scrawling of a nine-year-old kid. (I'm 37 and married.) For this reason I type all personal notes and sign my name and the date in longhand.

Last week a friend told my mother she thought it was very slobby of me to have typed a condolence message to her sister. It really hurt. I spent a lot of time and thought composing that letter and to have been criticized for it cut me to the quick. Will you please tell me if it is, as she said, "slobby," to type a personal note.—Hen's Scratch Helene

Dear Hen: A typewritten, but personally signed personal letter makes more sense than a handwritin one which is illegible.

What is "slobby," however, is to complain to a young woman's mother about a thing like that.

Dear Ann Landers: Our children were brought up with the idea that everyone who lives in the house does his share of work. It was expected and there was no arguing. Our three oldest who are grown and married seem to have the idea that they can come home to ma and pa's and enjoy a free, leisurely vacation.

They arrive with their families and plop themselves on us "for a rest." The grocery bills are double and so is the work. They sleep all morning and I have to run after their kids, bathe and feed them. We still have two children at home and they resent this extra burden. Frankly, so do I. Please tell a very tired mother who is pushing 55 what to do about her problem.—No Mastyr In Lausanne

Dear No M.: Apparently the job of training your children is not finished. Even married children can learn—and I suggest you teach them. The lesson is as follows: The Old Homestead is not a hotel. When you return for a vacation you pitch in—just as you did when you lived here. And you take care of your own kids—like you do at home. End of lesson.

Legislation for Working Women

KINGSTON (CP) — Significant legislative advances for working women have been made recently at both federal and provincial levels, Sylva Gelber told the Canadian Federation of University Women Wednesday.

But laws are just a means to "wage the battle for fair play in employment," said Miss Gelber, director of the women's bureau of the federal labor department.

"It is up to the people of Canada, particularly women workers and those who support their cause, to finish the job."

Wage studies had shown that many working women are not getting wages equal to those paid men for similar work. But working women generally have not made use of equal pay laws for fear of losing their jobs, she said.

"The former statutory provisions, therefore, now are being set aside and teeth are being inserted into revised provisions so that the law may achieve the purpose for which it was intended."

Quebec was the only province up to 1969 with legislation prohibiting discrimination in employment on the grounds of sex. Such provisions now existed in British Columbia, Alberta, Manitoba, Ontario, New Brunswick and Newfoundland.

The federal government had recently initiated a program of equal opportunity for its women employees.

LAW OF AVERAGES

TACOMA, Wash. (AP) — Despite there having been only one girl born to the Crockett family in 81 years, Mrs. Gene Crockett was so sure the next child would be a girl that she sewed 25 feminine baby outfits. She was proved right when a girl, Gina, was born to her own daughter.

Teenager's Comment: Nicest Kids' Don't Have Sitters Often

BY DORIS CLARK

Comment heard from 16-year-old teenager:

I think this was meant in the nature of a complaint. Doubtless said teenager had rattled her way through many a baby-sitting assignment before a rebellious or mischievous youngster was finally settled in bed.

To those who heard her — a mother of three and myself — the happy implication was that the most serene youngsters had the blessing of their parents' presence and loving care at bedtime. Baby-sitting, with them, was the rare exception to the rule.

* * *

Dear Doris: We are getting married in a civil ceremony. Here is what I would like to do:

Go to the city hall around 4:30 on Friday after noon. Have dinner in a restaurant with our parents, brothers and sisters. From there we would go to my mother's house for a party (or small reception) with them and a few close friends.

How do you word the invitations if most people would just be invited for the reception?

I'd like to wear a nice maxi, maybe in dark green velvet. Would it look very strange to go to city hall like that? — Wedding Plans.

Dear Wedding: There won't be room for many friends or relatives in an office at city hall. Invite those you want for witnesses, and any others very close, by word of mouth.

If the others get a formal invitation, this could "request the pleasure of your company at the wedding reception of their daughter, etc." If by handwritten note, same wording or general idea, expressed informally.

A green velvet maxi might be a surprise for city hall, but a delightful one. It is still your wedding day, and what you say goes!

Dear Doris: Enclosed is a copy of "God and the Doctor" which I spotted on the wall of a Toronto doctor's office many years ago.

Must say at the time I was rather shocked, but of course today one sees an open request for payment displayed in most doctors' and dentists' offices. Just another sign that we live in a cold hard world.

Time was when money or payment were never mentioned by doctor or patient but, of course, as the rather subtle verse points out, sometimes the doctor never did get paid! — Mrs. P. F.

Dear Doris: We are spending a few days in a cottage lent to us by friends. Tonight I asked my husband to bring me one of our host's books that I had noticed — a paperback. For Doctors Only."

I opened it and found the verse Mary had asked for in the previous night's column. The coincidence was so extraordinary I am sending it along. — Regular Reader

Dear Mrs. P. F.: Regular Your version and several others have been rolling in, and here is the verse:

GOD AND THE DOCTOR

God and the Doctor we alike adore,
But on the brink of danger, not before:
The danger past, both are alike requited,
God is forgotten and the Doctor slighted.

I wonder whether such a bit of sardonic humor deserves all this fuss? I like to think we pay homage to our helpers — human or divine — a little ahead of ailing over the brink!

Reader and Many Others

Don't just muddle along. Doris knows human behavior and can help. Write to her and enclose a stamped, self-addressed envelope for a private reply.

CHRIST CHURCH PARISH GUILD

The devotional period at the November meeting of Christ Church Parish Guild was led by Mrs. Stewart.

During business various reports were read and it was noted that all enjoyed the smorgasbord supper held the previous Saturday at which time Mr. and Mrs. Beeby showed slides of India. It was decided that donations would be sent to the Mental Health Association; also gifts will be sent to shut-ins of the parish at Christmas. Mrs. Vesterfelt and Mrs. Beeby volunteered their assistance.

A potluck supper is planned for the next meeting on Dec. 14 to which parish office staff and husbands of the members are invited.

Questions And Answers

By The Ontario Motor League

QUESTION: I expect to be going to Whitehorse, Yukon, in January and plan to drive there from Edmonton. What is the distance and what sort of driving conditions am I liable to meet?

ANSWER: The distance is 1,285 miles.

During the months of January and February snowfall usually averages 10 to 15 inches a month, and the highway is Hard-packed snow provides generally in good condition, smooth driving. Below - zero weather prevails at this time of year. Precautions should be taken to have necessary clothing for protection against such weather. Automobiles should be completely winterized to withstand 60° degrees below zero temperatures.

Tire chains, tow - rope shovel and means to produce fire should be brought along. A block heater is helpful for cold weather starting.

Motorists using tubeless tires are advised to carry spare inner tubes while travelling on the Alaska Highway. Should wheel rims become damaged inner tubes can then be used in the tires to continue the journey.

By having your car properly serviced now, you can look forward to a carefree winter without aggravations of cold weather driving woes. The Ontario Motor League items should be checked by a competent garage.

1. Make sure the battery is fully charged and the terminals are corrosion - free and cables are tightly connected and free from cracks. The colder the weather the greater the demand on the battery. At a temperature of zero, a car battery has only 40 per cent of its regular starting power.

2. Have the alternator or generator and voltage regulator checked for the proper charging rate as the electrical drain on the car in winter is most severe.

3. Have the head lights checked, both low and high beams, as well as all parking lights, brake lights and turning signals. In winter the hours of darkness are greater and the car's lighting system will be used more.

4. Windshield wipers are called upon for extra duty clearing ice and snow in winter. Have the windshield wiper arms and blades checked and replaced if necessary.

5. Have the cooling system thoroughly checked. It may be necessary to drain and flush the system and have a winter thermostat installed. The coolant concentration should also be checked and anti-freeze added to the recommended level. All hoses and drive belts should be inspected and tightened or replaced if necessary.

6. Lubricate all grease fittings to clear them of dirt or moisture. An oil change is also recommended, particularly if summer-weight oil is presently in the engine. Cold weather demands an oil with a high level of viscosity.

7. The exhaust system should be carefully inspected and replaced if necessary. In the winter when windows are up and the heater working, a faulty exhaust system will leak deadly carbon monoxide gas into the interior.

8. Check to ensure the heater and defrosting system are in good working order.

9. Mount snow tires on the rear wheels after they have been inspected for cuts and blisters. Also, motorists should remember that studded tires are banned from Ontario highways.

10. Apply graphite or light oil in door and trunk locks to prevent freezing. The wise driver also places some sand or traction mats, a short handled shovel, ice scraper, booster cables, cloth and a flashlight in the trunk.

By following this 10 point check plan, you can take the worry out of winter driving.

Seats Split In N.S.

HALIFAX (CP) — Nova Scotia has a minority provincial government today for the first time in 15 months. Premier Gerald A. Regan's Liberals won only one of two byelections Tuesday but that was enough to give them a margin of two seats in the legislature.

The result all but ended the prospect of an early provincial election. If they had lost both contests the Liberals would have been left with only half the 46 seats in the house, exactly where they stood after the October, 1970, general election. Standings now: Liberals 24, Progressive Conservatives 20, NDP two.

Liberal Frank Bezanson, 43, was elected Tuesday in the Annapolis Valley riding of Kings West on his second try. He lost to a former Conservative cabinet minister by one vote last year after a recount. That result was later declared null and void due to voting irregularities.

On the Nova Scotia south shore the Conservatives led by Opposition Leader John Buchanan had no trouble retaining a seat in Queens held by them since 1953.

Dr. Floyd MacDonald, a 36-year-old physician, more than tripled the 1970 PC majority in that constituency. He gave Liberal candidate Harley Dunphry his second defeat in a row and left an NDP hopeful far behind. Queens was left vacant by the resignation of former Conservative finance minister W. S. Kennedy Jones.

Premier Regan, in Ottawa for the federal-provincial conference, said he is pleased to see his government attain a majority in the legislature, even though "just barely." The Liberals would continue to govern as if they had a larger margin in the house.

Kings West had been held by the Conservatives since 1963. Opposition Leader Buchanan blamed the defeat of PC nominee Fred Chisholm on the armed services vote at Greenwood air base. It went mostly to the Liberals.

He said the Queens result showed "total displeasure with the Regan government and its policies."

With majority government at stake, the byelections were hard fought. Cabinet ministers and former ministers swarmed into both ridings during the campaign.

More than 79 per cent of those eligible turned out in Kings West compared with 72 per cent in 1970. In Queens the figure was 76 per cent, up from 74 last year.

It was the first election test for Premier Regan and for the new Conservative leader since each assumed his present position.

The Bezanson win gives the government a working majority of one after providing for the legislature speaker. Opposition vacancies due to illness, resignation and the voided Kings West election saved the Regan administration from any serious threat of defeat during its first year in office.

Manitoba Seat Held By PC

MINNEDOSA, Man. (CP) — David Blake, a bank manager who ran a low-key campaign, won the west-central Manitoba riding of Minnedosa in a provincial byelection Tuesday, retaining for the Conservatives the seat that former premier Walter Weir held for 12 years.

Mr. Blake, 46, of Minnedosa, led from the start and, with all 55 polls reported, had 3,509 votes, compared with 2,346 for New Democrat Emil Shellborn and 1,508 for Liberal Hugh Stephenson. There were 8,050 eligible voters.

The results left the Conservatives' opposition with 21 seats. The NDP, which ousted Mr. Weir from government in the 1969 general election, has 31 seats in the 57-seat legislature while there are three Liberals, one Social Credit and one Independent.

The predominantly rural riding became vacant with the resignation of Mr. Weir, who moved to Toronto becoming Canadian president of a United States-based chain of funeral homes.

Sidney Spivak, Mr. Weir's successor as party leader, hailed the victory as a rebuke to the 29-month-old NDP government.

"They ran on their record and they were rejected," he said. The results "augur well ... the Conservative party ... and for those people who want a change of government in Manitoba."

Blimp Image False

OTTAWA (CP) — The image of military men as Col. Blimps or carbon-style Pentagon generals exists only in the minds of academics, a defence scientist suggested Tuesday.

"With a few distinguished exceptions, of course," added Dr. G. R. Lindsey, chief defence research analyst, at the start of a three-day symposium of senior armed forces officers and scientists.

Dr. Lindsey was challenging the view of Dr. Michael Oliver, academic principal of McGill University, who sparked several rebuttals to his criticisms of the defence establishment

Dr. Oliver, an economist and political scientist, suggested the public may see the forces as strange and remote, dominated by white, Anglo-Saxon Protestant leadership, full of foreign tradition and following an uncontemporary life style.

Although Dr. Lindsey rejected the stereotype outlined by Dr. Oliver, he agreed on the need for greater participation by social scientists in study of problems involved in defence, particularly internal security.

He suggested that past crises in Canada would provide valuable lessons for today if examined from the viewpoint of social scientists.

Dr. Oliver's views brought denials from several officers among more than 300 present. They argued that no country in the world has its armed forces more integrated in community life and, in fact, supplying a substantial part of the leadership for community activities.

Dr. R. B. Bromley of the defence research board said that Dr. Oliver's stereotype of the forces as WASP-led and riddled with non-native tradition might apply just as well to certain Canadian universities.

He wondered how well the universities had enlisted social scientists to handle crises such as student unrest and financial troubles.

Dr. Oliver acknowledged that the universities need to learn just as much as the forces to make use of social scientists expertise.

Hospitals Want Right To Silence

TORONTO (CP) — Hospital boards should not have to give written reasons for denying hospital privileges to doctors because there are times boards do not wish to divulge the reason, a group of hospitaladmpnsistrators said Tuesday.

The Ontario Council of Administrators of Teaching Hospitals told the provincial inquiry into hospital privileges that some reasons for denial, including drunkenness, are "very difficult to express in writing."

S. G. M. Grange, chairman of the inquiry, said that until a doctor is told why he is denied privileges "there is no way he can fight it."

The council said appeals on refusal of privileges should be heard by the hospital board, and not by an outside appeal tribunal. It argued that a board with legal powers could force unpopular decisions on both parties.

Dr. J. B. Neilson, of Lisdon, Ont., a council member, said if the appeal tribunal "has to be a legal entity . . . we don't like the concept . . . "

Mr. Grange said his five-member inquiry committee is "looking for something in between."

The committee also heard a plea Tuesday for more liberal abortion practices in the province.

Ruth Evens, executive secretary of the Association for the Repeal of Canadian Abortion Laws, said recent immigrants, the poor, and the young often are denied abortions because they have no contacts with gynecologists.

Frank Ogden, a member of the faculty at the Ontario Colige of Art, told the inquiry his students have a right to witness childbirth but hospitals will not let them.

Mr. Ogden says his 120 students have suggested arranging a chi!dbirth on the lawn of the Ontario legislature because they have been unable to get permission to view one in a hospital.

"Experience is the raw material of all art," he said.

Three to Speak

TORONTO (CP) — External Affairs Minister Mitchell Sharp, Rene Levesque, leader of the Parti Quebecois, and Quebec Justice Minister Jerome Choquette are among speakers scheduled for a three-day conference on relations between Canada and Quebec Nov. 26-28.

Talks On Oil Likely

OTTAWA (CP) — Talks between Canada and the United States on oil exports to the U.S. will likely begin within a few weeks, U.S. officials said Tuesday.

External Affairs Minister Mitchell Sharp told reporters that the government is "glad to start talking about these things again," referring to a resumption of talks on energy matters.

Canada broke off wide-ranging talks on trade in energy resources that had begun in 1969 after the imposition of the U.S. 10-per-cent import surcharge Aug. 15.

U.S. officials here said they know of nothing except oil exports that would arise in energy talks in coming weeks.

But U.S. and Canadian officials said the latest of a series of talks on what the Americans call "irritants" in U.S.-Canada relations Monday in Ottawa.

DISCUSSED IRRITANTS

U.S. sources said they covered such issues as the U.S.-Canada auto pact and defence production sharing arrangements—two of the commonly-listed irritants—but not energy matters, which is another.

U.S. officials are known to be seeking changes in the 1959 defence production agreement, and the 1965 auto pact, which they say have provided disproportionate benefits to Canada.

Canada enjoyed virtually free access for its oil to U.S. markets this year as a result of an annual agreement reached in November, 1970.

That agreement removed restrictions on oil sales set a year earlier, and provided for talks on long-term arrangements for future unimpeded oil exports.

Defence Sharing Studied

OTTAWA (CP) — The defence production sharing agreement which gives Canada a substantial trade surplus with the United States is being renegotiated, a trade department spokesman said Tuesday.

Talks between senior Canadian and American officials have been underway "for about a week," he said, with James Grandy, the department's deputy minister, in charge of Canada's negotiating team.

The spokesman said further comment could not be made for some time so as not to upset or disrupt "delicate" discussions. He refused to name members of the U.S. negotiating group.

A senior U.S. treasury department official has said the U.S. would demand the achievement of a trade balance under the 1959 military equipment agreement.

In a letter to Congressman Lester L. Wolff, Deputy Assistant Treasury Secretary William C. Oates said the U.S. would act to end Canadian advantage under the sharing agreement.

Mr. Wolff, a New York Democrat, made the letter public Monday night. The letter had reportedly been a complaint by Mr. Wolff that a Canadian firm was favored over American competitors in an expanded U.S. navy purchase of aircraft altimeters.

Mr. Wolff said the unnamed Canadian firm could submit lower bids because of "historically lower costs and Canadian government support."

The exact amount of the Canadian advantage under the agreement is not publicly known since the value of military exchanges between the countries has been kept secret since 1967. At that time Canada enjoyed a $190.9 million trade surplus since the beginning of the sharing arrangement.

Part of Canadian advantage results from the lack of duty on Canadian defence exports to the U.S. Canada charges an import tax on purchases of U.S. military equipment.

Marchand Is Jeered

OTTAWA (CP) — Cries of "fascist" and "pig" greeted Regional Economic Expansion Minister Jean Marchand Tuesday as he addressed about 200 persons at Carleton University.

Drowned out several times by hecklers, Mr. Marchand said:

"I'll try and speak to you calmly—and if I can't I'll quit."

He warned students not to generalize about what Quebec wants and said he would not make any predictions as to what will happen to Quebec.

Davis Wants Equal Rights

At the federal-provincial economic conference, he said Ottawa can not offer the flexibility of opting out to Quebec "while denying this same option to all other provinces."

In a later interview, Mr. Davis said Prime Minister Trudeau agreed to continue discussion on Ontario's plea.

The province wants out of shared-cost programs such as health and university education. In giving up the federal payments it now gets to help support such programs, Ontario wants a straight abatement of federal tax in return for full responsibility in running its own programs on its own terms.

Mr. Trudeau said unforseen changes have been taking place in these programs. Costs had climbed unevenly.

Ottawa was introducing a new tax bill and there should be time to see how it works out. The changes now before the Commons are scheduled to start Jan. 1.

"Under these circumstances, I think we should seek more realistic, practical solutions to problems of co-operation in our joint programs," Mr. Trudeau said.

Mr. Davis called this stance both contradictory and illogical."

Ottawa was allowing fiscal equivalents to Quebec under the new tax regime but was saying this solution is impractical for all other provinces.

Mr. Davis said the question should be one for "bilateral negotiation and agreement between the federal government and any province" that wanted to leave a shared-cost program in return for a larger slice of tax kickback.

The federal reaction was not unexpected, Mr. Davis said.

"We're sort of used to attending some of these conferences and not achieving some of the things we think are logical."

Two other key Ontario points, establishment of a federal-provincial economic committee to recommend national economic goals and the province's bid to implement a system of property and sales tax credits against personal income tax, are up for discussion today.

Federal Finance Minister E. J. Benson, in an interview, said the economic council would not work because the committee would interfere with provincial spending priorities.

"That doesn't mean it will not emerge from the conference," Mr. Davis said.

The Ontario brief said these programs "are likely to have been a major factor in dragging the whole economy significantly below its potential."

Mr. Davis said Ontario has no objections to the federal decision to leave the system of equalization payments unchanged in the five-year period starting next April 1.

Equalization payments are made to poorer provinces from tax dollars collected by Ottawa from the wealthy provinces.

Atlantic premiers said Ontario suggested a subtle change in the payments in its opening brief but Mr. Davis said "I think they are more satisfied now that Ontario is not objecting to equalization."

PC Director Resigns Post

TORONTO (CP) — Arthur Harnett, 45, has resigned as executive director of the Ontario Progressive Conservative party, the post he has held since 1969.

Mr. DeGeer said Monday he is not sure his appointment is effective and "until I hear from the premier or from Hugh Macaulay I don't feel as though I am in a position to discuss it at all."

OFFER RADIO COURSE

CHARLOTTETOWN (CP) — The University of Prince Edward Island started a new program this year in hopes of bringing university courses to people who can't attend regular classes. The university is offering an introductory English program over the local radio station. A spokesman said written assignments will be sent in for grading by professors and the students must meet with their instructors at the university once a month.

Airlifted Bears Hike Back To Churchill's Garbage Dumps

CHURCHILL, Man. (CP) — The polar bears from Churchill that the Northern Manitoba port has the lastest gargle in Canada.

Last month 26 migrating polar bears were trapped while sampling the gastronomic delights of the town dump, hustled aboard a chartered DC6 aircraft and flown by air strip. The bear, be estimated, covered at least 250 miles and forded the Nelson River in order to get back to the dump and its gourmet fare.

Dubbed "The Great Northern Manitoba Polar Bear Airlift," when the project started, it was an alternative to plans to shoot the bears, which had been meandering into the town proper from the dump on occasion — a perennial problem here.

What to do with the two that came back?

A conservation officer said they probably won't be shot. They'll be kept in custody until the ice thickens on Hudson Bay, then released to join other bears that migrate through the area to spend the winter hunting on the bay ice, 150 miles southeast to a deserted air strip.

Somehow, two of the big bears made it back to the dump last week, and were trapped again while happily munching away on the refuse.

When the bears were first captured, conservation officers tagged them and painted numbers on their fur. The whole process cost a bundle — especially now that two of them have made a beeline back to the dump.

MONTREAL (CP) — The Quebec government will change its method of making French the working language of the province from gentle persuasion to "direct intervention in industry," Cultural Affairs Minister Francois Cloutier announced Tuesday.

Mr. Cloutier said his department will use a $250,000 grant from the French government and $1.1 million of the province's money to install "strike forces" of linguistic specialists in the Montreal and Quebec City areas.

The specialists would go from company to company setting up programs to switch offices and factories over to the use of French.

Management of the firms will be asked to adhere to the "principle that French is the language of work and the use of English will be limited by mutual agreement," Mr. Cloutier said.

No Boom Likely

MONTREAL (CP) — Predictions of a sudden boom following the recent economic recession are "unrealistic", economists agreed at the annual forecasting session of the Montreal Economic Association here Tuesday.

But next year will be a little better than 1971 with a slight increase in spending by Canadians but almost no change in the level of unemployment, they added.

Thai Premier Seizes Power

The surprise announcement made over Radio Thailand, reflected increased dissatisfaction by the predominantly military government with demands made by parliamentarians.

Thanom's move was a...as a coup d'etat against parliament. It was reinstituted in 1969 after 10 years of total military rule.

Thanom, 60, has been premier since 1963.

Pay Cut, Men Quit

PRESTON, Ont. (CP) — A dozen men working on a provincial government seasonal employment program have walked off their jobs over an apparent mix-up in pay schedules, this community's welfare administration says.

The formerly unemployed men were working at removing dead elm trees from along highways in southern Ontario and were paid $2.77 an hour for a week's work ending Nov. 12.

But when they were informed that future pay would be computed at $2.50 an hour they walked off their jobs last Friday.

Welfare administrator Harry Kent said Tuesday it isn't clear why the men's hourly rate was reduced or who made the mistake of offering them $2.77 an hour originally. He said the jobs provide for a $100 a week ceiling, based on a 40-hour work week at $2.50 an hour.

Preston is eight miles from Kitchener.

WHAT CAN BE RE-FROZEN?

No. 4 IN A SERIES OF 4

1. Refreezing always causes loss of quality, (texture, appearance, flavor) and may cause loss of food values, too.
2. Freezing foods does not sterilize them — it only prevents further growth of bacteria as long as the food is kept in a proper frozen state. As soon as thawing starts, so does bacterial growth.

When Can Frozen Foods Be Safely Refrozen ?

	(A) Only partially thawed out?	(B) Completely thawed out, but still feels very cold?	(C) Completely thawed out and warmed up to room temperature for only a short and known time (never more than 2 to 3 hours)?	(D) Completely thawed out, warmed up to room temperature, and remained there for a prolonged or unknown time?

Foiling Fraser

Even the spectacular netminding antics of Vern Fraser weren't enough to prevent Vince Steiner of the High School Teachers from scoring in last night's Gas House Hockey League action. Fraser's Wilson Concrete teammates gathered some measure of revenge, however, by salvaging a 2-2 tie in the last minute of play. A total of four Gas House contests were on tap at the Belleville Memorial Arena last night.

International 'Spiel at Quinte

Two Belleville rinks will be striving to uphold local curling honor when the first international bonspiel to be held in Ontario this season gets under way Saturday at the Quinte Curling Club.

A total of 20 rinks from Canada and the United States will take part in the event between members of the Ontario Curling Association and the Americans.

A dozen of the competing foursomes will come from the Ontario group, with the remaining eight representing the United States.

Rinks skipped by Murray Johnson and Finlay "Corky" McCorquodale will represent Belleville in the event which will get under way Saturday and wind up Sunday afternoon.

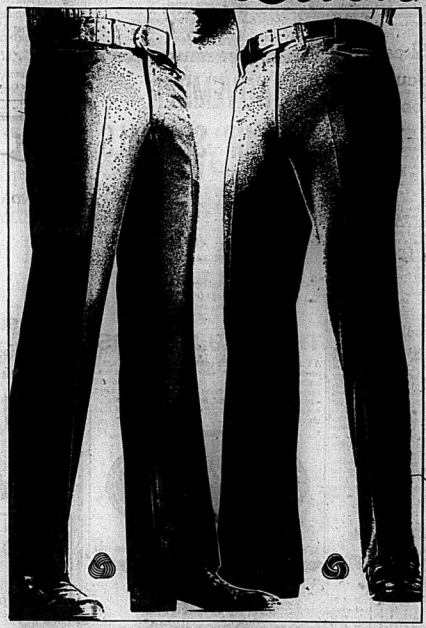
Gas House Pizza Stays Hot While Concrete Hardens in Last Minute

Pizza continued to be a hot item in the Gas House Hockey League as Jim's Pizzeria burnt Mead Johnson 6-3 to take sole possession of first place in the 11-team city loop.

In other action last night, Wilson Concrete gained a dramatic 2-2 tie with the High School Teachers, the Hospital staged a 3-2 comeback over the Mustangs and Cassidy Electric defaulted a game to Wannamakers Esso.

Steve White and Dave Middleton each counted two goals for Jim's with single scores going to Allan Ray and Barry Marshall. For the losers it was Bob Mulvihill, Ed Lehtinen and Gary Genereaux looking after the scoring.

A goal by Derek Tamlin with only 15 seconds remaining to play in the game gave Wilson their 2-2 split with the teachers. Goals by Bruce Ralicot and Vince Steiner had spreared to salt away the win for the high school instructors after Bruce Stickle had opened the scoring for Wilson.



A pair of goals by Murray "Moe" Hunter capped the Hospital's comeback win after the Mustangs had jumped into an early 2-0 lead. George Jacklyn added the other goal for the winners while Pug Kellar and Jim Horwood scored for the Mustangs.

In the first encounter of the night, Cassidy Electric had downed Wannamakers Esso 6-1 but were forced to default when it was discovered that they had suited up more than the 15 players allowed each team.

Cournoyer Proves He Can Pull NHL Trigger

By IAN MacLAINE
Canadian Press Staff Writer

Prolific scorers in junior hockey don't always make the grade in the National Hockey League. In fact, being the trigger man on a junior club can often work to the detriment of a player when he reaches the major leagues.

Yvan Cournoyer had a five-game whirl with Montreal Canadiens in 1963-64 while with junior age and scored four goals. The next full season he notched seven goals in 55 games and earned demotion to the minors.

The sharp-shooting native of Drummondville, Que., learned his lessons well. Tuesday night he scored three times, pulling him in the NHL's 200-goal club, as Canadiens downed California Golden Seals 7-2.

Elsewhere, Minnesota North Stars romped 5-1 over Pittsburgh Penguins and Detroit Red Wings skated to a 3-2 tie with St. Louis Blues.

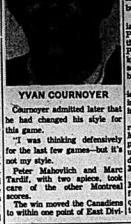
Cournoyer didn't take kindly to his demotion by two Canadiens' coach Toe Blake, and wasn't reluctant to talk about it.



"Some guys need a minor league experience, others feel there's not much they can learn there be said at the time. "If a guy is left in the minors past the time he can learn something, it can hurt his ambition."

By the same token, Blake didn't take kindly to some upstart questioning his methods of development and for a couple of years after Cournoyer's return he limited the winger's ice work on the power plays.

With the Montreal fans shouting for more of the speedster, Blake finally relaxed his personal feelings and fitted the youngster into a regular role. Cournoyer has been potting them at a blistering pace since the 1968-69 season, with a high of 43 in '69 and 37 last year. Cournoyer triggered two goals in the second period against California in give blue 198 career scores. He admitted after the game his team-mates were reluctant to talk about No. 200 during the intermission.

"We didn't talk about it between the second and third periods," he said after the game. "But I guess I was aware of it."

So were his team-mates. As they skated out for the third period it was obvious they were doing everything to set up the 5-foot-7, 175-pounder. He finally clicked at 17:36.

YVAN COURNOYER

Cournoyer admitted later that he had changed his style for this game.

"I was thinking defensively for the last few games—but it's not my style.

Peter Mahovlich and Marc Tardif, with two apiece, took care of the other Montreal scores.

The win moved the Canadiens to within one point of East Division leading New York Rangers and six ahead of Boston Bruins.

The Minnesota win, that moved them to within two points of Chicago, leaders in the West, was spearheaded by ex-Penguin Dean Prentice's two goals.

The goals were No. 350 and 351 for the 39-year-old veteran and resulted, as did the other three North Star goals, from more defensive play by Pittsburgh.

Bill Hicke ruined Cesare Maniago's bid for a shutout with Pittsburgh's lone goal early in the third period. He fired Penguin goal on the lanky goaltender in 18 minutes and 56 seconds of schedule play, dating back to last Feb. 14.

Mickey Redmond's goal with less than two minutes remaining in the game lifted Detroit into a tie at St. Louis.

Detroit goalie Joe Daley and rookie Blues' netminder Jim McLeod were the outstanding players on both teams, coming up with key saves in the game during which St. Louis held a 30-25 edge in shots.

Five Man Trade

Rangers Deal Balon to Canucks

DAVE BALON

NEW YORK (AP) — Dave Balon, New York Rangers' leading goal-scorer last season with 30, was sent to Vancouver Canucks Tuesday with Ron Stewart and Wayne Connelly in exchange for Gary Doak and Jim Wiste.

Connelly was obtained from St. Louis only Monday, along with Gene Carr and Jim Lorentz, in the first of the two National Hockey League deals sent Rangers Jack Egers, Mike Murphy, Andre Dupont and a player yet to be named to the Blues.

All are forwards except Doak and Dupont are defensemen.

"Both deals were made toward improving the Rangers at the present time and also insuring a very strong future for the club," Emile Francis, Rangers' general manager-coach, said.

Doak, 25, who broke an ankle in the pre-season, played only five games with Vancouver. Wiste, also 25, split the season between Rochester of the American League and Seattle of the Western League.

Balon, 33, scored four goals in 16 games this year and Connelly, 31, had five for St. Louis. Stewart, 30, was a 19-year big league veteran before he was optioned at the start of this season to Providence of the American league.

Meanwhile in another NHL deal, Philadelphia Flyers traded right wing Larry Mickey to Buffalo Sabres in echange for left wing Larry Keenan, and recalled right wing Lew Morrison from their Richmond farm club in the American League.

Morrison, a 25-year-old with two previous years on the Flyers, spent 12 games with the Robins, scoring four goals and five assists. Keenan has five years experience with St. Louis Blues and Buffalo.

Mickey is in his fourth full year in the NHL. He was acquired by Philadelphia from Los Angeles Kings in the off-season.

Skeeter Scuttles Woodstock

GALT (CP) — Skeeter Teal notched two goals Tuesday, leading first-place Galt Hornets to a 6-3 victory over Woodstock Royals in an Ontario Hockey Association Senior A game before 1,348 fans.

The Royals led 2-1 going into the final period but Galt scored twice within the last two minutes of the game, the last goal going into an empty net after Woodstock pulled goalie Bert Fraser in favor of an extra attacker.

Assault on Oak

OAKVILLE (CP) — A charge of assault has been laid in connection with an incident in last Saturday's Ontario Hockey Association Senior A game between Oakville Oaks and Owen Sound Crescents, officials of the Oakville team said Tuesday.

Team officials said that Alex (Butch) Keeling, an Owen Sound player, will appear in court on the charge in Owen Sound Nov. 23.

They said Oakville defenceman Marty Zuchotski was the victim of a "sneak punch" after he left the ice and was making his way along a hallway to the Oaks' dressing room.

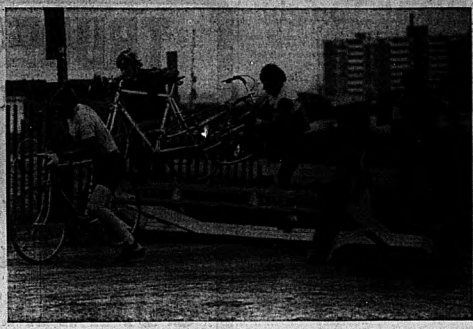
Regan Beats One Rap

HULL, Que. (CP) — Larry Regan, manager of Los Angeles Kings of the National Hockey League, was acquitted Tuesday on a charge of dangerous driving.

A decision was also set for Dec. 15 on a charge of obstructing a Quebec provincial policeman laid against Frank Dunlap, a Renfrew, Ont., county judge. The men had denied both charges.

Both were charged June 6 after being detained by Quebec police near Kazabazua, Que., 45 miles north of Ottawa. Dunlap, a former football player, was a passenger in the car being driven by Regan.

Quebec Provincial Judge Orville Frenette, after a two-minute appearance Tuesday by Regan, said police testimony on the dangerous driving charge was considered with "two very credible witnesses" in Dunlap and Regan.



Judge Frenette said that accordingly he was "obliged" by legal tradition to "give the benefit of the doubt to the accused."

Dunlap's testimony of about five minutes concentrated on a denial that he had made any comment on French-English relations.

He also testified that he had "made no reference to my position but told them to either question and book him (Regan) or let us go."

Constable Michel Crepeault said that as Regan was being questioned Dunlap "was asked to go outside and wait in the car at least three times but he refused and continued to speak loudly."

Vida Blue Named MVP For American League

At 22, Blue is the youngest player ever to win an MVP honor in either league.

Blue, who won the Cy Young Award as the American League's outstanding pitcher last month, earned 14 of a possible 24 first-place votes and 293 points from the Baseball Writers Association of America committee. Sal Bando, Blue's Oakland team-mate, was named to four first-place ballots and 182 points to finish second.

The Robinson boys of the champion Baltimore Orioles gained the next two places. Outfielder Frank Robinson received 170 points and two first-place votes to finish third, while third baseman Brooks Robinson collected 163 points and three first-place votes to come in fourth.

Detroit Tiger pitcher Mickey Lolich, runner-up to Blue in the Cy Young balloting, got the other first-place vote and finished fifth with 155 points.

Twenty-nine players were mentioned in the MVP voting. Blue was the only player to be named on every ballot.

Until Blue received the honor, the youngest player to be named MVP was Cincinnati Reds catcher Johnny Bench in 1970. Bench was just a few weeks shy of his 23rd birthday when he received his National League MVP award, while Blue will not turn 23 until next July 28.

Buster Bucks Odds in Bout with Ali

HOUSTON, Tex. (AP) — Buster Mathis bucks the odds tonight when he takes on a pretired Muhammad Ali in a 12-round heavyweight fight in the Astrodome.

Mathis, who has not fought in 3½ years while serving a self-exile to "get myself together," is such an underdog in the fight, no betting odds have been established.

The fight is scheduled to begin at 10:50 p.m. EST before a crowd estimated at 25,000 by the promoters, Top Rank, Inc., and Astrodome Championship Enterprises, Inc.

Former heavyweight contenders George Chuvalo of Toronto and Cleveland Williams will precede the main event in a 10-rounder that will be shown on closed circuit over 106 locations in the U.S. and Canada.

Mathis said he lost his desire to fight the night of March 29, 1969, following a unanimous-decision loss to Jerry Quarry.

"I think the odds are 50-50 when I step into that ring," Mathis said.

"But I'm not worrying about the odds. Everybody expects me to lose anyway. But I think the world is in for a shock."

There aren't many unanswered questions about Ali. He reported here in much better condition than when he came here July 26 and beat his former sparring partner, Jimmy Ellis.

Ali, 29, is guaranteed $300,000 or 40 per cent of all receipts and Mathis, 26, will get 15 per cent of all receipts, Peers Management, which handles Mathis' affairs, put up $200,000 of Ali's guarantee.

The three-knockdown rule has been waived for the fight but the mandatory eight-count will be used and each round will be scored on a 10-point must system. A fighter can't be counted out after the bell ending any round.

Mathis has lost only twice in 21 pro fights and Ali's record is 33-1. He lost only to champion Joe Frazier.

Quarry KO's Bodell

Both fighters came out swapping punches at the start and Bodell charged in and slipped to his knees.

He was up quickly, but after 1:04 Quarry caught the Briton with a tremendous right to the chin. Bodell went flat on his back and had no chance of beating the count.

Bodell was finally helped to his feet about 30 seconds later and staggered in a dazed condition to his corner.

Quarry, 26, who said he would quit boxing if he didn't beat the 31-year-old left-hander, was given an ovation by the crowd of 9,000.

Quarry, who has twice fought for the world crown, weighed 203 pounds while Bodell weighed 203½ pounds.

Reed Meets Old Calgary Rival Tonight

REGINA (CP) — Nine years of trying to out-manoeuvre Wayne Harris has instilled a great deal of respect for the agile Calgary Stampeders linebacker in George Reed.

"He's probably the best linebacker I've ever played against," said Reed, Saskatchewan Roughriders star fullback, prior to the second game of the best-of-three Western Football Conference final against the Stampeders.

"Seldom can you trick or fool him. He gives Calgary a superior type of defence. A big front four also keeps people off of Harris and lets him patrol the line."

That patrol more often than not is keyed on Reed and has been for the last nine years whenever the Stampeders and Roughriders clash.

Reed, the holder of numerous rushing and touchdown records in the Canadian Football League, will renew his old rivalry with Harris tonight when the two clubs meet at Taylor Field in Regina.

Stampeders opened the series with a 30-21 win in Calgary and have forced Saskatchewan against the wall. Game time is 8 p.m. CST (9 p.m. EST) and it will be shown nationally on the CBC network.

Reed joined the Roughriders in 1963 and has been a consistent top ground-gainer from the start. He has rushed for 1,000 yards or more in seven of those nine years and this year set career records in total yardage rushing, most touchdowns rushing and most carries.

When he joined the league, many people thought his 6-foot one frame and 205 pounds was

You don't hear that kind of talk anymore.

"A lot of people think a good fullback should be big but you can be big and lack the desire," said Reed in an interview.

That determination is recognized by Calgary defensive back Frank Andrush who says of Reed:

"You can hit George, step on his face and spit in his eye . . . he just keeps plowing over top of you."

Much of Reed's success in the league has been his good health which he believes is attributable in part to "luck."

"Anytime you look at that you have to think you have had a certain amount of luck. But I don do I get hit real good . . . It's always kind of a side blow. Maybe It's the way I run."

And running is the thing he does best, although the standout of Washington State University has done pretty well in the pass receiving department too.—

Reed said he has never really assessed which record he's most proud of but "I think being able to break Johnny Bright's record in the time I did is pretty satisfying."

Bright played 13 seasons with Calgary and Edmonton Eskimos and retired with a rushing total of 10,909 yards. Reed, in nine seasons,finished the regular schedule this year with 1,146 yards to give him a career total of 10,953 yards.

But the career touchdown record "was probably the most exciting because it was the winning touchdown against Edmonton and I did it at home."

In that Sept. 26 game, Reed scored his 92nd touchdown to move ahead of the previous record held by Dick Shatto, formerly of Toronto Argonauts for 12 years.

Reed finished the regular season with 94 touchdowns to his credit.

Where will it all end for the 32-year-old Reed?

"I would like to maybe play another year or two. I always said that when I can't play up to the standards I've set for myself, I'd call it quits.

Kraemer Top Western Rookie

WINNIPEG (CP) — Winback Bobby Kraemer of Winnipeg Blue Bombers has been named outstanding Canadian rookie in the Western Football Conference by Winnipeg club announced Tuesday.

The selection was made by the football reporters of Canada.

Kraemer, 21, is a recent graduate of the University of Manitoba where he quarterbacked the Bisons of the Western Canada Intercollegiate Athletic Association to the championship in 1969 and 1970.

The 5-foot-11-inch receiver is the second Bomber player to be awarded the trophy in as many years. Last year's winner, wide-receiver John Sauer, was traded to Calgary Stampeders prior to the start of this season.

Kraemer hauled in 30 passes for 408 yards and two touchdowns for the Bombers to place seventh in the pass-catching department of the WFC.

Yvan in Top Ten

Argos Kept On Planned Path

TORONTO (CP) — Toronto Argonauts didn't stray far from their game plan when they dumped Hamilton Tiger-Cats 23-8 in the first of their two-game total-point Eastern Football Conference final last Sunday.

Coach Leo Cahill made that assessment Tuesday after studying films of the game prior to the second game here Saturday afternoon.

Other than quarterback Joe Theismann's three passes that were picked off by the Cats' secondary, Cahill said the only sour part of the Argo offence was their inability to put one or more touchdowns on the scoreboard when they had the wind advantage in the fourth quarter.

"We did pretty well what we planned to do," he said.

The Ticats, meanwhile, are working out this week on natural turf while preparing to tackle the much-maligned sod at Exhibition Stadium.

While Cahill expounded on the Argos' being able to carry out their game plan against Hamilton, Ticat coach Al Dorow appeared discouraged after watching the game film.

"We got away from our game plan more than we should have," Dorow said in Hamilton. "We didn't do some of the things we should have. We've got to work more on Dave Raimey and Dick Thornton. (Argo defensive halfbacks)."

After viewing the film, Dorow said the turning point in the game was a roughing call against Ticat linebacker Mike Blum. It wiped out an interception by John Williams.

Referring to the penalty as "a horrible call," Dorow said the "films show Blum hitting Theismann as he was releasing the ball."

"It cost us 80 yards."

Council Favors CNE Turf

TORONTO (CP) — Metropolitan Toronto council argued for seven time over whether taxpayers should be burdened with the cost but finally gave its assent Tuesday to laying artificial turf at Exhibition Stadium.

Only 13 of the 32 elected members of council were in the chambers to discuss a letter from the Canadian National Exhibition board of directors proposing installation of the turf sod at a maximum cost of $400,000. The letter was left for Metro's executive committee to consider ways of financing the project.

Controller Kenneth Morrish of Scarborough suggested cost of the artificial turf be divided three ways with Toronto Argonauts football club contributing to its installation along with Metro taxpayers while Metro government shared some of the revenue obtained from showing games on television.

Toronto alderman Ben Grys said the Canadian Football League should pay the cost of installing the new field.

Metro Chairman Ab Campbell was given $3,000 by council to bid for the 1974 Grey Cup games during this year's national finals festivities in Vancouver. The 1973 game went to Hamilton which installed artificial turf this year.

Pastrano Held On Drug Charge

Pastrano, 35, was picked up by police near his residence. He was booked on charges of carrying a concealed weapon and possession of 21 blue and yellow tablets, otherwise unidentified. He was released on his own recognizance.

Retired from the ring since he was badly beaten by Jose Torres in 1965, Pastrano had a 72-10 won-lost record.

Knicks Stage NBA Rebound

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Big leads don't mean a thing in the NBA.

"You come back from anything in this league as long as they have the 24-second clock," commented coach Red Holzman of New York Knicks Tuesday night after the Knicks had wiped out a 19-point deficit to beat Phoenix Suns 113-111 in the National Basketball Association.

Buffalo Braves, Baltimore Bullets and Golden State Warriors also came from behind to win while Seattle SuperSonics overcame an 18-point deficit only to lose to Chicago as the Bulls forged ahead again in the final quarter.

The Braves beat Cincinnati Royals 122-98, Baltimore tripped Houston Rockets 110-107, Golden State overcame Detroit Pistons 122-101 and Chicago defeated Seattle 95-87. In the other NBA games Los Angeles Lakers whacked Cleveland Cavaliers 108-90 and Milwaukee Bucks routed Portland Trailblazers 126-105.

Denver downed Indiana 111-108 and Memphis took the Floridians 119-109 in the two American Basketball Association games scheduled.

Houston led Baltimore, 107-103 with 1:19 remaining before the Bullets tied the score. A layup by Phil Chenier with 23 seconds left put Baltimore ahead to stay. Evlin Hayes of the Rockets was game high scorer with 31 points.

Seattle wiped out a 42-24 deficit to tie Chicago at 55-55 in the third quarter before the Bulls came on again.

Joe Ellis and Nick Jones came off the bench and ignited a Warrior rally that wiped out a 10-point Detroit lead.

U.S. Deficit $12 Billion

Broad Powers for Nixon Retained in Pending Legislation

WASHINGTON (CP) — A day after disclosure that the United States showed a $12.1 billion deficit in its third-quarter balance of payments, the U.S. Senate has voted to retain its pending legislation broad presidential powers limiting foreign trade in an emergency.

Some senators opposing such a broad delegation of authority to the president feared it would signal to the world that the U.S. is becoming more and more protectionist, and lead to a trade war.

The Senate defeated by a vote of 53 to 29 Tuesday an amendment that would have removed from the much-all tax bill a proposal giving President Nixon authority to impose quotas on imports into the U.S. and extend the import surtax to 15 per cent from the present 10 per cent.

As now written in the legislation, the president would have the power to impose the quotas or the tax—or even both—after declaring an emergency balance-of-payments situation exists. The U.S. now finds itself in such a situation with growing deficits in each of the three-month periods of 1971.

While Nixon didn't ask for such authority, the White House has said he didn't object to it but hoped he would not have to use it.

It would give the president authority to restrict imports on a country-by-country or product-by-product basis after declaring a balance-of-payments emergency.

While the legislation still has a long way to go and could be altered drastically by other amendments, it comes up for passage at a time when the eyes of many congressmen are on the 1972 general election.

With many of the big cities suffering unemployment of six per cent or more, the politics of protectionism is alive and kicking at this early stage. And the state of the economy is certain to be a major election issue.

Last Saturday, the Senate defeated a move to exempt Canada, the chief customer of the U.S., and Mexico from the 10-per-cent import surcharge President Nixon imposed last Aug. 15 on dutiable imports.

This affected $3 billion worth of Canadian exports a year and brought bitter reaction from the Canadian government and public, but no retaliation.

Treasury Secretary John Connally, a White House meeting with only isolated again Tuesday in congressional Republican leaders that the surcharge is only a short-term measure but made clear it will be replaced by tough trading conditions.

A confidential U.S. memorandum leaked to the Chicago Tribune last month listed a number of conditions the U.S. wanted alleviated before it would lift the 10-per-cent surcharge from Canadian exports.

One of them was defence production-sharing. The memo said Canada would have to lift its duty on U.S. defence products, end its buy-Canadian preference and purchase an American replacement for its aging Argus anti-submarine aircraft.

U.S. officials also made it known in Ottawa that talks between Canada and the U.S. will begin in a few days on oil exports. The Nixon administration is working on the 1972 oil import quotas with Jan. 1 as the target date.

External Affairs Minister Mitchell Sharp said the Canadian government is glad to "start talking about these things again," referring to resumption of talks on energy matters.

Canada broke off wide-ranging talks on trade in energy resources that had began in 1969 after imposition of the surcharge.

Senator Henry Jackson of Washington, a potential candidate for the Democratic presidential nomination, called Tuesday for the development of a broad North American energy policy that would include a joint Canadian-American energy board.

But he told a San Francisco news conference that Nixon's Aug. 15 economic program includes a potential roadblock to such a joint effort with Canada.

"We're off to a bad start with a surcharge being placed on Canada without any warning," he said.

Jackson, chairman of the Senate interior and insular affairs committee, said foreign oil now accounts for 25 per cent of U.S. petroleum consumption and the figure is expected to climb to 50 per cent by the end of the decade.

"A joint effort with Canada would permit us to deal more effectively with an impending crisis (in the Middle East) and handle it in a way beneficial to both nations," he said.

China May Enter Trade Body

GENEVA (Reuter) — China may be more interested in establishing links with the 80-nation General Agreement on Tariffs and Trade now that Taiwan has been ousted from its observer status in the organization, trade officials said today.

But so far Peking has made no application to negotiate itself into GATT, a complicated process which takes months, and maybe years, of working out trade concessions.

The way for Peking to associate itself with the organization, an affiliated body of the United Nations set up in 1948, was cleared Tuesday when GATT members voted for Taiwan's expulsion on the second day of the two-week session of GATT contracting parties.

The majority of the members, who control 80 per cent of the world's trade, ruled that as long as Taiwan insisted on being present at GATT meetings as the representative of all China it could not be allowed to take part in the organization's activities.

Today, the session will discuss trade concessions for over 300 products worked out during the last four years among 16 developing countries, including Brazil, India and Pakistan.

The arrangements which were worked out within the framework of GATT, cover $500 million worth of commercial goods a year, and other developing countries would be welcome to negotiate themselves into the agreements.

One of GATT's main purposes, in its general aim of seeking to reduce customs tariffs and trade barriers throughout the world, is to make international commerce serve as an instrument for economic development.

Report Called Whitewash

ST. CATHARINES (CP) — The findings of a British government-appointed commission stating there was no brutality during the August roundup of men in Northern Ireland is a "direct effort to whitewash the brutality going on there," an Irish Republican Army spokesman said Tuesday night.

Sean Kenny said the commission's findings, released Tuesday in London, were an attempt to dampen demonstrations that might spring up in Britain against the internment.

Mr. Kenny was speaking to about 200 people at Brock University.

Burning Cigarette Used to Determine If Beaten Men Alive

KINGSTON, Ont. (CP) — A burning cigarette was used to determine if prisoners beaten during a riot last April at Kingston penitentiary were still alive, the non-capital murder trial of 13 convicts was told Tuesday.

A 24-year-old witness, who still is in prison, said James Oag, 23, of London, Ont., one of the accused, placed a glowing cigarette end against the faces of four or five convicts who had just been beaten.

When Oag burned Brian Enang, 26, he got no response, the witness said. Oag's brother Donald, 20, another of the accused, then cut open Enno's pant leg, and in doing so, slashed the victim's leg.

Enno's body was found by prison officials in a cell block after the four-day riot ended. Robert died in hospital a month later.

The witness, serving a four-year sentence for a 1970 conviction for robbery with violence, was the sixth convict to be called to give evidence. Mr. Justice William Henderson has instructed that names of prisoners or former prisoners who give evidence not be made public during the trial.

Witnesses have testified that the two dead men, along with other so-called undesirables, were tied in a circle of chairs and beaten by other convicts.

During the beatings, Tuesday's witness said, Robert Robidoux, 23, of Toronto, another accused, carried a fire extinguisher around the circle and pumped some of its contents into the nostrils of three or four prisoners.

James Oag and Robidoux were identified by the witness along with five other convicts as the men who ravaged the beating victims from their cells and tied them to the chairs.

He said the other five, all among the 13 accused, were William Stanley, 24, Windsor, Ont.; Harold St. Amour, 30, Pembroke, Ont.; Edward Fowler, 18, Toronto; Wayne McGurgin, 23, Toronto; and Glenn Morris, 24, Staunton, Va.

The witness testified that a total of about 12 prisoners were beaten with iron bars while tied to chairs.

In addition, he said, Robidoux and another convict whom he could not identify pushed over the chairs of some victims so that they fell face down on the floor.

Fowler, he said, struck some victims on the nose with an iron bar and McGurgin struck them on the legs and knees.

James Oag, he said, administered judo chops to the noses of five or six men.

The witness said St. Amour beat one inmate on the shoulder with a wooden pickhandle but that was the only man he struck.

Previous witnesses credited St. Amour with intervening to have at least two prisoners spared from the beatings.

Tuesday morning, another witness, 25, told lawyers questioning him after testimony that the beatings were "a nightmare" and a "chamber of horrors."

The witness, who was paroled last August, admitting participating in the wrecking of prison chapels during the riot, but said: "I'm sorry now."

He also admitted giving a "thumbs-down signal" to those assaulting prisoners, meaning a certain convict should be beaten.

"I didn't mind seeing them get punched a few times," he said, "It was a lot different at first than it was at the end.

When asked by a defence lawyer if he believed wrecking the chapels was less serious than the beatings, the witness said: "Yes, it is a lot less. Those are human beings, among they?"

Besides the eight identified by the witness, the others charged with non-capital murder are: Brian Beaucage, 23, London, Ont.; Brian Dodge, 27, Petrolia, Ont.; Ernest Bigler, 24, St. Thomas, Ont.; David Birt, 24, Charlottetown; and Edward Johnston, 22, Clarkson, Ont.

Reprisals Threatened By IRA

BELFAST (AP) — The Irish Republican Army threatened today ruthless reprisals against British intelligence men whom it accused of torturing guerrilla suspects.

An IRA statement, commenting on a British government inquiry into interrogation methods, demanded an investigation by a team of international jurists.

It added: "Torturing by British troops is still going on and nothing short of a full disclosure of the truth will shock the British public into disowning the famous policy of their government.

BC Labor Opposes Free Trade

VANCOUVER (CP) — The British Columbia Federation of Labor snapped out of an introspective mood Tuesday to adopt an aggressive set of policies on economic, environmental and political issues.

The old fire crackled most briskly over a resolution flatly rejecting any form of wage-and-price controls as an affront to working people.

It also flared up, however, in a standing ovation for David Barrett, leader of the provincial New Democrats, at the end of a frankly nationalistic speech attacking the free-trade proposals of B.C. Premier W. A. C. Bennett.

The opening Monday of the week-long convention was largely a self-criticism session with federation executives and delegates listing the shortcomings of the labor movement.

In the debate on wage and price controls, U.S. labor was damned for the extent of its co-operation with the economic policies of President Nixon.

Sudbury Judge Criticizes Indians

SUDBURY (CP) — District court Judge George Collins severely criticized Indians on the Whitefish Lake reserve Tuesday before giving one of them a suspended sentence for an assault charge.

Judge Collins said International Nickel Co. at Sudbury is trying to import workers from Portugal because "the Indians here don't want to get on a truck and come to the city for a physical checkup."

The 57-year-old judge, appointed in November 1963, said he once saw an Indian child faint in church from malnutrition and asked police to charge the father.

The child might suffer brain damage from not having proper food to eat, he said.

"He'll just be another stupid Indian of which we have many."

The judge said he has lived on reserves at various times and on one he noticed there were few young men in the tribe.

"When I asked where they were, I was informed they were in prison."

Judge Collins said the Six Nations Indians are the pride of Canada's native people but it is a different story on the Whitefish Lake and Birch Island reserves.

Seedsmen Meet

Members of the Canadian Seed Trade Association met in Toronto this week to hear reports and discussions at the association's annual convention. The meetings also heard plans for the world congress of the International Seed Trade Federation, which will be convened by the Canadian association in Ottawa in May. Above, Bill Bishop of Belleville examines a poster for the congress with (from left) Gabriel Eros, president of the Canadian association and Hans H. Leenders of Amsterdam, The Netherlands, secretary - general of the international federation. (Special Intelligencer Photo)

'Captain' Bligh Meets Mister Christian Again

Maurice Bligh, a fifth-generation descendant of the captain of HMS Bounty, has had a friendly meeting with Thomas Christian, a fifth-generation descendant of Fletcher Christian, who led the famous mutiny aboard the 18th-century British warship, it was reported Tuesday.

The meeting took place on Pitcairn, a remote British island in the Pacific to which the mutineers fled in 1790.

Word of the encounter was relayed from the island by Thomas Christian, its radio officer, to the broadcasting headquarters here of the Seventh-Day Adventist Church which maintains regular contact with Pitcairn.

Christian reported that Bligh is a dealer in old and rare books from Kent, in England," and that he came ashore for an hour from the Fort Nelson, a ship bringing supplies to Pitcairn from New Zealand.

Christian said Bligh appeared to be "a nice, young chap of about 30." He said he was visiting the Pacific in make contact with as many of the descendants of the Bounty mutineers as possible to establish goodwill among the Bligh and Christian families.

Christian said Bligh had signed aboard the Fort Nelson as a crew member so that he could make the voyage to Pitcairn.

Charcoal Factory Opposed

BARRY'S BAY, Ont. (CP) — Reeve Alex Shulist of Hagarty and Richards townships says he has received an anonymous letter threatening his family if plans for a charcoal factory in the area are not abandoned.

Provincial police refused to say if the family is being given protection but Mrs. Shulist said the three oldest children are being kept out of school temporarily.

Last Friday a woman phoned St. Mary's separate school pretending to be Mrs. Shulist and asked the teacher to send Arthur, 13, home. Before the teacher could ask any questions the caller hung up.

The plan by Adventure Charcoal Enterprises Ltd. of Toronto to build a plant capable of producing 3,000 tons of charcoal briquette in its first year is developing into a confrontation between persons concerned with preserving the environment and those who support more industrial development.

The townships are about 25 miles southwest of Pembroke and have a population of about 1,300, mostly farmers.

Veteran Actress, 81, Dies

HENLEY ON THAMES, England (AP) — Dame Gladys Cooper, a leading British actress whose career spanned 66 years, died at her home in Henley today after a 16-week illness. She was 81.

Dame Gladys made her final appearance last April in a London revival of The Chalk Garden, playing the role of Mrs. St. Maugham which she had created 16 years before.

She was stricken in September with pneumonia and had been ill ever since. The cause of death was not announced.

She made her debut in Colchester in 1905 and came to London the next year, quickly establishing herself as one of the great beauties of the era. She made her New York debut in 1934 and played frequently there until her marriage in 1937 to the actor Philip Merivale when she moved to Hollywood and played in several movies.

During and after the Second World War she alternated between Hollywood and New York and also took a fling at television. But in the 1950s she returned to England to live and in 1967 the Queen made her a Dame of the British Empire, the British equivalent of knighthood.

She was married three times, to H. J. Buckmaster, Sir Neville Pearson and Merivale. The first two marriages ended in divorce; Merivale died in 1946.

She is survived by a son, the actor John Buckmaster, and two daughters. One of them is married to actor Robert Morley.

Man Uses Plane To Locate His Car

BRANTFORD, Ont. (CP) — When Ken Parker's car was missing from his driveway in nearby Mount Pleasant Monday, he didn't stand around doing nothing.

He hired an airplane and flew around Tuscarora Township until he spotted the car in a wooded area, hidden by trees from the nearest road.

Then he landed and phoned provincial police, giving them the exact location.

Police recovered the car, minus its wheels and $1,400 worth of tools that had been in the back seat.

Rotating Strikes Cease

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

Striking postal workers in Ontario and the Maritimes have decided to return to work today while their union leaders in Ottawa hold talks with Postmaster-General Jean-Pierre Cote.

However the various locals served notice that they will continue with rotating strikes later in the week if their demands are not met.

The Ottawa meeting was scheduled for 11 a.m.

At issue is the employment of casual, non-union lower-paid help to take on mail routes left vacant while regular carriers are sick or on holidays.

Locals at St. Catharines, Ont., and Thorold, Ont., where the dispute and walkouts started last week held a joint meeting Tuesday and voted 49 to 34 to go back today.

But St. Catharines President Dave Smith warned: "I haven't laid down the battleaxe yet. We're looking at the situation on a day-to-day level."

700 Out

About 700 mailmen left their jobs Tuesday, including 194 in London, Ont., 184 in Windsor, between 100 and 200 in Toronto and about 95 in Halifax, including clerks and sorters who would not cross the picket lines. Locals were also out in Chatham, Ont., and Amherstburg, Ont.

Theatre Feature Times

AT THE PARK — In Cities: Three Days of the Condor. Robert Redford plays the leader of a group of CIA researchers whose job it is to read books and magazines and newspapers from around the world. Full of holes, meaning dashes in the information they receive. One day he returns from lunch to find everyone in the office murdered. Cliff Robertson plays the man who tries to help him stay alive. Suspense film directed by Sydney Pollack. Co-starring Faye Dunaway. Also, Threesome. Sexual film made in Denmark where all censorship has been removed. Has been banned in the U.S. Army's office of psychological warfare.

Relief at Report Torture Not Used Is Followed by Anxiety

LONDON (CP) — A sense of general relief following release of an official report on the treatment of persons interned in Northern Ireland appears to be quickly giving way to anxiety, confusion and heightened concern.

The British government report confirmed that some suspected terrorists arrested have been seriously maltreated but not subjected to brutality.

The immediate reaction in government circles and among several Opposition members was one of deep awareness of the seriousness of the findings but relief that no evidence had been found of extreme cruelty.

Home Secretary Reginald Maudling said the ... no way reflected adversely on the conduct of security ... Ulster.

The disclosures were contained in a report prepared by a three-man commission under Sir Edmund Compton, Britain's former ombudsman, and dealt with interrogation methods used by security forces on extremist suspects interned without trial last Aug. 9.

It was the first official confirmation of press newspaper reports alleging severe ill-treatment of suspects ...

The government moved to refute the document was introduced in the Commons to reassure supporters and Opposition forces that measures will be taken to prevent any repetition of the rough methods used.

Maudling announced a three-man commission, headed by Scottish appeal court judge Lord Parker, will take a new look at the army's standard interrogation methods. A special debate will be held on the report late today.

The Compton commission found that fewer than 24 out of 342 men taken into custody during the first internment sweeps were maltreated, most of them in five major ways:

—Exposed for long periods to high-pitched electronic noise.

—Placed on bread-and-water diets for several days at a time.

—Forced to stay awake for up to 48 hours at a time.

Critics now focus on two major aspects of the commission's report: the definition used for brutality and the extent of the evidence examined.

The commission said brutality was considered as an "inhuman or savage form of cruelty" and implies a disposition to inflict suffering, coupled with indifference to, or pleasure in, the victim's pain."

In this breach, the commission said, no instances of brutality had been found.

It said no firm evidence could be discovered to support claims that in one case prisoners were forced to run over ... and stones to a helicopter when they were immobilized ... kicked and beaten.

Forty men arrested on Aug. 9 were involved in the allegations. But of these, only one complaint appeared before the committee and another wrote to them.

In Belfast, spokesmen for the governing Unionist party said the report shows there is no foundation for allegations of brutality.

But The Civil Rights Association, prominent in the protest campaign on behalf of Ulster's Roman Catholic minority, said the report is "by and large a whitewash of the events relating to internment."

John Hume, a regional opposition MP from Londonderry said the inquiry was inadequate but "could form the basis for political basis" for allegation about the rough treatment of interees.

Opposition Leader Harold Wilson said he would be studying the ... and the Irish Republic, said he plans to investigate all aspects of the Northern Ireland situation but will not meet representatives of the clandestine Irish Republican Army.

To Your Good Health

Talk of Suicide Is Ominous

By G. C. THOSTESON, MD

Dear Dr. Thosteson: How can one recognize the signs of emotional illness or nervous breakdown?

For about two years my husband and I have been arguing with increasing frequency, and sometimes interminably. He is employed in a field where government contracts are important. When personnel cutbacks occur through a decrease in appropriations, pressure for results increases.

What especially worries me is that sometimes when we argue he gets very depressed and talks about ending his life but the children and I would be better off without him. He has never made an attempt on his life, but his talk is distressing. He has also said that sometimes he feels he's becoming unhinged. We've been married 7½ years.

We had a session of marriage counselling (initiated by me) but ended them because my husband found them too painful and thought they were aggravating, not helping the situation—Mrs. C. T.

You can't list a few simple categories in mental (emotional) illness, nor even how you can give a neat little handful of physical symptoms that will cover all physical ailments.

But if I were a marriage counselor, which I'm not, or a psychiatrist, which I'm not, or just an internist, which I am, I'd want to ask some searching questions. In these arguments, who starts them? Who prolongs them? What are they about?

Nobody goes through life without problems, and I doubt if there ever was a marriage, worthy of the name, that didn't have some arguments. Your husband has his pressures at work—but he still has his job. If he complains, that's understandable. But why anger?

Roughly speaking, changes in disposition, increased irritability without apparent reason, withdrawal from social activities, decreased productivity at work, depression are a few of the signs of emotional illness. But these, and suicide—indicating severe depression—is ominous. Yes, I know that sometimes people (not always "oppressed" adolescent girls, either) make phoney suicide threats or insincere "attempts" that is, they want help. But there are also teen-agers who DO kill themselves, so talk about suicide should never be disregarded.

In an adult, talk about suicide too often is another way of saying, "I'm troubled. I'm scared. I can't see any way out."

Interminable family arguments almost never solve anything. And when you've found the marriage counselling session "painful," it would indicate they were verging on some shrieties or worries he didn't want to talk about. That's why they were "painful."

Anybody can lose his job. Any sincere husband and father can worry about his family. Anybody can be "in the dumps" occasionally.

In this case, I'd have to keep looking for something more. It is quite possible that some physical problem (real or not) is chewing at your husband's emotions.

Preferably, I'd have him go through a very thorough medical examination, if that doesn't show you the road, then I'd try to get him to agree to a psychiatric interview. Worry is one thing. Endless arguments and talk of suicide are quite another.

Dear Dr. Thosteson: My barber tells me that once your hair turns grey, you will not become bald. Is he right?—J. N. M.

Folks who keep their hair that long—until it turns grey—are the ones who aren't likely to become bald, but your barber is on shaky ground if he thinks it never happens.

Note to L. W.: Boy legs cannot be straightened by either a brace or exercise, but if the case is really severe and it is worth the trouble, some improvement is possible by having a surgeon fracture the bones and put the legs in casts. This is a drastic step to say the least.

POTENTIAL PATIENTS

HAMILTON (CP) — A Hamilton doctor says more than 80,000 city residents suffer from or will develop respiratory diseases. "They're all potential patients," says Dr. Michael Newhouse, who is speaking to the public to take part in a simple but important test that helps detect lung disorders.

Pilots Want Better Check

MONTREAL (CP) — The Canadian Airline Pilots Association called on the Canadian government Tuesday "to bear the brunt" of the cost to improve security at Canadian airports.

Ray Lank, CALA security chairman, said that for years the organization has been agitating for an improvement in security. But Friday's hijacking of an Air Canada flight from Calgary only "dramatized the "lack of progress" in this area.

"Security at our airports is a major problem," he told a news conference. "X-ray machines are in effect and various other policies are in force, but security . . . simply is inadequate."

He said that as it stands now no federal program n this field, the airlines themselves operate security devices, but he knew of no federal program in this field.

"What is happening is that individual airlines are being asked to face the bill, but the Canadian government should be the brunt of the cost. It could be under federal authority."

Mr. Lank said the organization is opposed to sky marshals aboard aircraft or having guns aboard an aircraft.

"The idea is to stop hijackers on the ground," he said.

The 1,900-pilot organization has sent telegrams to Justice Minister John Turner, Transport Minister Don Jamieson and External Affairs Minister Mitchell Sharp.

John Keenan, legal counsel for CALPA, said that no reply has been received to telegrams send to the three cabinet ministers on the subject of anti-hijack legislation.

He proposed that the slaying of an airplane captain "be made a capital crime, just as it is for the murder of a policeman."

Captain Vern Ehman, who helped subdue the Calgary hijacker who eventually was locked unconscious, said that incident gave him in unexpected week off work.

Captain Ehman said he will resume flying next week.

New Heart Serves 3 Years

TORONTO (CP) — Perrin Johnston, 57, will spend the third anniversary of his heart transplant in hospital today, but not because he is sick.

He has not been admitted to Dr. Clare Baker and Dr. James Yeo gave him the heart of an 18-year-old in 1963, but he has had the usual regular visits to his doctors.

"This time, the doctors moved in on me and said, 'Now come on. It's three years and it's time we had a really good look at you,' so here I am for a few days," he said waving a cigar from his bed in St. Michael's hospital.

Mr. Johnston is the third longest-living of all world heart transplant survivors.

Louis Russell, 46, of Indianapolis received a new heart three years ago last August, and John Parkinson, 55, of Montreal celebrated his third anniversary two weeks ago.

Mr. Johnston and his wife held a celebration at their home on Friday for more than 60 guests, including doctors and hospital staff on the team.

Since he began work with Gulf Oil 18 months ago, Mr. Johnston is the only one in his office who has not even a day off sick.

The Johnstons dislike personal publicity but say it is worthwhile if it persuades people that organ transplantation can mean years of active life for at least some patients. The families may be more willing to donate organs from accident victims.

Liberal Seeks Leadership Convention

TORONTO (CP) — George Hees, president of the Toronto-Yorkview Liberal Association, has received 30 replies from organizations supporting a leadership convention in the Ontario party next spring.

The proposal was sent to 204 fellow presidents of provincial and federal riding groups in Ontario. Eleven said yes, nine said n i but would agree to a convention within a year, seven said no, two were uncommitted and one was returned by the post office because it had the wrong address.

"I shop every Thursday as I check the Wednesday papers to see what the specials are", says Mrs. Rowsell who shops for two. "After checking and comparing I almost always end up here. But it's not just the specials that bring me—I like the fact that the store is so clean and tidy and the service is very good. There's always a good choice at Loblaws meat counter and if you don't see what you want they'll cut it for you. The size roasts I usually need for two people aren't normally on display—but the butcher will always cut one to order for me. And the quality is excellent—I'm exceptionally fussy about meat and Loblaws meat quality is always perfectly good.

Government Would Give Heirs Time to Pay Tax

OTTAWA (CP) — Farm families and others inheriting property would get a gentler tax break than expected through an amendment proposed by the government Tuesday to its big tax bill.

The amendment would allow heirs up to six years to pay the new capital gains tax on the property. The bill originally called for payment within one year of the owner's death.

The change would bring the proposed capital-gains tax provision in line with the existing federal estate tax, which also allows six years for payment. The tax bill would abolish the estate tax.

The proposed change, introduced by Pat Mahoney, parliamentary secretary to Finance Minister E. J. Benson, would go at least part way to meet complaints from both sides of the House that a sudden capital gains tax could break up family farms—forcing heirs to sell all or part of the farm to pay the tax.

A second amendment proposed by Mr. Mahoney, parliamentary secretary to Finance Minister E. J. Benson, would permit railwaymen to deduct from their taxable income costs of bunking down away from home.

Mr. Mahoney said outside the House that a gap in railway labor contracts left workers with the expense of living while on the road.

That change, also came after appeals from MPs, including railway engineers John Skoberg (NDP—Moose Jaw) and Charles Turner (L—London East).

Six other amendments proposed by the government were housekeeping changes.

Tuesday's eight amendments brought to 148 the number of changes the government has proposed in the 707-page bill since debate started in September.

John Burton (NDP—Regina East) called for exemption of farmland from capital gains tax under three conditions: when it is passed on to another family member for continued farming; when the proceeds from its sale are used to buy another farm, and when the proceeds are invested in a retirement savings plan.

Mr. Burton said a blanket exemption of all farmland, proposed by Conservative Harvey Lambert (E d m o n t o n West) Monday, would lead to speculation and encourage the growth of corporation farming.

The tax the government proposes would apply to half the increase in value of property or company shares between valuation day—to be set sometime this fall—and the day the asset is transferred to another owner by sale, gift or will.

MPs also complained about the impact of the tax on investors in stocks.

Douglas Harkness (Calgary South), former Conservative defence minister, said no tax should be exacted from long-term investments.

Fast-buck speculators and non-Canadian firms investing in Canada should pay the full capital gains tax, Mr. Harkness said.

But Canadians leaving their money in stocks for 10 years should be exempted fully. The tax should drop by 2½ per cent a year up to 10 years, he said.

Steve Otto, parliamentary secretary to Supply Minister James Richardson, agreed the government should make the distinction between speculators —who simply buy and sell property without adding to its value —and those who actively improve the value of their investments.

The former should pay the capital gains tax, he said. The latter should be exempted.

Mr. Otto said that before recent U.S. economic programs, including trade restrictions, the capital gains tax was a good idea.

But now Canada could not afford "this kind of equity" — there was not enough to share, Growth was the prime goal.

He said it makes no sense to go on debating the bill, ignoring the impact of the U.S. economic policies.

After the MP's debated the bill, Finance Minister Benson was telling provincial premiers at the federal-provincial conference that he was sticking to the planned Jan. 1 implementation date for the new tax law.

Gray Tries to Allay Tax Worries

VANCOUVER (CP) — Revenue Minister Herb Gray attempted Tuesday to allay tax specialists' fears about a major restructuring of Canada's tax laws, but he conceded that there will be problems with the transition.

Mr. Gray was applauded when he announced Conservative government policies—covering advance rulings on tax questions and changes in fiscal-year dates —which will be significant to tax experts and businessmen.

The federal minister was speaking to an audience of 800 at the annual meeting of the Canadian Tax Foundation, which concludes its three-day conference today.

The federal legislation, which the government hopes to implement on Jan. 1, will change most aspects of the Income Tax Act.

"Once tax reform comes into effect, the increased need by taxpayers for rulings and interpretations will make greater demands on the limited numbers of staff engaged in this work," Mr. Gray said. "I am concerned about the problem involved in finding the additional staff that will be needed."

Advance rulings on tax questions have been provided in the past by the department so taxpayers will know what the impact will be of decisions which might affect their tax status.

Mr. Gray said news reports had suggested that the federal tax-collection agency planned to discontinue the service but the department had no such intention.

However, because of the complexity of the new bill and the anticipated volume of requests for advance rulings it is unlikely that it will be possible initially to issue rulings in less than three months, he said.

Mr. Gray said the department will accept up to Dec. 31 requests from companies or individuals wanting to change the date for the end of their fiscal year from a date to 1972. This would allow "taxpayers to end their tax year under the old rules and it would give them a full year before having to file a year-end tax statement under the new rules.

Mr. Gray said his department had been reorganized in anticipation of the change in tax laws and there may be more adjustments as a result of amendments during parliamentary consideration.

Earlier Tuesday, panelists at a session on taxation of individuals said taxpayers will lose more from changes in the definition of taxable income on the average than they will gain from new tax deductions.

The panel was one of 15 discussing all aspects of the new legislation during the conference, which has a registration of about 1,400.

Jean Monet, a Montreal lawyer, said he believes the income-averaging provision is one of the most important in the personal-tax area.

Income averaging allows a taxpayer with exceptionally high or low income in one year to average his income for tax purposes over a five-year period. For example, this might benefit a farmer who has a good or bad crop year.

Prof. D. H. Jones of the University of Alberta law faculty outlined some of the major areas of income and expense which taxpayers will have to consider when filling out income tax forms.

Personal use of a company car will mean that the user will have to add to his income an allowance for that use. If the employer owns the car a "reasonable charge" to the employee's income would be one per cent of the new cost of the car per month. It appears that this provision will not apply to trucks or other vehicles.

Child-care expenses for a working parent will be tax deductible.

In order to claim the expense, neither the woman nor the man need be married at all and hence it would cover illegitimate children," Prof. Jones said.

Opening lead—two of clubs.

One of Allen's strangest adventures occurred at a highly unusual garden party. Thinking she would be served some tea, Alice took a seat at a nearby table, but to her surprise she saw her left-hand opponent, a Hatter, dealing a pack of cards. Her other opponent, the Duchess, paid no attention whatever, to what was going on, while Alice's partner, a snoozing Dormouse, must have had a dispute of some sort with the host, who kept pushing him into a large teapot.

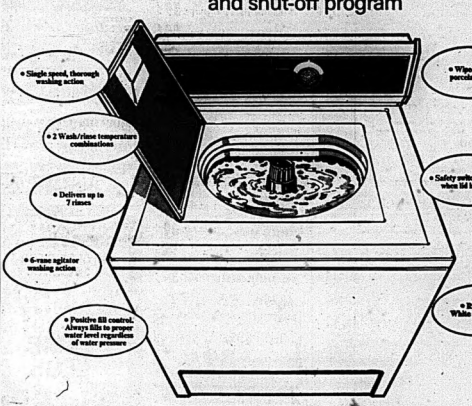
Alice was greatly astonished to hear the Dormouse open the bidding with a club. She then promptly lapsed into a comatose condition as Alice went directly to seven no-trump.

At this point the Duchess sneezed with unusual vehemence. Interpreting it as a lead-directing sneeze, calling for dummy's first-bid suit, the Mad Hatter led a club. This play was highly embarrassing to Alice, who would easily have made the grand slam with any other lead.

Apparently Alice's only hope now was to find East with the lingleton or doubleton king of spades, but she saw another chance. Accordingly, on dummy's club, she discarded the A-K-Q of diamonds! Then she cashed the J-10-9, hoping the eight would fall—but it didn't.

In the meantime, Alice had discarded the A-K-Q of hearts on the J-10-9 of diamonds, and when she proceeded to cash the J-10-9 of hearts, vainly hoping again the eight would fall, she found herself left with only three cards — the A-Q-J of spades.

Alice felt annoyed as she led the spade from dummy, because she had been so unlucky in the red suits. But she didn't finesse, for she knew West had started with four clubs, four diamonds, and four hearts and hence only one spade. Obviously the Duchess had five spades, and if one was the king, the contract simply couldn't be made. Alice's only chance was that West's one and only spade was the king.



So when Alice went up with the ace and the king dropped, she was jubilant indeed—but only very briefly, for the next moment she woke up.

Tomorrow: Foresight.

NOTICE OF APPLICATION to The Ontario Municipal Board by The Corporation of the City of Belleville for approval of a by-law to regulate land use passed pursuant to Section 30 of The Planning Act.

TAKE NOTICE that the Council of the Corporation of the City of Belleville passed By-law Number 3114 on the 25th day of October, 1971, to amend By-law Number 3050 and to make provision for the application of the purpose and effect of the by-law and stating the municipality where it may be examined.

ANY PERSON MAY, within twenty (20) days after the date of the publication of this notice, send by registered mail or deliver to the Clerk of the City of Belleville a notice of his objection to approval of the said by-law, together with a statement of the grounds of such objection.

ANY PERSON may, before the expiration for appeals for approval of the said by-law, within twenty (20) days after the date of the publication, send by registered mail or deliver to the Clerk of the City of Belleville notice of his support of approval of the said by-law together with a request for notice of hearing that may be given of the same and address to which such notice should be given.

IF NO NOTICE OF OBJECTION is received within the time for giving such notice, the by-law shall be deemed to have been approved and will be passed by the Council of the City of Belleville, but if a notice of objection to the by-law is received within the time for giving such notice, a hearing may be held and notice will be given only to persons who have filed an objection or notice of support and who have left with or delivered to the Clerk the prescribed information and fee mentioned in the Act.

THE LAST DATE FOR FILING OBJECTIONS will be December 3rd, 1971.

DATED at the City of Belleville this 17th day of November, 1971.

Adam S. Stalker,
City Clerk,
City Hall,
Belleville, Ontario.

SPECIAL NOTICE

ALL OWNERS of land abutting the Belleville City Limits and located in the Townships of Sidney and Thurlow are hereby notified of the foregoing NOTICE OF APPLICATION TO THE ONTARIO MUNICIPAL BOARD UNDER SECTION 30 OF "THE PLANNING ACT".

THE CORPORATION OF THE CITY OF BELLEVILLE

BY-LAW NUMBER 3114

A BY-LAW TO AMEND BY-LAW 3050, AS AMENDED, BEING A BY-LAW TO REGULATE THE USE OF LAND AND THE CONSTRUCTION, ROLE AND USE OF BUILDINGS, SIZE OF BUILDING LOTS AND THE LOCATION THEREOF.

THE CORPORATION OF THE CITY OF BELLEVILLE ENACTS AS FOLLOWS:-

1. THAT Schedule "A" to Zoning By-law 3050 be and the same is hereby amended by rezoning the lands described in the description for rezoning attached hereto as Schedule "B", O.M.B., dated October 15, 1971, attached hereto as Schedule "A", and as shown on the drawing prepared by the Belleville and Suburban Planning Board, dated May 20, 1970, attached hereto as Schedule "C", and as shown on the drawing prepared by Walter I. Watson, O.L.S., dated October 15, 1971, attached hereto as Schedule "D", said sheet on the drawing prepared by the Belleville and Suburban Planning Board, dated May 20, 1970, from R2 to R4Z.

2. THAT Schedule "A" to By-law 3050 be and the same is hereby amended by adding to By-law 3050 the following section and renumbering the balance of the sections of By-law 3050 as the case may be:

3. THAT By-law 3050 be and the same is hereby amended by the addition thereof of the words:- "and in addition one parking space per each four dwelling units or part thereof." as the last portion of Section 18.11 as amended shall read as follows:-

Section 18.11 Parking One parking space for each dwelling unit to be provided on the same lot occupied by the main building, in garages on the same lot at the rear of the building or by open parking at the rear of the building, and in addition one parking space for each four dwelling units or part thereof.

THIS BY-LAW shall come into force and take effect until approved by the Ontario Municipal Board.

Read a first time this 25th day of October, 1971.

Read a second time this 25th day of October, 1971.

Read a third time and finally passed this 25th day of October, 1971.

Endangered Species

Once-proud U.S. Whaler Fleet to Lose Last Three Ships

POINT RICHMOND, Calif. (AP) — Whalers go down to the sea for the last time in the United States next month. For Charles Cailo, the end of the tradition-rich profession is bitter.

Cailo is the last American to hold a licence to hunt whales. His licence expires Dec. 15 and the government does not intend to renew it.

In the Moby Dick days of the 1850s, the U.S. whaling fleet was the largest in the world, with 750 ships. But now only three rusty whalers are left, based at this lonely, weatherbeaten point on the northern leg of San Francisco Bay.

Commerce Secretary Maurice H. Stans ordered the ban on whaling last March 1 after former interior secretary Walter Hickel put all whales—the world's biggest animals—on the endangered species list. Importation of whale meat and oil to the U.S. also was banned.

Cailo blames the ban on "sheer politics to pacify the conservation groups."

"All they were doing was putting one small industry out of business."

He talked in the warehouse of his Del Monte Fishing Co., the only U.S. whaling operation since 1967. There, whales are hoisted up a chute from the sea to be butchered and processed into pet food.

"No butchering operation is pretty," said Dennis Hunter, whose father, C.A. (Gib) Hunter, is contractor for the seagoing end of the operation.

"These ecologists should realize that whatever meat they eat —roast beef, chicken—had to be butchered somewhere and it wasn't pretty."

He and Cailo agreed that some species should be protected, such as the humpback and blue whale which have been reduced to less than five per cent of their populations of 50 years ago.

"But there's no evidence those we hunt—sperm, fisback and sei—are endangered," Cailo said.

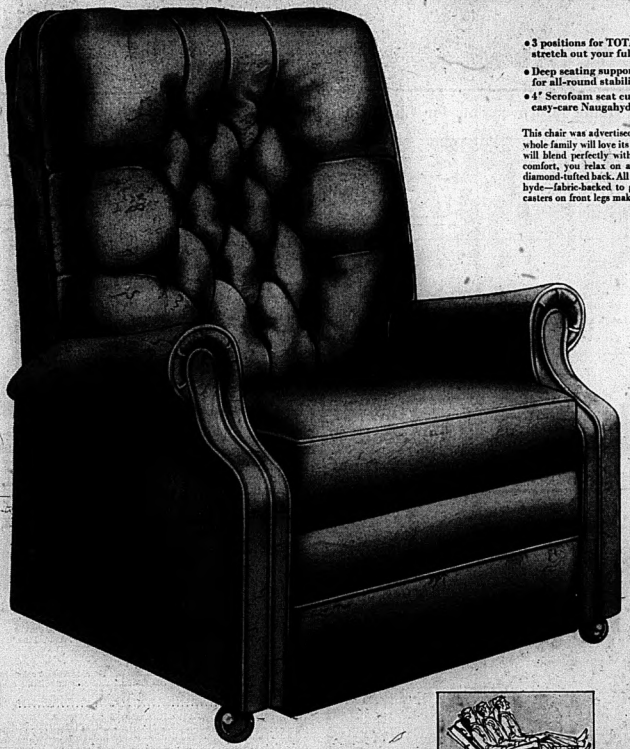
Dale Rice, a federal marine researcher, said the purpose of the government ban is to permit whales to replenish themselves "and presumably the government will allow hunting again after the herds have built themselves back up to the optimum levels."

He estimated this could take 50 to 100 years.

Del Monte's average yearly catch is about 150 whales. Cailo said this "doesn't even make a dent" in the world's whale herds, especially when Japan and the Soviet Union together take more than 20,000 whales a year.

The International Whaling Commission, which governs the industry worldwide, is allowing Russia and Japan to hunt whales beginning next spring in international waters off the coast of the state of Washington, Cailo said.

Walter Kirkness, acting director of resource management for the Federal Bureau of Fisheries, said the U.S. can only exert "moral persuasion" on the IWC.



Cailo is seeking government reimbursement for about 35 employees who will lose their jobs and for the company which has invested $1.5 million. His company and the Hunters have other fishing interests but for some of their employees the future is uncertain.

Price thaw!

Zip into the hottest fashion styles on the snowmobile trail. Expensive? Not at all! Right now our prices have thawed to the lowest they've ever been.

A great looking suit at a great price... who could ask for a better bargain? They're stylish. They're practical. And they're made to keep you snug even on the back of a speeding snowmobile. Here's why: first, the outer shell is 100% wind and water proof (remember, it's the wind and wet that causes most chills). Next, there's a cosy insulation of 100% polyester. Finally, an acrylic pile lining on hood and collar and knitted storm cuffs act as extra protection around neck and wrists. Zipper legs and front make this suit a cinch to climb into even over other clothes. Two flashy colours: Navy or Emerald.

Mens & Ladies 24.99 — 39.99

Finance Ministers To Guide Projects

Local Rule Stifled

OTTAWA (CP) — Monolithic government structures are stripping away from municipalities their effectiveness in running their affairs, the Eastern Ontario Development Council was told Wednesday.

At a council conference, a panel consisting of Reeve Andrew Haydon of Nepean, and E. M. Fraser, clerk-administrator of Renfrew County, agreed that local autonomy must be restored by the provincial government.

Criticizing the Ontario Municipal Board and the provincial municipal affairs department, Reeve Haydon said:

"One wonders how large this octopus is going to become before it ties itself up in knots. My feeling is that it is beginning to do this now."

Ontario repeatedly says it wants the municipalities to be partners yet enacts legislation affecting municipalities without consulting them, Mr. Fraser said.

Federal Imbalance Said Key

OTTAWA (CP) — Imbalance in the federal system must be resolved before discussions on urban affairs will bear fruit, Premier Davis told the federal-provincial economic conference Wednesday.

"Unless we address ourselves to resolving the central questions of the distribution of powers and the disparities between revenues and responsibilities, then I believe that whatever arrangements we make to deal with such pressing questions as urban growth will only be short-run, stop-gap measures."

His talks advocated closer consultation with municipalities. He said the federal government has the nation's purse strings while the provinces and municipalities have most of the responsibilities.

"This thing poverty, dear! Is it contagious?"

Progress at Parley Pleases Premiers

OTTAWA (CP) — Prime Minister Trudeau and the 10 provincial premiers Wednesday completed a three-day economic conference without reaching any earth-shattering decisions, but there seemed to be a consensus the exercise was far from futile.

Most of the premiers returned home expressing some satisfaction with much of the discussion behind the closed doors of Ottawa's conference centre, and Mr. Trudeau said there were many areas where agreements had been reached.

One of these was for better federal-provincial economic consultations and, as a starting point, closer co-operation in developing future winter-works programs and student-employment projects. This will be done through a committee of finance ministers.

At a post-meeting news conference, Mr. Trudeau shot down suggestions that the sessions with the premiers accomplished little. He said it's the taxpayers of Canada who benefit from these consultations.

But neither the official communique, nor comments from delegates, indicated any decisions immediately affecting provincial coffers—and certainly none affecting individual taxpayers.

The talks involved high-level government financing arrangements—shared cost programs, equalization payments, foreign investment, taxation systems, stabilization plans, and general economic consultations.

And in most cases, the stage was set for further talks.

THE WEATHER

Synopsis: Most precipitation will be confined to the northern and central sections of Ontario today and Friday. In the south it will be mostly sunny and mild today with afternoon temperatures in the mid 50s in the low 60s. On Friday it will be mostly cloudy and mild with a few showers in most localities.

Red Super Spy Visits New York

NEW YORK (AP) — Victor Louis, who jokingly refers to himself as the Soviet Union's "super spy," went Christmas shopping in New York. But his legendary luck ran out: The stores wouldn't take rubles.

And none of the Americans who were with him Wednesday was about to put up $2,800 for a popcorn machine to be shipped to Moscow.

"Maybe the Dzerz cre more broadminded," said Louis who left for Copenhagen after his shopping tour.

Louis is Moscow correspondent of the London Evening News, a tipster to Western journalists in the Soviet capital, and — Western intelligence sources say — a top intermediary for the Soviet government when it wishes to remain officially unconcerned.

It was in Copenhagen that Louis allegedly delivered the manuscript of Khrushchev Remembers to American publishers.

British Army Charges IRA Tortures Victims

LONDON (CP) — The British Army says Ulster terrorists torture men who refuse to co-operate with them and point to a man under guard in a Belfast hospital as one of the victims.

This Ulsterman—and the army says there are many more like him—is suffering from multiple burns, including burns of his groin, allegedly administered by a secret Irish Republican Army court.

Men who refuse to work with the IRA or are found guilty of leaking secrets to security forces in Northern Ireland are sometimes stripped, burned with red-hot pokers, jabbed with live electric rods or have their paraffin-soaked trousers set on fire, the army says.

These charges of torture coincide, whether by accident or intent, with public reflection over the Compton commission report which showed that the army is by no means an innocent bystander when it comes to handing out ill-treatment.

The report told how suspected hard-core terrorists were made to stand for hours with hands against a wall, with persistent, monotonous sounds filling the room. They were fed a diet of bread and water and forced to stay awake for long periods, in attempts to make them talk.

The first national reaction appeared last week in a mixture of alarm and unconcern. Some newspapers questioned how these methods could be used in a country as civilized as the United Kingdom. Others concluded the army had to use harsh methods to get vital information that could prevent more killings.

In the House of Commons, a three-hour emergency debate on the report Wednesday proved inconclusive. The Opposition expressed some criticism but backed away from a complete split on the issue and declined to force argument into a vote.

It was only at the extreme edges of the Opposition, among independents representing Ulster minority interests, that charges were heard that the report by Ulster ombudsman Sir Edmund Compton was a whitewash.

While the government has announced that a three-man body will review the army's interrogation methods, Home Secretary Reginald Maudling said it was necessary for the army to

Offered for Sale

Children Offered For Sale

JACKSONVILLE, Fla. (AP) — A Boy Scout master and a companion, charged with trying to sell an Oklahoma City woman's two small children for $7,000 and a used car, were held without bail Wednesday in county jail.

The men were identified as William O'Hara, 37, also known as Millard Bennett, and Robert Westenhaver, 22. They were arrested after allegedly trying to make the deal with a police informer.

The children Theresa Ann Cox, 2, and her brother, Robert Donald Cox, 3, were in custody of a juvenile court after spending the night with the informer and his wife.

Police said the two men told them the mother, Dorothy Cox of Oklahoma City, was to receive $4,000 and they were to split $2,000 and keep the car.

"The FBI said O'Hara and Westenhaver and their wives had been living with Mrs. Cox and her children and the full interrelationship of the group has not been established.

Montreal Man Is Burned While Handling Explosives

MONTREAL (CP) — An unidentified man in his mid-20s may lose his eyesight as the result of an explosion in a centre-town rooming house Wednesday night.

Dr. Gerard Aumont, assistant medical director at St. Luc hospital said the victim "was in pretty bad shape when the police brought him in. He's very badly burned."

Police said the man's eyes were seriously injured and he suffered cuts to his abdomen, hands and face as well as burns.

"He was definitely manipulating explosives," police said. Police found remnants of black powder, lengths of steel pipe and several shotgun cartridges in the man's fifth-floor attic apartment.

Police said a pipe bomb made of similar components exploded at a north-end armory Oct. 29.

Other tenants heard a loud explosion at about 8:30 p.m. and when the building caretaker ran upstairs he found the young man bleeding profusely on a third-floor landing, after crawling down two flights of stairs with his overalls burning.

Andre Brisson, who was visiting a second floor apartment at the time, said "the blast shook the whole house."

A fireman who arrived on the scene shortly afterwards said there was little damage to the building itself aside from the man's apartment where the explosion created a shambles. The blast cracked the ceiling of the hallway immediately below and broke windows in the building.

Briton Sympathetic

Restless Elephant Canada's Bedmate

LONDON (CP) — British Trade Minister Michael Noble says that in dealing with the United States, "Canada is finding out what it is like to be in bed with a restless elephant."

Expressing sympathy with Canada's protests over the U.S. 10-per-cent import surcharge, Noble said Wednesday the Americans are safeguarding their own interests at the price of interdependence.

"This is a shock for us all and an especially rude shock for Canada," Noble said as he urged Canadian exporters to think more of expanding trade links with Europe, especially once Britain enters the Common Market.

Noble said Britain shared Canada's hopes that the U.S. would remove the surcharge and get "on with the settlement of our legitimate trade." He said his visits and talks with Americans suggested the U.S. was set for expansion.

"But there is a lesson for both Canada and Britain: the bigger the market is the more there is a risk if things start to go wrong."

Government May Prosecute Striking Letter Carriers

OTTAWA (CP) — Postmaster General Jean-Pierre Cote said Wednesday that illegal strike actions by letter carriers will not force him into decisions he feels are not good for the postal service.

He also told reporters following a lengthy session with postal union leaders that a decision probably will be made this weekend regarding prosecution of strikers.

Should prosecutions be started, they could be aimed at individual strikers or the union itself.

The minister said, however, that the post office does not have much recourse in law to prevent illegal walk-outs.

Even if it was decided to prosecute, this would not bring letter carriers back to work if they did not want to go, he said.

"But I think the people are more reasonable than that and they have sense."

The minister said "I think still I have the support of most of the workers in the country" in trying to work toward good labor relations in the service.

The four-hour session between the minister, his officials and the union leaders produced only about 10 minutes of real meeting between the two groups, Mr. Cote said.

"The feeling I had at certain moments during the meeting was that they were trying to tell me that everybody they were the boss," he said.

Following the session, executive members of the Letter Carriers Union of Canada went into their own meeting and would not comment on the talks.

The striking letter carriers returned to work Wednesday in anticipation of the meeting with Mr. Cote, but the minister said he had no assurance they would not go out again.

The dispute, and rotating 24-hour strikes among letter carriers in certain sections of Ontario and the Maritimes, is focused on the post office practice of hiring casual workers to fill in for union men on mail routes left unmanned because of illness or vacations.

Thurlow Plans Winter Works

Christmas will be a happier time for at least 10 Thurlow men if township council has its way.

The township will utilize its $6,681 provincial Winter Works Program allocation to hire 10 residents from the unemployed or welfare lists. The men will work under a roads department foreman if nothing up unsightly or potentially dangerous vegetation throughout the township.

Under the program, municipalities are required to initiate new schemes which will place a large emphasis on labor. The government pays 50 per cent of the cost of materials until the end of March, after which it contributed 12½ per cent until May 31. Those hired will earn between $80-$100 a week and should be able to work until well on into the winter.

The township has promised to buy three chain saws to facilitate the work.

In other council business Wednesday, a bylaw regulating the use of land for storage of used m o t o r vehicles was proposed. The bill would require that damaged or broken down vehicles be kept indoors unless the owner has a scrap or second hand dealer's license.

Deputy reeve Borden Forsythe said council has been powerless to act when residents complained of offensive debris.

Council discussed a tentatives road program for the next five years, although it was reluctant to make any permanent decisions. Conditions and revenue are too unpredictable to accurately forecast the future, it said.

418 Wing Meet Hosts

- Belleville 418 Wing RCAF Association will be host for the bi-annual Quinte Region al conference on Saturday at their clubrooms, 4th concession of Ameliasburgh.

At this time a regional vice-president will be elected by delegates from Peterborough, Oshawa, Kingston, Smiths Falls and the local wing.

While attending the RCAFA national convention in Saskatoon, 418 president Ed Kerkbeck was asked to arrange to hold the meeting in Belleville with the possibility of a local member being a candidate for the office of regional vice-president.

Registration starts at 9:30 and at the conclusion of the days business the inter-wing darts competition is scheduled.

Chimney Workers' Condition Serious

Two workmen remain in Belleville General Hospital, suffering from massive burns received during an industrial accident at the Hastings Manor old people's home Wednesday morning.

Ontario Provincial Police have identified the two men as Jacques Bélanger, 35, of 7383 Bert Street, Montreal, and Jean Guy Gougeon, 19, of 17 Leslie Hall Street, Pt. Gatineau, P.Q.

Bélanger has been listed in critical condition, suffering from a hospital spokesman describes as "extensive burns to his face, neck, hands, arms, back and legs". It is anticipated he would be transferred to another hospital if he is removed from the critical list.

His partner, Gougeon, suffering from burns to his face, and both legs has been listed in fair condition.

The men were applying a curing compound 15 feet above the ground in a chimney at the rear of the manor, A spark, believed to have originated from an electrical short-circuit, ignited the silica-sand compound in the heated pot.

Not marked flammable, the material packages contained a warning to keep the ingredients away from open flames.

An official of the house said the two Quebec provincial residents were employees of Francis Hankin Company of Toronto. The old peoples' residence was spending $5,000 to convert its heating system from coal to gas.

Work in the boiler room began last week and was expected to be completed by Thursday. The pair were putting finishing touches to the interior of the chimney when the fash fire occurred.

Department of labor officials have been called in to assist OPP with investigations.

Training Trailers For CN Employees

Canadian National has added a new dimension to its employee training program with the introduction of the first two units in a series of mobile training centres contained in standard highway trailers.

The classrooms on wheels have been designed specifically to provide on-the-job training to CN yard office and carload e n t e r p r i s e personnel across Canada who will be working with the advanced data systems soon to be implemented as part of the railway's computerized traffic reporting and control system (TRACS).

Railway officials say the TRACS network will be implemented gradually over an 18-month period starting next January. Using the latest computer technology, it will simplify and transmit more quickly the thousands of pieces of information reported daily on the railway's car reconsignment and other entire system.

Each trailer is 44 feet long, eight feet wide and fully air-conditioned. The training units are divided into two sections — one containing a modern, fully operational data communications system and the other a classroom with accommodation for up to 10 students at a time.

As innovation is the capability of the mobile data communications system to be connected to "line" with CN's main computer in Montreal, providing those employees being trained with actual operating experience.

CN officials say the fully equipped training units offer greater flexibility in site of transfer. They will be moved from one location to another on "line" as yard, back service or over the highway pulled by a regular tractor. The trailers will replace present mobile training facilities employed in converted passenger cars.

Car Aflame

Belleville firemen were called to 102 Hamilton Drive at 6 p.m. yesterday to put out a fire in a car owned by Fred Davis.

Fire Prevention Posters Posted

Leo Culhane can't help admiring prizewinning posters submitted by these two grade five students. The artists, Sandra Hasselfeld, 10, of 53 Plaza Square, a student at Harry J. Clarke School, and Dwane Barratt, 9, of 5 May Avenue, a pupil at Parkdale School, each won $25 in the annual Fire Safety poster contest promoted by the Fire Prevention Bureau of the Belleville Fire Department. A total of 250 posters was received from 11 of which were on display at Quinte Mall. The top posters will be forwarded to the Ontario Fire Chief's Association for entry in the Canada-wide contest in February.

Obituaries and Funerals

DR. WILLIAM S. ELLIOTT .

EAST PALESTINE, Ohio (Special)—Dr. William Scottie Elliott, 64, a prominent physician and surgeon here for 32 years, died suddenly of a heart ailment at his home.

Dr. Elliott, son of Mr. and Mrs. Sam Elliott, Tweed, was born on May 26, 1907.

The Rotary club's Man of the Year, named last February, was stricken shortly after his evening meal.

He had conferred only last week with Doctor Peter Cibula, Lisbon heart specialist.

A director of the First National Bank, East Palestine, since January of 1951, he was elected vice-president in Jan., 1968, a position he had continued to fill.

He was a member of the Columbiana County and Ohio Medical associations, was active at the East Palestine Country Club and had been medical advisor for the Board of Health for many years.

He received his medical degree from Queen's University Medical School in Kingston, Ontario, and had served three years internship at New, York Polyclinic hospital before beginning his medical practice.

He came to East Palestine in 1939 from Byesville in Guernsey County. Several years later he became a partner with the late Dr. Charles F. Kissinger, who died approximately two years ago.

Dr. Elliott also had served with the U. S. Air Force Medical Corps during World War II and was a member of the American Legion.

Not only is he survived by his wife, the former Jane Hall, whom he married May 25, 1940, he also leaves two sons, W. Scottie, Jr. of East Palestine, and Eden of Petersburg, a daughter, Mrs Sherry Tects of Fairfield, Conn., a brother Lincoln of Tweed, Ontario, a sister, Gladys of Edmonton, Alta., and three grandchildren.

MRS DELLA GRACE LYON

A resident of Green Gables Nursing Home for the past three months, Miss Della Grace Lyon, died Wednesday in Belleville General Hospital after a brief illness.

Daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Robert Y. Lyon, she lived in Ottawa all her life before coming to Belleville and had been employed as a clerk with the federal government for 20 years.

She was a member of the Women's Missionary Society, the Eastern Star Lorraine Chapter and the International Order of Foresters.

She leaves a brother, Fred R. Lyon, 49 McDonald Gardens, Belleville, and a sister, Mrs. Doug (Dorothy) MacDonald of Calgary. Another brother, H. Alva Lyon and two sisters, Mrs. Clara Gaudry and Miss Claudia Lyon predeceased her.

The funeral will be held Saturday at 11:30 a.m. in the chapel of the Hulse and Playfair Funeral Home, Ottawa. A member of St. Andrew's Presbyterian Church in Ottawa, she will be interred in Pinecrest Cemetery.

The funeral for Harry Green of Belleville was conducted Wednesday afternoon in the chapel of Grant Funeral Home.

Officiating was Rev. Laurie Sutherland. Interment took place in Belleville Cemetery.

Bearers were Robert and Douglas Green, his nephews, and Stanley Sheppard, Robert Miles, Vernon Weir and Leonard Sweet.

MRS. THOMAS DRUMMEY
MISS HELEN WHITE
Marysville

A double funeral was held Nov. 15 at Holy Name of Mary Church, Marysville, for Mrs. Mary Irene Drummey and Miss Helen White, who were sisters.

Rev. William Dwyre officiated at the funeral mass and Rec. C. Soeren and Rev. J. O'Neil were also present in the sanctuary. Interment was in the parish cemetery.

Bearers for Mrs. Drummey were three sons-in-law, Jack Herring, Ralph Spicer, Jack Roach, and three grandchildren, Nicholas, Larry and John Whalen.

MRS. RICHARD DOREEN

The funeral for Mrs. Eliza Doreen was held Nov. 15 in Christ Church, Tyendinaga. Rev. Cyril Betts officiated and interment was in Christ Church Cemetery.

Bearers were Mrs. Doreen's six grandsons, Alvin, Franklyn, Winston, Alden, Ralph and Louis Maracle.

JAMES DONALD DAWSON
Deseronto

The funeral for James Donald Dawson was held Nov. 19 at White and Morris Funeral Chapel, Deseronto.

Rev. William Henry officiated and interment was in Deseronto Cemetery.

A Masonic service was held by officials of Craig Lodge, AF and AM 401 on Nov. 18.

Rabies Outbreaks Not Predictable

Rabies outbreaks in Hastings county have not reached epidemic proportions, but there is no way of predicting whether or not it will spread to the uncertainties with the health of animals branch here said today.

Dr. J. F. McCorquodale identified two pockets, one in Hawdon township and one in Thurlow near the eastern outskirts of Belleville, where rabies has been reported.

Between April 1 and Sept. 30 this year rabies was identified in 25 animals in Hastings county. Four foxes were found to be infected, as well as one cat and one cow.

The situation is more serious in Lennox and Addington county, where free rabies clinics are now being held.

The neighboring county had 16 cases of rabies between the first of April and end of September. Most cases involved foxes and three cases per.

Dr. McCorquodale said he plans no free clinics for Hastings this year unless the situation worsens.

Librarian Appointed

PICTON (Staff) — A former public school librarian, Mrs. Harold Creasy, RR4, Picton, has been appointed as librarian at Picton public library, succeeding Miss K Leech who retired earlier this year.

Mrs. Creasy will head a staff of five full-time library employees and two part-time student workers.

She is the fourth head librarian recorded since the establishment of the Picton library in 1907. Others include Mrs. Ethel Bleecker, 1907 to 1936, Miss Eleanor Holmes, 1936 to 1945, and Miss M. K. Keech, 1945 to 1971.

Picton public library under the Ontario Libraries Act came in 1965 when it was chosen as the town's centennial project. The building was completed in 1966 and the children's section library opened in 1967.

New librarian Valerie Creasy has taught library subjects at Sandhurst Public School in recent years and was a public school teacher for 14 years.

City Skiers Promised More Time

More time on the slopes is the promise given by the Batawa Ski Club to prospective members of the Belleville Recreation Areas Committee ski program.

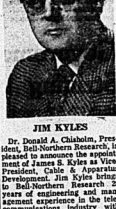
For a fee of $6, the Batawa club will guarantee one hour of instruction a week and two hours of ski practice each day, spread over a period of eight weeks. In addition, one evening a week will be set aside for an equipment check by the club's instructors. The recreation - arena committee is responsible for transporting members to the skiing site.

Batawa president John Cormack expects 100 students here for the classes each morning for beginners' classes and 75 advanced students Tuesday, evenings. Thursday evening will also be available for practice if needed.

Registration for the new program begins Monday. The club will have a rope tow in operation this winter with a T-bar slated for the following year. Clubhouse facilities are described as excellent and protection for the slopes has been given foremost attention.

Appeal Total

Total of contributions and pledges to the United Appeal, as of Thursday, Nov. 18, is $108,450.



Target for the appeal is $145 000.

Suds and scrub did not offer attractions for thieves who raided Woodland Cleaners car wash at the corner of Farley Avenue and Dundas Street, last night.

Two coin boxes were pried off the car wash walls.

Amount taken has not been estimated.

Loyalist Board OKs On-campus Drinking

Pub nights can now become regular functions at Loyalist College, with board of governors' approval for two functions a month with a liquor permit.

The first was held in the cafeteria Wednesday night with music provided by students, dancing, and beer and liquor available on a special events permit.

Before the board sanctioned use of Loyalist facilities for the purpose, pub nights had been held at the Shrine Club and the Four Seasons.

Now, with overhead reduced, all profits will go to the student association to be applied to other activities.

Now in the planning stage is a dance Dec. 15 and the liquor permit for that event has already been obtained.

Reproduction of Atlas Printed Here

A best-seller that circulates in exclusive circles has just been turned out by the Mika Silk Screening company in Belleville.

Nick Mika has specialized in reproducing out-of-print books of Canadian history as well as the illustrated "classic" series on Ontario cities, written and illustrated by his wife and himself.

So the old atlases were a natural for reproduction. The Mikas thought they would appeal to historically-minded residents of the counties involved, and perhaps to libraries and schools who cannot afford the current going price of $255 for an original copy. But they misjudged their market. The atlas of Frontenac and Lennox and Addington, brought out Nov. 10, has enjoyed phenomenal sales among lawyers, surveyors and real estate brokers.

The reason — it is a necessary tool of their profession, containing as it does a map of every township with numbered lots and the names of their owners in 1878.

"We've had requests from lawyers from as far away as Edmonton," said Mrs. Mika. "They say they need it to working on property transfers."

The Mikas produced 1,000 copies of the atlas, each numbered, and sold 240 copies in the first three days after publication. The only advertising was by word of mouth among members of the legal and surveying professions.

To produce the facsimile copy of the atlas, the Mikas began by buying two original copies. Two were needed because some pages in the originals were too damaged to be photographed for reproduction. The original atlases had to be taken apart for photographing and then rebound. Only thing omitted from the 1971 printing is a map of Canada, not pertinent to the counties involved. A forward has been added, but otherwise, the volume is an exact copy of all the maps, illustrations and text of the original.

Each county atlas printed in 1878 began with a history of the area and this has been faithfully reproduced.

County atlases were prestige items on farmhouse parlor tables in Victorian times. They began in the United States, where post - pioneer farmers enjoyed the feeling of substance they got from seeing their names on their lots on a township map. The more affluent paid a higher prepublication rate to have a picture of themselves or their farm buildings and animals included in the volume.

These line-drawings are masterpieces of primitive art, with stiff-legged cows and bloated hogs lined up in backyards so the envious neighbors could count the exact number of animals in the herd.

The J. H. Meacham Company in Toronto printed 37 county atlases, covering most of inhabited Ontario at that time.

Now in production at Mika Studios is the county atlas for Hastings and Prince Edward. It is expected to be out in January.

The Mikas have not yet decided whether to continue with their atlas project, but if they do there are many more waiting for reproduction. And the price of a facsimile is a fraction of the current cost of an original. The new volume sells for $17.50.

Builders Don't Like New Bylaw

The city's new multiple-dwelling bylaw is too restrictive according to the Quinte Home Builders' Association.

In a proposed letter to city council read last night at the association's monthly meeting at Sun Luck Gardens, members were critical of new parking requirements which, they say, will severely hamper the size and design of apartment buildings.

Builder Maurice Rollins interprets the new bylaw to mean that a six-plex dwelling constructed on a lot 60 feet by 110 feet could only be 31 feet wide and 31 feet deep. Under the old bylaw, such a building would be 32 feet by 50 feet.

He was addressing his remarks to guest speaker John Miller, solicitor for the city of Belleville. Mr. Miller said that the discrepancy was strictly a matter of interpretation and he will gladly seek changes if council finds the bylaw inadequate. It is currently awaiting final approval from the Ontario Municipal

The association attacked a section of the bylaw dealing with parking between the street and a building and saying that circumstances often made it impossible to avoid such a situation. Council hopes to restrict parking to the sides and rear of apartment dwellings.

The home builders also took issue with a new requirement which stipulates that driveways and parking lots must be paved at the time of construction. In the past, builders have delayed paving until a year or so later when the purchaser has accumulated enough funds to bear the additional cost.

Mr. Miller reported that bylaw 9113 "was designed to rectify a number of housekeeping problems" arising from a lot of "public clamor, manufactured or otherwise," Belleville residents now have a "greater consciousness of bylaws" and are "studying their mechanisms."

He said that the problems associated with the new parking requirements "revert back to dollars." While conceding that they may be more bothersome, they are necessary if public demands are to be met.

When asked why new bylaws deal only with current building requirements, Mr. Miller revealed that council is reluctant to pass retroactive laws since its prosecuting staff is not sufficient. "As a result there are buckets of cases on hand where older buildings are violating dwelling bylaws."

Dr. Peter Gordon White

Flat Robbed

Tenants living above the apartment of Mrs. Carol White, 67 Stanley Street, may have scared away thieves who broke into the apartment, while the Whites were away.

Sometime between 6.30 p.m. and 10.35 p.m. Tuesday, thieves broke into the apartment and stole a $150 chest of silver and $2 in cash.

Her neighbors, who heard a noise from below, apparently scared the intruders away when they headed downstairs to investigate.

Dr. White Speaker For Anniversary

As guest speaker to highlight the occasion of the 150th anniversary of Bridge Street United Church, Peter Gordon White, secretary of the board for Christian Education, will address the congregation Sunday, Nov. 21 at 11 a.m.

Rising through the framework of the United Church, Dr. White is an educator, author, theologian and editor of the United Church publication New Curriculum.

Dr. White, after holding numerous positions with the church, including assistant editor of the Department of Church School Publications and field secretary for the Christian Education in the Manitoba Conference, has been given the new responsibility of developing adult leadership in the United Church.

He has been a sessional lecturer for the University of Toronto, and has taught communications in Zambia, Africa.

He is now conducting lectures for continuing education for ministers and lay people, and in the past has taught in all parts of Canada and the United States.

PICTON (Staff) — The annual 4-H Awards Night will be held Friday, November 26 at the Wellington Consolidated School representing the conclusion of the 4-H agricultural projects for 1971.

Trophies and awards will be presented to all 4-H club members who have completed projects.

Early Atlas Reproduced

Mrs. Nick Mika checks a volume of the county atlas for Frontenac and Lennox and Addington, first printed in 1878 and now reproduced by Mika Studio. The large book is the fourth facsimile of historical works brought out by the Mikas, and another, the Hastings and Prince Edward Atlas, is in production.

Candidate to Deliver Complaint

TRENTON (Staff) — The Prince Edward - Hastings Liberal candidate George Cunningham will travel to Ottawa in an effort to determine the long delay some unemployed experience in receiving their cheques from the Kingston office.

Tuesday a meeting of the Prince Edward - Hastings association executive adopted a motion requesting Mr. Cunningham investigate reports of recipients having to wait as long as six weeks for claims to be paid after registering for benefits. He will also endeavor to learn why some recipients complain about having to file claims a number of times due to papers reported to be mislaid at the Kingston unemployment insurance office.

A motion proposed by Reeve Jack Bush of Sidney township was also adopted calling for the minister of agriculture to investigate the delay in payment of farm credit loans after they have been approved. A motion requesting the construction of an all - seasons recreation centre in the Prince Edward-Hastings riding was sanctioned and forwarded to the minister of transport.

The new riding president, Anthony Daicar of Batawa thanked the members of the executive for attending his first meeting and told them he intends setting meetings of the executive for different areas of the riding during the winter months. Mr. Daicar noted that anyone wishing to present a resolution for submission to the convention in Ottawa in February should have it in the hands of their local chairman by Dec 10 or mail it directly to him at Batawa. The convention is being held in the Skyline hotel in Ottawa Feb. 4,5 and 6.

More on Nov. 11

One of the most interesting of this year's Remembrance Day stories was the World War 1 naval experiences of Picton Gazette publisher Lindley Calnan as told by our Picton correspondent, Margaret Haylock. Mr. Calnan, who has been publisher of the Prince Edward County newspaper for an astonishing 50 years, witnessed the surrender of the German fleet as a young sub-lieutenant aboard HMS Ajax.

As a newspaperman Mr. Calnan naturally is very much concerned with contemporary affairs, but few have so many memories of such a span of years as he does. He feels too that November 11 is becoming "less and less an occasion for remembrance of sacrifice," although this was not a matter of callousness or indifference but rather of ignorance.

Some are of the opinion that Remembrance Day should be a school day like any other, with the two-minute silence at 11 a.m. Certainly that way the young people would be made more aware of the sacrifices made. Belleville Mayor Russell Scott, on the other hand, says he would not be averse to Nov. 11 being a full holiday, but then that would place more responsibility on the public to observe the ceremonies.

Mr. Calnan, for his part, believes it is the duty of parents and the school system to teach the rising generation about the service and the sacrifice of veterans and those who gave their lives. Unlike Mr. Calnan, though, Mayor Scott thinks there is a resurgence of feeling toward Remembrance Day. He says more are present at the Cenotaph services than in years past. This is encouraging and we hope that interest in it will be maintained in future by all age groups. The sacrifices made ensured that we have a free society today.

The P.M. and Travel

In his latest travels Prime Minister Trudeau has been speaking of the aspirations of youth, and he suggests that much of contemporary thought by youth is directed toward the premise that there should be something else to life besides working at a desk or assembly line from nine to five.

For instance, shouldn't a fellow take a year off and travel round the world? (Mr. Trudeau of course did that sort of thing when he was young, and of course still does). Or "hunt around Canada?" Well, there is a fair bit of this sort of thing going on these days, what with cheap air fares across the Atlantic, not to mention a degree of government and community assistance for hitchhikers at home.

Really, it is a pity more of us cannot see more of the world outside Canada, outside North America in fact. No one continent can claim to be the hub of the universe, yet the majority of us are tied for one reason or other to the country, even the community, of our birth. Around this universe there are incalculable riches of the cosmic and physical world: sights and sounds and human contacts that uplift the spirit. But only a comparatively few get to see them; the demands of home and family and job effectively shackle us. We remember. The lucky of it all is that with the money laid out on mortgages, cars, and all the other things we deem necessary to the domestic scene, some of those places we only dream about would in fact be within our grasp.

The young at least have an opportunity to do these things, see these places, before they settle down. But then they too must have the means to carry out such a plan. Some even do it without the means, but this involves a degree of parasitism that is disagreeable.

It is an interesting theory the Prime Minister brings up. It is one often propounded by Toronto columnist Richard Needham. It is possible even to find some middle ground, getting from country to country without being extravagant and on the other hand, without stumming it either. Certainly it would be a much more interesting world if more people were able to move around in this fashion.

Strange Rationale

Such is the perversity of human psyche that it is all right for the IRA terrorist to kill or maim police and soldiers with his machine gun, but if the latter use any degree of psychological or physical pressure in interrogating suspected terrorists there is a big fuss, the government establishes a commission to investigate, and it concludes that such methods constitute 'physical ill-treatment."

Disenchanted with Policy

Government Getting It From Its Own Members

By RICHARD JACKSON
OTTAWA — Hey, what is going on?

Liberals lashing the Liberal government with scorn.

In the Senate, Liberals warn Liberals in the Commons — where Liberal policies are made — that the public opinion polls are correct: the government IS losing the support of the taxpayers.

If it were Conservatives publicly feuding and putting it all on the record, well . . . have not they almost always?

Or if the New Democrats were cowing, as they historically have done, more recently and understandably with their ways of leftist wafflers — mocking at what they laugh-ingly call their Centre and Right, well . . . what else is new?

But Liberals!

Always so obsessed with the "team spirit" in victory and defeat alike, they all stick together like unpoured glue in the pot.

First there was Quebec Easterner Senator Senator Paul Desruisseau.

He started the Liberal self-beating by publicly airing still continuing debate on the parlous state of the economy.

"Our Government . . . should immediately pull back from continuous attempts to force business and industry to meet the political and social objectives of government.

"Prime purpose of the private sector of the economy is to generate growth with its accompanying employment.

"Government attempts to make it a vehicle for political ambitions will, in the end, destroy it."

Then on came Toronto Senator Daniel Lang, former treasurer and campaign chairman for the federal Liberals in Ontario and fund raiser in chief for former Prime Minister Lester Pearson.

A card-carrying Liberal if there ever was one.

But you should have heard Senator Lang lay it on them.

His charge: the Trudeau government had alienated the business, financial, industrial and commercial community with its fantastically complicated tax legislation; price Mackasey's labor laws and Ronald Basford's competition regulations; its new buddy-buddy relationship with the Soviet and its "careless and inconsidered relations with the U.S."

It was widely believed, Senator Lang lamented, that the government "neither understands nor cares about the private sector of the economy" . . . because, as former Trade Minister C. D. Howe once said, the bureaucrats "never had to make a payroll."

Then went on Senator Lang the business, financial and industrial community was "fearful" of the increasing power of the bureaucracy which is saw as "calm, intransigent, doctrinaire and often hostile."

Worst of all, warned Senator Lang, was the damage the changing Liberal foreign policy could do, in courting Moscow while cool-shouldering Washington.

Canada and the Soviet were competitive rather than complementary in their economies, he argued, but even if they were not, and trade did boom, who could use "inconvertible rubles?"

In attacking the U.S. on his Canadian tour, Premier Kosygin was charged by Senator Lang with "an overt attempt to further drive the wedge between Ottawa and Washington."

"And with friends like that, who needs enemies?" he asked.

The government's new tax legislation he dismissed as such "technocratic and bureaucratic features" with the multiplicity of sections and subsections, that even Finance Minister Benson could not find his way through it.

The result of the Finance Minister getting lost in a daze in the tax maze was that for the first time Senate amendments already proposed, Mr. Benson and hobbling it with incomprehensible "further amendments and amendment amending amendments."

WATER OFF A DUCK'S BACK

Premier Increases His Stature as Leader

By DON O'HEARN
From The Intelligencer's Queen's Park Bureau

TORONTO—It is noticeable these days that Premier Davis is much more the man in charge than he was before the election.

This, of course, is to be expected but there is one particular reason that the premier is able to settle so comfortably into office.

Namely, that he has shown his party not only that he can win but that also he was almost certainly the best choice for the leadership in which he had such a tight run.

One can see this now and probably the bulk of the people of the party, even though they favored another candidate, probably realize it.

To take whatever assumptions are possible one can visualize Justice Minister Allan Lawrence as the leadership opponent who would have run the next best campaign.

An Allan Lawrence campaign would have been vigorous and aggressive. Mr. Lawrence has long shown that this is his political style. It also probably would have been a campaign with considerable imagination.

But one can see now there most likely would have been one feature of a Lawrence campaign which would have given quite a different character to the whole election.

Leading his party in an election he almost certainly would have been full of these answers.

But offering them he would have been building up the problems they represented, and in turn registering on the public mind that we were really beset by serious problems.

A great strength of Davis, of course, was that he didn't dwell on problems. He gave them passing recognition, but in a manner that lent assurance he would contain them.

Of the 46 leadership opponents, Darcy McKeough as leader would be calculated to come across as another John Roberts without the Robarts stature. No matter how modest he may be, and quite often he can be, he's through has the image of a patrician. It is also quite probable he would not have been able to keep out of tangles with his opposition. He is a fighter who would find it hard to maintain patience and reserve in a campaign.

Bob Nixon would have been for God and a good life, but from what he has shown would have offered little meat for the electorate to chew on.

And Bert Lawrence as a man of eminent reason, probably would have recognized victory in many opposition points with the pledge that if elected he would provide answers.

This can be a trait one expects in a politician on a day to day basis, but it never yet has worked in elections.

Baltimore Too—Nurses Warned

Downtown USA Unsafe at Night

Letter in The Globe and Mail

It is true that the Johns Hopkins Hospital is a prestige institution where exciting things happen, but any Canadian nurse thinking of a move should take more than the pay-packet into account.

I have gone to Hopkins to lecture every spring since 1963, and have watched the slums in the city. People flee to the suburbs at 5 p.m., and a car is indispensable because public transportation is poor. There is no place to live near by.

The downtown streets are not safe at night. One of my daughters is attending the University of Maryland medical school a couple of miles from Hopkins. If she has to walk the two well-lit downtown blocks from the residence to the University Hospital or the library after sundown she is supposed to phone for an escort.

As for the cost of living, Baltimore is one of the most expensive cities in the United States according to official statistics. Compared to Toronto, cars and appliances are cheaper, groceries are more expensive, liability insurance is double Toronto rates, and I notice my daughter still does considerable shopping for clothes on her visits to Toronto.

I hope some venture some girls go down there and find real professional satisfaction—particularly if they are unhappy or unemployed here — but I do want to emphasize that recruiters sometimes stress only one side of the picture. The whole pattern of living and pace of work is stressful, and that's why you earn the higher pay.

Minor Soccer Thanks Its Supporters

Editor,
The Intelligencer.

As president of the Belleville and District Minor Soccer Association may I express the appreciation of our organization to all those who helped in so many ways in the past season. To all the coaches, assistant coaches, referees, managers, and officials our deepest thanks.

Like all organizations Minor Soccer has its problems, but with the good will and co-operation of all those sincerely interested in the sport there is no reason that the game cannot continue to grow over the years.

We owe a deep debt of gratitude to those ever cheerful and obliging members of the city Recreation Department who always willingly undertake the various tasks we place before them. A sincere "Thank you to Lorne Williams, Cliff Beich and Wilma Sammons for a great deal of time devoted to Minor Soccer.

We are especially indebted to our Police Chief Doug Crosbie for so willingly filling in at a moment's notice for Mr. David Blandford of the Quinte Mall, who due to sudden illness was prevented from acting as guest of honor at our closing ceremonies. Chief Crosbie cheerfully gave up part of his day off to be with us and his presence was greatly appreciated by all the boys.

We will be running an official ad in The Intelligencer to name and publicly thank all our sponsors for the past season. We end our activities this season with a dinner and dance at the Oddfellows Hall on Friday, November 19, at which time Alderman Donald Soutter and his wife have promised to attend as guests of honor.

Bleecker Avenue's Future

Editor,

Regarding the widening of Bleecker Avenue I think it is a foolish idea. It would be one more much traffic on Bleecker as there used to be.

I suggest that council do a study of Belleville's traffic patterns before they make a costly mistake like the Spadina expressway.

Belleville's citizens are more interested in good government than in a council whose members try to make themselves look good by enlarging Belleville.

Bleecker Ave. is one of the nicest streets in the city and the city's beauty is being destroyed by impulsive development.

MRS. RUBY LOTT

EDITOR'S NOTE: As pointed out in Tuesday's Intelligencer, Council is studying further submissions from the consultants which may involve an alternate route including Bleecker and Herchimer. Police Chief Crosbie is quoted as saying "there is simply not the traffic to warrant making Bleecker a four-lane route". Councilmanwhile has agreed that before plans are finalized a public meeting should be held to determine the views of area residents.

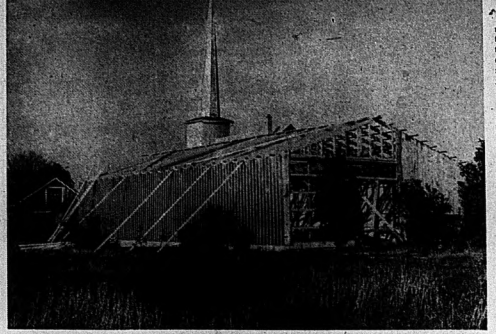
Skatathon Friday



PICTON (Staff) — The first annual Ele Skatathon, sponsored by the Picton Kinsmen club will be held this weekend at the County Centre.

Pledges are being made "per unit" with a unit equal to two laps of the rink.

Money earned by this event will be used for community service projects with 50 per cent of the funds donated to the Picton and District minor hockey association.

Houses Stripped Of Appliances

PICTON (Staff) — Members of the Picton detachment of the Ontario Provincial Police this week are investigating the theft of household items and appliances valued at about $3,000. They were removed from two Prince Edward county residences in the absence of homeowners.

The first theft reported is believed to have occured on Nov. 13, when the home of Mrs. Blanche Cane, RR1, Carrying Place, was entered and more than $2,000 worth of household items removed. Mrs. Cane had left her home the night before the theft occurred and discovered it when she returned the following day.

A second theft of household effects coupled with malicious damage occurred the night of Nov. 15 at the residence of Morley Moran, RR2, Ameliasburg. Among the articles taken were a color television set and a stereo set. The interior of the house was damaged and numerous household effects smashed. Police estimated the value of items removed, coupled with the damage, at more than $2,000.

Police today declined to reveal how the thief or thieves gained entrance to either of the homes robbed during the past week. They gave no indication that the thefts are connected.

Ameliasburg Museum Expanding

The expansion, to provide 1,800 square feet of additional display space, follows the museum board's busiest season so far. Attendance was over the 5,000 mark for the six-month period according to curator Harry Bloder.

The capital expense involved in the construction of a separate building 30 by 60 feet is the cost of the material — $1,600, while much of the labor will be donated by interested residents. The extra space will accommodate more authentic memorabilia being made available by the descendants of early settlers in the region.

In the new building the curator proposes to experiment with action displays which involve live demonstrations of a variety of the tasks pioneers performed in establishing their homes in a new country. Mr. Bloder plans to show volunteers using old fashioned machines and tools in making butter, weaving material for clothes and related endeavors.

The museum complex originated in the 100 - year - old former Methodist Church building in 1968. Since then the fully furnished pioneer's log house was reconstructed and opened to the public on the premises. Small animals and fowl, both wild and domestic, are kept in pens in the park in the complex as an attraction for children in the company of adult visitors.

Township officials look upon the complex as a project worthy of the 25 cents it costs each person (per capita) in the municipality, museum treasurer William Nightingale observed in reporting the expansion.

New Executive

Director for Sophiasburg is George Foster and directors for Ameliasburg are Klass Werkhoven and Alfred Cairns.

Miss Santa Claus Parade To Be Selected Nov. 26

It won't be any mirror, mirror on the wall, that will determine who's the fairest of them all, much to the chagrin of the six-man team of judges responsible for choosing this year's Miss Santa Claus Parade.

After three hours of widespread opinion, the teams of judges who represent city hall, theatre guild and news media, came up with the system that would most fairly compare each of the contestants.

Categories for competition will include poise, charm, appearance, presentation and over-all effect.

The eight girls from local high schools, Loyalist College, Centre Hastings and Prince Edward Collegiate, will be asked to use three minutes of time on stage to give whatever presentation they choose.

Members of the committee felt that the impromptu games, and questions were a "tired, worn out method" and that each girl would be represented more fairly by "doing her own thing."

The committee also expects a contestant from Albert College, and the Ontario School for the Deaf.

Held the night before the Santa Claus Parade, Friday, Nov. 26, the pageant will take place in the Centennial High School Theatre, and for the winner, will mean the start of a long, busy weekend.

Miss Santa Claus Parade will naturally be appearing in the parade, and as added duties, will be asked to go with Santa Claus to the Belleville General Hospital and meet with the children.

Later in the evening she will be given a night on the town, escorted by her choice in the company of members of the Santa Claus Parade Committee.

Amid the full program, designed for the evening, the Centennial High School Concert Orchestra will be performing and refreshments will be served afterward in the cafeteria.

Each of the girls who enters the competition will be presented with an array of prizes and special gifts will be presented to the Queen.

If any secondary school has not been contacted for entrants into the competition, they may contact Frank Foley Chairman of the Santa Claus Parade Committee.

The evening is designed to begin the weekend of fun and the public is welcome to come and enjoy the festivities of Santa Claus spirit, beginning with the beauty pageant, Friday, Nov. 26.

Pupil-teacher Ratio Below Average Here

The pupil - teacher ratio in Hastings and Prince Edward separate schools stood at 22.1 to 1 in 1970-71, trustees learned Tuesday.

Two factors account for the relatively low ratio: the Nicholson Senior School ratio of 18 pupils to each teacher and the number of schools with fairly steady low enrolments and consequent abnormally low ratios. But these schools must have a minimum number of teachers to operate at accepted standards.

Average pupil - teacher ratio in separate schools across the province is about 24.5 to 1, the report to the trustees said.

In 1968-69, the year individual boards were merged into the county system, the separate school ratio for Hastings and Prince Edward was 25 to 1.

During 1969-70, the total pupil enrolment increased by 98 pupils to 2,961 and an additional 27 teachers were hired. This lowered the ratio to 21.9 to 1.

The increase in staffing during 1969-70 was not proportional to the increase in enrolment," noted the report.

During the school year 1970-71, the pupil enrolment rose to 4,022 and the staff was reduced by about 7 to 174.4. This gave the average ratio of 23.1 to 1.

WEDDINGS

SALISBURY — YOUNG

On Saturday, November 13, Elizabeth Ann, youngest daughter of Mrs. T. G. Young, Belleville, and the late Mr. T. G. Young became the bride of Claude Dale Salisbury, youngest son of the late Mr. and Mrs. Norman Salisbury, RR 7 Belleville at the Church of St. Michael the Archangel, Belleville.

Rev. Father K. Stitt performed the marriage ceremony followed by Mass. The wedding music was rendered by Miss Dorothy Grant.

Given in marriage by her brother, Thomas H. Young of the Armed Forces in Calgary, the bride wore a street length dress of chiffon organza satin embossed in pale gold with matching small veiled hat. She carried a bouquet of talisman roses.

Mrs. Dekna Thompson was matron of honour wearing a street length dress of crepe in multi colors of green with matching accessories. She carried a bouquet of yellow and white daisies.

The reception was held at the home of the bride's second eldest brother and his wife, Mr. and Mrs. Peter J. Young, 18 Hendersyn Blvd., Belleville. The bride's mother greeted the guests wearing a street length dress of turquoise crepe, matching accessories and corsage of white mums. Mrs. Harley Joyce, eldest sister of the bridegroom assisted in receiving the guests wearing a navy and white double knit suit, matching accessories and corsage of pink mums.

Mr. and Mrs. Salisbury will reside in Hamilton, Ont.

FINCH — STEWART

RYLSTONE — Grace Chapel, Stirling was the setting for the recent wedding when Maureen Berenice Stewart, younger daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Donald W. Stewart, RR 3, Campbellford became the bride of Morley Ralph Finch, son of Mr. and Mrs. Cecil Finch, RR 4, Marmora. Rev. Gerald Greenaway was performed by Garry Robinson of Bancroft and wedding music was provided by Miss Carolyn Merrick who accompanied the soloist Miss Vickie Hay.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride wore a floor-length gown of white peau de soie with an overlay of velvet flocked nylon. The bodice featured a jejeel neckline and sheer lantern sleeved sleeves, which were also adorned with a band of peau de soie. Her crown type headdress was encrusted with crystal sequins which held in place a long nylon veil. She carried a cascade bouquet of red carnations interwoven with green trailing ivy.

The maid of honor, Mrs. Gary Torrance, sister of the bride was attired in a long peasant styled gown of rust polyester crepe having a scoop neckline finished with a flounce, and an A-line skirt featuring deep ruffles. A narrow rose velvet ribbon detailed the empire waistline and formed a bow at back. She wore a cluster of roses in her hair and carried a nosegay of mint green baby mums and pink carnations with mint green streamers.

Bridesmaids Miss Betty Lou Barnum of Kingston, cousin of the bride, Miss Constance Tucker, Toronto and Miss Lynne Spencer of Peterborough were attired identically to the maid of honor.

The two flower girls, Tammy and Tracey Finch, nieces of the bridegroom wore long dresses styled the same as the bridesmaids, but in white flocked nylon to correspond with the bride's. Both wore clusters of chiffon rosebuds in their hair and carried small nosegays similar to the bride's.

A reception was held at the Riviera Inn at Campbellford where the bride's mother received the guests wearing a moss green coat and dress ensemble with blue accessories with a corsage of yellow carnations. Assisting was the bridegroom's mother who wore a long sleeved turquoise blue dress with gold accessories and a corsage of pink carnations.

For the wedding trip to Niagara Falls and other points, the bride wore a two-piece mauve ensemble of ployester crepe with black patent shoes and purse and a corsage of pink sweetheart roses.

On return Mr. and Mrs. Finch will reside at 44 Margaret Street in Campbellford.

Social

Previous to her recent marriage, Mrs. Morley Finch (nee Maureen Stewart) was honored at miscellaneous showers given by Mrs. Gerald Barnum and Betty; by the Misses Lynne and Sue Spencer and Mrs. Robert, and by Lois Reid and Karen Andrews and Mrs. Hubert Andrews. Following the marriage the couple was entertained at a communally shower in the Sentinel Orange Hall at Petherick's Corners.

Prior to her marriage Mrs. C. Salisbury (nee Elizabeth Young) was entertained at miscellaneous showers held in her honor by Mrs. Marylin Salisbury at her home, RR 7 Belleville; by Mrs. Charleen Callery at her home, North Front St. Belleville and by Mrs. Susan Young, sister-in law of the bride at her home Arlington Ave., St. Catharines. A rehearsal party was given by the bride's mother.

Archdiocesan Council CWL Meeting

KINGSTON ARCHDIOCESAN COUNCIL, CWL

MARMORA — The region 2 meeting of the Kingston Archdiocesan Council of the Catholic Women's League was held in Sacred Heart Parish Hall, on Sunday, November 7 with 99 members, representing 14 Parish Councils, present.

Sister Catherine Foley, the church life convener for the diocese, opened the meeting with a hymn and an inspiring Scripture service, the theme of which was "the fatherhood of God".

Reports from the seven standing committees were very informative and should be a great deal of help to the parish conveners. Sister Murphy, who spoke for Mrs. Richard Martin, family life convener, pointed out that, while the family itself has changed, the Christian family still has the same role as ever.

During the intermission, members enjoyed a delicious lunch arranged by Mrs. Tom Casey; with Mrs. E. D. O'Conor and Mrs. Arther Sheridan pouring tea. A selection of folk hymns played on guitars by Mrs. W. Meehan Jr., Suzanne Meehan, Debbie VanHeuksloon, Kate O'Connor and Gail Meehan provided enjoyable entertainment.

Father James McGillvary of St. Michael's Parish in Belleville, a member of the catechetical team of the Hastings and Prince Edward Separate School Board, presented a film dealing with the generation gap between a father and son. This film pointed out that some of the questions of the young people today cannot be answered by parents because they don't understand the questions or the reasons for asking them.

He also discussed the many plans being made in this area for involvement of youth in church life.

Mrs. Breen O'Connor, the Diocesan president, urged members to become more aware of social issues, to do some research on them, form opinions and then act.

Church Groups

ST. COLUMBA WOMEN

The Presbyterian Women of St. Columba Church held their regular meeting on Monday evening based on the theme communication with an informative filmstrip and recorded commentary on the power of communication in Africa, through education, special arts, news media and the church.

The film stressed the importance of being able to listen and to receive messages and so completes the full cycle of communication between people of all nations.

Mrs. C. Vos led the worship service.

During the business session, a number of events were planned for the coming Christmas season offering every member an opportunity to enjoy the happy feeling of goodwill by communication with local people with whom members can share a kindness.

And since the theme was communication, this is a perfect time to reach out to all the women of the church who are not already members of the group, to come along to the next meeting on December 13.

Mrs. Trudy Smit reported that the nominations for the new slate of officers for the new year has been completed.

The Philips Modular 4 chassis is a marvel of electronic craftsmanship and engineering skill. It has been tested and perfected. It has also been designed so that if problems do occur, the servicing of the chassis is a snap. The technician simply has to locate the fault in one of the four circuit panels and replace it with a new one. To do so, he "unplugs" the defective unit and snaps in a new one.

Christmas Decor Highlights CWL Tea

A bright and cheerful Christmas atmosphere greeted guests at the tea and bazaar held by St. Joseph's CWL on Wednesday afternoon in the auditorium of St. Joseph's School. A Christmas tree, reindeer and other appropriate decorations in the foyer announced the theme as guests streamed in through the doorway framed by holly and evergreen branches.

Inside, evergreen branches fixed to triangular frames and brightened by poinsettia and attractive red bows adorned the walls. Red and green streamers floated across the room while a paper Santa Claus hanging from the ceiling smiled approvingly at the booth conveners doing a brisk trade.

A Christmas booth manned by Mrs. D. McKinney sold a number of attractive ornaments, candles and gifts. Aprons were sold by Mrs. Jiffen Towne and Mrs. Doris Leduc while Mrs. B. Bankey and Mrs. R. Nagode were at the sewing booth. Mrs. Hanlon presided over the knitting booth while the boutique convened by Mrs. H. Carr-Brant featured a number of eye-catching novelties. The religious booth convened by Mrs. M.-Panting included statues and medallions while books were sold by Mrs. C. Murphy. Mrs. B. Park was in charge of the bake table.

The bazaar committee was headed by Mrs. A. Eves and Mrs. H. Clarke and included Mrs. O. Kruger, Mrs. D. Burley, Mrs. C. Murphy, Mrs. M Pilon, Mrs J. Park and Mrs. B Bankey.

The main tea table was covered with a white lace cloth and centred with a miniature silver Christmas tree decorated with colored globes and surrounded by small gift-wrapped parcels. Red and green candles enhanced the table while Mrs. J. Farrell, Mrs. C. Lear, Mrs. J. Myles, Mrs. D. Wishart, Mrs. B. Walsh and Mrs. L. Bradshaw poured tea.

The small tea tables were centred with reindeer, Christmas trees and other ornaments. On the stage, against a backdrop of red plush curtains was a Santa Claus under a gold-fringed canopy with a silver Christmas tree behind.

The tea room was convened by Mrs. M. Chartrand who also acted as hostess together with Mary Lee Lotersky and Evelyn Barrett.

The kitchen was convened by Olga Allen, who along with Liz Potter, Marie Bell, Barb Healy and Lucy Clark prepared the plates of sandwiches, fruit bread and cheeses. Mrs. W. Black, Mrs. N Campbell, Mrs. M. Vasic, Margaret Lake, Jeanette Pilon and Olive Lane made tea while a large number of women helped to serve, and to replenish the tea pots.

Real Meaning of Christmas

Mrs. Marion Panting, convener of the religious booth at St. Joseph's CWL-sponsored bazaar and tea, arranges the statues on her table. The tea and bazaar were held on Wednesday afternoon at St. Joseph's School auditorium.

McMackon – Stevens

St. Thomas Anglican Church, Belleville was the setting for the Nov. 6 wedding of Dawn Christine Stevens, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John Lester Stevens, RR 5, Belleville and Bruce McMackon son of Mr. and Mrs. Fred McMackon, RR 1 Sidney BC. Rev. Peter Tett officiated, while the church organist D. Davenport provided the wedding music.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride wore a floor length gown of polyester crepe highlighted with hand appliqued satin petals with the bodice featuring a mandarin neckline and long fitted sleeves, and the back enhanced with a cathedral train. A headdress of appliqued petals caught a finger tip veil of scalloped silk illusion. She carried a cascade bouquet of English Tudor white roses mingled with ivy.

Maid of honor Miss Arleen Macpherson and the bridesmaids Miss Barbara Potter, Mrs. Linda Johnson and Mrs. Sherry House wore burgundy shade velvet in Victorian style with long full sleeves trimmed at the wrists and neck with eggshell crochet work. All wore headpieces of tiny pink and burgundy roses and carried bouquets of pink roses and ivy.

Bill McMackon, brother of the bride attended the bridegroom and the ushers were Norm Seagram, John Lask and John Stevens, brother of the bride.

A reception was held at Green Acres, the home of the bride's parents where her mother received the guests wearing a floor length gown of hot pink polyester cashmere with/matching accessories and a white orchid corsage. Assisting was the bridegroom's mother who wore a turquoise blue gown with a green orchid corsage.

On return Mr. and Mrs. McMackon will reside at 1 Richview Road, Toronto.

Home Accidents Can Be Prevented

By DORIS CLARK

An infant can wriggle off a table, slide out of a high chair, drown in two inches of bath water. Other hazards are medicines, cleaners, plastic bags — the list is a long one.

In a single year in Canada, some 600 children younger than five years die from accidents in the home. And Col. F. A. Tilson, chairman of the Council on Family Health in Canada, claims nine out of 10 home accidents can be prevented.

The adults are the ones who have to use imagination to think ahead, see what might happen, and keep it from happening.

More than half the home accidents happen on a Thursday, Friday or Saturday. Why? And safest day is Sunday! (With more than one parent around to keep an eagle eye on Junior?) Rainy or cold days are most dangerous — because the little ones are inside more?

And obedient children are less prone to accidents than disobedient ones. Well, that's understandable! — (Figures and facts are from Canada's Health and Welfare)

Dear Doris: In 1969 I wrote telling you how I had met this lady who was so good to me at first. I had bought a brand new home and spent much money on her. I did not marry her right away, so she got so miserable to me that I was frightened to stay in my own home.

Anyway, she took me for a ride and a good one at that. I went to a lawyer, signed the house over to her, which cost me more. I left her, got myself an old apartment and kept on working, living a good clean quiet life. She went back to USA.

I am so happy now as I almost went crazy paying her bills. I feel that God guided me through all this and by a miracle He gave me a chance to buy myself this lovely new home. I am lonely but I have my freedom and I am so greatly thankful to you, Doris Clark, for writing to me. You are a Godsend to people like me. — Free, White and Forty-Nine

Dear Forty-Nine: If giving up your new home was the price of freedom, then it was worth it. Glad you thought my letter — which did not agree to your letting your fiance go — was helpful. Maybe it gave you gumption to get to the lawyer!

Perhaps we do need experiences like this sometimes to make us appreciate life and learn to make the most of it, whether or not we are blessed with our own special companion.

Dear Doris: Please send me the Dutch Boy - Dutch Girl quilt pattern (20 cents enclosed).

Do you also have one that looks like a paper doll? Possibly one of the readers would have it. Any other quilt patterns would also be greatly appreciated if you have them on hand. — Handwork

Dear Handwork: I am sending the Dutch one; but I don't have any others, since I discovered that it would be pretty complicated to get into the pattern business. Mostly I am involved with patterns for living.

* * *

But I do know a private source of several of the old traditional patterns and would be glad to give the address to anyone writing in.

When writing in, allow Doris four weeks. Most private reply, which will be sent if a seven - cent - stamped, self - addressed envelope is enclosed.

Mirror of Your Mind
by JOHN CONWELL

Are kids natural human relations experts?

IT CERTAINLY seems that way at times, especially when children are compared with adults in controversies common to both. Neighboring grownups, for instance, could be feuding for years. Yet their kids' animosity toward each other, fostered by their parents, can change into friendship after a game of tag, or hide-and-seek—a simple, uncomplicated relationship that might even help the grownups get over their feud.

If living was free would we need to work?

YES. Putting food in our stomachs, clothes on our backs and a roof over our heads are perhaps the least necessary reasons for working. We must also work to prove to others that we are capable of doing more than sleeping, eating and breathing. Even more important, though, we have to work in a career, at home, or whatever, to prove to ourselves that there is more to us than simply the desire to satisfy physical functions.

YES; if he is in love with his wife, a man will fight just as hard to save his faltering marriage as would a wife under similar circumstances. It is not simply that he wants to preserve his home. Nor would a man struggle to save his marriage merely because he doesn't want to go through "all that business of getting married again." He will fight because he is in love with his wife and he wants to keep her.

Ann Landers

Lack of Respect for Deceased Disturbing

Dear Ann Landers: What has happened to dignity and respect for the deceased? I was horrified to read of the "drive-in funeral parlors" where you don't even have to get out of your car to view the remains of a loved one. I wouldn't be surprised if the next move would be a TV segment that shows all the corpses in the local mortuaries. Then people won't even have to go to the drive-ins. They can stay home, drink beer and see their loved ones on the idiot box.

Yesterday a woman I work with said: "My father's funeral was so lovely. I still feel a sense of peace." I asked her when she had buried her father. "This morning," she replied. I was shocked. If my children can't take off two or three days of work to pay their respects to me when I die, I'll feel that I did a pretty poor job as a mother.

The things that have been happening lately make me ashamed to be a member of the human race. What about you? —Outraged

Dear Out: My Chicago funeral consultant, Mr. Jules Furth, informs me that there are no drive-in mortuaries. One was opened in the South last year as a publicity stunt. Morticians all over the country were outraged by the cloddishness of the gimmick. The drive-in was closed promptly.

Insofar as your children are concerned, it's not how long they take off work when you die that matters, but how they treat you when you are living.

Dear Ann: You've helped a lot of people. Will you please help thousands more by printing my story?

I should have died eight years ago when I was 27. I might have committed suicide or refused surgery when my life depended on the removal of the large intestine and bladder. I didn't know that nearly a million North Americans had undergone that kind of surgery and now were living full and active lives. These people are "ostomates." They have had a small alteration in their route of excretion, necessitated by birth defects, cancer, and other diseases.

My problem was ulcerative colitis. The doctors operated on me and I awoke with a surprise ileostomy. Today no one could guess. Those I tell are fascinated. I have no diet or odor problems. I have earned a PhD, taught school full-time, and I have a good marriage. We camp, hike and enjoy swimming. My life has been more active and rewarding these last eight years than before the surgery.

Those who have had colostomies have outdone me. They have had babies, they compete in athletics, fly planes and practice law and medicine. I hope your readers who have had such an operation, or are considering it and need emotional support, will contact the International United Ostomy Association at 1111 Wilshire Boulevard, Los Angeles, California 90017. We have established 180 clubs and we publish an informative magazine.

No one knows better than I that a good life requires understanding, courage and a sense of humor. If one happens to have all his internal organs, so much the better, but they aren't necessary.—Carol H.—Eureka, Calif.

At Panasonic there is no such thing as an ordinary black and white television set.
We've miniaturized one so that you can hold it in the palm of your hand.
We've built some into portable FM/AM radios and cassette tape recorders.
And we've designed a space age set that spins around on its own base so you don't have to.
In fact every set we make gives the same brilliant picture that has made us the acknowledged leader in black and white TV in 120 countries.
We know, because we make all those components ourselves.
Here are five ingenious examples of the way we put them all together.

If your wife insists on space-age modern decor, or the kids are fascinated by the future, this extraordinary Panasonic 6" TV will delight everybody. Its out-of-this-world design incorporates a swivel base that lets you rotate the set a full 180°. Speed-O-Vision, a positive, tinted screen, Panasonic's advanced electro tuner and solid state performance. All in a shiny pearl gray oval cabinet. What more could you ask for, the moon? TR-005C.

The 20" set you tune when you get, then forget.
Our big screen, portable "Kingswood", with "Set and Forget" tuning, delivers the finest picture of any comparable set on the market. 21F (Intermediate Frequency) stages assure superb reception even in fringe areas.
Walnut-grained cabinet. AN-219AC.

Our 17" portable.
A great first set. A magnificent second set.
The "Northbrook" is the ideal first set. But, because it's nice to indulge yourself sometimes, try it as a second set. Its large, brilliant picture hobs makes viewing a pleasure, even from a distance. Features include Speed-O-Vision, "Set and Forget" tuning, and an earphone for private listening. AN-780.

The first portable TV that tucks down into an FM/AM radio.
If you don't like what they're playing on FM or AM just touch the top of the "Pandora". Up pops a black and white 5" television set with a picture that looks as good as the radio sounds. AC/Battery operation, solid-state dependability, removable sunshield, earphone, and rechargeable built-in batteries make this absolutely unique portable an enviable travelling companion. TR-425RC.

Our lightweight 12" set. Take it or leave it.
The "Scottsdale" is a perfect second set that also makes a perfect portable. It weighs only 16½ lbs. so even the kids can carry it. Panasonic's brilliant Aluminized picture tube, Speed-O-Vision instant picture and sound, strong VHF and UHF reception, and Panasonic reliability make this a great buy. In antique white, avocado green or harvest gold. AN-132G.

To Your Good Health

Mirror-reading Is Common

By G. C. Thosteson, MD

Dear Dr. Thosteson: Please write about mirror-reading, the child that seems to think everything is to be spelled backward and, written backward with the letters reversed. The child doesn't go to school yet but soon will.

Is this a problem to be really worried about? I talked to the doctor one time and he said just don't sorry.—Mrs. R. T.

Various distortions can occur when a child is learning to read and write, and reversal (mirror-writing and -reading) is not unusual.

This reversal tends to be corrected with proper guidance at home and at school. If some of this can be accomplished before the child starts school, so much the better.

Since some such youngsters may have an emotional problem, mirror-reading should be watched. If the problem persists after a year in school, a youngster should be checked for a condition called dyslexia, or an inability to read. About 10 to 15 per cent of school children have this problem to some degree.

In your particular case, Mrs. R. T., I doubt that anything need be done; other than casual help at home and at school, until you see how the youngster progresses in school.

By "casual help," I mean patiently showing the youngster his (or her) error. But by all means avoid scolding, derisive criticism or ridicule. Such treatment tends only to frustrate the youngster.

This mirror-reading often occurs with what is known as crossed dominance — left-handedness along with right-eyedness, or vice versa. Normally dominance for hands, eyes and feet is on the same side, but when the dominance is mixed, it creates confusion that a child has to learn to cope with.

Dear Dr. Thosteson: I have spots on my eyelids and was told that it is xanthelasma. What is that, what do you get it from, can you have the spots removed without hurting your eyesight?—Mrs. E. B. B.

Reducing cholesterol, logical as it sounds, doesn't affect the spots. So have them removed if you choose, or don't, but don't worry about them or the removal process.

Dear Dr. Thosteson: Last year before my flu shots, the nurse asked me if I was allergic to eggs or something else, I can't remember, and I said no, especially as to eggs. I eat them all the time.

Shortly after the shots, my nose itched something terrible every morning. Do you think the itching is from the shots?—Mrs. D. H.

Possibly. The other substance (besides egg) is usually an antibiotic, either penicillin or neomycin, included as a preservative. Before your next flu shots, mention this to your doctor.

Dear Dr. Thosteson: Can a diabetic donate blood? Whose blood is not acceptable for transfusions?—R. E. H.

No, diabetics are not accepted as blood donors, but they aren't alone. The list of disqualifications is quite long. Among disorders that cause rejection are malaria, syphilis, hepatitis, tuberculosis, active common cold, active allergy, heart disease, drug addiction, undulant fever, pregnancy, recent surgery, infectious mononucleosis within a year, blood disorders such as anemia or leukemia, blood pressure (systolic) under 100 or over 200. Underweight individuals or people with an elevated temperature also are rejected.

Taxation Specialists Expect New System Will Boost Prices

VANCOUVER (CP) — Canadians may have to pay more for housing and things they buy, and higher provincial taxes may be on the way as a result of tax legislation the federal government plans to implement Jan. 1.

These were among conclusions drawn by taxation specialists Wednesday at the final session of the annual meeting of the Canadian Tax Foundation.

However, Richard Bradbury probably expressed the view of many businessmen when he said he is looking forward to final implementation of the bill. He is with Annest Partners Ltd., a Toronto securities firm.

"There are several features that are not welcome and ego have had to be broken for the omelette, but if implemented, it would at least end the uncertainty that has been about for five years and we can at last get down to the job of increasing savings and capital formation and try to provide a setting for the stock market which would be more encouraging and less deceiving for those investors over the next decade than they were in the last."

There were about 50 speakers at the three-day conference devoted to a thorough analysis of the federal bill, which would alter most areas of the federal Income Tax Act.

Introduction of the bill followed presentation of a government white paper on taxation and the white paper was preceded by a royal commission. The commission headed by the late Kenneth L. Carter was formed in 1962 and issued its report in 1967.

Provincial officials, in papers presented to the conference Wednesday, said their governments may ultimately have political difficulties because of the federal bill.

They say the federal bill will reduce their revenue when the legislation is fully effective in five years and the provincial governments will get the political blame when they are forced to raise taxes.

Speakers at a panel session on the effect on real estate and securities markets said they expect rents, interest rates and prices for houses and consumer goods will go up as a result of implementation of the bill.

The bill would implement a tax on profits from sale of investments but principal residences of Canadian taxpayers would be exempt.

"This will likely increase the demand for owner-occupied housing and in the initial years it will be house prices," said Frank A. Clayton of Toronto, an economist with Canadian Real Estate Research Corp. Ltd.

The bill would sharply reduce the return an individual could expect from owning rental property and there would be a lesser decline in the profit to corporations from rental property.

"The net effect of these forces . . . will be gradual upward pressure on rents," Mr. Clayton said.

Murray D. Cox, who is with the Toronto securities firm of Bell Gouinlock Co. Ltd., said he expects interest rates to go up and the level of savings by Canadians to drop.

The bill would increase taxes for the middle class—which tends to save—and decrease taxes for low-income groups with less money to save.

An increase in total spending by Canadians would lead to higher prices because supply of consumer goods could not keep up with demand, Mr. Cox said. This would lead to higher import levels and a drop in exports because goods were in demand in Canada. The change in the foreign-trade situation would have an adverse effect on the economy.

Mr. Cox said a drop in the level of savings would also be among factors leading to increase interest rates. He said changes in sections of the tax law relating to corporations also would tend to keep interest rates high.

H. Macdonald, deputy treasurer of Ontario, said in a paper presented at a session on federal-provincial relations that the tax legislation "does not measure up to the task" of serving the interests of Confederation.

In a paper read by William Stow, an Ontario government economist, Mr. Macdonald said the legislation appears to be "a process whereby the federal government has staked out its own fiscal claim and now proposes that the provinces should do the same.

". . . But surely it is not a situation calculated to be conducive to harmonious federal-provincial fiscal relations."

Finance Minister Edgar Benson has said the provinces will receive under the new legislation the same amount they would have received under the old tax-sharing agreements. The federal government will guarantee for five years that the specified level will be maintained.

Roya Lloyd, director of the Saskatchewan government budget bureau, said several provinces will have to raise taxes after expiration of the federal guarantee.

"Five years from now we can anticipate a jump in provincial rates of tax," he said in a paper read by Craig Francis, an analyst in Mr. Lloyd's department.

"Somehow I feel that it may be a little difficult for provincial governments to convince the public that these increases are the result of the implementation of a new tax system in 1972."

The provincial government officials were not able to attend the tax conference because of conflicting dates with the federal-provincial meeting of finance ministers.

THE KEY TO DRESSING WELL: QUALITY, NOT QUANTITY

Jack Fraser presents

THE SMART SPENDER'S WARDROBE

- one Shipley suit
- one Shipley blazer
- two or three pairs of our nifty knit pants

A great wardrobe isn't a matter of a lot of clothes. It's a matter of good clothes. For instance, Jack Fraser's favourite suit, the Shipley, has the look of quiet quality that's right for evening occasions as well as day wear. And the Shipley blazer with the right selection of our terrific new knit pants gives you several outfits in one. Add them together, mix in a few interesting shirts and ties, and you've got a wardrobe that can see you through the season in style.

The Shipley suit $105.00

The Shipley Blazer $69.95

The classic blazer look, sharply accented with half belt in the back, brass buttons and contemporary flapped pockets. In velvety soft fabric with choice of dashing colours and contrasting linings.

Strike of Air Traffic Controllers Could Tie Up Airports by New Year's

OTTAWA (CP) — A strike of air traffic controllers could tie up the country's airports as early as Dec. 31 if a conciliation board named Wednesday is unable to settle a contract dispute.

A spokesman for the Canadian Air Traffic Controllers Association, which represents more than 1,600 key airport workers, said Wednesday the board is scheduled to begin hearings Dec. 10.

It will have two weeks to make a decision, unless an extension is agreed to. After the two-week period, the association may call a legal strike seven days later.

An association spokesman said both sides have accepted Professor Palmer.

The treasury board, representing the government, will be represented on the board by Toronto lawyer J. W. Healy and the association by Winnipeg lawyer Roy Gallagher.

The air traffic controllers have been without a contract since Sept. 30. A number of contract points are at issue, a spokesman said.

Drums Recovered

Peter Rozon of 230B Moira Street West will be able to beat a path to the doors of police headquarters to claim his $500 set of black Ludwig drums.

Mr. Rozon discovered his car had been broken into previous to Monday morning and the set of drums stolen.

Two 14-year-old boys were walking near Centennial Secondary Scholl Tuesday. They discovered the drums hidden in the bushes.

The instruments will be released to the owner after police have finished taking fingerprints from the surfaces.

India to Get Increased Aid

OTTAWA (CP) — The government announced Wednesday it will send an additional $18 million worth of aid to India to help combat problems caused by the influx of nine million refugees from East Pakistan.

The announcement, made in the Commons by External Affairs Minister Mitchel Sharp, means total Canadian aid to India since East Pakistani refugees began flooding India last March has reached almost $35 million.

To date, the federal government has contributed $4.3 million, the provinces another $375,000 and individual voluntary agencies, $1.9 million.

The announcement was received warmly by opposition MPs, who commented on the urgent problems facing both India and East Pakistan.

New Democratic Party Leader David Lewis said "I think we can proudly say it is a generous contribution."

Conservative spokesman Heath Macquarrie applauded the move. The only critics would be "the narrow-minded and small of heart who say charity begins at home."

Mr. Sharp said the additional aid should ease tensions between the two countries sharing the sub-continent, but said he sees little hope for an early solution to the vast problems.

Minister Has Right To Refuse Citizenship

OTTAWA (CP) — The right of a citizenship minister to refuse to confer Canadian citizenship upon immigrants without explanation was upheld Wednesday in the Supreme Court of Canada.

The court gave no reasons in rejecting a motion by 45-year-old Roman Dowbopolak of Toronto for a review of his case.

Mr. Dowbopolak, manager of a travel agency, said he has tried three times to obtain citizenship. Each move was blocked by the government with no explanation.

Born in Lopatyn, then a part of Poland, he came to Canada in 1939 and served for a little in the Canadian Army. He has no criminal record nor has he ever been charged with a crime.

His third attempt was made under then citizenship minister Robert Stanbury.

Mr. Dowbopaluk said Mr. Stanbury's refusal came on the advice of Justice Minister John Turner. So the Toronto man asked Prime Minister Trudeau to remove both from office.

When that avenue failed, he took an action in the Supreme Court of Ontario, asking it to compel the government to give reasons why his applications were rejected.

He also sought $100,000 in damages from Mr. Trudeau, Mr. Turner and Mr. Stanbury.

Children Dropped To Safety

NEW YORK (AP) — Trapped in her apartment by an arsonist's blaze, a mother dropped seven of her children to her 16-year-old son standing three stories below Wednesday and then jumped herself.

Gary David, 16, jumped first from a rear window into the back yard and then caught or broke the falls of seven brothers and sisters, ranging in age from 5 to 18, and his mother, police said.

Chief Rabbi Dies

MOSCOW (AP) — Yehuda Leib Levin, 76, chief rabbi of the Moscow synagogue and unofficial leader of Russia's three million Jews, died Wednesday, Tass reported.

The Soviet news agency said the rabbi had been suffering from heart trouble for several years.

Rabbi Levin took over the Soviet Union's most important synagogue in 1957 and since then has had tacit government approval to act as the chief spokesman for Soviet Jewry.

Probe Asked

TORONTO (CP) — The Ukrainian Canadian Committee, charging that mounted Metropolitan Toronto police charged head-on into a crowd, trampled on people and flayed people indiscriminately with whips, has asked for a provincial public hearing into the Oct. 25 demonstration against Soviet Premier Alexei Kosygin.

Basford to Let Competition Bill Die

EDMONTON (CP) — The federal government's competition bill will be allowed to die on the Commons' order paper, Consumer Affairs Minister Ron Basford said Wednesday.

Mr. Basford said a new bill, to be presented at the next session of Parliament, will reflect the constructive criticisms of industry and other concerned groups.

Delegates to a one-day seminar said the present bill departed too much from the recommendations of the Economic Council of Canada which studied competition policy for two years. It would, they said, tie the hands of business in all endeavors.

Some speakers said the bill would interfere with economic growth, slow resource development, limit opportunities for Canadian companies to compete in world markets and increase the legal costs of companies assessing the bill.

Gerry Burdell, an Imperial Oil spokesman, said the bill could prevent joint ventures, preventing large oil companies from leasing acreage to smaller companies for exploration.

Mr. Basford said the joint venture clauses were under review.

The seminar was attended by about 200 persons from manufacturers' associations, the Edmonton Chamber of Commerce and Better Business Bureau and the University of Alberta.

Mr. Basford asked for submissions on the bill so they could be considered in the revision.

"This is unrealistic and self-defeating. The government is firmly committed to implementation of a new competition policy."

The "traction-action" winter tires to team up with your belted front tires!

Goodyear Polyglas Suburbanites are made with an interlocking "S" tread pattern. It bites hard and deep, self-cleans as the tires turn. It gets you going, keeps you going in the worst winter weather. However, on dry highways, the "S" tread provides a quiet, "no-hum" ride.

The carcass of the Polyglas Suburbanite is built with polyester cords to prevent flat-spotting, or "morning thump", in cold weather. Polyester is flexible, too . . . for a smooth, easy ride.

Belts of fiberglass under the tread reduce tread squirm, which wears away the rubber. With belts of fiberglass you get more miles per dollar, extra seasons of use. Caution: mixing belted and non-belted tires can be dangerous. If your front tires are belted, then you need Goodyear Polyglas Suburbanites on your rear wheels.

Fairways Hoping to String Lions Along Friday Night

The Peterborough Lions currently have the Eastern Ontario Junior B league on a string — a string that the Belleville Fairways will be hoping to break Friday night.

The Liftlock city's defending league champions have yet to lose in 19 outings so far this season, recording nine wins and a tie. Belleville on the other hand have suffered four losses in seven games, with two of those setbacks coming at the hands of the Lions.

In their last encounter, however, the Fairways gave a good account of themselves before dropping a 3-2 decision in Peterborough.

The local B' suffered a blow this week when it was learned that defenceman Jim Cain had moved to Toronto and would be lost to the club for the remainder of the season.

The loss of the steady rearguard means that either Kevin Dockrill or Tim Yohn will have to fill the void on defence.

TIM YOHN

Dockrill, a regular performer last year has been bothered with a leg injury for much of this season. "He's not in shape for a regular shift right now," confided Belleville coach Moe Hunter, "if he can get in condition and play the same kind of hockey that he did at the end of last season then he'll definitely be a regular."

With Dockrill not able to perform at peak efficiency, right winger Tim Yohn may have to see blue line duty. Yohn, a converted rearguard has been playing on a line with Mark Woodward and Jeff Howard.

Hunter feels that to win the game, "we've got to stop the big guns, Johnston (Jim) and Emerson (Derrick) . If we play well in our own end and get a few scoring breaks, we can beat them."

Friday's 9 p.m. game will be another can-can affair. Each child producing a container of canned goods at the gate will be admitted free to the contest with the foodstuffs being turned over for distribution by the Salvation Army. A total of 60 containers were collected in last Sunday's game against Gananoque.

Tyke Hockey Trials

Ankles and backsides are in contact with the ice almost as much as skate blades but that doesn't mean that the action isn't hot and heavy when the tyke minors take to the ice Wednesday nights. Things proved to be hot indeed for Local 1000 last night despite the netminding efforts of Mike Thompson (top left) as they lost a 3-1 decision to Stephen Licence. Each shift is given equal time on the ice to ensure that every boy gets the same chance to improve his hockey skills.

Frazier Faces Daniels

NEW ORLEANS (AP) — Joe Frazier will defend his heavyweight boxing title against Terry Daniels of Dallas, Tex., here Jan. 15. The Associated Press learned Wednesday.

The match will be held in the 9,000-seat Rivergate Auditorium the night before pro football's Super Bowl.

Emile Bruneau, chairman of the Louisiana State Boxing Commission, said he has heard plans were being made for such a fight but that no contract has been presented to the boxing commission, which must approve the bout.

However, promoters of the fight have scheduled a news luncheon Monday and authoritative sources said a signed contract will be presented to the boxing commission at that time.

The source said the bout will be blacked out in the New Orleans area, but carried on home television to the rest of the United States.

It will be Frazier's first fight since he successfully defended his crown last fall against Muhammad Ali.

Mikita Moves Up

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

Stan Mikita scored a goal and assisted on another in Chicago Black Hawks' 3-0 win over Vancouver Canucks Wednesday night and moved into a sixth-place tie in National Hockey League scoring.

Oaks Hold Edge

OAKVILLE (CP) — Led by Jim O'Brien with two goals, Oakville Oaks defeated Woodstock Royals 6-4 Wednesday in an Ontario Hockey Association Senior A game.

After a 1-1 tie at the end of the first period, Oakville went into a 3-1 lead in the second.

Woodstock marksmen were Gerry Harrigan, Dan Mahoney, Gene McLaren and Jim Martz.

"It wasn't the first or second round! It was the First second!"

First Blood for Leafs

Four Knockdowns

Ali Sweeps Verdict from Mathis

HOUSTON (AP) — Muhammad Ali, fresh from a 12-round unanimous decision over Buster Mathis Wednesday night in the Astrodome, has a word of advice for a boxer called Jurgen Blin: Watch for the "linger-on" punch.

That's what Ali says he used to deck Mathis four times in the 11th and 12th rounds and also to keep from hurting Mathis for life.

Blin might also look out for the punch. Right after the fight, Ali announced he would fight Blin Dec. 18 in Zurich, Switzerland.

"If a referee is too dumb to stop a fight when a man is so far gone he just can't do anything, then I'm not going to take the responsibility for maybe hurting him for life," Ali said.

"I thought tiie fight should have been stopped in the 12th when he was so unconscious he couldn't fight off those little jabs.

"You can't say I was wrong. Yes, I deliberately tried to kill him. When a fighter gets hurt in the ring everybody starts shouting for something to be done about boxing.

"Now when I don't knock some out, everybody starts yelling 'Knock him out, knock him out.'"

In a preliminary bout to the fight, George Chuvalo, Canadian heavyweight champion, employed an effective left hook to the body and head to score a 10-round decision over Cleveland Williams.

There were no knockdowns in the brawl but the ever-pressing Chuvalo on several occasions had Williams hanging on. A hook and a hard right buckled Williams knees in the first round.

It was the 66th victory in 84 professional fights for Chuvalo while Williams' record now is 75-12-1.

Chuvalo weighed 227 pounds and Williams 229½.

Mathis, tying to make a ring comeback after a 2½-year layoff, fought well in flurries in the early rounds, but he got progressively more weary as the fight went on.

By the 11th, Ali was landing stinging jabs regularly and suddenly a short right put Mathis down. Mathis took a six count and then went down again but was saved by the bell.

MUHAMMAD ALI

It was a bitter defeat for Mathis, who lost for the third time in 29 fights. Before the fight, Mathis said he didn't fear losing, only having people say, "I told you so."

Mathis came out for the 12th round but he was in trouble almost immediately. He went down from light punches early in the round but was up at the count of seven. He went down a second time, but this time it was as much from sheer exhaustion as Ali's light punches.

If I knew he would go down and then get up and be all right, I would have knocked him out," Ali said. "But I have to sleep at night. I wouldn't want this man's death on my mind."

Mathis wept in his dressing room before talking with reporters. "I tried, I tried," he said.

George Grinford, Mathis's adviser, said it wasn't Ali's punches that put Mathis down, it was exhaustion. "He just fell from exhaustion," Gainford said.

Hawks Clip Canucks, Toronto Trips Kings

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

The Hawks, leaders of the West Division by four points over Minnesota North Stars, blanked Vancouver Canucks 3-0 Wednesday for their eighth triumph at home.

The result helped Toronto widen its point-spread in the East to four points over Vancouver, as the Maple Leafs humbled Los Angeles Kings 5-1 before 16,338 fans.

Leafs have two games in hand on the Canucks and now have more breathing space over Buffalo Sabres and Detroit Red Wings. The Canucks, Sabres and Wings share the basement with 13 points each.

Tony Esposito fashioned his third shutout of the season before 17,000 Chicago fans, who have seen only four goals scored against the Hawks on the Stadium ice since the schedule opened.

Esposito had plenty of support from Chicago's hard-working defence, which limited Canucks to 18 shots, but had to make magnificent saves against the visitors' Barry Wilkins and Rosaire Paiement in the last period to keep his net clear.

Coach Johnny McLellan of the Leafs said, "you're always happy when you win," but Kings' coach Fred Glover criticized his team for "not giving out 100 per cent."

Glover, desperately seeking to correct the problems that have caused his team to suffer its 16th loss in 18 games, said he would be in favor of fining some of his players.

"But you can't fine a man for indifferent play—that's the protection they have."

Stamps Get Second Crack at Grey Cup

REGINA (CP) — Calgary Stampeders head for their second consecutive Grey Cup appearance Nov. 28 after throwing aside Saskatchewan Roughriders in straight games in the best-of-three Western Football Conference final.

Stampeders delivered the coup de grace on a chilly Wednesday night with a 23-21 win over Saskatchewan, following up their 30-21 come-from-behind victory in the first game in Calgary last Saturday.

Riders seemed to be as stiff as the 19-mile-an-hour wind Wednesday for the entire first half as Calgary jumped into a 9-0 lead.

They came back in the second half and even had the 14,582 fans believing the Riders would win the game.

But after scoring two touchdowns to take a 14-9 lead, Calgary penetrated to the Saskatchewan 45 and Hugh McKinnis turned an innocent-looking play into a 42-yard touchdown run around the end to put the Stamps back into the lead.

Seemingly trapped in the backfield with all four Rider defensive linemen converging in rod-cracker fashion, the veteran signal-caller ducked out of the maze and fired a touchdown pass to Rudy Linterman, who had been given up on by Rider defenders. The play went 71 yards.

Besides the Linterman and McKinnis touchdowns, Keeling also fired a 20-yard strike to Jon Henderson.

Place kicker Larry Robinson, who killed Saskatchewan in last year's final with a field goal into the wind, provided three converts and two singles off field goal attempts, the latter two points being the winning margin. Both were conceded by Ted Dushinski.

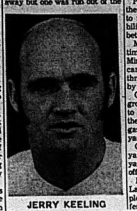
George Reed, Silas McKinnis and Ron Lancaster scored the Saskatchewan touchdowns on short plunges with Jack Abendschan converting all three.

Abendschan also tried two field goals from 30 and 36 yards away but one was run out of the end zone and the other came down short of the goal line.

All the field goal tries were into the wind.

Possibly the big difference in the game was Calgary's ability to run the ball and Riders' inability to do so, a switch in roles between the two clubs.

McKinnis, who carried 16 times for 104 yards, and Jesse Mims, who got 95 yards on 12 carries, were sent consistently through gaping holes provided by a fired-up offensive line.



On the other hand, Riders' top ground gainer, Reed, was held to 67 yards on 15 carries and the total Saskatchewan rushing game amounted to a mere 124 yards.

Riders 199 yards passing on Lancaster's 17 of 26 pass completions gave them a total offence of 309 yards.

Bronco Coach Quits

DENVER (AP) — Lou Saban, head coach of Denver Broncos, resigned from his coaching duties Wednesday and announced that Jerry Smith, the National Football League team's offensive line coach, will replace him. Saban will remain the general manager.

"It is my choice and I feel at this time, my responsibility to the team, to step aside as general coach," Saban told a news conference. "The club has made a lot of progress in just under five years and my only regret is that we have not been able to give Denver a championship."

Saban was reluctant to discuss specifically his reasons for stepping down.

Saban, who won two American Football League championships as head coach at Buffalo, could not put together a winning season with the Broncos, since coming here in 1966.

Dr. Theodore Fox, who has performed two major operations on both of Sayers' knees, said the long-lidded player would undergo several days of rest and observation.

Sayers made only token appearances this season after winter surgery on his left knee. His last active season was 1969 when he led National Football League rushing following surgery on his right knee in 1968.

CALGARY (CP) — Nine players from champion University of Alberta Golden Bears have been selected to the Western Canada Intercollegiate Football League all-star team.

Alberta, which plays University of Western Ontario for the national championship in Toronto Saturday, supplied half the offensive all-star squad and three players for the defensive unit.

University of Manitoba Bisons, Canadian champions in 1969 and 1970, placed six players on the all-star team. Four were named for University of Calgary Dinosaurs, three from University of Saskatchewan Huskies and two from last-place University of British Columbia Thunderbirds.

LYNCHBURG, Va. (AP) — John McHale, president of Montreal Expos, and Wallace McKenna, president of the Carolina League, have reached agreement to transfer the Expos' Triple A International League team from Winnipeg to the Tidewater area of Virginia next season.

NIAGARA FALLS, Ont. (CP) — A provincial court official said Wednesday that hockey player Eddie Shack has paid a $23 fine out of court after being charged with failing to report an accident.

The official said Shack, a forward with Buffalo Sabres of the National Hockey League, was charged last week after his car slammed through a fence into a field in Fort Erie, Ont.

Damage to the car was $1,800, but Shack was unhurt.

WOODSTOCK (CP) — A quick-thinking coach forced the butt of a hockey stick between the teeth of a player who had swallowed his tongue during practice Wednesday and extricated the tongue.

Coach Ted Power provided first aid.

Ok. Let's get down to facts.

FACT/ROTAX ENGINES: Designed exclusively for each model of Ski-Doo snowmobile and winter proven to start even at forty below zero. Aluminium alloy cylinders, aluminium pistons, shrouded axial fan (two cylinder engines) and cooling fins get rid of heat fast to keep it running cool.

FACT/IDEAL BALANCE: The power to weight ratio is just right. Even the position of the driver has been taken into account. Enough weight on the track to give you sure thrust traction and enough weight on the front for carving tighter turns.

FACT/QUALITY BUILT: The keynote to each Ski-Doo snowmobile is quality. Each one is checked on the drawing board, test run in the factory and checked out by your dealer to insure the best possible performance for each particular model.

FACT/WIDEST CHOICE: The economical, full-sized Elan* model at $595 — the fun-loving, sporty Olympiques...the zappy, TNT* trailbusters...and, the swinger's choice, the luxury-laden Nordic* machines. Plus Alpine* Valmont* Blizzard*...seven great series more than 24 models.

FACT/BEST SERVICE: Our special factory approved service schools assure you quality maintenance. Your Ski-Doo dealer, one of more than 2,400 across North America, also offers you a dependable warranty, the most complete stock of genuine Ski-Doo parts, accessories and winter fashions.

If you want ALL the Facts, go to your Ski-Doo dealer and pick up our 22 page Facts book.

When you look at all the facts... ski-doo '72 has more going for you.

Ti-Cats Face Tough Task

TORONTO (CP) — Coach Al Dorow knows his Hamilton Tiger-Cats have an uphill job in trying to overcome a 17-point lead Toronto Argonauts are taking into the second game of the Eastern Football Conference final Saturday.

The Argos beat the Ticats 32-15 Sunday in Hamilton and face them here Saturday in the final game that will decide the total points series and the team to represent the East in the Grey Cup Nov. 28.

"This is the third time our backs had been to the wall," says Dorow of his Ticat-Cats. "On the two previous occasions we rallied and won and there is no doubt we could do it again."

Dorow apparently was referring to his team's win over Toronto in the final scheduled game to make the playoffs and his win in the semi-final against Ottawa Rough Riders.

Referring to last Sunday's game when place-kicker Tommy Joe Coffey missed four consecutive field goal attempts, the longest from Toronto's 47-yard line, Dorow said Coffey had some problems "but if I had to bet on anything I'll bet on Coffey kicking them all in Toronto."

Meanwhile, defensive back Mike Blum has been stewing because he was fingered for a roughing call against Toronto quarterback Joe Theismann. The call wiped out an interception by team-mate John Wilkins which Williams returned 42 yards to the Argo 46.

TOMMY JOE COFFEY

"I was up in the air trying to bat the ball down and you don't do that with a clenched fist," Blum said. "I just used my open hand.

"Even Theismann's teammates laughed at his talk of it being such a tough hit. He'll find out what it's like to get hit this Saturday."

The Argos worked out Wednesday on their practice field, located a few hundred yards from the Canadian National Exhibition Stadium, because CNE officials barred them from practising in the stadium.

"We agreed to stay off tonight (Wednesday)," Leo Cahill, Argo coach, said. "We hope to get back tomorrow though as this critical stage it is essential that we practise on a field with hash marks in game situation procedure."

He said a CNE official warned him that Argos would be blamed if there is any damage to the field before Saturday's game.

Cahill said it is unlikely quarterback Greg Barton will alternate with Theismann Saturday. Barton has seen little action since he broke his right hand in mid-September.

U.S. Riders Move Ahead

TORONTO (CP) — The United States equestrian team moved one point ahead of the Canadian contingent at the Royal Horse Show Wednesday, headed for the final morning ride from Frank Chapot of Walpack, N.J.

He manoeuvred Good Twist around the sharp cuts of the fault-and-out course for 63.1 seconds with knocking down the 18th fence. In the event, riders jumps as many fences as possible but are eliminated with their first knockdown.

The U.S. team picked up 15 points in the class to lead the over-all standings with 97 points to Canada's 96 and Argentina's 26.

Second-place Jorge Llambi of Argentina brought Maxim over 15 gates in 63.7 seconds and Neal Shapley of Glen Head, N.Y., was third with 14 fences clear on Nirvana.

The only Canadian to place in the event, Tommy Millar from Montreal, finished fifth on Happy Fellow after a knockdown pulling sharply into the 12th fence.

Jim Day of Oakville had a fault on the ninth fence. He had lost his stirrup near the beginning but controlled his mount until then.

Carole Holzman of North Branch, N.J., was awarded a sixth-place ribbon with the same points as Day but in a slightly faster time.

Suit for Million Brought On Ali

The suit was filed in Texas District Court in Houston Wednesday by Barbara P. Mensah, 24, a saleswoman, who said Ali's bodyguard, Andre Camerson, beat her up July 12.

The suit said Mrs. Mensah was beaten around the head, neck, breasts, ribs and abdomen with fists in a manner not to Ali was in.

Mrs. Mensah claims the beating was administered at the direction of Herbert Muhammad, Ali manager, and Belinda Ali, the fighter's wife.

The suit contends that the beating took place within earshot of Ali, who failed to intervene.

Houston Finally Gets NBA Win

BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

The Rockets wiped out an 11-point deficit in the second half and upset Philadelphia 76ers 118-113 Wednesday night.

Elvin Hayes, the Big E, Calvin Murphy and Stu Lantz combined for 87 points as the Rockets snapped their losing streak the hard way—on the road.

Hayes scored 33 points; 21 of them in the second half. Murphy had 31 and Lantz 23, of which 10 came in the last quarter. It was Lantz's basket with 6:33 left that put the Rockets ahead for good at 98-96. Billy Cunningham was high for the 76ers with 29 points.

In the American Basketball Association, Pittsburgh shaded New York Nets 122-121, Kentucky overcame Virginia 119-112, Carolina beat Denver 113-101 and Utah squeaked past Indiana 113-111.

Pistol Pete Maravich, who hasn't played since the opening of the season because of mononucleosis, made his season debut with Atlanta and scored 18 points in a losing cause in his 28 minutes of action. Walt Bellamy was high for the Hawks with 28 while Spencer Haywood led the SuperSonics with 23.

John Havlicek, with 32 points, led Boston over Phoenix as the Celtics avenged their fight-filled defeat by the Suns last Friday. There was no fisticuffs this time. Connie Hawkins was high for the Suns with 35.

Jack Marin, with 24, and Dave Stallworth, with 22, combined for 47 points in leading the Bullets over the Royals. Nate Archibald scored 25 to pace the losers.

West Ham Wins

LONDON (CP) — Bryan Robson hammered home three goals to steer West Ham United into the semi-finals of the English Football League Cup with a 5-0 soccer victory over Sheffield United Wednesday.

Clyde Best scored the other two goals as West Ham romped to its biggest win of the season.

Martin Peters and Martin Chivers were both on target for defending-champion Tottenham Hotspur, which beat Second Division Blackpool 2-0 in another quarter-final clash.

In Aberdeen, Juventus of Italy qualified for the third round of the European Football Union Cup on a 3-1 aggregate after drawing 1-1 with Aberdeen in the return leg of their second-round clash.

Juventus won the first leg 2-0. Juventus meet either Rapid Vienna of Austria or Dinamo Zagreb of Yugoslavia in the third round. These two teams drew 2-2 in Zagreb and 0-0 in Vienna, with the Austrians qualifying on away goals. But the Yugoslavs have protested that two Austrian linesmen officiated in the Vienna match and the football union is still considering the appeal.

Sports Shorts

BOSTON (AP) — Boston Bruins have traded centre Ivan Boldirev to California Golden Seals for centre Chris Oddleifson and a player to be named later.

The Bruins said Wednesday he will remain with Oklahoma City.

Boldirev, 22, has been used sparingly by the Bruins during this National Hockey League season. He has appeared in 11 games and has two assists.

MONTREAL (CP) — Two Chinese badminton stars, currently on a goodwill tour of Canada, proved last night they were unbeatable as singles but not so invincible in doubles.

But when Tang and his partner Hsu Chia-Chiang took on two of Canada's top players, Yves Pare of Montreal and Jamie Paulson of Calgary, they ran into trouble.

The Canadians came from behind in the first game to win the match 17-14, 18-15, 15-11.

About 500 spectators watched the exhibition play at Montreal's Maisonneuve sports centre and gave the Chinese repeated standing ovations for their performance.

LONDON, Ont. (CP) — Harlem Globetrotters did not appear for their scheduled basketball exhibition Wednesday, apparently continuing a strike which began Tuesday in Port Huron, Mich.

Officials of the Gardens here said they would refund about $7,900 for 2,000 advance tickets sold.

Romanian Proposed To Succeed U Thant

UNITED NATIONS (CP) — Romania, the independent-minded country within the Soviet bloc, is quietly flogging the name of Foreign Minister Corneliu Manescu as a possible candidate for UN secretary-general.

The action appears to be a bid to preserve the country's independence as much as an attempt to capture one of the most prestige-filled positions in the international community.

For it is doubtful that the Western countries would accept a Communist and member of the Warsaw pact as a secretary-general just as it is doubtful that the Communists would accept a member of NATO.

The report, confirmed by Western and Eastern sources, comes at a time when the tenure of Secretary-General U Thant is running out and no apparent progress is being made in the search to find a successor.

In fact there is no evidence yet of a genuine search.

It has been known for some time that Thant will leave office Dec. 31 and he has made it clear that he will not even remain for an interim period until a successor is chosen.

Any doubts about the end of his career at the UN after 10 years were dispelled two weeks ago when he went to hospital suffering from a bleeding ulcer. He is not expected to return to work for at least another week.

There was general agreement that no serious discussions could start until the People's Republic of China arrived here. The Chinese delegation started work this week. There are no reports that any of the big powers have talked to them about the secretary-general.

Madoc

MADOC — The Madoc Curling Club is preparing for a "Fun Night" to be held on Monday evening in the arena as a kick-off for the new season. New members will be welcomed at this time.

Mr. and Mrs. Levi Lajoie of Actinolite, and Mr. and Mrs. John Lajoie Jr. of Tweed spent the weekend in Ottawa visiting with Mr. and Mrs. Jerome LaChappelle and Mr. and Mrs. Jack Lajoie. They also attended a dance at Ottawa Uplands Airport.

The Remembrance Day Service held at the Cenotaph on Thursday was well attended, but it was felt that a larger crowd may have been present had the weather been a little milder. A colorful parade, headed by the Centre Hastings School Band, marched down Front Street previous to the program at the Cenotaph. Cdt. Lieutenant Ken Brownson was bugler, who sounded the Last Post and Reveille after, the laying of the wreaths. Rev. Wendall Sedgwick delivered an appropriate address.

St. Peter's Young People conducted a successful canvass for the blind last week, collecting $285 which was a substantial increase over the amount received in their appeal last year.

The Madoc Recreation Committee was pleased to receive a letter from the Athletics Commissioner, L. M. McKenzie informing the committee that the Minister of Labor, with the support of Clarke T. Rollins, will be forwarding some new sports equipment to the Madoc Minor Sports.

Rawdon

RAWDON — Mr. and Mrs. Ted Simpson spent a few days at Beaverton. On Saturday, November 13 they attended the funeral of her sister, Mrs. Victor Gorell and her two sons, four-year-old Kevin and 18-months-old David. A fire swept through her farm home on Wednesday afternoon.

On anniversary Sunday at Mount Pleasant, memorial flowers were placed on the piano in memory of the late Merle Spencer. They were donated by his wife Una and daughter Helen Hulbert and her husband. Nancy and Ross McIntosh donated a pulpit chair which was dedicated in memory of her father, the late I. David.

Mount Pleasant UCW catered for the 51st anniversary banquet of Laurel Rebekah Lodge. Mrs. Harry McAdam and the November group were in charge of the arrangements.

White's District

Mrs. Kenneth Bush accompanied by Mrs. Everett Harry attended a meeting for Canso on Friday at Mississauga and open house at Skyway Hotel, Toronto on Saturday. Also on Friday evening they were guests at the home of Mrs. Bush's son and wife Mr. and Mrs. Ray Bush of Locust Hill.

High School Graduation Said Possible with Only Grade 10

SARNIA, Ont. (CP) — A Sarnia high school principal says Ontario's new academic credit system makes it possible for a student to obtain a secondary school graduation diploma without ever taking subjects beyond the Grade 10 level.

Under the new system, a student needs 28 academic credit points to graduate from high school. But Ted Gawinski, principal of Sarnia's Central Collegiate, said Tuesday it would be possible for a student to accumulate all 28 points in Grade 9 and 10 subjects.

He told the Western Ontario Child Study Association that no student can be forced to take subjects of higher academic difficulty if he can amass enough points in Grade 9 and 10 courses to get a diploma.

"We have 140 credit subjects in our school," he said. "Under this new system students can really take anything they want to gain their credits.

"No one said anything about them having to take progressively more difficult subjects."

The provincial education department began implementing the credit system two years ago. It now covers about 80 per cent of the secondary schools in the province and will be fully implemented by the beginning of the 1972-73 school year.

Printmakers

Mr. and Mrs. Saul Field show engravings in their Toronto home. Mr. Field is working on a series of engravings based on themes from Finnegans Wake, by James Joyce, which he says will probably be the largest project he has ever worked on. Mrs. Field — Jean Townsend — works in the same art medium in the same studio, but they collaborate only occasionally. They make it plain they are separate individuals, not a team.

Russian Weapons Said Tops

LONDON (AP) — The Soviet Union leads the West in development of highly sophisticated space-age weapons, an authoritative British reference yearbook said today.

Moscow's advance was made possible to a great extent by costly duplication of effort by members of the North Atlantic Treaty Organization, report the editors of Jane's Weapons Systems 1971-72.

The 586-page volume, published in its third annual edition, is a companion reference work to Jane's Fighting Ships and Jane's All The World's Aircraft.

"Russia now has the initiative in weapons technology," the publishers said.

Heavy Snows Costly

OTTAWA (CP) — Several hundred cottages, homes and buildings will come crashing down in the next few months.

The chief villain will be snow, abetted by inadequate structural design, poor maintenance or lack of emergency roof clearing.

The onset of winter snows prompted the National Research Council's building research division to issue a warning Wednesday about high snow loads.

Sports arenas, especially those with wide roof expanses held up by concrete block walls and long trusses, are in particular danger.

This type of building produced the worst arena tragedy of recent times. Seven boys and an adult were killed and 13 boys injured in the collapse of the hockey rink roof at Listowel, Ont., Feb. 28, 1959.

Only a few hours separated residents of Lakefield, near Peterborough, from a similar tragedy Feb. 14 this year. The town's hockey arena collapsed between 4 and 6 a.m. without loss of life or injury.

Hours later it would have been occupied by youngsters' hockey teams as in Listowel.

W. R. Schriever, who heads the building structures section of NRC, said in an interview that another danger area is flat or shallow-sloped roofs beside and at a lower level than large-roofed industrial buildings.

Snow tends to blow off flat roofs onto the lower structures, building up five to 10 times the ground-level snow depth.

Some arena problems have been linked to construction of buildings on limited budgets without benefit of proper engineering.

"Snow removal by shovelling at times of heavy snowfall should only be relied upon as an emergency measures," NRC warned. "More effective permanent solutions should always be sought."

Girls Seeking To Wear Jeans

ELMIRA, Ont. (CP) — About 50 girls came to classes at Elmira and district secondary school in jeans Wednesday and were ordered out of their classrooms.

Boys are permitted to wear jeans and girls may wear slacks but not jeans, said school principal M. E. Duke.

The girls were sent to the principal's office where they were given the choice of going home to change or remaining in a segregated classroom for the rest of the day. Ten remained and 40 went home and did not return.

Elmira is 10 miles north of Kitchener.

Aide Thinks Nixon To Go

TORONTO (CP) — Robert Nixon will be replaced as leader of the Ontario Liberal party before another provincial election, his press secretary predicted Wednesday.

William Gilmour, 41, made the prediction in an interview after announcing his resignation from Mr. Nixon's staff to accept a broadcasting position with radio station CHQM in Vancouver. He leaves next week.

"This is just my own personal assessment," Mr. Gilmour said. "But I really don't think he will want to continue as leader into the next election."

His belief that Mr. Nixon will not remain as leader prompted Mr. Gilmour, a Toronto broadcaster before he joined the staff last March as press secretary and speech writer, to resign.

"My commitment has been to him."

Mr. Nixon said he was aware of Mr. Gilmour's feelings and reiterated that he has made no definite decision as to his own status as leader of the party.

Since his party's setback in the Oct. 21 provincial election, Mr. Nixon has stressed that he "may well be" a candidate at the next leadership convention which could come as early as next spring.

"It's still too soon after the election for me to think about that," Mr. Nixon said Wednesday.

Meanwhile, the Liberal leader, tanned from a week's vacation in Florida, and other members of his 38-man caucus were sworn in Wednesday as new members of the legislature by Chief Election Officer Roderick Lewis. The brief ceremony took place in the Liberal caucus offices at Queen's Park.

Although the party remains as the official Opposition in the legislature, Mr. Nixon's Liberals were able to win only 36 seats in the election—a drop of seven—which saw the Progressive Conservatives roll to an impressive victory with 78 seats. The New Democratic Party finished with 19 seats in the 117-member house.

In addition to his press secretary, Mr. Nixon will lose the services of John Morritt, executive assistant and campaign manager who plans to leave early next year.

Gerry Caplan, executive assistant to leader of the New Democratic Party, Stephen Lewis, also announced his resignation Wednesday, effective Dec. 31, to teach at University of Toronto.

Mr. Caplan stage-managed the campaign a year ago that led to the election of Mr. Lewis as party leader, replacing Donald MacDonald. He was also Mr. Lewis's campaign manager for the election.

Among Liberals sworn into office were newcomers Phil Givens, former mayor of Toronto and member of Parliament who was elected in Toronto York-Forest Hill, and Albert Roy, winner in Ottawa East. The others are Liberals who were returned for another term.

Mr. Givens has accepted assignments as critic of six government departmens in the new list of caucus legislature duties released at the swearing-in by Mr. Nixon.

Instead of having one critic for each department as in previous years, Mr. Nixon has arranged the assignments on a committee basis.

Convicts Build Tank For Escape

RAIFORD, Fla. (AP) — Two Raiford State prison convicts rammed their way to freedom through a hail of bullets in a makeshift tank they fashioned in the prison furniture shop, officials said Wednesday.

Raiford Supt. Lawrence Dugger said Ron Gyger, 26, and Wallace McDonald, 43, made their tank out of a fork-lift truck, using 10-gauge sheet metal for armor plate.

The men broke out of the prison in northeast Florida last Saturday. They were still at large Wednesday.

Dugger said Gyger and McDonald broke into the closed prison furniture factory to make the vehicle.

Review Of MDs Urged

TORONTO (CP) — The Ontario Medical Association says doctors whose qualifications are questioned by hospita medica advisory committees should be re-examined by the provincial licensing body.

In a brief to be presented today to a provincial government inquiry into hospital privileges, the OMA says particular attention should be given to doctors turned down by hospitals on grounds of mental instability or addiction to alcohol or drugs.

"How much better it is to give a physician of questionable competence a hospital appointment, expose him to an educational milieu while sharply controlling his privileges, keep him under observation and so protect and serve his patients, than to leave him in the community unobserved and with minimal contact with his fellow-practitioners," the brief says.

The inquiry, set up by Health Minister A. B. R. Lawrence, is holding public hearings into practices of granting hospital privileges to doctors and admission of patients.

The OMA brief says every qualified doctor in the province should be accepted by at least one hospital in his area.

SHOULD BE TOLD

Doctors refused appointments should be told why and there should be an appeal board whose decision is binding.

It rejects "personality conflict" as a proper reason for rejection.

The OMA, representing 10,000 practising Ontario doctors, says re-examination of doctors whose qualifications have been questioned should be undertaken by the College of Physicians and Surgeons, in co-operation with the staff of medical schools.

The brief says a doctor refused an appointment because of mental illness or addiction should be required by law to submit to an examination by a special committee appointed by the college.

Doctors seeking a hospital appointment submit an application outlining past training and the names of doctors who can provide further information. The application is checked by a credentials committee which reports to the medical advisory committee.

The OMA brief says the procedure is sound in principle but does not always work in practice.

"If a newcomer is going to cut into the livelihood of the committee members, they may judge him harshly and recommend that he get no privileges."

Doctors Can Look Into Lung

MONTREAL (CP) — A new device that allows doctors to look directly into the airways of the lung is being used at Montreal's Royal Edward Chest Hospital to detect lung cancer two or four months earlier than was possible before.

Dr. D. D. Munro, chief surgeon at the hospital, said Wednesday the optical device has "already helped save lives." Doctors now can visually study obscure airways in the lung that were unreachable with old equipment.

The Royal Edward is believed to be the first hospital in Canada to have the device, called a flexible fiberoptic bronchoscope, a small-diameter flexible tube consisting of a light source and optical system.

Dr. Munro said only the main airways of the lung could be examined previously because of the rigidity of old equipment.

Two of the lung-viewing devices were purchased in May with grants from the Canadian Tobacco Manufacturers' Council.

Cafes On Campus Suggested

TORONTO (CP) — A University of Toronto study on the future needs of its campus recommends improvements including a domed winter garden and a series of shops and cafes.

The study, conducted by lecturer Douglas Engel and five students of his architecture department, cost nearly $29,000 to complete.

The group disapproved of the idea of an often-proposed huge student centre which it said would tend to be dominated by a single group.

Income Floor Urged

OTTAWA (CP) — The federal Conservative party's policy advisory committee has recommended an income-development program, including a "National Income floor" and incentives to work, as an essential first step in defeating poverty in Canada.

The committee's proposals for reform of the social security system are set out in a background paper, made public Wednesday, that will be a basis for discussion at the party's national policy conference Dec. 4-7.

A Senate committee report on poverty last week proposed a guaranteed annual income system that quickly was rejected by Health Minister John Munro as too costly for Canada at this time.

The Conservative policy paper says the present welfare system "penalizes work, deprives recipients of dignity, breaks up homes and costs billions without attacking poverty effectively."

The system imposed higher tax rates, the paper emphasized, to provide transfer payments to the poor and meet "the costs of crime, disease and social unrest directly linked with poverty."

The proposed income development program would "provide incentives for the welfare recipient to seek greater income through employment."

Ontario Is Short Of Milk

TORONTO (CP) — The Ontario dairy industry is facing a shortage of milk because of restrictions placed on the producer, says S. G. K. Ault, president of the Ontario Dairy Council.

Some restrictions are driving purchasers of finished products to other provinces where the basic cost of industrial milk is lower, he said Wednesday.

He told the group's annual convention that processors are facing a situation of maintaining regionally competitive sales of milk products without a sufficient volume of industrial milk forthcoming from producers at present prices.

Agriculture Minister William Stewart announced a study of industrial milk marketing in Ontario early this month.

School Cleared By Threat

BARRYS BAY, Ont. (CP) — A five-room separate school at nearby Wilno was evacuated Wednesday after an anonymous caller said a bomb was planted in the school. No bomb was found.

Police say they feel the bomb scare was linked to threats that Reeve Alex Shulist of Hagarty and Richards townships has received during the past week over his involvement with a charcoal factory being planned for the area, about 30 miles southwest of Pembroke.

Reeve Shulist sold 200 acres of land to the charcoal company. Last Wednesday he received a letter warning that his family was in danger.

U.S. to Buy Chrome From Rhodesia

WASHINGTON (Reuter) — President Richard Nixon put the United States on a collision course with the United Nations Security Council Wednesday when he signed legislation permitting the U.S. to resume imports of chrome from Rhodesia.

The president's action drew angry protests at the UN, where the General Assembly approved Tuesday a resolution warning Washington that a resumption of chrome imports from white-minority ruled Rhodesia would violate trade sanctions imposed by the UN and be a breach of international treaty obligations.

Irate Afrocan and Asian delegates said they would call for an early meeting of the Security Council to consider the U.S. action.

A UN spokesman said Secretary-General U Thant, who was informed of the U.S. move in the hospital where he is being treated for a peptic ulcer, was greatly perturbed.

DAILY CRYPTOQUOTE — Here's how to work it:
A XYDLBAAXR
is LONGFELLOW
One letter simply stands for another. In this sample A is used for the three L's, X for the two O's, etc. Single letters, apostrophes, the length and formation of the words are all hints. Each day the code letters are different.

THIS is
THE GOOD GUYS

The people behind that department, the people out front who meet you on the car lot or service department, in fact, everyone is the reason why Wells Ford Mercury in Stirling has been doing business in the same location, with the same good deals on Fords or Mercury's or used cars for over 40 years.

WE'LL BE HERE TOMORROW

Carol Suffers Coincidence

NEW YORK (AP) — In one of those unfortunate coincidences that turn up frequently in television, The Carol Burnett Show on CBS Wednesday came up with a misinversion of Dames at Sea, which had been up view earlier this week as an NBC special.

Both were efforts to poke fun at the 1930 musical movies, and the Burnett show worked no better than the more elaborate and longer production starring Ann-Margret.

Carol was in the role Ann-Margret played earlier—the innocent young dancer who steps into the star s role, Nanette Fa-

The Original Knight SOLUNAR TABLES When To Fish Or Hunt

The schedule of Solunar Periods, as printed below, has been taken from Mrs. Richard Alden Knight's Solunar Tables. Plan your days so that you will be fishing in good territory or hunting in good cover during these times, if you wish to find the best sport that each day has to offer.

The Major Periods are shown in bold-face type. These begin at this times shown and last for an hour and a half or two hours thereafter. The Minor Periods, shown in regular type, are of somewhat shorter duration.

The Eastern Standard Time. (Nov. 20 - 28.)

Day	Minor	Major	Minor	Major
Saturday	5.35	—	6.10	12.25
Sunday	6.40	12.53	7.05	1.25
Monday	7.40	1.55	8.05	2.29
Tuesday	8.35	2.50	9.00	3.15
Wednesday	9.30	3.45	9.55	4.10
Thursday	10.23	4.40	10.50	5.05
Friday	11.15	5.25	11.40	5.45

Sunday	12.15	6.50	12.45	7.15

While Columbo programs are one scene of violence to another. puzzles that the viewer watches being solved, Mannix, another popular detective tale; that follows on CBS, specializes in mayhem and gunplay. The plot seems designed to lead from

Within the first 15 minutes of this week's episode, there were two killings by gunshot and a third when a car screened off a cliff and exploded.

Private Detective Sues Borgnine

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Ernest Borgnine has been accused in a $100,000 damage suit of beating up a private investigator who served the husky 54-year-old actor his fourth set of divorce papers.

The investigator, Roger Prior Court suit filed Wednesday that Borgnine responded to the paper serving with a flurry of punches and kicks that left Leighton with back injuries, pulled muscles and bruises.

LONDON (AP) — A film starring James Cagney as a follower of the Irish Republican Army won't be shown Friday night, as scheduled on British commercial television network, apparently because it is too close to the news.

Yorkshire Television confirmed it had withdrawn the film Shake Hands With the Devil, made in Dublin in 1958, but refused further comment.

Benson's Aide Doubts Tax Bill Will Be Through by Jan. 1

OTTAWA (CP) — The man responsible for pushing the government's tax change bill through the Commons was gloomy Wednesday about meeting a Jan. 1 deadline.

One day after Prime Minister Trudeau and Finance Minister E. J. Benson reaffirmed their intentions of passing the bill by the end of the year, Pat Mahoney (L—Calgary South) said:

Mahoney, Mr. Benson's parliamentary secretary, emerged discouraged from a three-hour House committee session in which only four of the bill's 333 subclauses were given approval.

That brought the total of subclauses approved to 75 after 19 days in committee and 13 days spent earlier on second reading.

There are about 25 sitting days left before Christmas in which to complete committee study, gain third reading and obtain Senate approval.

Mr. Mahoney said whatever hope he has left is based on his assumption that the opposition would like to get all the criticism they can on record without finally being responsible for blocking it.

There are some obviously popular measures in the bill, such as increased basic exemptions, that the government says would remove a million people from the tax rolls and reduce taxes for millions of others.

Government sources said that if agreement cannot be obtained from opposition party leaders by the end of next week to put the bill through by the end of the year, stronger methods will be attempted.

The possibilities include sitting extended hours and introducing a motion limiting committee debate on the bill.

Closure would probably have to be invoked to cut off debate on such a limiting motion.

Mr. Mahoney said he hopes that by the end of next week, when the committee is through discussing major sections of the bill under time-allocation agreements hammered out by all parties—opposition party leaders will agree to put the bill through.

Under House rules passed in 1969, further debate could be limited if all party House leaders agreed, even if backbench mavericks disagreed.

As if the government weren't having enough trouble with the opposition, it was held up by one of its own members Wednesday.

He said if all penalty provisions were brought to bear against a tax-evader or tax deliquent, a person could pay up to $15,000 in fines on tax assessment of $5,000.

Mr. Aiken said penalties could be a deterrent to enactment of the bill that duplicated one another. They added up to a situation "contrary to normal justice," he said.

Both MPs moved amendments. Mr. Aiken's, which would have removed one of the penalty sections, was easily defeated.

Mr. Hogarth's dealt with a section that would limit a person to 60 days in which to file a notice of objection to a penalty.

After that he could only get an extension in the event of death, an incapacitation illness or bankruptcy.

The committee adjourned before the amendment could be voted upon.

The House today begins two days of debate on measures in the bill dealing with co-operatives and credit unions, without having finished discussing tax reform.

Other areas dealt with under the Benson-Lalonde agreement and not completed include capital gains, agriculture and personal income tax.

Conservatives Could Not Accept Screening Agency On Foreign Investment Declares Stanfield

OTTAWA (CP) — The Conservative party could not accept a screening agency for foreign investment as outlined in a leaked government report published last week, Opposition Leader Robert Stanfield said Wednesday.

Mr. Stanfield called the recommendation, which the government approved at least tentatively in principle last July, an "octopus measure" which the provinces obviously aren't willing to agree to.

Speaking to reporters outside the Commons, the Conservative leader said his party's position is that excessive foreign ownership in Canada is a serious problem, but that it should be dealt with by encouraging Canadians to invest more in their own economy.

He did not, however, rule out the possibility of tightening some controls over foreign ownership, perhaps by extending the key sector concept whereby foreign investment is limited by law in certain fields.

The screening-agency recommendation was contained in a confidential study prepared under the supervision of Revenue Minister Herb Gray, a synopsis of which was released last Friday by Canadian Forum, a Toronto monthly magazine.

On Tuesday a second document was published by the Montreal Gazette, showing that the government had approved the screening-agency concept in principle at a cabinet meeting July 29.

Mr. Stanfield told reporters the fact that the government has not gone ahead with such controls over foreign investment suggests that it has at least deferred its plans.

Wednesday's Commons question period did little to shed further light on the issue, as opposition questioners restricted themselves mainly to queries on how the government is investigating the leaks.

Mr. Sharp had said in the House that investigations began Tuesday morning into how The Gazette had received the cabinet agreement-in-principle.

He said he later found out that the prime minister's office had begun investigations into the leak on Saturday, because The Gazette had made a two-paragraph reference to the document on that day.

Davis Is 'Relatively Content' With Federal-provincial Talks

"By and large, a number of concerns that we had raised have been met," he said in an interview. "Certainly I really feel much better about the results than what I sensed we would get yesterday."

Tuesday, Ontario's hopes of withdrawing from shared-cost programs with the federal government appeared slim, and they were resurrected on the conference's final day.

A categorical No from Ottawa to Ontario on opting out of university education and health programs was reversed by Prime Minister Trudeau who said the federal government does not reject the plan but does not want such moves now.

Both governments agreed to explore the use of tax abatements to affect federal contributions toward financing the programs.

Ottawa said, however, it would be essential to safeguard the federal power to adjust its income tax rates for the purposes of economic stabilization.

The federal government also agreed to examine quickly Ontario's plan to incorporate sales and property tax credits against income taxes "with a view to their early implementation."

Mr. Davis later said this could mean Ontario would put the plan in operation for the 1972 tax year.

Ontario's request for a joint economic committee to recommend national economic goals was partially met as the conference asked the committee of finance ministers to review long-term trends in the economy and examine the medium-term outlook. Winter works and student employment programs would also be assessed.

Mr. Davis said the committee's terms of reference didn't go as far as he wanted but "I do regard it as a step in the right direction."

He said it was basically the federal government which balked at his suggestion of a joint economic committee.

Mr. Davis said he was told by the prime minister that "as a matter of government policy" Ottawa was not opposed to Ontario opting out of shared-cost programs.

"He suggested one reason the post-secondary (education) agreement was two rather than five years was in recognition of Ontario's request that this be assessed. I'm quite happy that very shortly the officials of the two governments will get together and see just what are the . . . difficulties in . . . some reasonable transfer of tax points to move us out of the post-secondary agreement."

Asked whether he considered this a major reversal by the federal government, Mr. Davis said "you'll have to decide that for yourselves."

Ontario has pushed at this conference for the same type of arrangement that Quebec received several years ago—running its own programs in the education and health fields and getting a tax abatement from Ottawa to help pay the cost.

Along with most other provinces, Ontario has been locked into shared-cost programs where Ottawa provides money but, in effect, dictates the programs.

Mr. Davis is seeking an outright grant to help finance programs designed and run by the province.

His bid was turned down initially by Finance Minister E. J. Benson on grounds that Ottawa is on the verge of introducing revamped income tax legislation. Thus the amount of tax that should be given a province running its own program could not be determined.

The two main areas where Ontario seeks to withdraw are health care and university-level education.

The province currently is consolidating medical and hospital services.

Ontario receives about $1 billion annually in shared-cost payments—$425 million for hospitals, $205.5 million for health, $127.8 million for welfare and $176.7 million for post-secondary education.

Mr. Davis said he is optimistic that Ontario will at least be able to drop the post-secondary education agreement soon.

"Post-secondary education is the simplest area to come to grips with. There is no need to wait until the tax bill has been in effect for a year or two."

Objecting to Ontario's opting-out proposal Tuesday, Prime Minister Trudeau said this would not be possible until accurate figures are available under the new tax legislation scheduled to start Jan. 1.

That would show how big the Ontario tax abatement should be.

Mr. Davis repeated his contention that it is illegal for Ottawa to establish an abatement for Quebec and refuse one for Ontario.

He said Federal Health Minister John Munro reinforced Ontario's arguments Wednesday when he proposed changes in the formula for shared-cost health programs, calling the existing plan inflexible and expen-

Senator Arthur Roebuck, 93, Dies in Cobourg Nursing Home

COBOURG, Ont. (CP) — Senator Arthur Roebuck, controversial friend of the underdog in a long political career that often found him at odds with his colleagues and peers, died at 93 Wednesday night in a Cobourg nursing home.

The bouncy senator, who had at 90 that "zany talk of old age this side of 100 is premature," had been in ill health for about two years. He came to the nursing home from a Toronto hospital five weeks ago.

But almost until his death the years had taken little toll on his habits and attitudes. He took up golf at 60, pointing at 70 and became one of the most active members of the Upper House when he was named senator at 67.

It was in the Senate that he spoke out strongly in defence of age. He described the government bill that became law in 1965 forcing senators appointed after its enactment to retire at 75 as a "brutal thing," and he refused to retire.

"He was one of the pioneers in working for the present Canadian divorce legislation. His contributions were very great indeed."

Among his final tasks before his last illness, Senator Roebuck conducted a committee study of legislation—subsequently passed into law—that outlawed racial propaganda.

On his 91st birthday he still worked in his Parliament Hill office from 10 a.m. to 10 p.m.

A tall, dignified figure familiar for three decades in the committee rooms and hallways on the Hill, he attracted admiration, respect and affection from members of all parties.

Even in the midst of controversy, Senator Roebuck always displayed a warm politeness and demonstrated respect for political opponents.

And though he wore old-fashioned wing collars, he approved on the whole of today's youth. "They're great," he said in an interview last year. "Just great. They show spirit nowadays. Of course, I don't agree with some of the silly things young people do, but compared with us, they have far more vibrance, and vigor than we ever had.

"They are better educated than any generation that ever lived and they're not likely to be satisfied with half measures as we were."

Although he wore the Liberal label throughout his 39 years in politics—in the Ontario legislature, the federal House of Commons and the Senate—he was at odds more than once with his party's leadership.

Ontario Liberal Premier Mitchell Hepburn banished him to a seat at the fringe of the Liberal group when he was re-elected in 1937 after he had resigned from the cabinet in a policy dispute.

Arthur Roebuck as attorney-general, and then-labor minister David Croll clashed with Mr. Hepburn over the United Auto Workers' strike at the General Motors plant in Oshawa. Mr. Hepburn looked on the UAW, affiliated with the Congress of Industrial Organizations, as an undesirable group. He posted a police detachment near the strikers and Mr. Roebuck and Mr. Croll resigned over the matter.

Throughout his career, Senator Roebuck argued in favor of the rights of labor and against any form of discrimination. He became one of Canada's foremost labor-management conciliators.

He spoke out for portable pensions and against early, compulsory retirement. In 1955, at 77, he criticized the practice of insurance companies cancelling sickness and accident policies when an insured turned 75. He said he himself was not the first to be a good risk.

Senator Roebuck's wife, the former Inez Perry of Toronto, died in 1954. The senator then lived in Toronto with his daughter and son-in-law and two grandchildren.

His funeral will be held from St. Paul's Anglican Cathedral in Toronto at 2 p.m. Saturday with burial in Mount Pleasant cemetery there.

Senate Investigator Is Beaten in Texas

WASHINGTON (Reuter) — A Senate staff investigator was beaten in his hotel room in San Antonio, Tex., Tuesday night, Senator John McClellan (Dem., Ark.), chairman of the Senate permanent subcommittee on investigations, disclosed Wednesday.

Subcommittee sources suggested the investigation was connected with organized crime.

Gallinaro is reported to be in good condition.

Indians Call Judge Racist

TORONTO (CP) — The Union of Ontario Indians Wednesday characterized district court Judge George Collins of Sudbury as "a discoloration in the Canadian social fabric" for remarks he made Tuesday in sentencing an Indian man on an assault charge.

The 57-year-old judge, appointed to the bench eight years ago, had described the Whitefish Lake and Birch Island reserves near Sudbury as a "disgrace." He told of one Indian child he had seen faint in church from malnutrition, which can lead to brain damage.

The child will be "just another stupid Indian of which we have many," the judge said in giving Marcel Petaquenoe, 24, a suspended sentence for assaulting a friend with a barbecue fork May 30.

Fred Plain, president of the Ontario Indian Organization, said in a prepared statement there is no place on the bench for men making statements such as that by Judge Collins.

"Every so often we hear racism openly and blatantly expressed, especially from such learned men as court judges," said Mr. Plain. "We are not really amazed at such exhibitions of twisted minds, for we know that in every society there are sick minds."

"Judge Collins is a discoloration in the Canadian social fabric. Yet it is good that such racism is exposed before it grows like a cancer and causes a whole country to become diseased with bigotry and race hatred."

Witness Denies Beating Prisoners

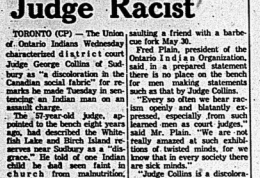
KINGSTON, Ont. (CP) — A Crown witness who has described some of the horror in Kingston penitentiary during last April's riot denied Wednesday any part in the beating of "undesirable" prisoners. He admitted he carried a steel bar and ran errands for leaders of the convict insurrection.

The 24-year-old witness still is in prison serving a four-year sentence for a 1970 conviction for robbery with violence. He said under cross-examination during the non-capital murder trial of 13 prisoners charged in the deaths of two fellow convicts that he carried the metal rod to protect himself.

He agreed with defence lawyer H. L. Rosenthal's suggestion that anyone looking down at the floor of the prison's cellblock dome, where the beatings of the child molesters, sexual offenders and informers took place, might have concluded that he was taking part.

But when asked by defence lawyer Arthur Maloney whether he himself "did a little beating . . . of the boys in the chairs" — the "undesirables" were tied to chairs in the dome area, testimony has indicated — the witness made a firm denial.

The witness also replied in the negative to Mr. Maloney's question about whether he would be charged with murder following the riot.



He said he could not remember when it was that he went to the dome floor, armed with the steel bar, after the undesirables had been brought from their cells to the dome area on the morning of Sunday, April 18, But he said he recalled staying for only a short time.

His identity was kept secret under Mr. Justice William Henderson's instructions that names of current or former prisoners testifying not be made public during the trial.

He was questioned by defence lawyers for much of Wednesday's proceedings about his testimony Tuesday on the burning of the beating victims with lighted cigarettes .

The witness had told the court he saw one of the accused, James Ong, 22, of London, Ont., burn five or six convicts with the glowing end of a cigarette to "see if they were alive," and burn the leg of Brian Ensor, 26, a prisoner whose body was found in a cellblock after the riot ended.

The 13 prisoners on trial are charged with the murder of Ensor and Bertrand Robert, 34, who died in hospital a month after the uprising.

Quinte Students To Help Teach

Physical education at two city separate schools will be supplemented soon with the assistance of grade 12 students from Quinte Secondary School.

The separate school board has approved the students' attendance at Holy Rosary and Our Lady of Fatima schools from 2 to 4 p.m. three days a week until Christmas.

The 26 students involved in the enriched physical education program at Quinte have shown a special interest in teaching physical education and are now going into the elementary schools to gain insight into the problems of organizing and managing a class.

Both male and female students are enrolled in the special program at Quinte and are given an opportunity to instruct and observe at both elementary and secondary school levels.

In addition, they recently spent some time with the trainer at Queen's University for a lecture on athletic injuries.

The bidding:

North	East	South	West
1♣	Pass	1♥	Pass
1NT	Pass	2♥	Pass
3NT	Pass	4♥

The bidding:
Opening lead—ten of spades.
The first trick by the defense—the opening lead —is often the most decisive play of the hand. More contracts are won or lost on the opening lead than at any other stage of the play.

However, even perfect leads must be properly pursued for them to prove effective in the subsequent play. Generally, this is not difficult, for once the opening lead is made and both defenders see 26 cards instead of 13, they are in good position to capitalize fully on their assets.

West found the killing lead in this hand — the ten of spades, covered by the queen —but, even so, East had to react properly to make the lead effective.

Had he taken the ace, South would have made the contract whatever was returned. But East diagnosed West's lead as a doubleton and he therefore refused the trick at the same time signaling with the seven.

As a result South could no longer make the contract. It did not matter whether he tried a trump finesse or led the ace and another trump; in either case West would take the king and get a spade ruff to eventually put declarer down one.

It is not really difficult for East to read that the ten of spades represents a doubleton. West can hardly have any other holding consistent with the bidding and play.

Thus, if West had the 10-5-2, he would lead the two, not the ten. West therefore cannot have three spades.

Nor can West have the singleton ten, for that would lead to the impossible conclusion that South had bid hearts three times and deliberately suppressed a holding of five spades to the jack.

West's ten lead therefore had to be a doubleton.

What The Stars Say

By CONSTELLA

Aries (March 21-April 19): You'll have little patience with folks who think that their neighborhood block is the center of the universe. Strange, foreign customs and ideas appear to expand your horizons.

Taurus (April 20-May 20): It's OK to keep an eye on what the other fellow's doing with his money, where it comes from, where it goes, but don't neglect your own security as a result.

Gemini (May 21-June 21): Hopes for any sort of long-range agreement or union with partners are put aside for a while. Loved ones are in a fine mood today, so just enjoy it and worry tomorrow.

Cancer (June 22-July 22): Not a particularly memorable day, though aspects are on the plus side. You'll be busy at work, but the step-up in pressure shouldn't be a strain. Much can be accomplished.

Leo (July 23-Aug. 22): This evening can start a very sociable weekend especially if you make early arrangements to see old friends, folks from out of town.

Virgo (Aug. 23-Sept. 22): Being alone and being lonely are two very separate and distinct situations as far as you're concerned. A very private day to pursue solitary mental pursuits. What you read stimulates.

Libra (Sept. 23-Oct. 22): You wouldn't be a Libra if you didn't spend a day occasionally checking in, calling, visiting all your friends. Catch up on the latest gossip and news.

Scorpio (Oct. 23-Nov. 21): A quick shopping trip, best around lunch time, can lift your sagging spirits. Buy something unusual and attractive that does nothing more practical than make you happy.

Sagittarius (Nov. 22-Dec. 21): You can expect extra attention, even VIP treatment, wherever you go today. Just don't let all this fuss and flattery go to your head, however. Say thank you.

Capricorn (Dec. 22-Jan. 19): Just a little peace and quiet and your auditored nerves will start to mend. Stay away from kin or neighbors who continually provoke or upset you.

Aquarius (Jan. 20-Feb. 18): Friends won't have to push you out to fun spots this evening. In fact, they'll have all they can do just keeping up. If you want to be the life of the party, here's your chance.

Pisces (Feb. 19-March 20): A smooth close today to a busy week in professional spheres. The absence of any immediate pressures for next Monday can let you enjoy the weekend without a lot of worries.

TODAY'S BIRTHDAY — No memorable changes this year, but a lot of day-to-day fun and action, especially on the local, neighborhood scene. A new friend, close to home, becomes an important influence.

Dollar Value Stays Same

OTTAWA (CP) — There is no talk of a revaluation of the Canadian dollar in current discussions with United States officials on bilateral trade and economic questions, External Affairs Minister Mitchell Sharp told the Commons Wednesday.

Canada has "entirely complied" with U.S. demands that its trading partners let market pressures push their currencies to higher levels in relation to the U.S. dollar on exchange markets, Mr. Sharp said.

He added that the Canada-United States exchange rate was not discussed by U.S. and Canadian officials at an Ottawa meeting Monday, which touched on other trade issues, including the defence production sharing agreement and the Canada-U.S. auto pact.

The Canadian dollar has fluctuated in relation to the U.S. dollar since June 1, 1970, when it was released from a pegged value of 92½ cents U.S. Lately, it has been close to equality with the U.S. dollar. An increase in the exchange value has the effect of making Canadian goods more expensive and harder to sell in foreign markets.

But despite the floating Canadian dollar, Canada enjoys a trade surplus with the U.S. and the gap is widening.

For the first three quarters of 1971, exports to the U.S. totalled $9.9 billion, up 8.7 per cent over the same period in 1970.

Imports from the U.S. totalled $8 billion, only 1.2 per cent higher than the previous year.

Faced with those figures, U.S. officials have been seeking changes in the 1959 defence production agreement and the 1965 auto trade pact to remove what they call unfair benefits enjoyed by Canada.

Mackasey Names Bell Mediators

OTTAWA (CP) — Two Montreal men have been named mediators in a dispute between Bell Canada and its operators in Ontario and Quebec, Labor Minister Bryce Mackasey announced Wednesday.

Mr. Mackasey, in a statement, urged both parties to cooperate with mediators G. R. Dancet and S. T. Payne to reach settlement in the wage dispute.

Operators in Quebec and Ontario have voted more than 90 per cent in favor of strike action for higher wages on the basis of a tabulation completed Wednesday by officials of the Traffic Employees Association.

Representing 8,500 Bell Canada workers in the two provinces, the association said Ottawa-area operators favored strike action by 95 per cent.

Association secretary, Shirley Nicholson, refused to give a strike date, saying it must be a surprise if it is to be effective.

They termed Bell's final offer of $15 a week "insulting".

Oil Spill Cost Could Be Heavy

OTTAWA (CP) — A major oil spill on a proposed Alaska-to-Washington state tanker route could cost Canada about $100 million, says a document made public Wednesday.

The estimate is contained in an appendix to a diplomatic note presented Aug. 18 to the United States state department by the Canadian embassy in Washington, opposing the tanker route.

In the formal aide-memoire itself, Canada rejected a U.S. suggestion that the two countries consider establishing a joint contingency plan to deal with potential oil spills on the West Coast.

However, the government offered to exchange technical information regarding the tanker situation on the Atlantic coast.

The diplomatic note, together with a series of appendices and annexes, was tabled in the Commons Wednesday by External Affairs Minister Mitchell Sharp in response to an earlier request by David Anderson (L—Esquimalt-Saanich).

Hostile Labor Chiefs Are Wooed by Nixon

Boost Sought In Gold Price

WASHINGTON (AP) — A formal proposal to devalue the United States dollar has been introduced in Congress by two legislators who say the Nixon administration is ready to take the step.

But the treasury department says the administration opposes the bill, introduced Thursday by Representative Henry Reuss (Dem, Wis.) and Senator Jacob Javits (Rep. N.Y.).

Both Reuss and Javits said Treasury Secretary John Connally let it be known Tuesday night in remarks before the New York Economic Club that the United States would be willing to negotiate a dollar devaluation to help settle the international monetary impasse.

They quoted this statement by Connally: "The United States is willing to talk about anything. Nothing is sacred."

But the treasury responded with a brief statement, saying: "The administration does not support legislation introduced by Representative Henry Reuss to raise the price of gold. Nothing in the remarks by Secretary Connally before the Economic Club of New York on Tuesday should be construed to reflect such support."

The bill would devalue the dollar by raising the price of gold, now officially set at $35 an ounce. The measure would allow the president to raise the price as much as 10 per cent.

It was Reuss who proposed that Nixon refuse to redeem dollars for gold shortly before Nixon took that action Aug. 15. When Reuss made his proposal, the administration said it opposed his idea.

Since Aug. 15, when Nixon in effect removed the basis for the international monetary system by closing the gold window, currencies of most major countries have floated against each other without fixed exchange rates.

The Nixon administration wants this to lead to a realignment of currency values, with undervalued currencies rising higher in relation to the dollar.

But agreement on the type of realignment sought still appears far away. Connally has called a meeting of finance ministers and central bankers of the 10 major non-Communist nations including Canada in Rome Nov. 30-Dec. 1 to consider a solution. But treasury officials remain skeptical one can be reached soon.

Zurich Gold Price Rises

ZURICH, Switzerland (AP) — The price of gold rose sharply on the Zurich free market today in the wake of reported new moves on gold and the monetary crisis.

Gold opened at $43.24-43.35 an ounce, up from Thursday's closing of $42.90-43.10, and rose to $43.40-43.55 by mid-morning. Trading was reported heavy.

Dealers attributed the increase to reports on a bill before the U.S. Congress to up the gold price by 10 per cent, and the summoning of a new Group of Ten meeting in Rome on the monetary crisis at the end of November.

Air Fare Agreement Reached

HONOLULU (AP) — Chief executives of 24 transatlantic airlines, which have been flirting with an all-out fare war, have reached a compromise agreement that will reduce many rates between North America and Europe.

Basic agreement on the new fare structure was announced Thursday night by H. Don Reynolds, assistant director-general of the International Air Transport Association, at the organization's annual general meeting.

New rates on key transatlantic routes were described as a compromise between West Germany's Lufthansa Airlines—which first moved to slash fares —and reluctant American carriers.

Two Slain At Wedding Reception

DURHAM (CP) — George Charles Giles, 71, of Durham was charged today with the non-capital murder of two Durham men gunned down at a wedding party at the Royal Canadian Legion hall.

Police said Carmen Allen, 50, and Murray Morice, 49, in charge of the bar during the party for Mr. and Mrs. Crawford Sharpe, were shot with a .38-calibre revolver.

Police said Mr. Allen was struck in the forehead, chest and stomach and that Mr. Morice died from a single wound. Two shots were fired into the ceiling during an ensuing struggle.

Giles was remanded in custody and will appear in provincial court Monday.

The party was being held in honor of the Sharpes who were married on Halloween.

Mrs. Sharpe said in an interview:

"It was just terrible. It made me sick. My husband and I were at the back of the hall ready to leave. Most people already had gone home and the bar was closed.

"We heard some shots but we thought it was someone playing around with a cap gun. We couldn't see anything and didn't know what was going on."

"The bar is at the front of the hall," she said. "Someone came back and told us. I didn't go too close. I felt dreadful. No one knows the reason behind this."

Police said a man was evicted from the building at about 9 p.m.

Lost Pay Boost Is Major Issue

MIAMI BEACH (CP) — President Nixon personally appealed today to hostile trade union leaders to support his program of wage controls and work with him to bring prosperity and more jobs to the American people.

The president told the annual convention of the AFL-CIO that "his Republican administration was a friend of the American worker, not its enemy.

Nixon took direct issue with the bitter and sarcastic remarks of AFL-CIO President George Meany, who accused him Thursday of working for the interests of "the fat cats"—big business —and ignoring the workers.

Nixon said the 90-day wage-price freeze he imposed in August had created more jobs and checked inflation, and that the program of direct wage price controls that replaced the freeze would repay many times over any immediate sacrifices that labor had to make.

The president made an indirect but obvious reference to a resolution in which the convention Thursday accused the administration of breaking its word to labor. The convention had expressed anger over the refusal of Nixon's pay board to bar retroactive pay covering wage increases lost during the freeze.

He said the administration and organized labor disagreed on tactics but did not differ on the goals before them.

He said these goals were the need to provide more jobs to stop inflation, to increase productivity and American trade overseas, and the need generally to establish a sound and stable economic base as the country changed from a war-time to a peacetime economy.

Nixon categorically denied Meany's assertions that his economic policies were aimed at benefiting business at the expense of the working man.

Meany has directed his anger chiefly at the refusal of the pay board, of which he is a member, to allow the retroactive payments of wage increases.

The president told the labor union leaders: "The freeze was not directed against labor, it did not affect labor more than it affected all segments of the economy and it was an action which was in perfect harmony with previous demands by many labor leaders to establish wage-price controls."

The resolution that won shouted approval from the 1,000 labor delegates said: "The American labor movement will not permit itself to become the scapegoat of administration policies which have brought this nation to the brink of economic disaster."

The resolution called for the federation's three representatives to remain on the pay board "only so long as a reasonable hope exists of securing recognition of the validity of contracts and achieving justice for working people generally."

The president's speech appeared aimed at persuading labor to participate fully in the work of the pay board despite its denunciation of its ruling on retroactive pay.

Meany had said Thursday: "If the president doesn't like the terms we laid down he can kick us off."

Meany said the 16 public and industry pay board members who outvoted the five labor members in the freeze on wage controls were working together to defeat and embarrass labor with offers of "under-the-table" deals. He said attempts were made to get labor representatives into quitting and make them the scapegoat for any failure of Nixon's controls.

The 71-year-old chief of the giant labor federation, representing nearly 14 million members in 117 unions, warned that Nixon would blame labor and impose far harsher measures if his economic controls fail.

Senators Favor Increases

WASHINGTON (AP) — Outvoted on the pay board, organized U.S. labor still may win approval for retroactive payment of raises held up during the freeze covering most groups.

The Senate banking committee voted 14 to 0 Thursday to approve a bill to order grant retroactive raises unless President Nixon rules them "unreasonably inflationary" with guidelines for Phase Two of his anti-inflation policy.

The House of Representatives banking committee has approved a similar proposal.

The pay board, meanwhile, meets today to continue reviewing a new contract between the United Mine Workers and coal operators.

The contract provides for pay raises of up to 35 per cent over three years. Board guidelines would limit pay increases to an average of 5.5 per cent a year.

In Miami Beach AFL-CIO President George Meany said he was "delighted" by the Senate committee's vote on retroactive pay.

Postal Union Chief Expects Showdown

OTTAWA (CP) — Charging that the post office is out to "bust the union," postal union leader Roger Decarie said Thursday an emergency meeting will be held here Monday to adopt strike or other action.

The president of the Letter Carriers Union of Canada made the announcement after a day-long meeting with other union representatives in the Council of Postal Unions.

He issued a statement accusing Postmaster-General Jean Pierre Cote of arrogance and contempt for the law.

A full strike call is certainly a possibility at Monday's meeting, Mr. Decarie said. Or the mails, already buildings towards their annual Christmas peak, could be disrupted by rotating strikes, slowdowns or other actions.

At issue in the dispute, which has already sparked rotating walkouts at some post offices in the Maritimes and Ontario, is the use of "casuals" by the post office to deliver the mail when union employees are on vacation or sick.

Molson Denies Canadiens To Be Sold to U.S. Interests

OTTAWA (CP) — Barry Mather (NDP—Surrey-White Rock) said Thursday in the Commons there was rumors that Montreal Canadiens of the National Hockey League will be sold to U.S. interests.

Revenue Minister Herb Gray, the minister who has reported to cabinet on the subject of foreign ownership, said he will look into the matter.

Irish Border Battle Is Staged

BELFAST (CP) — British troops and guerrillas fought a 16-minute gun battle across the Irish border Thursday night.

Bullets riddled the car of a policeman on the Irish Republic's side of the border. He escaped by throwing himself into a ditch.

The shooting started after two British armored cars went to prevent farmers from filling in a crater on a border road near Armagh. The crater had been blown by the British troops as an obstacle to gun-runners from the republic.

The British troops replied with bursts from browning machine-guns which are the standard armament of their Ferret patrol cars.

An Irish Army patrol appeared on the republican side of the border, and there was no further shooting.

The republic's prime minister, Jack Lynch, has protested previous border shootings and said he is considering taking the issue to the United Nations on a threat to peace.

He is known to disapprove, too, of the British policy of cratering roads along the largely unmarked 200-mile border between his Republic and Northern Ireland.

The British army insists that cratering is necessary to prevent the supply of arms, explosives and men to outlaws of the Irish Republican Army now fighting to merge Northern Ireland with the republic.

But Lynch, whose government is pledged to seek an end to Ireland's partition by peaceful means, contends cratering causes more trouble than it cures.

Cratering often disrupts life in border areas in several ways.

Many children living in the republic go to school in Northern Ireland. The border often splits parishes. Many farmers own land on both sides of the non-existent fence.

In all these cases, cratering means that people must make long detours if they are obliged to use "approved" roads.

Proud Moment

Hastings Having Housing Boom

Hastings county is in the midst of "an unparalleled housing boom," according to statistics released today by realtors A. E. LePage Ltd.

Sales the five months of June through October increased by 49 per cent this year over 1970. Mrs. Marguerite o Cooke, manager of the Belleville office of A. E. LePage Ltd., estimates real estate sales will increase at least 25 per cent this year.

For the month of October alone, the increase in the total value of real estate sales in Hastings county was 112 per cent over last year, from $2,012,553 for 248 sales in 1970 to $5,341,603 for 358 sales in 1971.

In Belleville, real estate transactions were up by more than 100 per cent in October of this year over October 1970. Last year, 53 residential units were sold in October for a total value of $881,698 or an average price of $16,633 a unit.

This year, transactions in October totalled 116, for a total value of $2,821,500. The average price per unit was also up, to $24,319.

Real estate activity in Trenton was down in October 1971 from 40 transactions last year to 37 this year.

Activity in the suburban area is reflected in the October comparisons. Sales in Sidney township rose to 42 this year from 28 last October. Sales in Thurlow were up by three, from 20 last October to 23 this year.

Faraday township experienced its own boom, with 18 properties changing hands in October 1971, compared to 12 in October 1970.

Activity of this nature in rural areas often is the result of one person subdividing his land into vacation properties, Mrs. Cooke said.

A better supply of mortgage money lasting until about two months ago is one of the reasons for the real estate boom, said Mrs. Cooke.

about the capital gains tax," she added.

Driver Survives 401 Wreck

TRENTON (Staff) — A Quebec resident had a miraculous escape from death this morning when the car he was driving was in collision with a transport making a U turn on Highway 401 between Brighton and Colborne.

It was pouring rain at the time of the accident and the disruption of traffic in the eastbound lane added considerably to the confusion at the scene.

Vital Turcotte, 43, of Thurso, Papineau, P.Q., driving alone in the car suffered head cuts and a possible fractured right leg and was admitted to the Trenton Memorial Hospital for treatment. He considers himself lucky to be alive because his car came to rest under the transport carrying a load of ice cream valued at $15,000.

The dolly wheels under the transport were damaged but the driver, William Griffith of Rexdale, was not hurt. Constable Brian Cook with the OPP Brighton detachment reported the Turcotte vehicle a complete wreck as he continued his investigation.

Industrial Park Sites Growing in Popularity

Belleville's northeast industrial park will soon be dressed up with the addition of five swimming pools in a landscaped outdoor showroom.

This raises the question of whether or not workers in the industrial park will insist on swimming time being added to their next union contract, suggested city industrial aid Joyce.

The pools' owner is St. Lawrence Pools Ltd., a Kingston firm moving here to assemble, house and sell swimming pools. The firm has bought a three-quarter acre site in the park and will erect a 3,000 square foot building/ skout in such a manner that 6,000 square feet of the lot will be a landscaped outdoor showroom. One underground pool and three aboveground pools will be installed, and will be on show all year round.

Fifteen people will be employed in the summer, and seven in the winter. However, the firm will retain some employees on a year-round basis to work in the pool bath business.

A large number of people are showing an interest in the smaller sized lots in the industrial park, Joyce said.

Lots from three-quarters of an acre to five acres in size are in demand, largely because of their low price, he reported.

Land in the industrial park sells for $2,000 an acre, virtually at cost to the city. Belleville bought the land for $250 an acre in 1962, and the price it is now charging includes cost of site improvements, taxes over the years, administrative overhead, and legal and survey costs.

Another attraction, said Mr. Joyce, is the geography of the park — close to haulage companies and at the city site and to Highway 401.

All lots in the industrial park are sold subject to city approval of the type and size of the building and the plot plan.

Santa in Picton December 11

PICTON (Staff) — Santa Claus is coming to town Dec. 11 to lead a parade through Main Street and to greet waiting youngsters.

The jolly old gentleman's annual visit to Picton is being sponsored by the Prince Edward Chamber of Commerce under the direction of parade chairman Ronald Scott.

Trophies will be awarded for best commercial entry in parade, best marching unit, and best private entry.

Mr. Scott is encouraging float entries to register with him in advance and has remarked that he hopes to arrange for a free movie at the Regent Theatre all young riders greeting Santa. Free treats will be distributed following the parade by none other than Mr. Claus.

Nursing Home Workers Radiate Enthusiasm

By MARGARET HAYLOCK
Staff Reporter

PICTON (Staff) — Ringleader of the "Resthaven Rembrandts" 20 - year - old Heather McNally is staking pretense for her basement studio soon scheduled for an official opening.

Employed by Resthaven Nursing Home, owned by Picton resident Mildred Irwin, Heather has recruited all interested patients for an arts and crafts program to provide activity and general enthusiasm.

With the help of fellow worker Pat McKenzie of Wasspoos, Heather is busily creating an entertaining grab bag of excursions and special projects for Resthaven's 38 residents.

To encourage involvement in the new arts and crafts room, a car wash was organized at the nursing home this fall to raise funds toward the renovation of an unused basement area.

The project, willingly supported by staff and patients alike, netted $47 toward needed materials.

Heather, who is now working a regular floor shift at the nursing home, will be transferred to the arts and crafts room when the program is initiated.

The vivacious young woman insists that she has no special training in art but admits that she did spend three summers as a Picton playground supervisor learning the "how-to" of leadership.

A graduate of Prince Edward Collegiate Institute, Heather has considered a nursing career as a possible follow-up to her work with the sick and the elderly.

Her infectious enthusiasm for life is readily transmitted to Resthaven patients eager to span the generation gap on a day's outing.

Recently Heather and co-worker Pat forfeited their days off to return to the nursing home to lead an afternoon hike.

Several residents of the nursing home coached by her dressed for the occasion and visited the rooms of fellow patients for an informal trick or treat session.

Mr. Hees had marched in the veteran's parade and stopped briefly to chat with the senior citizens standing at the monument.

With the Christmas season approaching, Heather and Pat are making plans for elaborate holiday events which include preparation of a float for the town's Santa Claus parade on December 11. Theme for the float will be the new arts and crafts program.

A pre-Christmas bake sale also has been scheduled by the youthful Resthaven employees.

Although Heather and Pat are looking forward to all of these projects, the opening of the arts and crafts shop remains the favorite topic for conversation.

Rems made will include egg shell vases, plastic floral arrangements and wall plaques.

A screen for home movies also will be installed in the basement room.

"We enjoy it as much as they do," declared Heather as she discussed the success of the craft's program.

She observed that patients already have begun to work with various projects and are developing pride in their achievements.

"They are always warning me not to paint their paintings," laughed Heather as she referred to residents' concern for their "masterpieces".

Eagerly supported by nursing home owners Mrs. Irwin, Heather and Pat have introduced youth and enthusiasm to the senior citizens.

Restaurant in Woods A Family Project

By IAN ROBERTSON
Staff Reporter

MADOC — A gourmet's delight right in the middle of the north woods!

Just beyond the fringes and not too far from town...Fred and Willi Kutsch have captured a little of Alpine Europe in a Canadian woodland setting.

Two complete mountain chalets with wooden sides, second storey balconies and distinctively bright old-world colour schemes, have been erected by the family.

Tired of the hustle and bustle of city life fi Toronto, Fred and his brother moved their wives and mother to the dense bush country midway between Madoc and Tweed in 1968. Several other German families had settled in the area, and the Kutschs felt right at home.

Opening of the restaurant was first suggested by friend Allan Burris of Madoc. Hundreds of hunters and snowmobilers taking to the woods every fall and winter had no camp or huts in which to rest and enjoy a bit of warmth. On the Kutsch property was the original farmhouse, , long abandoned but still in service-able condition.

Twelve truckloads of garbage were removed and the old farm kitchen renovated for guests. In the first year, no less than 72 snowmobilers made the Kutsch farm kitchen a base for wiyter sport. Only hot coffee and doughnuts were served that first year. . . but their reputation spread.

The family decided to expand.

Mrs. Anna Kutsch would handle the cooking, aided by her daughters-in-law Anne and Kathy. Her son Willi is the only experienced commercial baker, but this didn't hold them back.

An addition large enough to seat 60 was made to the farmhouse kitchen. An old pot-belly stove from an abandoned northern railroad station was brought in.

The result is a homey atmosphere.

The entire job, from carpentering to decorating, was handled by members of the family and their friends.

"People said, at first, that we were crazy building a restaurant in the back woods, away from everything," the restaurateur chuckled.

But in their seventh week of operation, Mother's Old Country Restaurant has attracted patrons from as far away as Detroit, Toronto, Belleville, Trenton, Peterborough as well as diners from nearby.

In traditional German style, such foods as sauerbraten goulash, pickled cabbage and thick, homemade soups are a specialty. Throughout the week at least two or three traditional German meals, together with several Canadian dishes are offered.

Many of the vegetables are home-grown in their three gardens; pastries are entirely the work of the family chefs.

Open daily from 10 a.m. until 10 p.m. — when winter arrives, this will be extended until midnight. Friday, week ends are so busy that bookings are required for dinners.

Mr. Kutsch this morning said a Liquor Control Board of Ontario inspector recently visited Mother's and there "shouldn't be much of a problem" obtaining a beverage license.

Mr. Burris, who is a frequent and welcome guest at the Kutsch dining room, heartily endorses the fare. "Most of the foods you can cut with just a fork, they're so tender."

Mein Host and Guest

With hundreds of snowmobilers and hunters in the woods north of Madoc, Allan Burris, left, suggested the Kutsch family renovate their disused farmhouse on their property in order to serve coffee and doughnuts. An overnight success, the family has expanded their kitchen coffee service into a full-scale German restaurant in the woods north of Highway 7. A complete family enterprise, except for added weekend help, the dining room is in its seventh week of operation. Here, Fred Kutsch, ushers in Mr. Burris . . . a frequent and welcome guest to Mother's Old Country Restaurant.

Cross Lake Dam Repaired Quickly

TWEED (Special) — The Mississippi River Improvement Company has announced that a crash program has resulted in repairs to the Cross Lake Dam being completed in a record eight days. The remote location of the dam added to the difficulty in carrying out the extensive repairs. Concrete — about 70 yards — had to be hauled from Smiths Falls.

The work was undertaken on behalf of the Mississippi River Improvement Com; any by Ontario Hydro employees and local contractors. The work crew put in long hours, in order to complete the repairs as quickly as possible, so that flows could be returned to normal.

On Tuesday, Nov. 9, the coffer dam was breached to start the flows back to normal.

Increased water levels at Mississippi Lake will not, however, be apparent until about Nov. 20. The normal lowering schedule on Long Lake (Kashawkasank) has been delayed about three weeks, but should be down to its lower level by the end of November. The normal autumn lowering of Mazinaw Lake has not been affected by this repair program.

Big Gull (Clarendon) Lake will remain at a higher than normal level until about the end of November because of the coffer dam required for the construction of the highway bridge at Cozvale.

Old World Atmosphere

In 1968, Fred Kutsch moved his family from, Toronto to the Black River Road, north of Highway 7. Here he and his brother Willi constructed two Alpine homes. Last year, they converted the original farm house into a country kitchen for snowmobilers and hunters. So successful was this venture, that they have opened a full-scale restaurant in the north woods. Decor includes hardwood floors, iron lamp brackets, and this ex-railroad station potbelly stove.

Utilities Approved For New Factory

TRENTON (Staff) — A decision by the Public Utilities Commission meeting here yesterday will move Trenton into a more advantageous position for future industrial expansion.

The Commission approved spending $50,000 in providing electrical and water services to the new Robin Hood Multi Foods plant and is signing an agreement with the company to the effect.

The water services will parallel town-owned land in the vicinity which means a considerable area is being turned into an industrial park by the installation.

Cost of the substation for the supply of power ($20,000) will be paid for by the Utilities from the food concern in a three-year period along with interest at the bank rate.

The Commission proposes to issue debentures in the amount of $30,000 to cover the expenditure for the water services line to the plant.

U.S. Aid for Russia?

As we are all aware the United States, with its heavy demands on natural resources, casts covetous eyes on Canada's riches. The U.S. would like to be able to share our water, electricity and all the rest of it. To that end we frequently hear of U.S. suggestions for a pooling of continental resources; but this is a concept with so many overtones of sovereignty and national requirements at home that it is political dynamite here.

If there is natural reticence here about squandering our resources the United States nevertheless is still casting an eye around for other possible sources of supply. And with strange consequences; the word is that U.S. Commerce Secretary Maurice Stans is en route to Moscow on a trade drive that could lead to U.S. industry pouring millions of dollars into Soviet enterprises.

Trade officials, as was pointed out the other day, are interested in investing in Soviet natural gas and copper deposits to bring them into full commercial use. The gas, shipped in liquid form, would have a wide open market in the United States where prices have been curtailed because of a gas shortage.

Before leaving Washington Stans talked of the possibility of U.S. capital being used to develop resources in a joint venture, extend export credit to Communist countries, and cited what he described as Russia's need to develop its resources and increase its supply of consumer goods.

What a development! Former Soviet Premier Khrushchev, who boasted that his country would overhaul the United States as the world's leading industrial nation, must be turning in his grave. But the Soviet is not remains well behind the U.S., and indeed other countries, in this regard. The U.S. mission to Moscow is yet further proof of this.

We may well express disappointment that Canada, considering its recent dealings with the Soviets, could not have come to such an agreement. But all we got was Kosygin and a lot of fancy diplomatic talk about closer relations. The Americans, meanwhile, by getting down to the dollars and cents practical issues of industrial development along with the Soviet Union. Who would have believed it five . . . ten years ago?

TV Scene

A look at the television scene these days and at entertainment personalities is to be reminded of the passing of the years.

Was it a decade or so ago for instance that Pat Boone was at the top of the charts, only to fade out of sight? But there he was the other night, surfacing on a Bob Hope special, a little longer-haired but still fresh of face at 37, to sing True Love with his wife. And there were his four talented teenage daughters to let us know that yes, indeed, the years have slipped by.

Another shock of sorts was that perky little Swede, Ann-Margret ,whom we thought was relatively new to the movie and television world., in a piece of vintage Hollywood, Dames at Sea. It was one of those pieces of showbiz whimsy, and interesting to see that Ann-Margret must have been one of Ann-Margret's first movies — she is now 30 — but because she starred in it along with Ann Miller, one of the film world's great beauties who sang and danced her way through many a film quite a number of years ago. She is now 48. Ann-Margret, incidentally, has been appearing in one of those "Adults Only" type of films in Belleville this week.

But if the years go by, look at the zest those in show business display and which we who sit and watch might well emulate. Look at Jack Benny for instance, still active at 77, not to mention Jimmy Durante, 78, the irrepressible Bob Hope, 68, and Bing Crosby, 67. On the distaff side, Doris Day is more youthful and attractive looking at 47 than ever. And look at those athletic dancers who are accompaniment to many television shows. What a degree of training and discipline their work must entail. Watching these sterling performers we are reminded that we are as young as we feel.

Students' Display

Speaking of those exhibitions seen from time to time at the Quinte Mall, there is one on display just now on fire prevention and it is by local primary school students. And very effective it is too, as well as artistic. This is the kind of thing we get to see only on "Open House" occasions at the various schools, but here the work of the youngsters is brought before a wider audience. In this case, moreover, the message of fire prevention is conveyed forcefully and with imagination by the youthful artists.

Chinese Support Arabs in United Nations Debut

By STEPHEN SCOTT
UNITED NATIONS (CP)
By placing itself squarely on the side of the Arabs, particularly the Palestinians, China has injected itself as a new voice in Middle Eastern affairs.

China, installed its Middle East policy Monday when Deputy Foreign Minister Chiao Kuan-hua addressed the People's Republic of China's first speech in the United Nations General Assembly.

There was nothing new in it. But when such statements were made in Peking few paid attention to them. Made here they gain attention. From now on any attempts inside or outside the UN to reach a settlement in the Middle East must be done with China in mind.

Chiao said China "resolutely supports the Palestinians and other Arabs in their attempts to regain land lost to Israel in wars starting in 1948.

Then he added that China, as one superpolitical death lead behind the backs of the Palestinians and Arabs.

Chiao repeated its rejection of Resolution 242 passed by the UN Security Council in November 1967 that virtually all countries involved in the Middle East, including the United States, Soviet Union, Egypt and Israel, accept this resolution as the basis for all negotiations.

And the Chinese statement appears to reject any idea of making Big Four talks, held here off and on for years, into the Big Five. The fact that China will be attending to do with these talks may mean that they finally will die after achieving virtually nothing since the last Middle East war.

Perhaps China's death also are U.S. attempts of the last 1½ years to get Israel and Egypt moving at least a partial settlement which would involve partial withdrawal of Israeli troops to permit the opening of the Suez canal.

Egypt has virtually washed its hands on these American attempts, at any rate, and now they have China coming here with a "no deals" policy which makes quiet diplomacy involving the super-powers difficult.

Egyptian officials have themselves met with the China speech, which they regard as putting China on the side of justice.

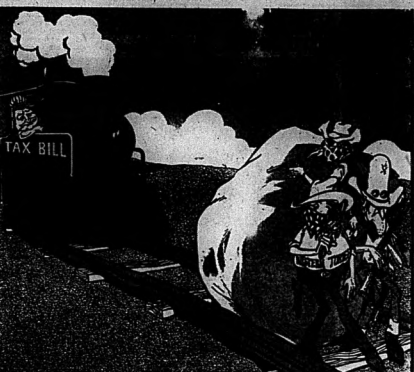
Surprisingly, Israel looks upon it as a mixed blessing. Israel has never had any use for the Big Four talks and then can feel confortable with the Chinese opposition to them.

But it worries about the restatement of the rejection of Resolution 242. And of course it worries about any support for the Palestinian guerrilla organizations determined to wipe out Israel.

While Egypt says it is happy with the Chinese speech, it could be advance warning of some trouble for the Egyptians.

For one thing the Egyptians are insisting on a Middle East debate in the UN General Assembly. In past years they could count on things going their way with the assembly majority always ready to anti-Israeli resolution.

Now China may have its opinions of what should be done and that could include stronger language than the Palestinians than contained in the language of Resolution 242. But China makes things difficult for all parties.



President Anwar Sadat of Egypt still wants a settlement of the Middle East crisis so that he can get on with the development of his country. Early this year it was considered possible that he would leave the Palestinians to their own devices if he could get a settlement with Israel.

As American partial settlement attempts have got nowhere, Sadat has become more and more disenchanted with Washington. He now appears to be turning to the UN as the only avenue leading to a settlement.

If he has to deal along with greater support for the Palestinians the chances of any settlement with Israel will become more remote.

Some observers say that the Chinese would desert the Palestinians before the Egyptians. And the Egyptians say that China may not push its opposition to 242.

Nobody knows for certain what the Chinese will do, which makes the Middle East situation muddier than before.

"Now, what?"

Depressed Fracture
Eight-year-Old Undergoes Rare Operation on Skull

From The Peterborough Examiner

Karen Maughan arrived home in Cavan Township after an operation at the Hospital for Sick Children, Toronto, which is rare in North America.

Eight-year-old Karen, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Robin Maughan, RR3, Cavan, fell off her bicycle June 16 while turning into the farm driveway, and put a dent in her skull.

When she was first taken to hospital, no concussion was diagnosed, but later, after her parents noted the dent on the left side of her head, an X-ray showed a depressed skull fracture and Karen was taken to Toronto Oct. 31.

Dr. Bruce Hendrick, the hospital's neurosurgeon, in effect cut out the indented bone, turned it upside down and sewed it back into Karen Maughan's skull.

The bone, which had been pressing Karen's brain, now bulges out, but Dr. Hendrick said the shape of her skull will return to normal in about two months.

Mr. Maughan said doctors told him she might suffer brain damage unless she underwent surgery.

Dr. Hendrick, who has performed the operation on several other children, said that to his knowledge the only other doctor in the world who performs it is Dr. Kenneth Jamieson of Brisbane, Australia.

He had described the technique to the recent Congress of Neural Surgeons in Harbor, Fla., and found it was new to the 1,400 doctors at the meeting.

Wilderness Conservation

Milwaukee Journal

Commercial timber interests eying millions of acres of national forest have enlisted active support of the National Forest Service against a legislative measure under consideration by Congress. If it would temporarily safeguard national forest land that is being evaluated under the Wilderness Act of 1964, for possible permanence. Inclusion in the federal wilderness system. It also would protect some other national forest lands that have wilderness potential but were not considered for evaluation in the 1964 act.

The measure would only about half of the national forests designated in the act will actually be studied by the time the act expires in 1974.

Conservationists — joined recently by Sen. Nelson (D-Wis.) — argue that this remaining land, and adjacent forest with similar potential, should be considered without outcome of the evaluation, whenever that is.

There is nothing wrong with additional harvesting of federal forests, provided that there is better regulation than the Forest Service has sometimes provided in the past. But it would be a serious mistake to permit wholesale cutting of lands that could rightly qualify for permanent designation as wilderness.

Preserve of the wilderness order would be a good way to buy the time needed to make that designation.

Eric Kierans and the Long-Term View

By DON O'HEARN
From The Intelligencer's Queen's Park Bureau

TORONTO — A short while ago in a Vancouver speech the errant former genius of the Trudeau government, Eric Kierans, was critical of the federal approach to unemployment and economic problems.

He said, in effect, that Ottawa, and by inference the other governments, thinking in terms of why the House burned down the day before yesterday rather than planning the House they should be building for 10 years from now.

Mr. Kierans, in bringing attention to the governmental bad habit—if not its incapacity—of short-term thinking was doing a service that hopefully others might adopt.

Outside pressure in considerable volume is the one influence that could force government, and its experts, to find the political courage to go beyond the immediate to the long-term and thereby become constructive.

For it is largely politics which keeps it devoted to the present.

Long-term planning means pointing out in employment that there are trials ahead before employment can be adjusted to the market so it can be spread over the whole work force (if it ever can).

Within the economy it means pointing out that some industries that simply aren't competitive will either adapt or cease to be closed down, and that probably certain areas of the country and the province can never (or at least not foreseeably) perhaps enjoy the high living standards, so-called, that accompany intensive industrial development.

There was the same old haggling about who should do what, and how, and why and after talking to whom.

There was talk of jobs and the current momentous economic problems.

This was proper enough. These things have to be discussed. But this was all there was.

Except for the particular subject matter and different players on stage, the conference was the same old dreamed: the basic conflict between provinces trying to get more stature and the federal government resisting and ever so slowly giving way.

A conference, one perhaps might say, not so much of matter but of style.

And discouragement lies in that one can't see much hope for any difference in the future.

Today In History

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

Nov. 19, 1971 . . .

The World's Christian Temperance Union was founded 97 years ago today —in 1874—at Cleveland, Ohio. It was a comparatively late arrival for the temperance and abolitionist movements that flourished since the early 1800s. The WCTU's main interest was teaching temperance in schools. Within a generation this was accomplished in every U.S. state and Canadian province except Quebec and Prince Edward Island.

The Idle Society...Or Welfare State's Easy Street

Editor,
The Intelligencer.

The item "Attack" in Weekend Magazine is a piece of propaganda par excellence for the welfare state. Elsewhere our Prime Minister was busy saying that there were plenty of jobs available for those who wanted them, and that potential applicants either lacked the necessary skill or initiative to accept them. It all boils down to the fact that we have a goodly percentage of unemployed who are quite content to get along on someone elses push. A pertinent question is, what happens when the people doing the leaning outnumber the people doing the lifting?

Mr. Brassington makes a big noise about the poor young people, and the unemployed, and about people on welfare. I do not know anything about Senior Citizens. These are the people who have brought our Gross National Product to the present figure, largely by their industry and initiative, and now the attitude of the Federal government to this group of citizens is that they just wish they would go away and get lost. Has he forgotten Mr. Benson and his forty-two cents?

This generation never knew about the depression years, when if you wanted to eat regularly there was no other way except to work. When someone asked you if you wanted a job, you did not spend time asking a lot of silly questions, you just grabbed it. And how that when you got there it was something you could handle.

I would like to ask Mr. Brassington, just what happens when he and his kind have driven all the initiative out of the population, and the answer in my book is that when the population of any country loses all its initiative, they are ready for a dictator, and if history is any guide, they do not generally have long to wait.

Postal Walkouts Under Fire

Editor,
The Intelligencer.

If the views given to the media reflect the true attitude of the postal workers respecting their walkouts they can expect censure rather than sympathy from the general public.

It appears that another postal strike is in the making, as usual, at a time likely to cause the most upset to the ordinary citizen. Labor frequently has the upper hand for a season when dealing with employers. This does not, on the surface at least, appear to be one of them.

In a time when unemployment is regarding unpleasant proportions it would seem that the labor movement organized and unorganized alike, should join forces to alleviate the evils of unemployment.

I can see nothing particularly wrong with temporary help being employed to replace postal workers who are sick or on vacation, as long as no other postal employee is put out of work or in any way prevented from earning his per week's wage.

What I suspect is happening in this case is the usual cry for overtime pay, in addition to the normal work week. This is fine in times of full employment but not today.

All unions and companies who regularly indulge in participation of scheduled strikes are directly contributing to the unemployment crisis. In cases such as this, both the union and company involved should face heavy fines and be made to pay the equivalent amount of money it costs the taxpayer to keep an active man on the dole.

All scheduled overtime should be made illegal. This practice merely keeps the unemployed idle while their so-called "brothers" make a killing.

MPs from All Parties Charge Tax Bill Endangers Co-ops

OTTAWA (CP) — The government was accused Thursday of trying to destroy the country's credit unions and co-operatives with its tax-change bill, and the attack united Conservative and NDP champions from all parties in the Commons.

The issue, an emotional one since debate started on the bill, is both practical and philosophical.

On the practical level, the government would make credit unions liable to tax to which, at least on an institutional level, they are currently exempt.

Co-operatives, which have paid such tax since 1948, would be harder hit than they now are.

On a philosophical level, co-operatives and credit unions maintain that they should not be taxed on their activities as self-help organizations.

But under the bill, the government assumes that to a degree they are profit-making institutions liable to ordinary business tax.

John Burton (NDP—Regina East) said there has been a well-financed movement to destroy the co-operative movement, and the government has listened to it.

The tax bill ignored that co-operative earnings returned to members as patronage dividends were the result of a surplus on operations and belonged to the members. They were not a return on investment.

David Orlikow (NDP—Winnipeg North) said the bill's provisions might have been written by vested interests such as finance companies, private grain companies or the Richardson Securities Co.

Gordon Blair (L—Grenville-Carleton) said co-operative and credit union spokesmen are right in saying their tax should be levied as returns flow through to members, not on an artificial basis at the institutional level.

The measure which Mr. Blair called artificial is the continuation for co-operatives and the implementation for credit unions of a system of taxation based on capital employed that assumes a degree of profit.

A co-operative is currently forbidden from lowering its taxable income through patronage dividends by more than three per cent of its capital employed for the year.

Under the bill, that would rise to five per cent, with a "more-inclusive definition of capital employed.

A government amendment introduced last month would permit the option of paying regular corporation tax on one-third of savings from patronage dividends are paid out.

Charles H. Thomas (PC—Moncton) said he doubts that co-operatives enjoy any real tax advantage now, as some people claim they do.

Members paid tax on patronage dividends, but the co-operatives themselves paid tax on retained earnings.

Co-operative members came together to provide improved services for themselves, not to make a profit, and should not be treated as investors in a corporation. Their shares in the co-operative could not be sold at a profit.

Pat Mahoney, parliamentary secretary to Finance Minister E. J. Benson, said the government had already made significant amendments in response to complaints on the issue.

It was listening carefully to further specific complaints, and would make further changes if it was convinced.

He indicated that there would be at least one technical amendment.

Outside the House Mr. Mahoney held out little hope that the government would change its basic attitude towards taxing co-operatives and credit unions, although he said he could be convinced on particular complaints.

The government was convinced it had satisfied the practical complaints about the taxation and that co-operatives and credit unions would survive.

He admitted it had not satisfied the philosophical complaints, but it had to deal with many co-operatives having transcended the status of self-help institutions and competing with other business institutions.

Mr. Burton had said in the House that if co-operatives were willing to pay regular corporation tax on retained earnings gained enabled their own members.

Mr. Mahoney agreed this was true, but said the co-operatives wanted to pay this business tax after paying out dividends. Businesses, on the other hand, paid their tax before paying out dividends.

The debate on the co-op sections marked another day of discussion on the bill without noticeable progress toward passage—a cause for government anxiety.

Two-thirds of the autumn sitting is passed and the Commons still is 228 sections away from completing work on the 333-item bill.

The government, and other MPs, are worried about other matters, including the impact on Canada of U.S. trade and economic measures.

That was underlined Thursday when Liberal Steve Otto called for an end to the protracted tax debate and concentration instead on policies to meet the US.. threat.

At the same time, Mr. Benson in Montreal and Justice Minister John Turner in Toronto were saying again that the U.S. policies hold dangers for Canada.

High Employment Possible Declare Senators

OTTAWA (CP) — Canada can be steered along the economic road to high employment with only modest inflation, the Senate committee on national finance reported Thursday.

The controls to counter economic ills still work, the committee said in a special report on growth, employment and price stability, although the federal government might have employed them differently in recent months.

The committee also suggested a more intensive reading of economic condition—unemployment above six per cent and inflation about 3% per cent above last year.

Indirect taxes should be cut and the dollar should be allowed to continue floating on international markets.

Direct taxes on personal incomes and profits could be raised when the government wants to rein in a booming economy, the report said.

But reductions in such indirect levies as sales taxes could be more effective "in attempting to stimulate a weak economy that is also suffering from a hangover of inflationary expectations" from an earlier period.

Leaving the dollar afloat would continue to hold off "to some degree the importation of inflation from the U.S. and the rise of Canadian consumer prices."

The dollar has been floating since June, 1970, and the committee said it might have been better if Canada had let this happen even earlier.

The committee, which heard a string of economists from Canada and abroad in intensive hearings last spring, rejected any move toward price or wage controls. The need was not for such new controls but for better use of the available ones.

The government would adjust tax rates more frequently to meet economic changes. There should be less juggling of government spending, lending and borrowing programs for this same purpose.

The federal prices and incomes commission, set up to study inflation, should be converted into a watchdog agency for wage and price increases.

NEW PLAN FOR CALLS WITHIN ONTARIO AND QUEBEC STARTS THIS SUNDAY

When to call Long Distance to get the lowest rate.

You'll get the lowest rate available with the new "Sunday Visit" Plan. DIAL DIRECT on Sundays between 8:00 a.m. and 6:00 p.m., and you'll get three-quarters off the regular rate.

Or, you can get two-thirds off the regular rate with the "Late Night" rate — between 11:00 p.m. and 8:00 a.m. when you DIAL DIRECT. But remember, this new plan does not become effective until November 28th.

The following changes in discounts on Long Distance calls have been approved by the Canadian Transport Commission for a six-month trial period.

They apply to calls within Bell territory in Ontario, Quebec, Labrador and N.W.T.

New "Sunday Visit" Plan

On Sundays, from 8 a.m. to 6 p.m. when you dial direct you'll get a discount of 3/4 off the dial direct regular charge, as shown in Table 1, for the initial minute and each additional minute of your call. That means if the regular rate for your call is $1.00 you'll be billed 25 cents. The "Sunday Visit" rate is not exactly the same as the "Family Calling" rate — in some cases it works out to be a little more, in others less—but it's close. From 6 p.m. to 11 p.m. a discount of 1/2 applies. See table 2.

For example:	From November 28th, "Sunday Visit" Plan 8 a.m. to 6 p.m.		Before June 6th "Family Calling" Plan 10-12 p.m. & all day Sunday
	10 mins.	20 mins.	10 mins.	20 mins.
North Bay to Toronto	$ .81	$1.61	$ .80	$1.55
Kingston to Toronto	$ .73	$1.46	$ .75	$1.50
Ottawa to Cornwall	$ .53	$1.06	$ .60	$1.10

New "Late Night" rate

From 11 p.m. to 8 a.m. you get a 2/3 discount off the regular rate, when you dial direct. That means if the regular rate for your call is $1.50, you'll be billed 50 cents. For typical comparisons see Table 3 below.

New pay phone and hotel rates

There is a 3-minute minimum on station-to-station calls from pay phones and hotels, and discounts do not apply to this initial period. Discounts (Table 2) will apply only to additional minutes, as shown in Table 1 — provided that you pay for the call by inserting coins or, in the case of a hotel phone, on your hotel bill.

Since this is provided as an alternative to dial-direct calls, the discounts do not apply to collect calls, credit card calls, or calls billed to a third number. Pay phone charges are rounded to the nearest nickel.

For example:	Customer-dialed call weekday evening 3 mins. 10 mins.		Similar call from pay phone or hotel, weekday evening 3 mins. 10 mins.		Credit card, collect calls or calls charged to a third party 3 mins.	10 mins.
Ottawa to Toronto	$ .73	$2.37	$1.30	$2.93	$1.30	$3.75
Kingston to Montreal	$ .67	$2.16	$1.20	$2.69	$1.20	$3.44

1 Regular Rates (as Introduced June 6th)

MILEAGE	DIAL DIRECT REGULAR CHARGE INITIAL MINUTE	OPERATOR-HANDLED MINIMUM 3 MINS. STATION-TO-STATION INITIAL 3 MINS.	OPERATOR-HANDLED MINIMUM 3 MINS. PERSON-TO-PERSON INITIAL 3 MINS.	ALL CALLS, EACH ADDITIONAL MINUTE
0- 10	.10	.25	.70	.05
11- 14	.12	.30	.80	.07
15- 22	.16	.40	.90	.10
23- 30	.17	.50	1.10	.13
31- 40	.19	.60	1.30	.16
41- 50	.21	.70	1.40	.19
51- 60	.23	.75	1.50	.21

81-100	.27	.90	1.80	.25
101-130	.29	1.00	2.00	.27
131-160	.32	1.10	2.20	.29
161-200	.36	1.20	2.40	.32
201-260	.40	1.30	2.60	.35
261-300	.44	1.40	2.80	.38
301-400	.48	1.50	3.00	.41
401-500	.52	1.60	3.20	.44
501-Over	.58	1.70	3.40	.47

2 Discounts (starting November 28th)

TIME OF DAY	WEEKDAYS	SUNDAY
8 A.M. to 6 P.M.	REGULAR CHARGE	3/4 OFF
6 P.M. to 11 P.M.	1/3 OFF	1/2 OFF

Farm Heads Plan Parley

TORONTO (CP) — Canada's provincial agriculture ministers are to meet here today and Saturday to study a report on agriculture prepared during the last four months by some of their deputies in a series of private meetings.

While the report has not been made public, Samuel Uskiw, Manitoba's agriculture minister, said it proposes to give the provinces the authority in determining agricultural policy for Canada.

He told the annual convention of Manitoba Pool Elevators recently the document proposes to "take the ball out of the federal arena."

The important feature of the document, he said, is that "the provinces have seized the initiative from Ottawa. I wonder what Ottawa's reaction will be."

Mr. Uskiw said the report would be made public at some time in the future, but did not indicate when.

The provincial ministers have not yet considered the report as a group, but will do so today.

The committee of deputies was chosen at the annual summer meeting of provincial ministers and the federal minister in mid-July in Edmonton.

Cancer Patients Forced to Wait

TORONTO (CP) — Requests for therapeautic abortions are interfering with cases of cancer of the cervix in some hospitals, Dr. James Colquhoun, president of the Ontario Medical Association, said Thursday.

He told a provincial inquiry into hospital privileges that doctors are so overwhelmed by requests for therapeutic abortions that women with cancer of the cervix who need hospital treatment "are waiting longer and longer.'

The Thunder Bay physician said he has not personally encountered the problem. "but I have talked to doctors who say it is so and it is interfering with the flow (of patients) to some hospitals."

Friendship Can Prevent Doctors Reporting Colleague's Incompetence

TORONTO (CP) — Dr. James Colquhoun, Ontario Medical Association president, told a provincial inquiry into hospital privileges Thursday friendship would keep a doctor from complaining about the incompetence of a colleague.

"A doctor is a human being like everyone else," the Thunder Bay physician said. "He doesn't like to say unpleasant things. To say it is unpleasant but to put it in writing is a chore."

Dr. Colquhoun was one of a delegation representing the OMA at the inquiry hearings.

Another delegate, Dr. P. T. H. Porter, assistant secretary of the OMA, said doctors would be unwilling to swear to the incompetence of colleagues before an appeals tribunal because of fear of lawsuits.

"What do we do with the older doctor whose competence has slid?" Dr. Porter asked. "How do we ride herd on him? The question is always there. . . . I believe there is a great fear of suit."

He said that even when doctors can be assured that they cannot be sued successfully they fear the suit itself.

The OMA said in a brief to the inquiry physicians who are refused appointments at hospitals be allowed to appeal to a body set up by the health minister. The brief did not deal with changes in status or privileges once a doctor is accepted.

Beef Grade Changes Opposed

TORONTO (CP) — Proposed federal changes in Canada's beef-grading system drew opposing opinions Thursday from spokesmen connected with the industry.

Two representatives of the Ontario Beef Packers Association criticized the move, designed to identify the fat on a beef carcass, saying it would result in higher prices to the consumer.

However, a federal department of agriculture spokesman and another for the Ontario Beef Improvement Association defended the proposal. The first said it would likely reduce prices and the other said it would not increase them.

Rhodesian Talks Move Toward Decisive Phase

SALISBURY (Reuter) — Anglo-Rhodesian settlement talks were moving into a possibly decisive phase today, with the odds hardening on an early end to the six-year dispute over the breakaway British colony's self-declared independence.

Rhodesian Prime Minister Ian Smith and British Foreign Secretary Sir Alec Douglas-Home arranged a meeting of their full negotiation teams. The next day or two could show whether Britain and Rhodesia have at last found a peace formula or whether this latest top-level attempt to resolve the issue has failed.

In most Rhodesian circles, however, the betting was that a settlement was on the way.

The first full negotiating session comes after a study by Sir Alec of representative Rhodesian views of Britain's settlement plans and parallel discussions between Rhodesian and other British officials.

Between them they cleared the ground for government-to-government negotiations to break the old deadlock over Rhodesia's seizure of independence from Britain in November, 1965.

Sir Alec's mission to test the temperature of opinion among all races to Britain's settlement proposals still contained a significant gap.

Though the British mission sought permission for Sir Alec to see two African nationalist leaders, Rev. Ndabaningi Sithole and Joshua Nkomo, when he arrived four days ago there has to date been no official reply from the Rhodesians.

Four-day Rebellion Is Staged

TORONTO (CP) — Eighteen prisoners at Mimico reformatory were transferred to the maximum security wing of the Don jail early Thursday after they held a four-hour rebellion to protest the death of a fellow prisoner.

Stephen Geison, 18, died in hospital Tuesday night about two hours after he collapsed on the floor of the Don jail following his transfer from Mimico.

An autopsy Wednesday showed the youth had died of a ruptured spleen and other internal injuries. There was a bruise on his body.

Two officers from the Metropolitan Toronto police homicide squad were assigned Thursday to investigate. An inquest will be at the request of Dr. H. B. Cotnam, Ontario supervising coroner.

The Ontario department of correctional services has announced it also will investigate Geison's death and the rebellion.

A department spokesman said that the rebellion started about 11 p.m. Wednesday when prisoners began shouting in the dormitory.

Hellyer Would Limit Labor's Strike Rights

OTTAWA (CP) — To the cheers of some Conservatives, Paul Hellyer (Ind. Lib-Toronto Trinity) asked Thursday whether the governments would withdraw the right to strike in all essential services under its jurisdiction.

To the cheers of New Democrats, Labor Minister Bryce Mackasey said the answer is a categorical no.

Mr. Hellyer, former Liberal cabinet minister who seldom asks questions in the House, had asked whether non-strike legislation would be introduced at once and telephone and air traffic-control services be included.

Strikes are possible in both services before the end of this year.

When Mr. Mackasey rejected the suggestion, Mr. Hellyer asked whether the minister didn't feel that ordinary citizens have rights to essential services.

Both men appeared anxious to carry on the argument, but Speaker Lucien Lamoureux called it off.

CITY OF BELLEVILLE — LOCAL IMPROVEMENT NOTICE

TAKE NOTICE THAT:

1. The Council of the Corporation of the City of Belleville intends to construct as a local improvement the following sidewalk, and intends to specially assess a part of the cost upon the land abutting the work and the balance against the Corporation at large as follows:

Street	From	To	Estimated Cost	Corporation's Share	Owners' Share	Estimated Cost Per Foot Frontage	Estimated Annual Cost Per Foot Frontage
Bridge St. E. (North Side)	Farley Avenue	Haig Road	$20,500.00	$11,311.63	$9,188.37	$4.71	$0.72

LOCATION: The property side of the proposed sidewalk is to be placed south of the north street line as follows:
Farley Avenue to Southwood Crescent — 10 feet
Southwood Crescent to about 130 feet easterly — 10 feet to 12 feet
130 feet east of Southwood Crescent to Stanley Park Drive — 12 feet
Stanley Park Drive to about 140 feet easterly — 12 feet to 10 feet
Remainder of sidewalk to Haig Road — 10 ft.

50 ft. x $4.71 = $235.50

If paid over a period of 10 years at 8½% per annum, the cost would be:
50 ft. x $0.72 — $36.00

2. The special assessment is to be paid in 10 equal annual installments.
3. Application will be made by the Corporation to the Ontario Municipal Board for its approval of the undertaking of the said work, and any owner may, within 21 days after the first publication of the Notice, file with the Clerk of the municipality his objection to the said work being undertaken.
4. The said Board may approve the said work being undertaken, but before doing so may appoint a time and place when any objection to the said work will be considered.

Marital Problems Worry B. C. Unions

Members Cool to NDP; Lewis Finds Unions Lose High Aims

VANCOUVER (CP) — Marital problems preoccupied the British Columbia Federation of Labor Thursday as it undertook an agonizing review of the 18-year-old alliance between unions and the New Democratic Party.

Most troubling to the federation's 300 convention delegates was the lack of appreciation for the party apparently shown by many rank-and-file union members.

One delegate was later reported to have urged the convention at a two-hour closed session to admit that current political education campaigns among union members simply are not working.

Sources also reported that another delegate told the convention that the last several years interest in the party has been declining among union members.

One reason, he suggested, is that the members do not share a number of the views expressed by elected New Democrat representatives.

Closeted with the labor delegates for the discussion were national party Leader David Lewis and provincial Leader Dave Barrett.

Earlier in the day, Mr. Lewis chided the labor movement for having strayed from its original goals.

"The original purpose of the labor movement was not to win merely an extra nickel or dime or quarter an hour for its members but to give balance to Society . . . to end wage exploitation, to fight greed and combat injustice and to build a new society."

Mr. Lewis said that by focusing all its attention on the bargaining table, labor has left its members vulnerable to propaganda attacks by business and governments.

By way of result, many union members were among those who think organized labor is too powerful. At the same time there had been a failure to come to grips with the real problems facing the country.

Mr. Lewis left no doubt he considers Prime Minister Trudeau to be first among the problems. Mr. Trudeau, he said, was "false prophet" who misled the people in the 1968 federal election.

National unity had become even more tenuous and Mr. Trudeau's economic policies had resulted in a crisis "that has destroyed all possibility of progress in other directions," the NDP leader said.

Mr. Lewis's appeal for labor to re-dedicate itself to its original ideals brought him a standing ovation from the delegates.

Following the closed workshop review of political problems in the afternoon, however, one federation official admitted that Mr. Lewis had been "preaching to the converted."

The official, Secretary-Treasurer Ray Haynes, told a news conference that the federation remains committed to support the party and has decided it must work harder to convince the rank-and-file to get involved in politics on behalf of the NDP.

Protests Come from Strife-plagued Firms

OTTAWA (CP) — Opposition to the technological change provisions in proposed federal labor legislation is coming from employers who have a poor relationship with their employees, Labor Minister Bryce Mackasey said Thursday night.

These employers had told him they feared the legislation, now before Parliament, would turn into a football at the negotiating table.

"But this is true only in those situations where the collective bargaining relationship is poor," Mr. Mackasey told the Public Service of Canada.

"It is significant that these provisions have not been opposed by employers who have good relations with their employees."

The protesters should do something to improve the quality of their collective bargaining relationship.

The provisions would require management to give unions 90 days notice of technological changes likely to threaten jobs. Failure to give such notice could result in a legal strike.

The provisions would apply to 530,000 workers under federal labor jurisdiction.

Canada works and you can be a moving force in creating jobs for Canadians.

Canada works when Canadians get involved together. So the Federal Government is putting 498 million dollars to work, through a series of specific programs, to help create jobs for Canadians.

CANADA WORKS WITH YOU

You're a major force in making the program work. We're counting on you, either on your own initiative or through your community groups, to come up with ideas for the Local Initiatives Program. For example, you may have a social service project or an idea to expand a cultural program, or improve substandard housing, or assist the handicapped—just about anything that makes your community a better place.

The Training-on-the-Job Program will expand opportunities for training for those who are unemployed or have little work experience.

For those with some basic work experience, the Canada Manpower Training Program has been extended to help provide additional learning.

CANADA WORKS WITH BUSINESS AND INDUSTRY

Included in the Federal Government's plan is a program of tax credit or direct payments to employers to encourage them to add trainees to their staffs through the Training-on-the-Job Program. This will help the trainee get valuable work experience that he can apply in many jobs.

CANADA WORKS WITH MUNICIPALITIES

The Local Initiatives Program will help municipalities to create additional jobs through worthwhile community projects. Provincial governments will work with municipalities to use the program to support and spur community projects that will give jobs to people in your community.

CANADA WORKS WITH THE PROVINCES

There's a Federal-Provincial Employment Loans Program designed to finance additional capital works projects. Some projects may be done by the provinces, others by municipalities with provincial approval. We'll be speeding up the program of the Central Mortgage and Housing Corporation to get homes, student housing, and sewage treatment projects under way.

Loans will also be made to exhibition commissions, boards and associations to get people working on multi-purpose fair and trade buildings.

CANADA WORKS WITH FEDERAL PROJECTS

There will be more job opportunities in maintenance and improvement activities on Federal buildings; transportation facilities; forest and park projects; and many others.

WHERE IT ALL WORKS TOGETHER

It starts at your Canada Manpower Centre. For advice and assistance on any of the programs you feel apply to you or your community, contact your local Canada Manpower Centre. They'll be happy to help you.

When Canadians get involved together, CANADA WORKS.

Isn't He Cute?

Mrs. Wayne Paisley draws the attention of her two-year-old daughter Kelly to a clown which was one of the articles for sale on the Christmas gifts and decorations table at the Quintena Rebakah Lodge No. 133 bazaar and tea held at new Oddfellows hall on Wednesday afternoon.

Rebekahs Hold Tea in New Hall

Silver Christmas trees shimmered and shone at various points in the new Oddfellows hall on Bay Drive while the blue globes that adorned them reflected their cheerful glow. The event was the tea and bazaar organized by Quintena Rebekah Lodge No. 133, held for the first time in this new setting. Gold Christmas wreaths centered with red and green motifs adorned one wall while the lodge emblem was prominently displayed on the stage, flanked by two Christmas trees.

Colorful Chinese lanterns with red, green and yellow lights were fixed to the walls and a few hung from the ceiling.

The tea room was partitioned off whit a white picket fence punctuated by tall white standards of foliage. A bowl of blue and white flowers interspersed with foliage flanked by blue and white candles in glass holders formed the centrepiece on the main tea table. Pouring honors were done by Mrs. Madeline Walker, Mrs. Eva Judge, Mrs. Shirley Preston and Mrs. Elvi Brownson.

Centring the small tea tables were parfait glasses with gleaming silver balls nestling inside on a bed of tinsel. The tea room was convened by Mrs. Clara Ironside with Mrs. Annis Webb as co-convener. Guests were received by Mrs. Oress Adams and Mrs. Alice Adams while a number of lodge members replenished plates and helped to serve the guests. The kitchen convener was Martha Norris with Ethel Ostrom as co-convener.

The bazaar was convened by Oress Adams whose co-convener was Eva Judge.

On the Christmas gifts and decorations table a quaint clown with a styrofoam head and body wrapped in kitchen towels caught the eye, also a large felt poinsettia, a number of table centrepieces and stockings. The table was convened by Phyllis Wing with Ida Holt as co-convener.

The candy table convened by Margaret Novland and Phyllis Pope included a number of jars of assorted candy attractively packed in baby food jars with painted Santa's faces and red felt toques. The convener of the home baking table was Alice Adams with Marilyn Chivers as co-convener. Presiding over the apron table was Irene McMartin with Jill Empey as co-convener. The fancy work table was convened by Lena MacMillan with Georgina Charlton as co-convener. Dorothy Harwood, assisted by Dorothy Webber, was in charge of the white elephant table.

Ticket conveners were Bettie Anderson and Lucy Wannamaker.

Club Activities

ALPHA DELTA KAPPA, LAMBDA CHAPTER

The November meeting of the chapter took place at the Guild Inn, Scarborough, as five Toronto chapters of the Alpha Delta Kappa hosted the founder's day service.

Lambda Chapter of Belleville was in charge of the sing-song. It was led by Helen Calnan and accompanied by Heather Grant. Heather then entertained the group with a most delightful piano solo. After the sing-song the service was held with one of the Toronto chapters taking charge.

Dinner was enjoyed at the Guild Inn. The guest speaker was Rev. Harriet Christie, United Church minister who showed a film about war protest marches etc. She based her talk on this and also on some ideas from the book Future Shock.

One of the guests for the day was Norma Hatchell of Windsor who is chairman of the province of North Central Ontario.

UCW Luncheon Precedes Bazaar

Evergreen, a silver Christmas tree at the entrance, poinsettia and holly decorations, together with two large tables laden with platters of cold turkey and a variety of salads, gave guests at the Bridge St. UCW - sponsored luncheon - bazaar a preview of the gala holiday season ahead. A steady stream of guests poured in on Wednesday afternoon through the foyer and the hallway which were decorated in keeping with the Christmas theme.

At the entrance to the hall which was framed by evergreen branches, Christmas lights and holly, guests were greeted by Mrs. R. E. Berry, convener and the other hostesses, Mrs. Grace Anderson, Mrs. H. M. Davis and Mrs. Alfred Poulter, who conducted them to attractively appointed tables centred with miniature baskets of fruit. Guests helped themselves from the two buffet tables, each of which was centred with a wooden bowl of fruit and foliage.

In charge of kitchen arrangements was Mrs. William McGee who, with co-convener, Mrs. D. McKinney and a number of assistants kept replenishing the dishes.

While some guests were at lunch, some others busied themselves in the bazaar room snapping up bargains from the various booths. This room too was decorated in a Christmas theme with red and green as the predominant colors. The convener of the decorations was Mrs. J. Parrott.

The Christmas boutique convened by Mrs. A. Cameron and Mrs. H. Burns together with afternoon unit 2 and evening unit 3 included candles, ornamentia, centrepieces, wreaths and a few wall hangings with appliqued Christmas motifs. Doing a brisk trade in knitted clothes, place mats, mitts and slippers were Mrs. P. Kitcher and Miss J. Tick, eil with afternoon unit 1 and supper unit 2.

The home baking table manned by Mrs. A. Dymond and the centennial unit featured all kinds of baked goodies ranging from homemade bread to a beige and white cake decorated to resemble a basket. Smocked, embroidered and crocheted aprons as well as plain ones were seen on the table convened by Mrs. Sylvia Cullen and Mrs. A. Randle, together with supper unit 3 and evening unit 1. Mrs. W. McBride and Mrs. H. McQuaid and afternoon unit 3 and evening unit 2 looked after the country store and candy booth. Displayed on the table were the articles made for sale by the sewing clubs including mats, leather bags, stuffed toys, finger painted aprons and pot holders. This section was convened by Mrs. K. Douglas, Mrs. Freda Pearsall and Mrs. Bruce Bishop. Miss Grace Kenny and supper unit 1 were in charge of the vegetable stall.

A snack bar was convened by Mrs. Don Leslie, while Mrs. R. Jeffrey, assisted by Mrs. G. Winhart convened the tea room. Nursery facilities were provided for the convenience of guests, with Mrs. D. Maddocks in charge. The ticket convener was Miss M. Reid while the treasurer was Mrs. G. Greatrix.

Grand Matron Honored On Official Visit

On Friday evening, November 12 Mrs. Pauline Clare, district deputy Grand Matron of District No. 12 of the Order of the Eastern Star of Ontario and member of Minerva Chapter No. 138, was warmly welcomed on her official visit to her home Chapter by the Worthy Matron Mrs. Dorothy Seadman and Worthy Patron Jack Steadman.

The auditorium of the Masonic Temple was filled to capacity with visitors from all chapters in the district.

A number of distinguished guests were present including Mr. Earl McKeever, past Grand Patron of the Grand Chapter of Ontario.

The Worthy Patron welcomed all visitors as well as the officers and members of Minerva Chapter and thanked them for their presence on inspection night and for their ceremonial support.

Mrs. Clare, in her remarks, after the close of the business session, congratulated the officers on the efficient manner in which they presented the ritualistic work of the Order. She reminded the gathering that it is her duty as the Deputy of the Worthy Grand Matron of the Grand Chapter of Ontario to ensure uniformity in the work of the chapters in her district and thus throughout the province.

She concluded her remarks with a most inspiring message based on the Worthy Matron's Symbol, the praying hands before the lighted cross and her motto, "to thine own self be true and it must follow, as the night the day, thou canst not then be false to any man".

Mrs. Lillian Walters, associate Matron presented Mrs. Clare with a gift from the Chapter and wished for her a happy, safe and rewarding year in her travels throughout the district on her official duties.

District UCW Meetings

MOUNT PLEASANT — RAWDON UCW

The November meeting of Mount Pleasant - Rawdon UCW was held at the hall with 26 women and two school girls in attendance.

Mrs. Garth Joslin opened the meeting with prayer. Enroll call revealed that 330 visits had been made in 10 months to homes and hospitals. Mrs. Archie Bailey read a letter of thanks from the French Mission in Toronto for the bale of clothing received.

An invitation to attend the 70th anniversary of the West Huntingdon WMS was received. The centennial cook book was viewed and a supply will be ordered for sale at a later date.

The devotional was based on the theme "the light of the world is Jesus". Mrs. Mildred Wrightman and Mrs. Kenneth Weaver were in charge. Their assistants were Mrs. Robert Hoard. Mrs. Frank Spencer, Mrs. Raymond McConnell, Mrs. Elden Chapman, Mrs. Hrebert Smith, Gail Merrick, Ann Bailey and Mrs. Burton Sharpe. Vocal solos were rendered by Mrs. W. C. Cox and Mrs. Margarette McMullen.

SOCIETY UNPREPARED

BANKOK (AP) — Officials say Thailand is not ready to introduce sex education at the secondary school level because Thai society is unprepared for the innovation and there are not enough experts to conduct the program.

The previous officers presented their reports and the new slate officers was elected. They were: president, Mrs. Robert Hoard; 1st vice-president, Mrs. James Hagerman; recording secretary, Brenda Williams; corresponding secretary, Mrs. Eldon Chapman; treasurer, Mrs. Burton Sharpe, press and publicity, Mrs. Jerry MacMullen; pianists, Mrs. Milton Shaw, Mrs. J. Sager and Mrs. Mac Sharp. A number of other secretaries and committees were elected to be in charge of various areas such as citizenship and finance.

The finance committee presented the budget for another year. At the December meeting the members will remember their "unknown friend". For the social hour Mrs. Marguerite McMullen provided the refreshments.

Successful Living

To Use Your Own First Name Or That of Your Husband

By DORIS CLARK

Dear Doris: I found the letter from Mrs. M. M., the widower, most pathetic. You are, of course, absolutely right in telling her to continue calling herself Mrs. Bruce Marsh, if that is her wish. I am only sorry you didn't address your letter in the eye of insensitive relatives who would probably never tell her anything different at such a time.

I also regret that you did not make it even more clear that such a matter is partly one of convention and that really, in this day and age, it should depend on personal choice. I, myself, see no reason to adopt my husband's first name as well as his second.

However, I realize that many women, without worthwhile jobs or careers of their own, feel their husband's position the only thing that gives them any standing in the world. Maybe, when in the future women have lives of their own to be proud of, they will no longer feel the need to adopt their husband's name.

— Equal Status

Dear Equal: It's a free country. But if you say "convention", and then say "personal choice", you say using two different yardsticks.

Thank you for the comment on my initial ill-advised relatives. And do we not all (first at least) part of our reason - for - being in the loving regard and attachment of our husbands? Should we not share in the so-called subjugation of the married state, as well?

* * *

Dear Doris: Please send me any material you may have on the so-called generation gap. — Mrs. M. W.

Dear Mrs. M.W.: Are you writing an essay or giving a speech? Or merely arguing out the whole idea with a couple of teenaged protagonists in your own livingroom?

There's a gap, all right. It's what we adults do about it that matters. Why is there a gap? Several reasons.

First, because the world our youth grows up in is different from the one we grew up in and were shaped by. We humans have a habit of regarding the ways of thinking which became ours earlier on, as another? Because our whole system of education encourages the learner to ask questions and think for himself. Isn't it natural he would bring fresh and hopeful ideas to an ailing world confident that no one has thought his way before! And thoroughly unaware of the pitfalls.

Perhaps if he were aware of pitfalls he wouldn't even have the courage to try to institute improvements!

Let's bridge the gap every chance we get. People can learn things from it if they respect each other's efforts to think and learn.

Who knows I am sending you are (1) Are You on Talking Terms with Junior? (2) Can You Tune In on Your Teen? and (3) Youth Conference.

Ann Landers

Infantile Patterns Hard to Shake

Dear Ann Landers: Congratulations. It's about time someone said a good word for pacifiers.

Infantile patterns can be hard to shake. How many men are afraid of their wives the way they are afraid of their mothers? How many women are disappointed in their husbands when they discover them with their fathers? How many sexual problems in marriage—impotence, frigidity and promiscuity —are anger misdirected?

A good therapist does not change your personality—he simply helps you understand yourself. It cannot be done without pain. You can't get tranquility from tranquilizers any more than you can lose weight without experiencing hunger.

The people who scream that psychiatry is quackery are the ones who need it but don't want to subject themselves to the agonizing reappraisal. Maybe happiness can be bought, but the real trading some hard-earned bread on therapy and it's as close to a full happiness as any person can come—Struggling In Chicago.

Dear Struggling: Sounds as if you're winning the battle. My heartiest congratulations and my thanks for a superb letter.

Dear Ann Landers: I'm a 17-year-old girl with a nutty problem. I always feel I am imposing on people, taking up too much of their time—and that they are putting up with me because they don't want to hurt my feelings. For Example: Last week I was invited (by a girl friend) to swim in the pool of a distant relative. We spent about three hours in the pool. It was a wonderful time.

The relative asked us to stay for supper. I said I thought we had better go—but my friend begged me to stay and I agreed. We enjoyed the supper but I felt later that we had imposed and overstayed our welcome. Now I have that old guilty feeling and am mad at myself for not using better judgment. Am I nuts?—Inside Mirror

Dear I.: No, not nuts, but introspective, extremely sensitive to the feelings of others, and perhaps excessively critical of yourself. The best way to deal with this problem is to decide in advance how long you will stay, then stick with the plan. It will reduce the guilt, and it will also make your company more prized than the person who stays too long.

Dear Ann Landers: Recently I have read several letters to the editors from and pet owners, angry with hit-and-run drivers who have killed or injured cats and dogs and left them alongside the street or highway to die.

Please, Ann, inform your extensive readership that often the driver does not know he has hit a living thing. A cat or a dog, or even a child, can unwittingly be pulled under the wheels of a fast-moving truck of trailer because of the suction created by his vehicle. This is called Bernoulli's Effect air movement and pressure.

The pet or the child may not even be careless. He may be patiently waiting at the curb or on the—shoulder of the road when a fast-moving truck comes along and sucks the victim under the wheels. Please, Ann, warn parents to instruct their children about this and urge them to keep pets on a leash or a safe distance from streets or highways where fast-moving vehicles travel.—Concerned Teacher And Parent In Three Rivers

Dear Teacher: I hope this subject will be discussed at millions of dinner tables tonight. It could mean a life saved. Thanks for writing.

Family Cooking

New Ideas for Traditional Meal

By ALICE BRADLEY

Come November 25, there'll be the annual "pause in the day's occupations" while Americans give thanks for many blessings, despite present worries or difficulties. Families throughout the great land will gather around the festive board and praise the fine fowl in the center of which, despite today's innovations is and likely to be turkey. But there's always room for a new dressing, gravy or pumpkin pie recipe.

These days, fortunately, many smart short-cuts and convenience items have lessened the load for the cook. The cooked bird should be a handsome golden-brown, the white meat delicate, the dark meat rich.

Things begin by estimating the number of servings required with enough left to supply leftover meat. A 6 to 8-pounder serves about 6 generously; a 14- to 16-pound bird yields about 14 servings.

When stuffing, avoid packing too tightly as the stuffing expands during roasting. It's a good idea to put extra stuffing in an aluminum-foil packet during the last half hour of roasting time.

Parsley and sugar-frosted grapes provide an elegant garnish. Wash and break grapes into small clusters, dip in egg white then in powdered sugar. Let dry on rack. Now for:

MUSHROOM STUFFING

¼ cup butter or margarine
½ cup chopped onion
1 cup diced celery with leaves
1½ teaspoons monosodium glutamate
2 teaspoons salt
¼ teaspoon pepper
½ teaspoon poultry seasoning
1 can (8 ounces) mushrooms
12 cups lightly packed bread crumbs or cubes
2 tablespoons chopped parsley

Melt butter in large skillet or saucepan. Add next 6 ingredients. Cook until onion and celery are tender. Drain mushrooms; heat liquid to boiling. Add onion-celery mixture to drained mushrooms, bread crumbs and parsley. Add mushroom liquid; toss lightly with a fork until well mixed. Stuff turkey loosely. Recipe is enough for 15-pound turkey.

Now for good:

GIBLET GRAVY

Turkey heart, liver, neck, and gizzard
Water
1½ teaspoons monosodium glutamate
Salt to taste
¼ teaspoon pepper
Onion slices
Celery stalk
3 tablespoons flour

Place heart, liver and gizzard in saucepan; cover with water. Add next 5 ingredients. Cook slowly 2 to 3 hours or until tender. Dice cooked giblets. Giblets and their strained broth are used in the gravy along with drippings.

Remove turkey from roasting pan to a platter. Skim most of the fat from drippings. To the juices remaining in the roasting pan, add strained giblet broth and enough water to make 3 cups of liquid. Add diced giblets; bring until smooth. Season to taste. Pour half of the mixture in flour and beat the mixture until smooth. Gradually stir in remaining flour mixture. Cook, stirring, until it begins to brown. Pour in the prepared turkey stock and stir over medium heat until gravy thickens. The result should be a delicious gravy worthy of the noble bird.

As a change from the usual mince or pumpkin pie, how about this good one:

GRANDMA'S PUMPKIN MERINGUE PUDDING

3-5 cup sugar, divided
1 tablespoon flour
½ teaspoon salt
1 teaspoon ginger
1 teaspoon cinnamon
¼ teaspoon nutmeg
¼ teaspoon cloves
1-3 cup old-fashioned molasses
1 can (1 pound) pumpkin
2 eggs, separated
1 cup evaporated milk

Mix together 1-3 cup of the sugar with flour, salt and spices. Add molasses, pumpkin and egg yolks; mix well. Stir in evaporated milk. Pour into a 1½-quart baking dish or casserole. Bake in 350-degree oven 40 to 45 minutes, or until knife inserted in center of pudding comes out clean.

Beat egg whites until stiff but not dry. Gradually add remaining 1-3 cup sugar and beat until very stiff. Spoon egg white mixture around edge of baking dish and place a spoonful in the center. Return to oven, and bake about 10 minutes longer, or until meringue is lightly browned. Serves 6 to 8.

Happy Thanksgiving!

MUSHROOM-STUFFED turkey, king of Thanksgiving table, has regal garnish of sugar-frosted grapes, crisp parsley.

District Women's Institutes

QUEENSBORO WI

Mrs. Kenneth Cassidy was hostess for the November meeting of the Queensboro Women's Institute which was held in the WI Hall on Monday evening, with Mrs. Roy Rollins presiding. There were 14 members and five visitors present.

The roll call was answered by "a food imported and where it came from". An invitation was received from Harts-Riggs WI to attend their meeting on Wednesday evening.

A report on the sewing class "tricks with cloth" was given by Mrs. Carl Gordon. It was decided to give a special prize at the end of the season for the highest scorer at the card parties.

The program was international. A quiz by Mrs. J. Rawes sang two Dutch songs. Mrs. Arthur Holmes read a selection on birthdays in other lands.

The other guest Miss Ada Adams of Madoc showed slides of African animals taken when she was on a tour in Africa last winter. She also showed us an exhibit of cloth and carvings from Africa. This was very interesting.

Mrs. O'Rourke thanked both guests and presented them with gifts.

Mirror of Your Mind
by JOHN CONWELL

Can temper tantrums be headed off?

ONLY if love and understanding are used to prevent tantrums before they get started. Once tantrums are underway, it is a different story, "When a tantrum occurs," says Dr. Robert M. Goldenson in "The Encyclopedia of Human Behavior" (Doubleday), "the child needs help, not harshness. At the height of his fury, he cannot be reached by reason and his attention cannot be captured long enough for distraction to work."

Will a 'doormat' live a long life?

PERHAPS he might add to his life if a person decides to be a "doormat" rather than fight for what he thinks is right. Only then, it becomes a question of what constitutes a long life. Obviously a constant battler can build up tension that could shorten his life; but he can release that stress if he will fight for the things that can be changed rather than batting his nerve-taut head against brick walls.

HE COULDN'T do that very well, even if it were possible for a husband to hide his faults from his wife. She, in all likelihood, knows all about them before she said yes to his proposal of marriage. A husband, however, should try to correct his faults. That failing, there is one thing he should never do: that is, he should not openly admit his faults solely to avoid making any further effort to amend them.

ST. JAMES CWL

STIRLING — On November 9 the Parish Council and the Catholic Women's League met for a dinner supper in the parish hall in Frankford.

The Parish Council held a short session, after which Mrs. Roy LaChappelle chaired the business session of the CWL.

A brief report was read on the regional meeting in Marmora on November 7, at which members were asked to support a drive for funds for the Diocesan Council.

A number of projects were discussed including the formation of a youth group. Christmas treats are also being prepared for the young children of the parish.

In December there will be a Christmas party in place of the regular meeting, with an exchange of gifts.

REFRIGERATE

After opening, baby foods should be under constant refrigeration except when removing a portion for serving or recipe use.

After the completion of business Father McCarvey played a recording by the Archbishop of Ottawa on the recent Synod of Bishops held in Rome.

Settlers Remembered

The memory of the arrival of the settlers from Nova Scotia is still kept alive at Waipu, New Zealand, in ceremonies such as this one. It's a re-enactment of the arrival of Rev. Former Researchers for Senate Group Produce Own 'Real Poverty Report'

OTTAWA (CP) — The four men who quit the special Senate committee on poverty last spring, saying it was censoring the facts, have produced an 80,000-word report of their own entitled The Real Poverty Report.

M. G. Hurtig Ltd. of Edmonton, the publisher, says the maverick report "describes in detail how Canada's establishment—monopolies, corporations, politicians and bureaucrats—create and sustain poverty in Canada."

The Real Poverty Report, like the special Senate committee report published Nov. 10, says a guaranteed annual income is vital to overcoming poverty. However, agreement ends there.

It proposes a plan that would cost about 12.4 per cent of the gross national product, or $11.8 billion in 1971.

"That sounds astronomical." The Real Poverty Report admits.

But pointing to Canada's 4.5 million poor, it adds:

"The costs are high, simply because a guaranteed annual income, at any reasonable level, is extremely expensive when unemployment is high, when there is no adequate social insurance, and when the economy is victimizing a lot of people.

"If other structural measures were introduced, the guaranteed annual income would not be needed by as many people, and costs would fall drastically."

The Senate report proposed a guaranteed annual income plan that chairman David Croll (L—Ontario) estimated would have cost $800 to $900 million last year. The idea was rejected by Health Minister John Munro as too costly.

Ian Adams, William Cameron, Brian Hill and Peter Penz, the authors of The Real Poverty Report, says a guaranteed income plan at a low level "is a glorified welfare program."

"A modified tax structure would be needed to finance their proposals—the major change being inclusion of five per cent of wealth and assets in the personal income tax base. More money could be raised through elimination of tax concessions and subsidies to business.

"One source of revenue remains," the book says, pointing to the $5 million a year it costs to run the Senate.

"The money should be distributed each year to five poor people, so that they, too, could be introduced to the pleasant sensation of being millionaires."

The Real Report marks corporate control of politics and the mass media as factors that maintain poverty amid wealth. Another Senate committee, it says, found that the mass media derived 70 per cent of advertising revenue from 100 major companies, more than half U.S.-owned.

"It is fairly easy to understand why the media avoid critical investigation of the implications of concentrated corporate power.

"It is easy to understand their refusal to spend much time talking about the inequality of income distribution.

"After all, they feed off the first and reinforce the second."

Newspapers, radio and TV "obscured social realities" to the point where votes were based on political fantasies and slogans such as The Just Society, Prime Minister Trudeau's banner in the 1968 election.

"And this is done despite the fact that since 1867, legislation passed by Parliament has continually been in the main interest of the business elite."

Ministers Express More Alarm At U.S. Economic Manoeuvres

OTTAWA (CP) — Expressions of government alarm at United States economic pressures on Canada intensified Thursday on several fronts.

In the Commons, Steve Otto, parliamentary secretary to Supply Minister James Richardson, called for a special debate on a U.S. Senate decision which he said would close half the manufacturing plants in Canada.

And Defence Minister Donald Macdonald told the House he is being pushed hard by the U.S. government and aircraft industry to buy $500 million worth of new submarine-tracker planes in the U.S.

In a Montreal speech, Finance Minister E. J. Benson said the U.S. economic policies might drive international economic relations back to the Great Depression, with especially harsh effects on Canadian unemployment.

Justice Minister John Turner told a Toronto audience that the U.S. actions "have provoked a wide range of emotion in Canada, from impatience to bitterness."

Mr. Otto was referring to the U.S. Senate vote approving a proposal permitting U.S. firms to set up exporting subsidiaries—domestic international sales corporations—which could defer taxes on income for up to 10 years.

The Senate DISC bill is a variation of a bill passed by the House of Representatives and is based on a recommendation of President Nixon.

Mr. Otto asked the House to stop debating the tax bill and consider the impact of the DISC plan, which he said would cause "a massive exodus" from Canada of U.S.-owned manufacturing subsidiaries to take advantage of tax breaks at home.

Mr. Benson observed in Montreal that the U.S. import-surcharge affects $2.5 billion of Canadian exports. He added that DISC "would provide a continuing incentive by way of tax subsidy for American companies to divert production from Canada to the U.S."

In the Commons, T. C. Douglas (NDP—Nanaimo-Cowichan-The Islands) urged the government to state its position in response to the DISC measure and suggested the government check for plant relocations from Canada to the U.S.

Prime Minister Trudeau said only that he would consider the suggestions.

Commissioner of Languages Issues His First Report

OTTAWA (CP) — The man who complained he could not get a French station on his radio in his Vancouver hotel, and the one who couldn't get a French weather forecast in Ottawa, have had their grievances resolved by Keith Spicer, the federal commissioner of official languages.

Those complaints were among the 181 filed with Mr. Spicer in 1971 under the Officials Languages Act, he says in his first annual report published Thursday.

Canadian National Railways will add a French station to the service in its Hotel Vancouver, and the transport department now issues weather reports in both languages.

Of the total complaints 105 were eligible for action under the law. Fifty-four have been settled and the rest are being examined.

Most dealt with complaints under the law's requirements for services in both official languages by federal government departments and Crown corporations.

Several complainants, for example, said they could not get forms or clerical services in the official language of their choice from Air Canada, the post office or the health department.

The report shows the bulk of eligible complaints sprang from errors by local offices, and resulted in correction or apologies.

But Mr. Spicer gave short shrift to the man who complained that the program notes for a symphony at the National Arts Centre were almost entirely in French. The program featured extracts from Verdi and Puccini operas.

Actually, Mr. Spicer found, the notes were basically bilingual, except that there were no to cope with deviations, "especially since he had taken no exception to the word "soliste"— English versions of the act numbers or the word "soliste"— ception to reading rather more complex titles of operatic selections solely in the composers' reasonable for the complainant language, Italian."

Business vs. Government Confrontation Is Feared

OTTAWA (CP) — A major confrontation is brewing between business and governments, says an Ontario Chamber of Commerce past president.

Mark Kellow told the Eastern Ontario Development Council Thursday that if the clash occurs, the Canadian people will be the biggest losers.

He said the involvement of government in every facet of life is becoming extreme and is cause for alarm, and quoted Prof. D. H. Thain of the University of Western Ontario business school that serious conflicts are maturing rapidly while pending government moves are politically explosive.

CITY OF BELLEVILLE — LOCAL IMPROVEMENT NOTICE

TAKE NOTICE THAT:

1. The Council of the Corporation of the City of Belleville intends to construct as a local improvement the following sidewalk, and intends to specially assess a part of the cost upon the land abutting the work and the balance against the Corporation at large as follows:

Street	From	To	Estimated Cost	Corporation's Share	Owners' Share	Estimated Cost Per Foot Frontage	Estimated Annual Cost Per Foot Frontage
Sidney Street (East Side)	Dundas St. W.	Bridge St. W.	$25,300.00	$14,517.84	$10,782.16	$4.49	$0.68

50 ft. x $4.49 — $224.50
If paid over a period of 10 years at 8½% per annum, the cost would be:
50 ft. x $0.68 — $34.00

2. The special assessment is to be paid in 10 equal annual installments.
3. Application will be made by the Corporation to the Ontario Municipal Board for its approval of the undertaking of the said work, and any owner may, within 21 days after the first publication of the Notice, file with the Clerk of the municipality his objection to the said work being undertaken.
4. The said Board may approve the said work being undertaken, but before doing so may appoint a time and place when any objection to the said work will be considered.

Beer-drinking May Be Reason for Itching

By G. C. THOSTESON, MD

Dear Dr. Thosteson: I have been bothered by itching in the anal and rectal area for years and have tried many salves and preparations. Nothing seems to relieve it. Do you think a skin specialist could help me? Other doctors have recommended salves.

I have frequent bowel movements and a sort of leakage from the anus. Could it be a dietary problem?—R.A.

Sometimes this sort of complaint is overtreated with salves, and a better solution can be to keep the area dry. Leaving a little wad of cotton at the anus, to absorb moisture, can be helpful, and well worth trying.

Your mention of frequent movements and leakage may be a valuable clue. These indicate a need for meticulous cleanliness. Wash the area, and dry it, before applying cotton. With frequent movements, small particles of material can catch in the skin folds around the anus, and cause very annoying itching.

The seepage also suggests the possibility of the presence of a fissure or of hemorrhoids.

I would, therefore, suggest that examination by a rectal specialist would be more likely to bring you relief—permanent relief rather than perhaps temporary.

As to diet, excessive use of beer can cause itching, although I must admit the amount that is excessive varies from person to person. If you are a regular beer drinker, try getting along without it for a few days and see if there's a difference.

The possibility of food allergy cannot be overlooked, because certain foods will bother some people, but rectal disease is by far the more common cause of such itching.

Dear Dr. Thosteson: My daughter has a baby now eight months old. For protection for a while she was fitted with an IUD but it didn't work and she got pregnant right away.

Now the doctor tells her if he removes the IUD (she is two months pregnant) she would hemorrhage and have a miscarriage. If she leaves it in she may stand a chance of having a deformed child.

I am not familiar with these things and would like your opinion.—Mrs. C.B.

The doctor advised the accepted practice in such cases. Removal of the IUD can cause death of the fetus. Its presence may cause a miscarriage anyway, but if it does not, it will be expelled at the time of delivery. Deformity of the baby is not likely.

Dear Dr. Thosteson: I would like to know more about "purines" in meat, etc., in a diet for gout. I like oxtail soup. After it is cooked we let it chill and then remove all the grease. Am I getting rid of the purine content?—J.H.D.

Purine content is highest in organ meats—i.e., liver, sweetbreads, kidneys. Also shellfish, sardines and anchovies. Oxtail does not fall in this category, and I am sure it would be acceptable.

Purines are present in all meats (and some other foods) but they are in the lipid or gravy and are not removed by skimming the grease.

In any event, other than the avoidance of excessive amounts of purine before or during an attack, diet plays a relatively minor role in gout.

Court Told Story False

KINGSTON, Ont. (CP) — Two prisoners, charged along with 14 others with non-capital murder in an uprising at Kingston penitentiary last April, interrupted the testimony of a Crown witness Thursday with protests that the witness was lying.

"He's sick," shouted William Shepley, 34, of Windsor, Ont., who had been identified earlier by the witness as the ringleader in the beating of fellow prisoners during the riot.

Mr. Justice William Henderson cautioned Shepley to be silent.

Shepley replied: "He knows he's lying, your honor. He's lying for his own benefit."

Glenn Morris, 34, of Staunton, Va., also an accused, interjected: "I know he is also lying."

The witness, now on parole, said Shepley "basically was the principal leader of the entire group that was so enthralled with the beatings and carryings-on."

The witness said his parole was granted in September after he had served 10 months on a four-year sentence for uttering forged documents and for fraud.

Defence lawyers challenged the witness several times for what they said was confusing evidence when identifying the accused and their participation in the beatings.

Brian Beauvais, 22, of London, Ont., another accused, was identified by the witness as the "backup man" for Shepley.

The witness said Shepley also "encouraged and enticed" the other prisoners during the four-day riot to "go along with him" and ignore a plea by authorities to leave the prison and have their grievances heard.

The 13 accused are charged with the non-capital murder of two fellow prisoners—Brian Ensor, 28, of Hamilton, and Bertrand Robert, 36, of Chatham. Ensor was found dead by prison authorities following the riot and Robert died in hospital a month later.

In earlier testimony Thursday, a witness who still is a prisoner at the penitentiary, said Ensor, a convicted rapist, was of such low intelligence he did not understand the other convicts disliked him because of his crime.

The later witness said so-called "undesirable" prisoners who were subjected to beatings were tied to chairs encircling a radiator in the prison and were to "bear the brunt" of an attack if armed troops should attempt to quell the riot.

He said two of the accused, Donald Oag, 20, and his brother James, 24, both of London, Ont., were the ones who "dragged out primarily the two parties that of course died in the experience."

Earlier evidence said the prisoners brought out to the circle included sex offenders, child molesters and informers.

The witness testified that during a halt in the beatings, Brian Dodge, 27, of Petrolia, Ont., another accused; and Morris and James Oag threw paint and glue on the heads of the victims while standing on a floor above them.

But of Shepley, he said: "Generally, he was the promoter of the job they were to do."

Other prisoners charged are: Robert Robidoux, 18, Edward Fowler, 18, and Wayne McGurgin, 23, all of Toronto; Harold St. Amour, 35, Pembroke, Ont.; Ernest Bugler, 24, St. Thomas, Ont.; Edward Johnston, 22, Clarkson, Ont.; and David Birt, 24, Charlottetown.

The Ontario Supreme Court trial continues today.

Reporters' Testimony Is Sought

ALBANY, N.Y. (AP) — The man heading the state investigation of the Attica prison rebellion would like to interview reporters about events they witnessed inside the prison. But he says some are reluctant to talk.

However, he added, the proposed interviews raise the question of whether the reporters were witnesses to criminal acts or reporters whose sources should remain confidential.

"I have a duty to perform to obtain all the evidence that is legally obtainable without invading the rights, whatever the rights are, of the press, and we are going to attempt to define this between ourselves in a reasonable way," Deputy Attorney-General Robert Z. Fischer said in an interview.

He said he wants to obtain "what's permissible within the law" in pictures and statements of events.

Hobby Becomes His Business

By BRIAN AMARON
Staff Reporter

It's not everyone who can quit their job and devote the rest of their days to a hobby. But that's what Harold Carruthers has in mind.

Actually he won't be giving up the insurance business for good. Now manager of North American Life Assurance in Belleville, he'll be taking a leave of absence for three or four months at the beginning of the new year before returning as a salesman. He feels that the voluntary demotion will allow him more time for his true passion, antique collecting.

Mr. Carruthers is a relative newcomer to the memorabilia business, having bought his first antique only 13 years ago. He and his wife Jean have come a long way though, and today their garage is a converted shop while the rest of their Dufferin St., home is crammed with Canadiana relics.

"We got taken," says Mrs. Carruthers, describing the worn-out butch they purchased in 1969 to augment a new recreation room. "It had barnboard backs and the (Kingston) dealer who sold it to us said it was a real bargain." Needless to say, that particular piece was sold long ago and the dealer was never consulted again.

"I would consider myself a better judge now by a country mile," declares Mr. Carruthers. He hesitates to guess the value of the articles he and his wife have purchased but says that through auctions, catalogues, books and acquisitions they have progressed to the stage where they now feel qualified enough to go into business.

The Carruthers' shop contains everything from opal glass banana split-dishes to a 1912 mechanical cash register. There are sleigh bells from Quebec, an offset axe from Arnprior and even the overhead electric fan from Dickens Ice Cream Parlor and Bakery in Belleville. Most of the goods date back to the turn of the century but one item, a stove fabricated by Chown and Cunningham Foundary of Kingston, was made in 1970.

The main emphasis, however, is on refinished furniture. On display you can see armoires and cupboards in a variety of styles and sizes, high chairs and rockers, commodes and butter bowls, all in the rustic appearance of polished pine, butternut or maple.

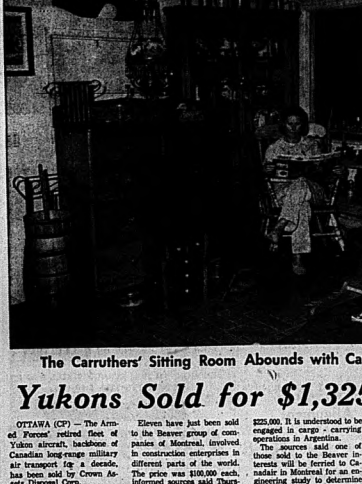
One of the highlights is an ancient pine armoire believed to have come from Quebec. Bought from an old man living in a 100 year - old cabin near Killaloe, the piece is rare in this province and reflects the French influence on Quebec design. "It took three summers before he'd part with it," says Mr. Carruthers. "All he'd say was 'I can only sell it once'." The closet was being used primarily to store old clothes but also contained a vast array of ancient medicinal bottles, many of them still full.

The remainder of the house looks like a museum with articles from all over the eastern part of the country on view. Among the most treasured possessions is a collection of glass goblets in a broad variety of patterns. Several including a Nova Scotia interlower example, are from the Maritimes where early American settlers found plenty of sand available to continue their trade. Many of the styles later showed up in Quebec and Ontario glassware.

The recreation room which originally inspired the Carruthers to begin collecting antiques now is a repository for items needing repair. A comprehensive workshop containing jars of hand-made nails and electrically run power tools is next door.

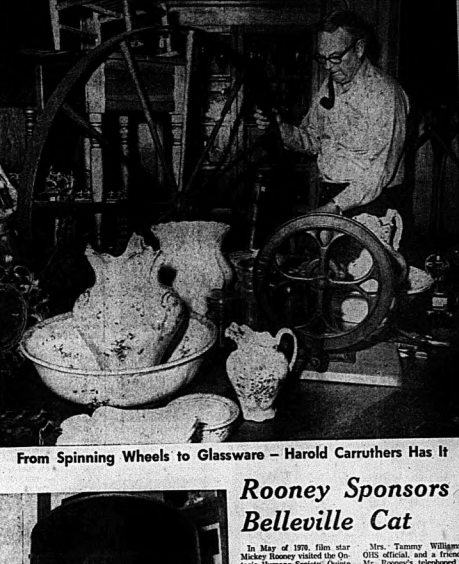
At a recent meeting of the Quinte Historical Society, Mr. Carruthers described to members the procedure involved in restoring furniture. He believes in coming as close to the original as possible, even if it includes leaving a saw blade groove exposed. His motto is: "It's not how much you can take off - it's how much you can leave on."

He has always been a person who used his hands. At one time constructing hi-fi cabinets and birdhouses. The experience came in handy when he discovered antique restoring since many old wood articles are in need of mending by the time he obtains them. He often replaces worn parts on chairs or drawers although he is quick to inform potential buyers of any modifications he has made.



A onetime dance band musician, Mr. Carruthers is also a ham radio enthusiast. On the wall of his radio room is a thankyou note from Canadian National Telegraphs dated March 11, 1967. He tells the story of the evening he was listening to a fellow British broadcaster while the Dominion curling championships were going on in St. John. A storm had apparently knocked out power lines around the New Brunswick city and results could not be relayed. The British operator was able to make out a signal eminating from there, however, and he passed it on to Carruthers who proceeded to call CN in Montreal with the scores.

For now the Carruthers are content to keep their business within the family. Mrs. Carruthers has been unable to help in the physical end of the operation since suffering a heart attack in January but she still advises when refinding purchases as well as looking after the books. They are contemplating hanging a small sign in front of the house to attract passing antique buffs. Most customers have been friends or other dealers since the shop opened in March.



One of the Carruthers' most intriguing artifacts is an early 1900's candy maker, extracted from Weese's Candy Store when the Front St., shop closed its doors eight years ago. Taffy was cranked between two rotating drums which pressed the material into small shapes. The hardened spheres or fish replicas were then wrapped in wax paper and sold to eager youngsters. Perhaps the dilemma of the ardent antique collector is the fact that the Carruthers have never found time to put their device to work.

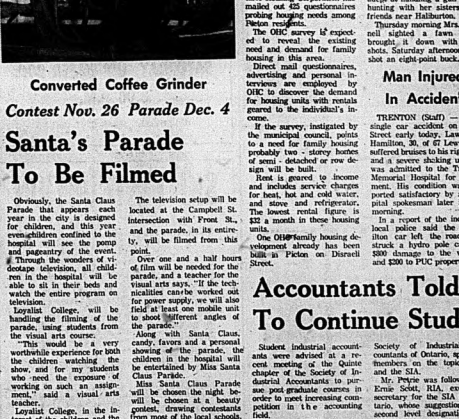
Yukons Sold for $1,325,000

OTTAWA (CP) — The Armed Forces' retired fleet of Yukon aircraft, backbone of Canadian long-range military air transport for a decade, has been sold by Crown Assets Disposal Corp.

The 18 four - engine turboprops, which cost the country $6.5 million each, sold for $1,325,000.



Eleven have just been sold to the Beaver group of companies of Montreal, involved in construction enterprises in different parts of the world. The price was $100,000 each, informed sources said Thursday.

Last year, the other one was sold to Bachelor Enterprises of Miami, Fla., for $225,000. It is understood to be engaged in cargo - carrying operations in Argentina.

The sources said one of those sold to the Beaver interests will be ferried to Canadair in Montreal for an engineering study to determine whether it can be overhauled to qualify for a certificate of air-worthiness.

The Yukon, a military version of the Bristol Britannia, was introduced into the Royal Canadian Air Force in 1961, and the last one was retired by the armed forces' air transport command earlier this year.

The planes have been replaced by Boeing 707 jets, which the defence department says provide greater operational flexibility.

Rooney Sponsors Belleville Cat

In May of 1970, film star Mickey Rooney visited the Ontario Humane Society, Quinte Branch, on Avonlough Road.

A long - established animal lover, Mr. Rooney professed concern for animal care.

The society's unique foster parent program for cats, introduced this year, provides sanctuary for every feline who is sponsored.

On an annual basis, sponsors provide $10 for the care an upkeep of unadopted cats. Humane Society Superintendent Harry Brown explained.

When an adoption period is over and a cat remains unclaimed, they have to be disposed of.

Under the new plan, cats sponsored for sanctuary life will live out their days in peace and tranquility. They are still eligible for adoption, however.

OHC Surveys Picton Needs

PICTON (Staff) — The Ontario Housing Corporation has mailed out 425 questionnaires probing housing needs among Picton residents.

The OHC survey is expected to reveal the existing need and demand for family housing in this area.

Direct mail questionnaires, advertising and personal interviews are employed by OHC to discover the demand for housing units with rentals geared to the individual's income.

If the survey, instigated by the municipal council, points to a need for family housing probably two - storey homes of semi - detached or row design will be built.

Rent is geared to income and includes service charges for heat, hot and cold water, and stove and refrigerator. The lowest rental figure is $32 a month in these housing units.

One OHC family housing development already has been built in Picton on Disraeli Street.

Santa's Parade To Be Filmed

Contest Nov. 26 Parade Dec. 4

Obviously, the Santa Claus Parade that appears each year in the city is designed for children, and this year, even children confined to the hospital will see the pomp and pageantry of the event. Through the wonders of video - dectapi television, all children in the hospital will be able to sit in their beds and watch the entire program on television.

Loyalist College, will be handling the filming of the parade, using students from the visual arts course.

"This would be a very worthwhile experience for both the children watching the show, and for my students who need the exposure of working on such an assignment," said a visual arts teacher.

Loyalist College, in the interest of the children and the worthwhile cause, has provided all equipment and personnel for the job.

The television setup will be located at the Campbell St. intersection with Front St., and the parade, in its entirety, will be filmed from this point.

Over one and a half hours of film will be needed for the parade, and a teacher for the visual arts says, "If the technicalities can be worked out for power supply, we will also field at least one mobile unit to shoot different angles of the parade."

Along with Santa Claus, candy, favors and a personal showing of the parade, the children in the hospital will be entertained by Miss Santa Claus Parade.

Miss Santa Claus Parade will be chosen the night before will be chosen at a beauty contest, drawing contestants from most of the local schools.

This contest will be held Friday, Nov. 26 in the Centennial Secondary School theatre.

Mrs. Tammy Williamson, OHS official, and a friend of Mr. Rooney's telephoned the veteran actor in Fort Lauderdale, Florida, this week. He sponsor a foster cat.

When the pussy is selected, it will be photographed and its record kept on file for the sponsor to examine if he requests it.

Stirling Hunters Have Good Week

STIRLING (Special) — Local hunters reported a successful week in the bush during the deer hunting season.

A party consisting of Donald Williams, David Scott, Robert Anderson, Ross Anderson, John Eaton, Daryl Anderson, Brian Anderson, and Alton and Earl Furguson bagged four deer during one week in an area north of Ingham Lake near Cooper.

Mrs. Lewis (Marian) Fencil of Rylstone proved to be adept at handling a gun while hunting with her sisters and friends near Haliburton.

Thursday morning Mrs. Fencil sighted a fawn and brought it down with two shots. Saturday afternoon she shot an eight-point buck.

Man Injured In Accident

TRENTON (Staff) — In a single car accident on West Street early today, Lawrence Hamilton, 30, of 67 Lewis St., suffered bruises to his right leg and a severe shaking up and was admitted to the Trenton Memorial Hospital for treatment. His condition was reported satisfactory by a hospital spokesman later in the morning.

In a report of the incident, local police said the Hamilton car left the road and struck a hydro pole causing $300 damage to the vehicle and $200 to PUC property.

Accountants Told To Continue Study

Student industrial accountants were advised at a recent meeting of the Quinte chapter of the Society of Industrial Accountants to pursue post graduate courses in order to meet increasing competition in the accounting field.

Bill Petrie, RIA, an employee of Toronto Iron Works and honorary treasurer of the Society of Industrial Accountants of Ontario, spoke to members on the topic, You and the SIA.

Mr. Petrie was followed by Ernie Schitt, RIA, executive secretary for the SIA of Ontario, whose suggestion of a second level designation for industrial accountants prompted a spirited discussion among members.

McLeod, Orr Share Recent NHL Success

By IAN MacLAINE
Canadian Press Staff Writer

Jim McLeod and Bobby Orr have little in common except both have been key performers in turning the fortunes of their respective National Hockey League clubs for the better in recent games.

McLeod, a 34-year-old rookie goaltender, played superbly for the second straight game to lading St. Louis Blues to a 2-2 tie with Montreal Canadiens Thursday night.

At the same time, defenceman Orr was instrumental in Boston's 5-3 romp over Vancouver Canucks, scoring twice early in a third-period assault that broke up a tight-checking game.

Elsewhere Thursday Philadelphia Flyers blanked Los Angeles Kings 2-0, California Golden Seals defeated Buffalo Sabres 7-5 and Minnesota North Stars edged Pittsburgh Penguins 4-3.

The schedule resumes Saturday with Philadelphia in Montreal, California at Toronto Maple Leafs, Minnesota at Boston, Detroit in Vancouver, Pittsburgh visiting Chicago and Philadelphia entering Minnesota.

McLeod, obtained from the Chicago organization this year, was described by Hawks' coach Billy Reay as "a major league goalie" during last spring's Stanley Cup final.

McLeod's credentials were impressive while playing 10 seasons at Seattle, San Francisco, Los Angeles and Portland in the Western Hockey League. He was on standby with Chicago during the playoffs.

But until St. Louis got him to help shore the spotty goaltending they've been getting this year, he lacked big league experience.

Until this week, he had played 80 minutes in two games and had a 2.25 goal against average. In two starts, he held Detroit to a 2-2 draw Tuesday then followed with another 2-2 stalemate against Montreal Thursday.

Only Marc Tardif's 14th goal of the season late in the game enabled Montreal to tie the score and pull even with Rangers atop the NHL East, each with 28 points.

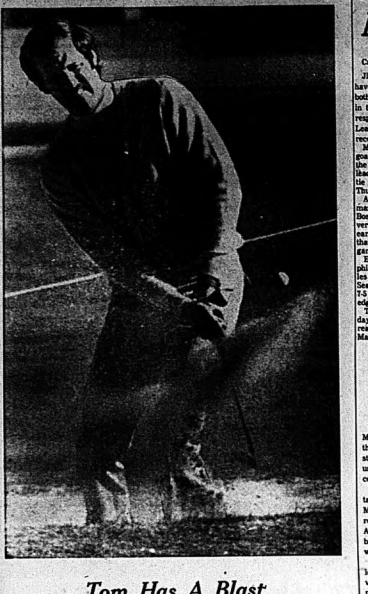
Orr's two goals and an assist against Vancouver pulled him into a tie for third in the scoring race and lifted Boston to within five points of Montreal and New York.

The 24-year-old defenceman scored three times in the Bruins' 11-2 rout of Los Angeles last Sunday as the Boston shooters suddenly recalcitrant scene of the scoring power that has been missing from the Boston offence this year.

Ron Stewart, obtained by Vancouver in a recent trade with New York, didn't even get a chance to show for his new bosses. The veteran winger was struck in the face by a clearing pass off team-mate John Schella's stick and suffered a fractured jaw.

Joey Johnston's second goal of the game with less than two minutes remaining in the game launched the Californians forward victory and Buffalo coach Punch Imlach into a tirade.

Imlach claimed Johnston was offside but a replay of the action showed that the puck preceded the Seals' player across both the centre red line and Buffalo's blueline.



The game proved costly to the Californians who lost starting goaltender Lyle Carter in the second period with rib injuries and fiery winger Gerry Pinder late in the game following a skirmish feud with Buffalo defenceman Doug Barrie.

Pinder struck his head on the ice and was taken to hospital for observation while Carter was to have his injured rib xrayed.

Veteran Charlie Burns scored to break a 2-2 tie at Minneapolis and Jean-Paul Parise added the insurance tally as the North Star moved in within two points of Chicago in the torrid West Division race.

Minnesota defenceman Tom Reid, who set up three goals, started Burns away on a tap-on-one break with Jude Drouin. Burns used Drouin as a decoy before snapping the puck past Pittsburgh goalie Jim Rutherford.

Simon Nolet, the West's leading scorer, fired his 12th goal of the season for the winner as Philadelphia as goaltender Bruce Gamble got the shutout, his 12th in the NHL and first since becoming a Flyer in an NHL trade last February with Toronto.

Ali in Wrong Business But Hours Aren't Bad

HOUSTON, Tex. (AP) — Muhammad Ali thinks he's in the wrong business but he'll stick with professional boxing until a better paycheque comes along.

Questioned about his hesitancy to knock out Buster Mathis Wednesday night en route to a unanimous decision, Ali said, "I'm in the wrong business. I'm just getting what I can out of it."

Which is plenty. He collected $300,000 for the Mathis victory and immediately announced plans for a Dec. 18 fight in Zurich, Switzerland against Jurgen Blin. Ali will get another $300,000 guarantee.

"I wish I could do something else to make a living but I can't," Ali said. "It's getting harder and harder for me to fight. I look at fight films and it looks so silly for two men up there beating on each other."

A spokesman for Top Rank, Inc., promoters of the Ali-Mathis fight, said net receipts amounted to $400,000. After Ali's cut and Mathis's $60,000 guarantee, Top Rank was left with $40,000.

"I hope the fight was more an artistic success than it was financial," the spokesman said.

Ali said he was not satisfied with his performance against Mathis, who went down four times in the 11th and 12th rounds but hung on for the decision.

"I saw a lot of things I wanted to do in the fight but I couldn't," Ali said. "I just didn't have enough time to get ready. I wouldn't fight Joe Frazier with only 10 days notice. I didn't work one time on the heavy bag for this fight. You need that for punching power."

Blin appeared briefly at a news conference with Ali Thursday and said he felt Ali would have a tougher time against him than Ali did against Mathis.

Blin has 29 victories including a second round TKO over Scrap Iron Johnson Oct. 1 in Hamburg.

Blin's record includes a loss to former European heavyweight champion Joe Bugner, who fought very unimpressively here in winning a decision on the All card.

Mosca May Regret Advice to Barton

TORONTO (CP) — Angelo Mosca may regret the phone call he made last December that steered quarterback Greg Barton to Toronto Argonauts.

Mosca's Hamilton Tiger-Cats and Argos meet this Saturday in the second game of the Eastern Football Conference's 16-game total-point final. Toronto took the opener 23-8 at Hamilton last Sunday.

Barton, though he has been used infrequently during the latter part of the season with a broken finger on his throwing hand was mending, has devised most of the offensive patterns as the Argos aimed for their fifth Grey Cup appearance in 19 years.

Saturday's game is set to go at 2 p.m. EST and will be televised nationally by the CTV network with no blackout in the Toronto-Hamilton area.

Mosca, Hamilton's 273-pound defensive tackle who doubles as a professional wrestler in the off-season, was in Detroit to visit Chuck Walton, a one-time Ticat guard, when he met Barton.

"He mentioned about playing out his option (with Detroit Lions of the National Football League) and we got to talking about Canadian football," Mosca recalled this week. "I wondered where he could make the most money and I told him Toronto or Vancouver.

"I called the Argos the next day and (Frank) Blackie Johnston (Toronto assistant coach) about him (Barton). I guess they put him on their negotiation list right away."

Barton had seen little action in three years with Detroit but when the season was ended he was ticketed for stardom with the hapless Philadelphia Eagles.

There were howls of protest when the 6-foot-2, 195-pound quarterback signed with the Canadian Football League Argos. But because it was Mosca's intervention that led to Barton's talks with Toronto, the EFC club couldn't be caught tampering with the player.

CFL commissioner Jake Gaudaur confirmed later that Barton's player contract did not reach his offices until after Barton became a free agent last May 1.

"It's tough to prove tampering," said Gaudaur at the time. "It was the same situation with Vic Washington (former Ottawa Rough Rider and British Columbia Lion) last year. . . . Pete Rozelle (NFL commissioner) and I tried to prevent inducements to players to play out their options."

Barton signed as a player-coach with Argos for five years at a reported $80,000 a year and it was the offensive strategy dictated by him that made Argos the class in the East in 1971 and helped them in establishing a 13-point cushion for Saturday's second game of the final.

However, he's not likely to forget Mosca.

The towering Hamilton defender broke Barton's nose when the two teams met in Toronto in September.

Mosca isn't likely to get another chance to put any stops on the Toronto quarterback in Saturday's game. Barton has watched most of the recent games from the sidelines while giving a moral support to Joe Theismann, the rookie from Notre Dame.

Theismann directed the Argo offence in their late season drive when Toronto captured first place in the East for the first time in 11 years.

Barton says he's ready to return and hopes he can call a few plays in Saturday's game.

"What really scares me is not being used Saturday, then if Joe gets hurt in the Grey Cup game I'll have to go in cold. . . . I have a fear I'll let the team down."

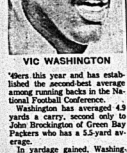
But coach Leo Cahill isn't likely to test Barton's injured hand against the Ticats unless Theismann comes up flat or is injured.

"He (Theismann) has done one helluva job," was Cahill's appraisal of the 22-year-old quarterback during Thursday's workout.

Theismann admits to making mistakes this past season, some of them costly.

"I'm not happy with the season I had. Maybe I was expecting too much. But I don't think I played as well as I should have.

"I hope to improve in the next two games," he added, referring to Saturday's game and the national final at Vancouver against Western champion Calgary Stampeders Sunday, Nov. 28.



Former Roughies Hold Their Own

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

The competition is tougher in the National Football League than it was with Ottawa Rough Riders in the Canadian Football League but a couple of former Rider running backs appear to be holding their own in the big time.

Vic Washington, who departed from the Riders in 1970, became a rookie with San Francisco

VIC WASHINGTON

49ers this year and has established the second-best average among running backs in the National Football Conference.

Washington has averaged 4.9 yards a carry, second only to John Brockington of Green Bay Packers who has a 5.5-yard average.

In yardage gained, Washington is eighth on the list with 521 yards in 106 carries. Brockington has 751 yards in 127 attempts.

Meanwhile, in the American Conference, former Rough Rider Bo Scott, who left Ottawa in 1968, has picked up 298 yards in 117 carries for Cleveland Browns and coach Blanton his 625-yard effort of last season when he scored 11 touchdowns, seven by running.

He has seven touchdowns this season, six of them on rushes.

Warfield is also the leading pass-receiver in either conference. He has caught 31 passes for 801 yards and a 25.8-yard average.

The NFL statisticians, however, rank the pass-receivers according to the number of receptions and, in that category, Bill Parks of San Diego Chargers leads the AFC with 40 catches and Dick Gordon of Chicago Bears is tops in the NFC with 36.

Coincidentally, Bob Griese, the Miami quarterback who threw all 11 touchdown passes to Warfield, is the leading passer in the AFC based on the NFL rating system which combines completion percentage, interceptions, touchdowns and average yards gained.

Griese has completed 87 of 167 throws for 1,462 yards and 16 touchdowns with only five interceptions.

Lalonde Sent Down

VANCOUVER (CP) — Vancouver Canucks sent rookie centre Bobby Lalonde to their American Hockey League farm club in Rochester Thursday in the first move to trim their roster since completing a National Hockey League trade with New York Rangers.

Lalonde, the club's second amateur draft choice last June, had played only sporadically and Canucks general manager Bud Poile said he needs experience.

The Canucks roster now stands at 24 players, 19 of whom can be dressed for a game. Vancouver acquired wingers Dave Balon, Wayne Connelly and veteran Ron Stewart from New York this week in exchange for defenceman Gary Doak and forechand Jim Wiste.

TOTTHAM ST. ANNES, England (Reuter) — Tottenham Hotspur, the holder, were thrown Thursday to meet Chelsea in the semi-finals of the English Football League Cup. West Ham United, the third London soccer club in the semi-finals, was drawn to meet Stoke City or Bristol Rovers, who have still to play their quarter-final match.

HULL WINS REPLAY

HULL, England (CP) — Hull beat Dewsbury 22-10 in a Rugby League Players' Competition first-round replay Thursday.

CALGARY (CP) — For the final time in more than 20 years, a charter train is to take Calgary Stampeder fans to the Grey Cup. A Canadian National Railways train has been chartered to travel to Vancouver from Edmonton, about 850 people are expected to make the trip.

LONDON (Reuter) — Australia's Evonne Goolagong, who made tennis look easy when winning the Wimbledon title this year and has made it look difficult ever since, took 28 minutes to subdue Patti Hogan of the United States 6-7, 6-2, 6-1 in their first-round match at Dewar Cup indoor tournament Thursday.

Miss Goolagong, 20, played nervously and indecisively throughout the first set, but improved and finally moved on to a fairly comfortable victory. From 2-2 in the second set she won 10 of the next 11 games.

Also in the women's singles first round, Julie Heldman of the U.S. beat Winnie Shaw of Britain 6-3, 6-2.

In men's action, Georges Goven, France's No. 1 tennis star, crushed Jaime Fillol of Chile 6-1, 7-5 to reach the semi-finals.

TORONTO (CP) — The start of Western Ontario Mustangs' coach Frank Cosentino, knowing that the west has nevermore beaten, isn't making confident predictions about the outcome of the College Bowl, emblematic of Canadian intercollegiate football championship.

The College Bowl will be played Saturday at Varsity Stadium between the Mustangs and University of Alberta Golden Bears and the game will be televised nationally by CBC, starting at 1p.m. EST.

Plagued by injuries since the season opened, Cosentino has had to shuffle his lineup from week to week, but the moves have paid off: hardcore fans lending support to his reliance on depth.

"It's a nice feeling to have this kind of depth," Cosentino said. "We've had enough injuries to wreck an average team."

Head coach in Dunlevy of the Bears is inclined to agree. He says the Mustangs will be the toughest squad the team has met all year.

"They have no obvious weaknesses offensively, or defensively. Their defence, in particular, is very sound.

No Predictions From Cosentino

But both teams have extenuated circumstances. Rumors and scouts from Western attended the Mustangs' Churchill Bowl in Edmonton Sunday, when the Bears mauled Bishop's University of Lennoxville, Que., 53-2.

The Bears had nine of their players selected to the Western Canada Intercollegiate Football League all-star team, and one of them, split end Mel Smith, 22, captured the Hec Crighton Trophy as the outstanding player in Canadian college football.

But the offensive line has been the backbone of the Bears' surge this season.

Gravelle Gets Goal For Bears

OTTAWA (CP) — George Tomson scored two goals Thursday to lead Ottawa Bears to a 6-4 win over Ottawa Nationals in the Central Junior Hockey League.

Don Robertson, Bruce McPherson, Gerry Howard and John Gravelle scored the other Bears' goals.

John Harper scored twice for Ottawa while Mike Cushman and Bill Pye added one each.

Fewer than 2,000 fans watched Ottawa outshoot Scarborough Falls 37-26 and take six of 15 penalties including a five-minute major. Smiths Falls also had a major.

Stinsons Sign Off

It was 10-4 over and out for Stinson Construction last night. The Construction team dropped a 10-4 decision to Belvedere Hotel who maintained their unbeaten Quinte Hockey League record this season.

In the other encounter, Central Taxi stayed two points behind the league leaders by beating Reids Dairy 5-1.

Gene Francis paced the Hotelmen with a three-goal effort, while Paul Macklin potted a pair. Others Belvedere scorers included Jack Gilby, Gerry Jones, Bob Ethier, Larry Marshall and Doug Hallam.

Rick Rosebush turned in a fast trick performance for the losers, with Ted Waite getting a goal and two assists. The losers were assessed four of the game's seven penalties.

A balanced scoring attack carried Central to their fourth win of the season as five different players counted goals. Scoring for the Taxi men were Kevin Allen, Tom MacDonald, Andy Prudden, Ted Schwarzer and Grant Hagerman. The lone Reids goal went to Jim McKay.

The winners drew five of the game's seven penalties.

Kingston Rink Takes Title In Pepsi Womens Bonspiel

If curling success is what you crave, then go East. Young lady, go East. At least that formula proved successful for Phyllis Burnette as the former Edmonton resident helped Bette-Anne Carnegie's Kingston rink to a victory in the Pepsi Women's Bonspiel Thursday night.

The former western Canada curler was competing in her first bonspiel in this province and helped the Kingston rink to a win over the 15 other foursomes entered in the event.

Much of the credit for the win, however was given to the team's skip. "The skip was our top curler. We left her with enough pressure shots," revealed vice-skip Noreen Sugarman. Fourth member of the winning rink was second Ruth Hillier.

The fact that the tournament was a total points rather than knock-out affair, in addition called for a bit different strategy. "You have to put up more guards when you get a rock in the house, rather than drawing as much as you would in a knockout tournament. I don't think it's really as good curling as a knockout competition, explained the winning skip.

The Carnegie rink compiled 39 points in their two games to best Marg McPherson's Belleville rink 7 points in the race for top honors. Points were awarded for wins, for each end won and for blank ends.

The winners stopped fellow Kingston competitors Betty Milne 9-5 in their first game and added a 18-4 win over Jean Morrison's Napanee rink in their second match.

Members of Marg McPherson's second place team included Mary Murdoch, Betty Ingram and Nina Haggerty. In their place was a Bancroft foursome skipped by Mary Armstrong, while Pixton's Beverly McFarland skipped the fourth place finishers.

A total of 12 middle rinks and four local entries competed in the event, the second year that the event has been held.

Moore Paces Senior A Scorers

Grant Moore of Orillia Terriers gained the lead in Ontario Hockey Association Senior A scoring this week.

Moore, runner-up to Ron Hergott of Galt last year in points, moved up from second spot to displace Doug Acomb of Barrie Flyers. Moore has 16 goals and 13 assists for 29 points.

Sonny Pennington of Galt gained a firmer grip on the goaltending lead, lowering his average to 2.74. Gerry McNamara of Orillia leads in shutouts with two.

Mike Corbett of Oakville Oaks is the penalty leader with 64 minutes.

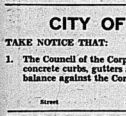
Five Builders Charged

BUFFALO (AP) — Five architects—four from Houston and one from Buffalo—were charged with bribery and conspiracy Thursday in connection with alleged attempt to buy the votes of Erie County legislators.



The charges were contained in an indictment opened in Erie County court following the completion of a grand jury investigation of a proposal for a $50 million domed sports stadium.

Indicted on charges of bribery and third-degree conspiracy were Ralph Anderson Jr., Herman Lloyd, Arthur Jonca and Seth Hall all of Houston and Robert Sitevster of Buffalo.

The indictment handed up Wednesday accused the five of contributing money to members of the county legislature in 1970 to influence their votes on a proposal to build the domed stadium.

The five conspired with J. Lloyd Walker, a former member of Sitevster's firm, to furnish certain legislators with a total of $25,000 "to influence their legislative actions," the indictment charged.

The domed stadium, which the five indicted men helped plan, never came into being. When cost estimates rose from $50 million to $75 million,

"That's Rosetteal in there. After last week's game Coach can't stand to look at him!"

They Came Alive

Sweeping to top honors in the Pepsi Women's Curling Bonspiel Thursday night was the Kingston rink of Phyllis Burnette, Ruth Hillier, Bette-Anne Carnegie (skip) and Noreen Sugarman. The visiting foursome defeated 15 other rinks to take top honors in the total point affair held at the Quinte Curling Club. Further curling action will take place in Belleville this weekend when the international OCA bonspiel gets under way Saturday.

CITY OF BELLEVILLE — LOCAL IMPROVEMENT NOTICE

TAKE NOTICE THAT:

1. The Council of the Corporation of the City of Belleville intends to construct as a local improvement the following road, complete with concrete curbs, gutters and storm sewers, and intends to specially assess a part of the cost upon the land abutting the work and the balance against the Corporation at large as follows:

Street	From	To	Estimated Cost	Corporation's Share	Owners' Share	Estimated Cost Per Foot Frontage	Estimated Annual Cost Per Foot Frontage
Sidney Street	Catherine St.	A point approx. 132 feet north of Lewis Street	$203,600.00	$144,800.00	$58,800.00	$12.49	$1.90
Sidney Street	College St.	Southerly approximately 700 feet

50 ft. x $12.49 — $624.50.
If paid over a period of 10 years at 8½% per annum, the cost would be:
50 ft. x $1.90 — $95.00

2. The special assessment is to be paid in 10 equal annual installments.
3. Application will be made by the Corporation to the Ontario Municipal Board for its approval of the undertaking of the said work, and any owner may, within 21 days after the first publication of the Notice, file with the Clerk of the municipality his objection to the said work being undertaken.
4. The said Board may approve the said work being undertaken, but before doing so may appoint a time and place when any objection to the said work will be considered.

ADAM S. STALKER,
CITY CLERK.

DAILY CRYPTOQUOTE—Here's how to work it:
A X Y D L B A A X R
B LONGFELLOW

One letter simply stands for another. In this sample A is used for the three X's, for the two O's, etc. Single letters, apostrophes, the length and formation of the words are all hints. Each day the code letters are different.

Rock-symphony Album Taped

EDMONTON (CP) — A rock group in jeans, accompanied by $135,000 worth of recording equipment, teamed with a chamber orchestra in formal attire Thursday night and the sound was . . . different.

The five-man group, Procol Harum, called the "thinking man's rock group" by their admirers, and a 44-piece chamber orchestra played for two hours to create what is described as itself the first rock-symphony album ever made in Canada.

The recording, to be released on the A and M label, would be only the third such collaboration released as a record.

The British group's latest album is Broken Barricades but one of their earliest ones, entitled Salty Dog, is a hit mainly with graveyards, coffins and corpses. They abandoned mechility for lighter-hearted flights Thursday night and received standing ovations from the crowd of more than 2,000 at the Jubilee Auditorium.

Their past performances included an appearance with the Stratford (Ont.) orchestra in Ontario but this was not recorded.

Conducted by Lawrence Leonard, the orchestra consisted of the chamber group supplemented by two French horns, two trumpets and one extra percussionist. The 24-voice Deseners Singers, under the direction of Ted Kardash, provided the backing vocals.

The two styles — rock and classical — seldom really mixed, however.

The orchestra generally played what sounded like modern classical music and the rock group played . . . rock.

For some works, nevertheless, the two styles complemented each other and captured the self-out anthem.

Many said the most effective collaboration was in the major work of the night, a cantata written by Keith Reid and Gary Brooker titled In Held Twas In I. It produced powerful listen play between the rock group and the orchestra.

Conductor Leonard appeared to get into the spirit of the evening—even though his huge entourage often provided only a background sound. He jumped up and down on the podium several times in the best rock tradition.

The concert was recorded on a 16-track deck trucked to Edmonton from Los Angeles for the evening.

When they release their album Procol Harum will join Deep Purple and Nice who have made records with the Royal Philharmonic and London Philharmonic, respectively.

Brooker and Reid write all the songs and Brooker plays the piano and does the vocals. Chris Copping plays organ, Alan Cartwright, bass, Dave Bell, guitar and B. J. Wilson, drums.

Reid doesn't play with the group but is considered an integral part of it.

Bergman Marries

STOCKHOLM (AP) — Ingmar Bergman, Sweden's famous movie and stage director, has been married for the sixth time.

Bergman confirmed in a telephone interview that he married Ingrid Von Rosen, 41, who has four children by a previous marriage. Bergman, 53, has eight children.

The director acknowledged that the marriage took place this fall at a place and date he would not divulge.

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Entertainer Rudy Vallee was fined $75 and placed on six months probation for disturbing the peace in an argument with a neighbor who didn't like the street name Rue de Vallee.

The 70-year-old crooner was sentenced Thursday after pleading no contest but told reporters later: "It would have been cheap at twice the price." The charges were brought by Dr. Ernst Philip, who said Vallee called him a "Nazi pig" in a fracas Aug. 9.

Vallee said Philip led the opposition against renaming part of Valley's city street Rue de Vallee. The city council rejected the change.

LONDON (Reuter)
Women's (lib) champion Germaine Greer's is to write an adaptation of the 14th century Bc Grek masterpiece Lysistrata by Aristophanes—a play in which the wives of Athens and Sparta conspire to end war by refusing their husbands sex.

Australian-born Miss Greer, 32, was commissioned by British national theatre and the play is to be staged at London's Old Vic Theatre next summer.

Joint Anti-pollution Teams Already at Work on Lakes

WASHINGTON (CP) — A detailed plan which sends Canadian and U.S. teams into joint attack against oil spills and other sudden pollution in the Great Lakes has been prepared and quietly put into effect, it was learned here Thursday.

The plan got its first try-out only three months ago, when a tanker fuel oil spilled into the St. Clair River after two tankers collided. But the existence of the plan and its implementation were not publicized at the time.

Informed sources said the plan is intended to form part of a much more complex agreement between Canada and the United States to combat all forms of pollution in the Great Lakes. That over-all agreement is still being negotiated and may not be signed for several months.

The oil-spill plan, a copy of which was obtained by The Canadian Press, covers international waters in all of the Great Lakes as well as the international section of the St. Lawrence River.

The plan is designed to help federal and Ontario agencies in Canada and their federal and state counterparts in the U.S. try to cut through red tape. It provides for immediate notification, speedy action and final clean-up when unexpected pollution by oil or other hazardous material "constitutes a significant threat to the waters" of both countries.

As soon as a threatening spill is detected by one country, the other must be notified immediately. The country most affected then appoints an on-scene commander, with a deputy from the other country. Details, instructions and authorizations are set out in the plan for subsequent joint action by forces from both sides.

The 26-page plan includes few obvious breakthroughs in the realm of national sovereignty, depending more on goodwill to solve problems.

For Canada, the transport department and the new environment department share the chief responsibility, with the Ontario Water Resources Commission moved for that province.

The plan received its first and only try-out Aug. 27-28 after the bulk carrier Transmichigan was holed and went aground in the Canadian section of the St. Clair River after a collision with a similar vessel, the Neuno.

A Canadian centre at Sarnia, Ont., coordinated the subsequent joint response, which included the dispatch of helicopters and a tender from Detroit and the use of floating booms to restrict the spread of fuel oil.

CONTRACT BRIDGE

By B. Jay Becker

(Top Record-Holder in Masters' Individual Championship Play)

You are South, both sides vulnerable. The bidding has been:

North	East	South	West
1 ♥	Pass	1 ♠	Pass
2 ♣	Pass	?

What would you bid now with each of the following five hands?

1. ♠KQ95 ♥763 ♦966 ♣A82
2. ♠AQ972 ♥K4 ♦873 ♣K54
3. ♠AJ95 ♥K95 ♦A965 ♣87
4. ♠AQ863 ♥J9 ♦KQ105 ♣J5
5. ♠AK965 ♥J ♦63 ♣AQ942

1. Two hearts. All you can do at the moment is show a preference for partner's first suit. North's strength is unknown — he may have either a minimum opening bid or extra values not yet disclosed.

Two hearts shows willingness to stop at a part score; and thus indicates that the first response was based on fairly minimum values. But if partner were now to bid three hearts you should carry on to four; for you would be in the happy position of having somewhat greater values than your first two bids had shown.

2. Three clubs. This invites partner to go on to game with more than a minimum opening, but he is of course not forced to bid again. In this sequence, three clubs generally indicates 10 to 12 points.

3. Three hearts. It would be wrong to bid only two hearts, which would indicate a much weaker hand. Counting the value of the heart fit, the distribution and the 11 high-card points, you have the equivalent of an opening bid facing an opening bid—which means game. Accordingly you jump-raise rather than give partner a simple preference in hearts.

4. Three hearts, again. It is clear that with 13 high-card points opposite an opening bid you must undertake game, and it is likewise clear that the best chance for game lies in no-trump. There is not much point to bidding two diamonds, even though this would constitute a forcing bid. It would suggest a distributional hand rather than the notrump type of hand you have.

5. Four clubs. Game is highly likely, and even a slam is not out of the question. The distributional factors easily justify the jump raise (forcing), although it is true that there are only 12 high-card points. While it must be granted that three notrump could prove to be a better contract, there is no way of reaching a notrump game without sacrificing the advantages of the jump raise.

Tomorrow: Planning the play.

What The Stars Say

By CONSTELLA

Aries (March 21-April 19): Taking on jobs you know you aren't ready for yet is the quickest way to hurt your long-range chances. Become proficient in your current assignments for the time being.

Taurus (April 20-May 20): If a certain food or beauty preparation has caused discomfort or an allergic reaction in the past, it's best to avoid it. Why invite unnecessary troubles?

Gemini (May 21-June 21): Social plans may be marred by disagreements with loved ones over how to spend the day. It's really only a very minor issue, so why not give in first and avoid a hassle.

Cancer (June 22-July 22): By compromising your values to secure a partner's OK, you're liable to lose any real satisfaction from reaching your goal. The end doesn't justify the means.

Leo (July 23-Aug 22): It does no good to preach to kin and then turn right around and commit the same transgressions. You really don't have a leg to stand on, so stop trying to justify yourself.

Virgo (Aug 23-Sept 22): Make sure first that cash increases are not only ample but guaranteed to endure, before you expand your fun allowance. Once you start spending, it's hard to call it quits.

Libra (Sept 23-Oct 22): Blood ties, by right of their family connection, have no qualms about interfering in your life. To parents, especially you'll always be their little baby.

Scorpio (Oct 23-Nov 21): You'll be tempted to tell what you know about confidential issues, just to convince an upstart that you're in the same ranks as the big brass. Keep quiet.

Sagittarius (Nov 22-Dec 21): You will have to decide to forego certain entertainments this weekend in order to save enough for a real big celebration or pleasure next month. Decline Dutch treat invitations.

Capricorn (Dec 22-Jan 19): A local or household dispute can find you having to pass judgment and impose penalties on a favorite. It's vital that you act without bias or special consideration.

Aquarius (Jan 20-Feb 18): A gentlemen's agreement may be backed up by a very legal and binding contract, making it impossible to back out. Ask expert privately what your rights are.

Pisces (Feb 19-March 20): Money that's returned from a loan may not stay long in your pocket. Debts of your own make a prior claim on it. Don't be tempted to keep it.

Snowmobile Rules To Be Tightened

Safety Major Factor

OTTAWA (CP)—Transport Minister Don Jamieson Friday promised new rules to make snowmobiles quieter and safer after government tests showed the machines are unstable, too loud, have poor lighting and trouble turning and stopping.

A report of the tests, carried out in a snow-filled gravel pit near here last winer for the transport department, said legislation is needed to remedy safety defects in the machines. The report was tabled in the Commons.

Mr. Jamieson advised the estimated 750,000 Canadians who drive the machines not to take them on public roads. He said he would introduce new regulations to reduce noise levels and add brake lights to the motor-driven toboggans.

The official 83-decibel noise level was not last December.

Snowmobile noise, the report said, is annoying to people "who do not own machines, but who happen to live near an operating area."

But it is also dangerous because it cuts "to almost zero" the chance a snowmobiler has of hearing car horns or warning shouts. As well, it can cause permanent damage to a driver's ears.

Greater dangers exist, however, for the environment. Noise from the machines can terrify wildlife.

A report by the Canadi Safety Council released Friday says 118 people died from snowmobile accidents last year. The year before, 93 were killed. Mr. Jamieson said an estimated 5,000 people were hurt because of the machines in 1970.

One of the reasons, Mr. Jamieson suggested and the report found, was that the machines stop much less quickly than is generally believed.

Snowmobiles tested needed between 250 and 300 feet to stop on packed, icy snow when they were travelling at 40 miles an hour. At 20 miles an hour, they required 14 to 96 feet to stop.

The snowmobile testers also found that none of the machines — the 11 represent most commercial makes currently on the Canadian market—were able to make sharp turns.

Lighting tests, carried out on clear, calm winter nights, showed that snowmobile drivers have difficulty seeing parked objects.

Driving on slopes can cause safety problems because, it says, "in extreme cases the brakes were not capable of stopping the snowmobiles on the slope." The machines may also overturn if driven on an angle to a slope.

Santa Comes to Belleville

Santa Claus arrived in Belleville this morning . . . in a fire engine. Although he said lack of snow prevented use of his sleigh, siblings Debby and Steven Hitchon didn't mind. At a special Santa chair in the Quinte Mall, youngsters by the score gathered to make their Christmas requests. Santa was escorted by musicians and a pipe band.

Schreyer Lays Job On Line

There were reports Friday that Premier Ed Schreyer at a caucus meeting had laid his job on the line in support of aid to separate and parochial schools.

The premier, a proponent of aid, declined to either confirm or deny the report that followed a caucus meeting held while the provincial New Democratic Party is meeting for its annual policy convention.

The separate school issue and policy on abortions are the focal points of the three-day convention that opened Friday.

Under questioning from reporters, Mr. Schreyer acknowledged that the separate school issue had caused some dissension in caucus.

VICTORIA (CP) — Indians will never be content until they run their own schools and develop their own jobs, the president of the National Indian Brotherhood said Friday. George Manuel of Ottawa told the closing banquet of the annual convention of the Union of British Columbia Indian Chiefs that Indians are living under programs stamped out by a "cookie cutter" in Ottawa.

Our Way Is Right: Bourassa

QUEBEC (CP) — The Quebec Liberal government's faith in federalism was strongly reaffirmed by three keynote speakers at the opening of the sixteenth annual convention of the Quebec Liberal party Friday.

Premier Robert Bourassa, swept into power in the April 1970, election amidst promises to make federalism work for Quebec, told Liberal delegates:

"Federalism may be the hardest form of government to defend but it's also the only form of government which meets the true aspirations, all the aspirations, of Quebecers."

Lise Bacon, president of the Quebec Liberal Federation, continued this theme, as she affirmed:

"The clearly federal option of our party remains the only one which can permit Quebec and its population to progress at the same pace as our neighbors and to profit fully from the considerable advantages of the Canadian federal totality."

Today's Chuckle

Inflation has become so bad that it has hit the price of feathers. Even down is up.

These motions are almost invariably proposed by the opposition. Government supporters are expected to air their views in caucus where cabinet ministers can take note of their concern.

Mr. Otto, who has been much more critical than most Liberals in the post, told the Commons it is imperative that a special debate be held "to ensure Canada's economic survival." He eagerly accepted the offer by Conservative House Leader Gerald W. Baldwin to second his motion.

Liberal members then refused to give the motion the required unanimous consent.

Popular Eugene Whelan (L-Essex), who seldom creates storms of controversy, asked on Friday that the officials advising Finance Minister Benson on the taxing of co-ops and credit unions be fired.

Added the former parliamentary secretary: "It is more difficult to get rid of a civil servant than a backbencher, because top civil servants are here forever and backbenchers come and go like the wind.

"If we pass this legislation in its present form, when this backbencher goes, he will go in the damnedest storm you ever saw."

Also on Friday, John Reid (L-Kenora-Rainy River) urged the opposition to move a motion of non-confidence based on the way the government is distributing parliamentary office space.

Mr. Reid, chairman of the broadcasting committee, said many Liberal backbenchers would vote against the government for turning the Centre Block and West Block, where the ordinary MP's offices are located, into a haven for "ministers and their staffs."

Meanwhile, Mr. Blair was writing another weekly newspaper column to his constituents to tell them that "the public is fed up with the party game' as it is played in the House of Commons."

Parties are necessary but "few would disagree that they have gone too far and become too powerful. There must be more 'free' discussion in our public life," he wrote.

There must be room for disagreement within parties, and this disagreement must be expressed in public to have any significance.

"I have found also that the heavens don't fall when disagreements are brought out into the open."

President Stalks Out

U.S. Labor Rebuffs Nixon

MIAMI BEACH, Fla. (AP) — President Nixon's blunt pledge to press wage-price controls whether organized labor likes it or not has met with brusque dismissal by a hostile AFL-CIO convention. The confrontation apparently signals a major presidential campaign clash in 1972.

Labor sources expressed mixed views over who came off best politically in a rare public clash between Nixon and President George Meany of the AFL-CIO at the federation's convention Friday.

Many labor leaders viewed Nixon's speech before some 2,000 delegates, alternates and guests as the opening sally in the president's bid for re-election.

"He didn't win any friends here, but I'm afraid its going to have a big effect in the nation," an AFL-CIO official said of Nixon's face-to-face showdown with labor critics.

Nixon said whether he gets co-operation from labor and other groups or not, "it is my obligation as president of the United States to make this program of stopping the rise in the cost of living succeed."

Meany and most other labor leaders are waiting only for the Democrats to settle on a presidential nominee before throwing all their support that way.

AFL-CIO officials refused to introduce Nixon over their loudspeaker, refused to permit live television coverage of his speech and sent their musicians out of the hall so they couldn't play the traditional presidential greeting of "Hail to the Chief."

There was no escort committee for Nixon when he finished his speech, and Meany cut short Nixon's effort to duck under a rope to shake hands with some labor delegates.

Nixon appeared shocked and angry when Meany banged his gavel and ordered delegates back to their seats. "We will now proceed with Act II," Meany said.

Nixon stalked from the big convention hall and returned to Washington.

More Aid on Way States Newspaper

TORONTO (CP) — The Globe and Mail says the federal cabinet has approved a further $150-million assistance plan for Canadian manufacturers hurt by the United States supplementary import duty or by other protectionist measures being contemplated by that country.

The newspaper says details of the scheme are to be announced in a few weeks. The new plan, it says, will authorize the General Adjustment Assistance Program to guarantee up to $150 million by loans from private leaders to firms hurt by the U.S. supplementary duty or by other actions having a similar effect.

The plan would augment the $80 million in non-repayable grants to be paid out over the next five months to maintain employment in plants injured specifically by the 10 per cent U.S. supplementary duty imposed Aug. 15.

Dissent Spreads

The 'Party Game' Leaves Liberal Backbenchers Disenchanted

Since the 1968 government of Prime Minister Trudeau was formed, the ordinary MP has said little to indicate any differences with policy. Now there are signs of change, both in the Commons and constituencies.

Ordinarily, dissent among parties is reserved for the opposition. Conservative Leader Robert Stanfield has had his ups and downs, particularly with Western MPs still hankering for the John Diefenbaker days. Dissent for some NDP members is a way of party life.

But, like prime ministers before him who have faced the same phenomenon, Mr. Trudeau may well find the ranks tightening fast when the next election is called, as is expected for next year.

Gordon Blair (L-Grenville Carleton) has been judging pretty steadily at the government's bilingual policy.

He was the Liberal member to criticize openly the methods used in promoting new Canadian friendships with Russia and China.

While several of his colleagues privately expressed reservations, Mr. Blair wrote newspaper columns and gave interviews to voice his fears that the government was going overboard in trying to win friends in Russia and Peking. New friends should not be acquired at the expense of old ones like the United States, he said.

Mr. Blair, chairman of the Commons committee on procedure, has talked freely and frequently to his constituents about what he regards as the perils of the government emphasis on French equality in the public service. Many of his constituents are English public servants.

Now he has company, to spare.

Steve Otto (L-York East), who happens to be parliamentary secretary to Supply Minister James Richardson, rose Thursday in the Commons to demand a special debate on the measures that Canada should take to offset proposed economic legislation in the United States.

Mr. Otto, who has been much more critical than most Liberals in the post, told the Commons it is imperative that a special debate be held "to ensure Canada's economic survival." He eagerly accepted the offer by Conservative House Leader Gerald W. Baldwin to second his motion.

Liberal members then refused to give the motion the required unanimous consent.

Popular Eugene Whelan (L-Essex), who seldom creates storms of controversy, asked on Friday that the officials advising Finance Minister Benson on the taxing of co-ops and credit unions be fired.

Added the former parliamentary secretary: "It is more difficult to get rid of a civil servant than a backbencher, because top civil servants are here forever and backbenchers come and go like the wind.

There must be room for disagreement within parties, and this disagreement must be expressed in public to have any significance.

"I have found also that the heavens don't fall when disagreements are brought out into the open."

Blast Victim Moved

A Belleville General Hospital spokesman has announced one of the workmen injured in the Hastings Manor explosion Wednesday morning, has been transferred to hospital in Montreal.

Jacques Belanger, 35, of Montreal received extensive burns to his face, neck, hands, arms, back and legs following a flash fire in an 80-foot chimney in which he and fellow worker Jean Guy Gougeon, 19, of Pt. Gatineau, P.Q., were working.

Mr. Gougeon sustained serious but less dangerous burns to his face and legs.

Ontario Provincial Police this morning stated the workmen were applying a silica-based compound to the chimney surface, 15 feet above the ground. A cable supporting the cage on which they were riding broke. The metal container plummeted to the base of the chimney, the metal severing a motor electrical cord. A spark from the cut cord is believed to have caused the flash fire.

Belleville Leads Real Estate Transactions

Real estate activity in Hastings county, up 112 per cent in October over the figures for the same month last year is unparalleled in any other area of comparable population in Ontario.

Real estate sales in metropolitan areas of the province are up 25 per cent this year over-last, reported D. B. Kirkup of J. E. LePage Ltd., in Toronto. But he was at a loss to explain the acceleration in sales in Hastings, county.

"Real estate activity is far greater in Belleville than in Kingston or Peterborough," said Mr. Kirkup.

"But 1970 was a disastrous year for real estate activity in general," he said, "and perhaps you are just catching up with the backlog."

The trent toward an increased number of property transactions will continue for the next six months, Mr. Kirkup predicted. The reason is a drop in mortgage interest rates from 10 to 10½ per cent a year ago to just expected less than 9 per cent by January, 1972.

Commune Protests Charcoal Factory

BARRY'S BAY, Ont. (CP) — Members of a hippie colony near this community, about 35 miles southwest of Pembroke, are seeking legal action to stop construction of a charcoal factory in the area.

Lawyers from Pollution Probe, a Toronto-based anti-pollution group, have applied for a court injunction to stop construction of the plant by Adventure Charcoal Enterprises Ltd., of Toronto, wholesalers of bagged charcoal.

Michael Vaughan, one of the lawyers representing the colony, said no date has been set for the court hearing.

The company recently purchased 200 acres about 10 miles east of here and have started to build the first of 10 kilns needed to produce the charcoal.

The hippies claim the plant would strip most of the timber from the Madawaska valley and also create pollution.

But Robert Soja, one of the company's owners, says the company plans to spend $40,000 installing anti-pollution control equipment at the plant.

He says no trees will be cut to feed the factory, which will use slab ends and shavings from local saw mills.

Grover Jr. Shalit, who sold the land to the company for $10,000 last week received a letter warning him that his family was in danger if construction continued. A bomb threat emptied a school here a few days later but no bomb was found.

When in operation, the plant will employ 25 to 30 men.

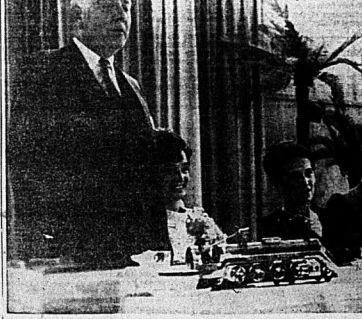
Great Dane Wins Day

NEW YORK (AP) — State Supreme Court Justice Edward J. Greenfield divided all mankind into three canine-oriented parts Friday, then opted in favor of the dog-loving type of human. Thus he proved that a dog's best friend in this case was a man.



By his decision, Greenfield protected Muriel Mayhew's Great Dane from eviction at the hands of a Greenwich Village landlord, who looked upon the beast as "a menace."

"All mankind is divided into three parts," observed Greenfield, "the larger segment love dogs passionately, harbor them, fawn upon them, share their lives and troubles and joys with them, and defend with vehemence any attack or infringement of canine rights.

"A smaller proportion of mankind hates dogs passionately and expresses detestation for their barking and weeping and slavish affection, and for their generous leavings in public places. Landlords and neighbors frequently fall into this category.

Then, Judge Greenfield said, there is a third indifferent division of mankind which "does not care one way or another about dogs."

Those neutrals, he philosophized, squander their attention on "problems of lesser import."

Dynamite Found

HAMILTON (CP) — Six sticks of dynamite were found Friday in an unaddressed package at the city's main post office.

The floor of the building was evacuated and police disposed of the explosives.

Police made little comment, saying: "It's likely some nut who just wanted to see his name in the paper."

Rotarians Plan Seal Campaign

Planning well in advance, the Ontario Society for Crippled Children called a meeting last Thursday to discuss promotional ideas for the coming "Easter Seal Campaign.

In attendance at the meeting were Rotary Clubs from Belleville, Napanee, Picton, Stirling, and Trenton. Also there were the Madoc Rivants and the Bancroft Lions.

Representing the Belleville Rotary Club were Fred Ellicer, Don Thrush, Ezos David, Jim Barton, Neil Britton and Dennis Dorrington.

This year's Easter Seal campaign will be held between March 2 to April 2.

This year's campaign also marks the 50th anniversary of the Society for Crippled Children.

Members of both the service groups and personnel of the society discussed plans on a fitting way of marking this anniversary.

In 1922, at the beginning of the program, there were 10 clubs looking after 75 children. Now there are 230 clubs looking after 14,000 children.

IN MEMORIAM

SALISBURY — In loving memory of a dear Mother, Rose Isabel Salisbury, who passed away Nov. 20, 1970.
Always tender, kind and true,
Always ready to help others,
We do not think of you,
Without thinking of God,
To see you then just again.
Lovingly remembered by daughter-in-law Eileen, grandchildren Ronnie and Linda.

SALISBURY — In loving memory of our dear Mother, who passed away November 20, 1970.
Lovingly remembered by Mrs. Jean Marie Salisbury, who passed away Nov. 20, 1970.
Surrounded by friends I am lonely dear,
With a smile on my face I've disappeared,
Longing dear mother, for you,
Remembering always, dear mother, how you loved me,
Sadly missed by daughter-in-law Bud and children.

LYON — In loving memory of my dear husband and our father, who passed away Nov. 20, 1970.
Also our daughter Betty Jean, who passed away Nov. 21, 1970.
We cannot think of them as dead,
Nor wish them back to pain,
We know they have gone before us,
They have but gone before,
Thomas Lyon, granddaughters Shirley and Linda Lyon.

LOWEY — In loving memory of a dear husband, father and grandfather Lowey, who passed away November 21, 1970.
In memory a daily thought,
In our hearts a memory,
Sadly missed by wife Muriel and family.

REID — In loving memory of a dear husband and father, who passed away Nov. 20, 1970.
Quietly remembered through the years,
With silent thoughts and unseen tears,
Sadly missed by wife Minnie.

POIRIER — In loving memory of a dear granddaughter, Villada Mary Poirier, who passed away Nov. 20, 1970.
Peacefully sleeping, resting at last,
Her suffering ended, her pain is past,
Trials are past,
She suffered, suffered, in patience meek,
Till God called her home to suffer no more.
—Lovingly remembered by grandmother.

McLAREN — In loving memory of a dear Mother, who passed away November, 1970, William McLaren, who passed away Nov. 20, 1965.
Although we smile and make no moan,
We miss you more than words can tell,
And when old times we oft recall,
Dear Mother, you're the most of all.
We never said goodbye to her,
We never knew she'd die,
We never had the chance to say,
To one we loved so well.
Sadly missed by husband, daughter, son-in-law and family.

CLARK — In loving memory of our dear dad, Leonard Fry, who passed away Nov. 19, 1965.
Also our brother Harry, Dec. 19, 1958, his wife Augusta Ellen, who passed away Nov. 20, 1968.
Their memories we treasure,
Their graves we often see,
Remembering them never,
Forgetting them never.
Sadly remembered by daughters and sisters Hilda and Bessie.

RISER — In loving memory of a dear husband and father, Norbert Riser, who passed away Nov. 20, 1970.
Your heart was the dearest in all the world,
Your love the best to recall,
For no one on earth could take your place,
You were still the dearest of all.
Sadly missed by wife Greta and family.

96 Years' Service Retired

Last night marked the close of two 43-year-long careers with Canadian National Railways. Ed Buchanan (speaking) started as a junior clerk in Belleville and aside from a few five-year excursions, spent his full term of service here. Seated beside Mr. Buchanan is his wife Olive. Byron Taylor, also retiring with 48 years of service came to Belleville from Newcastle, New Brunswick. Beside him is his wife Marg. Among the many gifts given to the two, was a train for each of the lucky pair in case they ever get lonely for the railroad.

Land Purchase Grant Announced

TRENTON (Staff) — Approval of a provincial grant of $5,335 to the Lower Trent River Conservation Authority for the acquisition of the Sager Oak Hills conservation area was announced by the Honorable George A. Kerr QC, Minister of the Environment and Cabinet Ridding MPP for Hastings yesterday.

With the grant, which is 39 per cent of the cost, the authority proposes to acquire 48 acres belonging to John Sager north of Trenton in Sidney township.

Approximately 30 acres of the property is located on the above the level of the Trent River and has a good cover of pine and oak and is an ideal location for picnic facilities. The remaining acreage is pasture land, fairly clear of undergrowth and trees.

The authority's share of the acquisition is being assumed by the municipality.

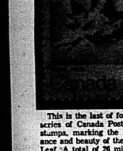
Scottish Night November 28



PICTON (Staff) — A Night in Scotland will supply the theme for the first in a series of ethnic nights planned this fall by Club Kaleosia formed by members of St. Andrew's Presbyterian Church.

Haggis imported from Edinburgh, Scotland will be featured on the menu served at the Scottish dinner in the Presbyterian Church hall, Picton on Sunday, November 28.

The haggis will be addressed by George Ross, administrator of Prince Edward County home for the aged and a former resident of Inverness, Scotland.

Entertainment during this ethnic night will include a film, A Touch of Scotland, Scottish music, dancing and singing and a special guest dancer from Kingston.

Last year members of Club Kaleosia sponsored several highly successful ethnic nights highlighting the traditions of countries such as England and Holland.

This is the last of four in a series of Canada Post Office stamps, marking the importance and beauty of the Maple Leaf. A total of 24 million of the browny 7ed on white stamps have been printed by Ashton-Potter Ltd. of Toronto. The retire series, including the winter issue, released today, was designed by Miss Alma Duncan of Galetta, Ontario.

Wild Chase Has Wet Ending

Ontario Provincial Police from three area detachments were involved in a high-speed chase from Cobourg to Shirley, with speeds reaching 100 miles an hour.

The chase before 5 a.m. today, OPP in Cobourg attempted to stop a 1973 Buick Opel sportscar for routine traffic violations.

The car picked up speed on Highway 401, soon reaching between 90 and 100 miles per hour. At Brighton, the vehicle, travelling east, switched to the westbound lane.

Brighton OPP picked up the chase, moving ahead to Belleville. Cars travelling in the westbound lane were halted at Belleville.

The car sped through Frankford and Glen Miller and then swung back on Highway 33, travelling east through Stirling. A halt at this point were abornal.

As they arrived, a wet and shivering 15-year-old Unionville youth emerged from the river. The stuny new sports car was sitting in 18 inches of water.

The car, only slightly damaged, reported stolen from Unionville, remains in the Belleville OPP garage. The youth has been returned to Cobourg.

Davis Letter; New Sand Source Must Be Located

PICTON (Staff) — Premier William Davis has advised a concerned Prince Edward County resident that he feels the government must provide the Lake Ontario Cement Co. Ltd. with an alternate supply of sand before ordering cessation of sand quarrying at the Sandbanks.

In a letter written last month to Jean Barrett, Sandbanks Beach resort, Mr. Davis said, "We shall continue our efforts to find another source of supply for the company but I cannot hold out hope for an immediate cessation of the sand removal."

He explained that it is vital for governments to support the terms of agreements made in good faith and added that the cement plant located in Prince Edward because it has been assured of an abundant supply of sand and limestone.

Mrs. Barrett who has been strongly opposed for some time to the removal of sand from the area of the Sandbanks Provincial Park said that the government continually asserts the loads trucked away represent only one per cent of the dunes.

"That is like saying your eyes are only one cent of your body," she remarked.

Driver Charged In Girl's Death

Claudia Michele Ward, of 129 West Street, was walking west on McFarland Drive at 7:45 p.m. when she was struck from behind.

Driver of the vehicle, Franklin John King, 26, of 181 Stanley Street, has been charged with impaired driving.

Personal Gift Baskets Needed

Christmas means sharing— and a rare opportunity to share your Christmas with the community on a personal basis.

This is the principle behind United Community Services' Christmas Sharing Program to help less fortunate families in Belleville have a happier Christmas.

But people in the city are not yet aware that as individuals or groups they can give a basket or baskets on their own.

"A cheque is like charity, but a basket is like a person- al present — it salvages dignity," say members of the Christmas Sharing Committee.

The process is simple. Anyone wishing to help has merely to call 962-6511 and a volunteer will provide the name of a family needing a basket at Christmas. The names and ages of family members will be given to the donor, together with suggested items, the quantity to pack in the basket and relevant details such as the cooking and refrigeration facilities in the family's home.

In all cases, the Christmas Sharing volunteers have the recipient family's permission to give such details.

The donor takes it from there — buying the food and special treats, calculating to cost about $20 for a family of six, packing the basket, decorating it and delivering it.

It is the personal touch that most donors find appealing about the Christmas Sharing Program, and it's a system that makes it possible for many young peoples' groups, who cannot afford large cash donations, to do something for others.

In the case of families who desire to remain anonymous, the Christmas Sharing volunteers will order a basket, using cash donations they hope to receive between now and Christmas. The baskets are delivered by UCS' volunteer delivery service.

Money from cash donations will also go to aid the firefighters, who this year, as in the past, are taking charge of providing children's toys. Because only a limited number of used, undamaged toys can be repaired, the firefighters have to rely less on fixing cast-off toys and concentrate more on buying items.

The Christmas Sharing volunteers also have an urgent need for gifts for teenaged members of recipient families. The firemen take care of the youngest members of the family, but the program volunteers want to see each teenager get at least one gift.

Games, cosmetics, jewelry, books and records are all in demand and may be donated either gift-wrapped, with the nature of the item indicated on the outside, or unwrapped.

This year the Christmas Sharing Program is limited to only the city of Belleville. Because agencies in the outlying areas take care of similar programs in their neighborhoods, only the city will be serviced from UCS this holiday season.

Two Seek Mayor's Job

DESERONTO — A two-way race for this village's mayoralty is shaping up for Dec. 6.

Incumbent mayor James Sharpe is expected to seek re-election, and councillor Dorothy McCullough has resigned from council to oppose him.

Mrs. McCullough, a retired school teacher and former village librarian, said she decided to run for mayor because "we've got things on the move here and I want to see that it continues."

Because Mrs. McCullough resigned in the first year of her second term of office, there will be nominations Nov. 25 for four councillors instead of the usual two. Deseronto has revolving terms of office for council, with three councillors elected each year for a two-year term.

Voters will elect a reeve Nov. 6 as well as a mayor and four councillors. It is expected the three incumbent councillors and reeve George Lyons will stand for office again.

Mrs. McCullough said her main reason for seeking the mayoralty is to continue the economic growth that is already apparent in the village, to clean up pollution in the Bay of Quinte and to protect the environment of the village.

Deseronto, with a population of 1,800, is in the midst of having sewage and water services installed and streets are torn up and in poor condition.

Two Cars Collide On Victoria Ave.

One Belleville man remains in Belleville General Hospital this morning and a second was treated for minor injuries and released following a two-car collision on Victoria Avenue at Ann Street at 11.38 p.m. yesterday.

City police report a car driven by Robert W. Calbury, 19, of 154½ Church Street, was travelling east on Victoria when it struck a second vehicle being driven by Jack C. Davy, 43, of 272 Ann Street. The Davy vehicle had stopped at Ann Street and was proceeding across the intersection when the accident occurred.

The Davy car was pushed off the road by the impact. It knocked down a utility pole and came to rest against a cement front porch at 297 Ann Street.

Mr. Davy sustained head and back injuries and has been admitted to hospital.

Mr. Calbury received minor injuries to his left arm. He was treated and released. His passenger, James Donovan, 17, of 128A Moira Street East, was uninjured.

CORK Films To Be Feature

PICTON (Staff) — Members of the Mariners' Society will meet at Prince Edward Yacht Club, Friday, November 26 at 8 p.m. to enjoy films of the recent CORK sailing races held in Kingston.

A special feature of the meeting will be slides showing sail races around Prince Edward County which date back to the early 1900's.

Sailors Sandy MacPherson, Picton and Richard Bird, Belleville will present the program which includes slides showing the challenge for the America's Cup, 1881, the Katie Gray races and racing history on Lake Ontario, 1876 to 1900.

The mariners' society this year is working toward the opening of a mariners' museum at the Mariners' Park, South Bay, where an annual service saluting Prince Edward's old sails is held. Many marine artifacts would be donated to the society if an appropriate place is constructed for their display.

Y's Swim-a-Thlon Is Next Weekend

Everyone is invited to take the plunge at the YMCA's fourth annual Swim-a-Thon next weekend.

A splashing success in the past, organizers expect the event to be better than ever this year as they seek to encourage local service clubs and business groups to compete against one another.

Dick Downing of CJMQ will broadcast live from the pool-side Saturday, Nov. 27, from 10 a.m. to 2 p.m. In addition, the radio station's zany crowd of fund raisers, the Exhibition Nuts, will participate in the swim.

Contestants will be required to obtain the names of sponsors who pledge a specified amount to be donated to the YMCA for every lap the swimmer completes. They will be allowed to swim a maximum of 30 lengths of the 60 - foot pool or a little over one half mile. Volunteer judges will keep track of the number of laps completed.

A total of 10 and one-half hours of pool time will be available. Times are 4:30 - 10 p.m. Friday, Nov. 26, 9 a.m. - 9 p.m. Saturday and 1 - 5 p.m. Sunday.

The Swim-a-Thon is held to support the financial position of the Y and raise money to replace worn program equipment. All contributions are tax deductible.

Entry cards can be picked up at the Y office on Victoria Ave. just west of Farley, CJBQ or at Ed Thomas Tobacconist shop at 182 Front St.

Rezoning Issue

A letter on this page today is indicative of continuing — and legitimate — concern over residential zoning and particularly as it pertains to the burgeoning apartment construction scene in Belleville.

We have made the point several times that apartments, particularly high-rise, should not be thrust willy-nilly into the midst of traditional housing. Yet this is what is happening with the developments on Sidney Street and Bridge Street. It is now too late to do anything about these, too late to halt construction of these specific high-rise complexes which property belong in specially-designated areas, away from existing housing as in cities like Toronto. But it is not too late to ensure that similar structures do not further compromise the traditional style of the city's architecture and cause a breakdown of the social order. What we foresee is introduction of a floating apartment population at odds with the settled society and character of the surrounding districts. The consequences of this may not be immediate, but in the long-term they may show up in the sort of problems discussed here recently with regard to high-rise dwellings: youngsters, not to mention adults, with personality problems, and loneliness and alienation to the fore, and not to mention traffic difficulties that inevitably will accrue with such a large and sudden influx of people. At the same time there could be a flight of population from the private dwellings nearby, reflecting an unwillingness to be a part of this new social order.

* * *

Meanwhile a look at the technicalities of such development is appropriate. Zoning bylaw 6495 is still on the books. This is a land-use bylaw which allows apartment dwellings in the B zone: that is, the major, older part of the city. This bylaw has been bolstered by the passage of bylaw 9113, a measure incorporating additional building regulations to bylaw 6495 pending the completion and approval of the official plan.

But 9113 itself is causing anxiety. In recent days it has been the subject of criticism by the Quinte Home Builders' Association who say parking requirements will hamper the size and design of new apartment buildings. Already the building inspector has turned down one application for apartment construction on the grounds it does not conform to the bylaw.

However let us not lose sight of the main planning issue and the fact that it may be two years at least before it is finally resolved. And this because Council has sent the planning director's report on residential zoning to the Quinte area planning board and because the latter in turn has decided to form a consulting firm to prepare an official plan. In the interim we may expect further controversy, given the divergent views of the public, council, builders and developers.

The train of decision-in Belleville (and it may not be much different in Parliament with its Royal Commissions) is a tortuous one. Council, on the motion of Mayor Russell Scott, moved that the planning director's report be sent to the Quinte board, then referred back to the consultants, and presumably sometime in the distant future it will come back to Council, at which point the whole controversial cycle could begin again. If anyone disputes that let him consider Council's relationship with associated bodies such as the parks board and the industrial commission which Mayor Scott has said are offspring of council and therefore answerable to it.

In other words the final decisions rest with the city fathers. Not with the planning board, not with the consultants, but with the city's elected representatives who, incidentally, should be listening carefully to the current vibrations from residents of this community.

* * *

Is it not reasonable then to suggest that Council should be making the necessary decisions now on this residential dilemma? Evading the issue merely postponing the evil day, and with the further prospect of more controversy and indecision to boot.

Too frequently, as we have suggested before, council has been content to pass issues on to consultants, at high cost to the community and often with nebulous results. If we must have another such report, aimed at the elusive official plan, let it be made a matter of urgency, for completion not in terms of years but months, if not weeks. We need action, not talk.

Liberals Feel the Heat

Ottawa Hit by Taxpayer Backlash Over Welfare

By RICHARD JACKSON

OTTAWA — Two ways to zero in the polls, the Liberals are doing some heavy second-thinking.

They have lost ground, not only in the public opinion polls, but where it hurts most — at the voting polls in provincial campaigns and federal byelections alike.

Liberals do not like losing, because they are not used to it.

They have lost only three times in the last 15 federal elections back through the years to when Mackenzie King first gave them the winning habit.

So when they start losing, they get all upset.

Like Liberal MPs Grant Deachman of Vancouver-Quadra and Gordon Blair of Ontario's Grenville-Carleton who publicly question federal government foreign policy. Too fickle in its international affections, they say, with which to woo both Peking and Moscow while jilting Washington.

And like Senators Daniel Lang and Maurice Lamontagne denouncing Government economic policy as being ungenomic in frightening business and industry out of their expansion and modernization plans.

But now, like a pebble tossed in a pool, the ripples of doubt widen among the Liberals as they wonder what has suddenly gone so wrong with their political game plan.

Besides worrying about foreign and economic policies, they are fretting over social welfare programs.

Richard Stanbury who happens to be not only a Senator but President of the National Liberal Federation has come right out with it.

The Liberals, he said with his

Challenge to Council

Concern Over Apartment Construction

Editor,
The Intelligencer.

The democratic system of government seems to have broken down in Belleville. Mayor Russell Scott and some aldermen seem to be out of touch with the citizens of Belleville many of whom are greatly concerned with what is taking place in the name of progress.

Let us set the record straight with regard to construction of apartments, which are becoming more and more bigrise. Some people are trying to give the impression we are against all apartment building, which is not true. We believe that they should not be located in residential areas comprising one and two-family homes on streets entirely too narrow, with storm and sanitary sewers too small to handle the traffic and increased density of population which such development will entail. The safety of citizen must be maintained for all citizens. We do not think that the developers should be allowed to reap the benefits from our efforts as taxpayers to have a decent neighborhood in which to live.

Multiple dwellings should be built in areas suitable for such development. There should be ample parking for tenants and their visitors. Play areas for children and green space for these people.

If this indiscriminate development is allowed to continue, citizens will be asked to pay to [illegible] sanitary and storm sewers, the trees will be cut down and the Bel'eville we know today will be gone forever, never to return.

The citizens have presented petitions, written letters, attended council and planning board meetings, to try and get zoning bylaw 6495 changed to no avail. A bylaw described as gobbledygook, defective, a real dilemma, and some apartments a disgrace, by members of council.

What is wrong with Belleville? Council members threatened with the possibility of personal law-suits for trying to protect the interest of the citizens.

Mayor J. R. Scott at city council meeting August 16, 1971 made a motion to send the report on zoning bylaw to the planning board for further consideration.

Mr. Bert Kenny, planning director of Belleville and Sub-[illegible] his report on August 26, 1971, re: Status of Residential Plan of Current Planning Situation in the Belleville and Suburban Planning Area. Much of this report favored what the citizens of Belleville have been requesting.

Mayor Scott, who professes great concern for the citizens made a motion to send the report to the Quinte Area Planning Board, for immediate consideration with or without consultants, saying people are fed up with delay, "How true".

This report now lies gathering dust at the Quinte Area Planning Board. The citizens of Belleville can look for months or perhaps years of delay in their request to rectify a situation which never in my knowledge, has ever been defended as adequate for the situation existing in Belleville today, by anyone.

What is the purpose of having bylaws if they are not enforced? Developers allowed to work half the night, on Sundays and do almost anything they wish.

The highrise at 217 Bridge Street has a fence, but the gates are left open, where children could easily wander in and have an accident. Must we have someone killed before the powers that be take the necessary action to correct these dangerous situations that exist in Belleville?

The responsibility for a solution to these problems rests with the Mayor and city council. If democracy is to survive the people must be listened to, if their complaints are justified. Action must be taken to correct such situations now, not in the distant future.

The people of Belleville are fortunate to have people like Mr. Bert Kenny, Alderman Mrs. Robin Jeffrey, Mrs. Jean Smith, Mr. Arnold Orr and many others who have consistently tried to protect the interest of all citizens, not just the privileged few.

Mr. Kerr and Noise Pollution

By DON O'HEARN

TORONTO — Environment Minister George Kerr has announced that he will be bringing in legislation to control noise pollution.

It will be interesting to see what Mr. Kerr comes up with.

This superficially is an easy problem to solve, if you decide just how much noise can be accepted or tolerated. You then pass a law. And you enforce it.

However it is not at all this simple.

Municipalities have long had the authority under the Municipal Act to pass noise by-laws. Some of them have acted under this authority. But none of them successfully.

In 1956 after a local anti-noise crusade, Toronto passed a noise by-law. This was particularly aimed at motor vehicles. The law set down that noise over a certain decibel strength was illegal.

To enforce the law the police were supplied with an instrument resembling a large pistol at the University of Toronto. It was said it could gauge the decibel level of noise from motor vehicles.

In practice, however, it was found that the readings of this instrument varied with the conditions in which it was used.

If it was recording in a narrow street with high buildings on both sides, it would give a higher reading for the same decibel count that it would in a more open location.

The case was lost in the lower courts. The appeal court reversed this.

But the status of the by-law is a nervous one. Should the matter be taken to the Supreme Court of Canada, the by-law could be struck down.

The gamble: that the big middle class of working Canadians not only would not mind, but would welcome the Government's decision to make them pay, through higher tax rates, for those welfare programs.

One of the resident brains in the Federal establishment who doesn't think - tank went into quotes the other day with the admission of a "backlash" against welfare.

Making his judgment on a reading of the Prime Minister's mail, he revealed most of the complaints were about what were called "abuses" of welfare, with handouts to young people who will not or do not bother to look for work heading what he termed the "bitch list".

One of the few "hard-hats" among the "soft - hearts" of the Trudeau Cabinet discloses he is getting a playback from middle-aged workmen who are "sticking" with their jobs that are going to pay for travel for the young "drop - outs" they cannot afford holidays of their own.

Liberal Caucus Chairman Russell Honey of the Ontario riding of Northumberland-Durham took a poll among his constituents, and got a read-out of taxpayer complaints of the Government's "lack of concern for older people, the middle class and incomes and especially those on fixed or pension income".

The Prime Minister met that one head-on.

With its new welfare program — financed by higher tax rates on middle income Canadians — the Government, said the Prime Minister, "thought this was the wish of Canadians".

So the Government brought in tax reform, socking it to the middle-income group, and came up with more welfare.

This is the face of National Revenue Department statistics showing that people in the $10,000 to $20,000 bracket, representing only 10 per cent of the total of taxpayers, are now paying 20 per cent of the total tax bill.

"It is true," said the Prime Minister, "that the middle class is going to have to pay a lot for welfare programs. But we thought this is what they wanted us to do — take it out of their pocket and use it to fight poverty."

Well, according to Senator Stanbury, speaking as National Liberal Federation President, and Welfare Minister John Munro, the Prime Minister's thinking was a little out of gear.

John Munro has conceded there is a welfare backlash.

"You have heard the cry," he says, "the shouts of 'get the bums off welfare', and is it not very important that these cries are growing in volume?"

Then he went on to plead that only 13 per cent of those on welfare fell into the "lazy bum" total of the welfare category — or as the bureaucrats phrase it more delicately, the "unemployed employables".

Which means that 13 of every 100 welfare cases could be willing to work.

But John Munro is not inventing things when he would about what he confesses is "rising unrest" in the welfare backlash.

Senator Stanbury makes that clear when he says:

"Perhaps we have reached the point where even the middle class will not pay out any more and rightly so. The drive and initiative that keeps the country going."

Africans Fear British Sellout Over Rhodesia

By HAROLD MORRISON
Canadian Press Staff Writer

Even while the Rhodesian negotiations continue, black Africans are convinced that a British sellout is in the making. They don't trust Rhodesian leader Ian Smith and have no faith in the government.

That much is evident as British Foreign Minister Sir Alec Douglas-Home pursues his interviews with black leaders in Salisbury and his parallel negotiations with the Smith regime.

Amid speculation both in London and Salisbury that some form of Anglo-Rhodesian understanding could emerge, it appears any final agreement is bound to fall short of Britain's long-standing demands.

Current pressure for a settlement of the six-year constitutional dispute comes more from the British government's own Conservative backbenchers than from the Salisbury minority whites.

Rhodesia is rich in minerals, farming and other resources. It has an attractive supply base for Britain's needs while offering a lucrative African market for Britain's manufactured products.

An indication of the value of the resources is the move by the United States Congress to lift an import embargo on Rhodesian chrome, further undermining the structure of international sanctions approved at the United Nations. American can, of course, argue that other countries, such as France, West Germany, Portugal, South Africa and Japan, have broken or failed to implement the sanctions pledge.

As to the effect of the sanctions, the Smith regime has clearly indicated it is able to survive, perhaps not with as much wealth as it might normally generate, but sufficient to keep the wolf from the door.

Britain, therefore, gains little from the diplomatic prestige of supporting the sanctions while it keeps the Rhodesian trade and investment it might otherwise enjoy.

Clearly it is in Britain's interest to obtain a settlement. Under previous negotiations, British demands bristled with proposals that Rhodesia return to British authority and supervise while principles leading to eventual black-majority rule are being worked out.

More recently the view seems to be that Britain will agree to immediate independence if Rhodesia's independence if a satisfactory settlement can be reached which the majority of Rhodesians, black and white, are willing to support.

Reaction of the blacks during Douglas-Home's interviews suggests that a settlement is not likely to be forthcoming. And it may be difficult for Britain to demonstrate to the world that a settlement, if it is reached, has universal appeal.

Yet the British negotiators are likely to persist, perhaps hoping to accept some African criticism as the price for having a public opinion likely to be fervor or appeal for the average British voter.

Former Rock 'n' Roll Idol Supports Old Time Religion

KITCHENER, Ont. (CP) — Former rock 'n' roll idol Pat Boone is crusading on behalf of the family and old-time religion. Teaming up with his wife and their four teen-age daughters, he is making appearances with The Pat Boone Family Show.

The 37-year old singer, whose records have sold more than 30 million copies, is busy these days telling of his religious experience.

"I've found out that Christianity is a tolerable thing if you don't live it," he told a Kitchener news conference prior to his concert here.

Mr. Boone explained that he always had a "goody-goody" image in the film community. Comedian Don Rickles has referred to him as "Mr. Clean", "Pat Bland", "Goody White Shoes", and "The Tree-aged Billy Graham."

Looking back on these days, he contends that he was "a nominal or middle-ground Christian." That was all changed in 1969 when he determined that, career or no career, he was going all-out for God, he says.

He narrates that experience in the book, A New Song, which was released last year, and has already sold more than 400,000 copies and has been printed in nine languages.

Has he given up show business? No, and he says he sees no reason why he should.

"A lot of kids today whose language is music will hear this gospel stuff in that medium," he concedes.

Mr. Boone adds that adult condemnation of youth music is too sweeping.

"I refuse to indict a beat or a whole field of music or a volume level," he says. "The important thing is who's doing it and what's his motive."

The singer has no time, however, for the drug-oriented lyrics or the so-called "acid rock." The easy-going, mild-mannered performer titters at the mention of the drug culture and says that severe penalties should be given the pushers. "man gets even the stocks or a public lashing," he suggests.

The Boones' Beverly Hills home has become a familiar rendezvous for "the Jesus people" and for anyone seriously interested in religion.

"Our swimming pool is a busy place these days," he says. "We now keep it heated in winter, and not long ago, we baptized five people in one week."

Although he is a member and a supporter of an evangelical, interdenominational church in Los Angeles, Mr. Boone has a sympathy and understanding for "the Jesus people."

"Young people are rejecting organized religion," he says. "They're not buying the comfortable, dogmatic, lethargic, impractical, unwieldy, clannish groups that meet in fancy buildings. They are looking for God.

"Now they're absorbed in a more personal and individual experience with Christ than they ever experienced in a church."

Shirley Boone enthusiastically supports her husband's religious endeavors. She says she is especially sold by the family emphasis.

The daughter of the late Red Foley, Nashville country and western singer, she and Pat eloped in 1953. Their marriage went through a shaky period in the mid-1960s, but their religious experience changed all that.

Shirley Boone says she wants to tell the world that a genuine Christian faith is the answer to today's family crisis.

"When Christ is in control," she says, "marriage and family relationships are still worth saving."

And that is the message which the Boone family is spreading abroad.

'Unchurchiest Meeting' Held by Bible Class

TORONTO (CP) — Men for God, a Bible class averaging 300 members, recently celebrated the 10th anniversary of its organization.

The meeting was described as the "unchurchiest meeting you ever saw."

The men represent 75 different jobs and vocations and 30 different religious backgrounds from no church at all to Orthodox and Roman Catholic. The class meets once a month.

"We have no officers, no announcements, no projects, no expenses," says Tom McLeod, 55-year-old president of Dominion Stores Ltd.

"There are no pressures to make commitments or to join any church. We simply try to get alongside other men and show them that the gospel is as relevant as today's newspaper.

"The men come straight from their bench, office or sales beat in their working clothes. Our meetings are streamlined—in at 6, out at 8.

"They come here because we deal with issues peculiar to men in language they can understand. If they show interest in joining a church we encourage them to attend in their own neighborhood."

The men engage in discussion in which they bare their opinions and concerns.

Men for God talk a lot about success—in business, in daily living. They even have a Million Dollar Personal Success Plan by which men are encouraged to formulate their life's goal and develop self-confidence.

Virgin Birth In Doubt

NEW YORK (AP) — A Roman Catholic Bible scholar said Thursday night that doubts are stirring among scripture experts about the church's doctrine of the virgin birth of Jesus.

Rev. Raymond E. Brown said many Protestant scholars long have questioned the doctrine, and that recently "there have been slight stirrings of doubt" among Catholics in this country and Europe.

The doctrine holds that Jesus was born of the Virgin Mary through the power of the Holy Spirit without a human father.

Father Brown, a professor of biblical studies both at the Jesuit Woodstock College and at the interdenominational Union Theological Seminary here, urged a "serious re-examination" of the question, without presuppositions on either side.

He said many Christians mistakenly have assumed that the matter was authoritatively settled because the virginal conception is recorded in the Bible or because it has been "taught faithfully by the church."

"But now we recognize that such a simple understanding of doctrinal authority must be qualified," he said in the first of a lecture series.

"For we have discovered that the biblical records do not all have the same historical value and that past church decisions were often based on an understanding of the evidence that is no longer acceptable."

In any case, he said, questioning the virgin birth doesn't mean questioning that "Jesus was God's unique Son."

British Jobless May Hit Million

LONDON (AP) — Britain's worst unemployment slump since the Depression of the 1930s hit a new peak this month, the government announced Thursday. The trend indicated a possibility of a million workers being jobless by Christmas.

Unemployment reached 970,022 earlier this month, the government said, an increase of 40,346 over October and the highest total for more than 30 years.

It means 4.0 per cent of the work force was idle unemployed, and in Northern Ireland, one of the worst-hit areas, the figure is 8.5 per cent.

QUEEN ELIZABETH SCHOOL

Interest groups proposed by the school principal D. Whitwell were discussed at the November meeting of the Queen Elizabeth Home and School meeting. These are planned to be held most days after school and will be run by teachers, older children and parents. Mr. Whitwell appealed for volunteers to help provide the wide range of activities for the children.

Mrs. V. Patterson introduced the guest speaker Kingsley Irvine BA, a member of the Department of Psychological Services, Hastings County Board of Education. His topic was based on the facilitation of learning and he focused on the consistent approach in child management in the home. All were given a questionnaire to complete during the talk and this led to a lively discussion.

Mr. Irvine stressed that consistency is important because if the child knows what to expect at home he can spend his energy coping with and exploring the outside world. If parental behavior is inconsistent the child will keep testing to try to find out what the rules are. Consistency, he maintained is especially important when a child is facing a new situation; if the parents are then expecting testing behavior, they will be more prepared to deal with it.

Mr. Irvine concluded by saying that if parents can establish an appropriate pattern of management for their child, thereby stabilizing the home portion of his world, this is the best thing they can do to help the child to concentrate on learning at school.

Refreshments were served during the meeting.

Bell Speaker At B and P Women's Club

George Thompson, manager of the Bell Telephone Company here was guest speaker at the regular meeting of the Belleville Business and Professional Women's Club held Monday evening at the Sun Valley Motor Inn.

Before coming to Belleville, Mr. Thompson had served as manager in Montreal, Ottawa, Smiths Falls and other centres over a period of some 20 years. After serving military duty in the Navy, he attended Queen's University before joining the company.

The speaker gave a most appropriate talk dealing with the opportunities for women in the Bell Telephone Company and that women do hold positions equal to men in the managerial field. He pointed out that the vice-president of the company was a woman. He also noted that women holding these positions also received equal pay to the men in the same category.

Mr. Thompson continued by explaining the many services and the advantages afforded by his company and foremost was the promotion of good relationship with the customer.

An enlightening question and answer period followed the talk by Mr. Thompson who was introduced by Verna Oliphant and thanks on behalf of the Club was expressed by Elinor Rohlin who also presented him with a little token of appreciation.

A brief business meeting was conducted by the president Lois Brown during which time plans for the Christmas party were discussed. Ruth McMullen chairman of the ways and means committee distributed the books on Housekeeping Tips and Tricks to be sold by the members. Read the various tips given in these books it is felt they will be most useful in the home. Colombe Bolt gave a detailed account of the regional meeting which she attended in Ottawa.

The meeting was closed by the president stating that a full attendance is anticipated for the Christmas meeting scheduled for December 12. Along with the regular exchange of Christmas gifts, members were requested to also bring an unwrapped gift to be donated to the Mental Health Association.

MR. AND MRS. PETER JAMES HARROWER

Harrower – Belsey

Canon R. B. DeBlois Wright officiated at the recent wedding ceremony in Christ Church, Belleville when Barbara Ann Belsey, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Frank Belsey of Belleville was united in marriage to Peter James Harrower, Toronto, son of Mr. and Mrs. George Harrower, Kingston, Jamaica. John Withers, church organist rendered traditional wedding music.

The bride, given in marriage by her father wore a floor - length gown of white polyester crepe with long lace sleeves and deep lace cuffs. An attached cont flowed into a cathedral train and was outlined with guipure lace. Her headdress was a crown of organza trimmed with seed pearls and tiny aurora borealis crystals holding a three layer silk illusion veil. She carried a cascade bouquet of white and yellow sweetheart roses.

Miss Jane Hamilton of Toronto as maid of honor wore a floor-length dress featuring an overlay of flowered organza in autumn orange, gold and brown in empire style with long full sleeves. She carried a nosegay of bronze daisies.

The other attendants were the bride's sister, Mrs. Karen Finkle of Foxboro and Miss Stephanie Davenport of Toronto who were gowned identically to the maid of honor.

Attending the bridegroom was Trevor Gregg of Toronto, while the ushers were John Nesbitt and Keith Cameron both of Ottawa.

A reception was held at the Belleville Shriner Auditorium the bride's mother greeted the guests wearing an off-white dress with a matching aqua coat with black accessories and a corsage of sweetheart roses. Assisting, the mother of the bridegroom wore a light green wool suit with black accessories and a corsage of yellow sweetheart roses.

For the wedding trip to Ottawa and the Laurentians the bride wore a floor-length hooded wool knit dress in orange and beige with a corsage of bronze mums.

Mr. and Mrs. Harrower will reside in Rexdale.

Striking Decor at ACW Tea

Shannonville Trinity Hall was attractively decorated with black and white streamers for the annual autumn tea and bazaar sponsored by Holy Trinity ACW on Saturday November 6.

The main tea table was highlighted with white lace cloth and potted 'mums with tall black and white candles in silver holders.

The individual tea tables were covered with black and white plastic tablecloths centred with long-stemmed yellow roses, the gift of Mrs. Eggington from her garden.

Mrs. Doris Johnson and

Bingo Enjoyed By Canara LA

The regular monthly meeting of the Ladies Auxiliary of the Club Canara was held on Tuesday, Nov. 9 with a large number in attendance.

Mrs. Alice Storms, president, conducted the meeting and reports were read by the various convenors and accepted. A short business meeting followed.

On December 14 there will be a Christmas dinner, social evening and exchange of gifts.

Mrs. H. Mills, and Mrs. Gulliver were the lucky winners of monthly draws.

The social part of the evening was led by Mrs. B. Sweet's group and the program included bingo, followed by numerous draws and lunch.

Convention Reports Given at WHA Meeting

A comprehensive report of the Hospital Auxiliary Association convention held recently in Toronto was given by the delegates, president Mrs. J. E. Nelles and 3rd vice-president Mrs. A. B. Duffy at a recent Women's Hospital Auxiliary meeting.

Mrs. Nelles expressed appreciation to the auxiliary for sending her as a delegate and reported she had attended all sessions and was thrilled to be on their behalf. She also stated the Opportunity Shop was the largest money making project in this area.

Mrs. Nelles felt that the highlight of the Auxiliary banquet held on the Monday evening was the presentation. Mrs. Alexander has given service of a mealtime assistant and convener of library Service.

Mrs. P. M. Till reported that Hallowe'en tray favors made by Brownie Packs had been given out. The Volunteer Hospital services report given by Mrs. J. B. Durrant noted 85 volunteers gave 382 hours of service and 1536 books and magazines were distributed.

play from hospital auxiliaries and expressed thanks to Mrs. C. D. Ashley and her committee for the puppet exhibit, as it was the only entry of this nature. Mrs. Duffy stated volunteer services and fund raising projects are the best means of keeping auxiliary members together. It gives one a sense of pride and deep loyalty to the auxiliary, whatever roll the volunteer plays in the hospital or on projects.

Thanks of the auxiliary was extended to the delegates by Mrs. M. F. L. Jones for most interesting and detailed reports. Mrs. Nelles presented a certificate of appreciation to Mrs. Maibel Alexander for loyal and valuable services given to the hospital. Mrs. Alexander has given service as a mealtime assistant and convener of library Service.

Mrs. P. M. Till reported that Hallowe'en tray favors made by Brownie Packs had been given out. The Volunteer Hospital services report given by Mrs. J. B. Durrant noted 85 volunteers gave 382 hours of service and 1536 books and magazines were distributed.

Mrs. Durrant asked for volunteers to help with planter care.

The Opportunity Shop report was given by Mrs. C. A. Campbell. She thanked the members for donations to the Christmas gift table. Some volunteer help is still needed for Saturday and volunteers can call Mrs. R. Pringle. The shop will close for a two-week holiday period on December 18. Mrs. Campbell presented the president with a cheque for $1,400.

The president reported the dessert meeting will be held on December 21 and members-ships for 1972 will be sold. She also stated the annual luncheon meeting will take place January 18.

Mrs. M. Tretina and committee served tea and coffee to members and guests following the meeting.

Large Crowd Hears Gospel Singers

MARMORA — A 16-member singing group known as the Visionaires attracted a large capacity crowd to the Marmora Senior School on Sunday night.

Their informal approach and joyful presentation of gospel songs was appealing to both young and old in the audience. The singers were a happy mixture of popular tunes and message about the love of God.

All of high school age, the girls in the group were maxi skirts, peasant blouses and most had long hair while the boys were dressed in blue jeans with brightly colored shirts.

The first part of the program was made up of choruses, solos, and duets; several members of the group providing the accompaniment on guitars. One talented young man played both a guitar and a bass fiddle.

During one number several of the choristers left the stage and circulated through the audience shaking hands. The audience was invited early in the program to join in the music by clapping.

During the intermission and at the end of the program, Ralph Leitch extended an invitation to come and talk with any of the choir members or staff about Christianity and their life at the Berean Christian School in Brockville.

The second half of the program portrayed a modern version of the Christmas story scene in song.

The former Roman Catholic School (St. Mary's) has been taken over by the Berean fellowship of Canada, an interdenominational organization and a program of education for nursery, elementary, secondary and a three year college course has been established with the approval of the department of education. indisposed.

Mrs. Murray Walker introduced the choristers. Mr. and Mrs. Walker's son, Brent, is among the 190 students and staff at the school.

Mr. and Mrs. Barry Mawer of Marmora became a part of this school in late August.

While their four children attend school at the elementary level, Mrs. Mawer acts as nurse at the school and Mr. Mawer is using his talents as a carpenter and handyman to help out with many building projects.

Mrs. Wells is the former Marjorie Wells, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Russell Wells and Barry is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Harry Mawer.

Travelling by bus, the choristers entertained people in the eastern United States, eastern Ontario and Bermuda. Their current bus driver, Ralph Leitch, has been working at the school this past summer and, in between trips, is helping to install a new sewage disposal system.

Several of the staff members at Berean who serve as a very nominal salary. Mr. Leitch is selling the nursing home he has operated in Newmarket for the past nine years and is going to devote his life to teaching.

Second Glance

By Viva Richmond Graham
INTERNATIONAL IMPRESSIONS

For as a famous poet once said: "How shall I know unless I go?" — Edna St. Vincent Millay.

Today, some seven months after seeing her in Majorca, last March, we are most happy to welcome and chat with Miss Leona Riggs, 21 Queen Street, one of Belleville's well-known singers and musicians, upon her return from an extended European tour which she made alone. Leona is a do-it-yourself busis, which I highly recommend to anyone, travel ling alone." In former years, as a music student studying in France, time and leisure for travel was difficult to come by. Whereby seeing places old and new to her on this tour, with no deadlines to meet, no obligations, no pressure, "was an adventure all the way — for I did enjoy it."

Upon her arrival in Paris Miss Riggs had kindly and generously offered to share some of her impressions with our readers, jotted down in her diary about places visited:

Lisbon: — "A beautiful city, not too big to give an uncomfortable feeling. The buildings are large and in pastel colors. Permission must be granted to land on the day one wishes. Being pre-lent, young people are making Gras atmosphere by wearing fantastic costumes of all sorts from that of bolero to those with cowboy and Indian outfits. One sees the city streets with safety at night. Visited Coimbra home of the 2nd University in Europe. Saw the cells in villages such as Sintra, Peneda and Fatima, the stately carriage of the women who carry bundles on their heads."

Madrid: — "Pleasant, lots of beautiful quite cold. Just loved the Prado Museum. Toured Andalusia during Holy Week and there are many religious parades. Floats carried by as many as 40 men, three hours at a time, and lasts throughout the night. There is a Christian church within the six-acre 'Cordoba Mosque.'"

Palm, Majorca: — "Really delightful. A new auditorium has good concerts."

Rome: (Miss Riggs spent two weeks here in April, then on to Greece, but returned in June for another four weeks) — "There is an elegant air about Rome, in spite of the fact the Hippies (refn North and America and Europe) infested the Spanish Steps and the American Express Office. Attended the Teatro Del 'Opera. A blue card on the breakfast table was an invitation to see and be blessed by the Pope at the Vatican, where a Toronto choir from St. Michael's sang — and sang well. Walks also are organized to see the Vatican gardens which have remarkable trees of all kinds. Saw lovely Michelangelo paintings in the Pauline Chapel behind the Sistine Chapel, not usually open to visitors."

Istanbul: "All air passengers were frisked. Went to the Blue Mosque before the mass with their feet, hands to the elbow and faces, then sit in the front of the Mosque. Women do not wash but squat in heaps at the back. Civ thoroughly pleasant, but warned not to go out at night alone. The hotel served the best food of anywhere yet. Saw the Market Place, the Topkapi which is the palace of the Sultan and went on a night club tour with festive Belly Dancers. The Israeli Consul is located on the streets filled with soldiers. On way to Airport our bus was searched and was the last bus to get through."

Athens: "Air passengers were frisked. All Athens herserk over having just won a football match against the Yugoslavians. Have wonderful yogurt here. Enchanting to see the Acropolis from various views as we passes along the streets. Visited the Oracle of Delphi, and it was very steep and difficult to walk about."

Island of Rhodes: — "The villages are colorful. Had a party and evening experience of being a guest in a village's home. People are warm and friendly. Wish I could afford here."

Island of Crete: — "This is the birthplace of the famed painter El Greco. The principal city is Heraklion. I joined in a small but unusually fine museum with a guide chatting back to fifth and sixth centuries before Christ."

Nasis, Italy: — "St. Francis, the monk who embraced poverty, atmosphere still penetrates this charming village which clings to the sides and top of a mountain. I joined in a procession (in celebration of the anniversary of liberation from Venitian domination) that led down steep streets to a cluttered garden chapel for mass and felt like a true penitent. This is a beautiful place."

Geneva Switzerland: — "Went on Mont Blanc, but due to a sudden snow storm — no view."

Fontainbleau: "Here celebrating its 40th anniversary is the American Conservatory of music, where I was a former student. Eminent members of the Alumni such as Aaron Copland and Jeremy Menuhin, son of Yehudi Menuhin gave concerts in the hall of the palace, which I attended."

Paris: — "I find food reasonable. Visited restaurant which I had known, now run by the owners' grandchildren. Visited the Museum Marmottan which exhibited Monet paintings, most of which. for the first time, ever exhibited. Also on exhibit were his letters regarding the illness of his wife and their financial troubles. I read them all and found them most moving."

London: — "People everywhere here, seem warm, friendly and communicative. Bus conductors take trouble to show you where and when to get off or on, with a 'dear' or a 'luv.' Very nice! Said a hairdresser: 'Let me take your brally and you just pop over there.' At the theatre box office where there were no tickets left: "Awfully sorry, — well, good luck!" A long-distance operator, when the call didn't go through: "Well, that's too bad . . ."

Many Reviews: Africans, Indians, Japanese, Australians seem to crowd the streets. The theatre, Harold Pinter festival wonderful — all summer!"

In thanking Miss Riggs, we would like to share a traveling hint which she follows: "I find taking buses rather than taxis, when in a city, preferable. Not fun is there going about in isolated splendor, thus missing being with, and seeing the people of the country one has come to visit?"

College Guild Meets

ALBERT COLLEGE GUILD

The November meeting of Albert College Guild was held at the ladies' residence with the president, Mrs. E. A. Fleming presiding.

Reports were received from the various committees showing that all groups were active.

In keeping with Remembrance Day the president read a poem entitled "A quiet queen."

Mrs. W. H. Finkle who with her husband was in London this year told of some of the places visited, which brought back war memories.

One was the underground quarters of Sir Winston Churchill's war time cabinet.

The rooms which were bare and dimly lit were covered with maps from every theatre of the war. Mr. Churchill's room had a wooden bed and two upholstered chairs. From here his inspiring messages were delivered to the world.

There were miles of passageways and it was believed that these quarters were safe from anything but a direct bomb hit.

Mr. and Mrs. Finkle also attended a service in St. Clements Church commemorating the victory of the British.

The church is situated on an island in the Strand. It had been bombed many times and reconstruction started in 1955 and was later consecrated in an Air Force church.

Each tile in the floor has the crest of a squadron and under each window is a Book of Remembrance.

Different countries helped to furnish the church, the United States presented the organ.

The original church was designed by Wren and the eminent Samuel Johnson, whose memory was conjurem up created by a window, worshipped her.

Danish residents in London also repaid it as a special place to worship as St. Clements is the patron saint of the Danish sea-farers. Every year they distribute oranges and lemons in the church.

Mrs. Finkle read the prayer for the Royal Air Force which was used at the memorial service.

Mrs. E. Hickey read Henry Blake's poem about England.

Another item of interest was the fact that a new Lord Mayor has been chosen in London. He was married while in Canada during the war in the Mohawk Church.

'Help A Stranger' Symbol Good Idea for Christmas

By DORIS CLARK

"This Christmas Help A Stranger."

This simple motto appears on a small folder, and on a four-by-10 bumper sticker, beside a stylized outline of a Christmas tree with a heart inside. The folder suggests that the Help-A-Stranger symbol be used on business or church literature and Christmas cards.

"The idea is that if each of us will take a little time at Christmas to help someone who doesn't expect our help, we act out the true meaning of Christmas. Who you help or how you help is your business.

"Your help can be as simple as a smile, or as costly as you can possibly afford. The spirit of the gesture is all that matters." It adds: "Some people find Christmas the loneliest time of the year."

For folders bearing the symbol send a stamped, self-addressed envelope to The Help-A- Stranger Idea, Box 697, Postal Station "D", Vancouver 9, B.C. (While this is not a money-making — but rather a money-giving — project, the enclosure of a small donation helps defray the cost of folders.)

Dear Doris: My husband's widowed mother desperately wants to visit us next summer. She lives in England, and would have to come on a charter flight, because her income and available time are limited.

She is petrified even of the thought of flying but has always said she would have to be bound and blindfolded to board an aircraft, even though some mother came by air last year. I have flown twice, and my husband has crossed the Atlantic twice, as well as flying several times in Canada and the USA for his company. We have failed to reassure her.

Can you suggest some way to encourage her? She is only 64, but seems older, and lives deep in the country in a village, where most of the people are not very "worldly" and would certainly be of no help to her. She longs to see her only grandchildren, our two sons. — All For Air-Travel.

Dear All For: My aunt used to dearly afraid the first time she boarded a plane; but could never have come from Florida to visit us in Canada if she had had to come by surface transportation. Her heart condition and her age alone would have made the trip an endurance contest.

As it is, she is now in love with air travel and gets around at the drop of a hat.

Arguments aren't much good if your husband's mother has a pathological fear — she knows you are trying to sell her so her guard is up! But if a person were determined to be killed in an airplane he would have to spend all his waking time, all his life, riding around in one, and then the chances would be 10,000 to one.

There is one safer mode of travel and it is trains. Trains and automobiles are getting upset all over the world, all the time.

Perhaps Friend Deserves Another Chance

Dear Ann Landers: I am a girl, 17, who has been dating since I was 14. I'm pretty but I'm not keen with my favors, either. The thing I am writing about is a man that other girls may have had also and I would like to know how to deal with it.

This certain guy, I'll call him Jack, dated me once and I liked him a lot and I'm sure he dug me also. Last night when he took me to the door he just stood there as if he wanted to say something but didn't. I gave him a little and he laid on the slopiest kiss I ever had in my whole life. You might think this sounds immature but that kiss turned me off completely. Now I don't care if he ever calls me again.

No girl likes a sloppy kisser. Girls want to be kissed in a gentle, respectful manner. That kiss reminded me of a cow pulling his food out of the mud. Please print this. Maybe Jack will see it and shape up for the next girl.—Too Late For Me

Dear T.L.: Here's your letter and let's hope Jack sees it and shapes up. Are you sure you wouldn't give him another chance? C'mon. Maybe all he needs is a little instruction.

Dear Ann Landers: I am aware that an engaged girl retravel gets the engagement gifts if the engagement is broken. What about wedding gifts presented by friends and family of the divorced husband? Does the wife keep them or do they belong to him? In the case of my daughter, her husband's mother and grandmother gave her some valuable heirloom jewelry. Does it go back to the givers—or is my daughter entitled to keep it for her daughter and one day her daughter-in-law?

My ex-son-in-law's mother has not been very gracious but his two aunts are lovely and I would like to maintain their friendship. Is that possible? For example, would it be in good taste to continue to invite them to social functions in my home?

Please answer these questions. I find them nowhere in the etiquette books. Thank you.—Maryland M.

Dear M.: (1) A woman is under no obligation to return wedding gifts after she has married. They are considered part of the household goods. (2) The heirloom jewelry belongs to your daughter. She can wear it if she wishes (although she'll probably prefer not to) or she can put it away for her daughter and daughter-in-law. That's what heirlooms are for. (3) By all means continue to see the ex-aunts socially if you enjoy their company.

Dear Ann Landers: I wrote to you recently and was distarbed by your answer. I wonder if you understood me. I will try again.

I told you my husband died two years ago and I am very lonely. He left me comfortable (not rich). Our house is free of debt and I will have an income for the rest of my life. I asked you to suggest an agency or a male-matching organization to help me find a respectable man who is also lonely and wants to share my life. You said you do not recommend such organizations, but no matter how respectable they might sound, and that I should write for a booklet that was endorsed by a clergyman or two. It didn't get your stamp of approval. Did you mean it? If so, why?—Still Lonely

Dear Still: You bet your sweet bank balance I meant it. I do not endorse male-finding agencies, scientific foundations, Lonely Hearts Clubs—whatever you want to call them. Some can be mighty strange and I want no part of such risky business.

Dear Doris: Our Kindness Clubs have turned out what I think is the first and only one of its kind — an entirely educational cooking book. The Smithsonian in Washington has praised it highly.

Many requests are snapping it up as soon as they hear of the clubs like Four H, YM, YW, and the rest.

Alda Flemming, The Kindness Clubs, 232 Waterloo Row, Fredericton, N.B.

Dear Alda: It has my hearty endorsement. For any readers looking for the "just right" gift for children at the coming book stage.

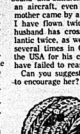
There is a picture to color on each page: either of an animal or a bird. A story, too, of few words. The recipes devised to ducks is real ducky; shows a duckling riding on Mama duck's back and saying: "Mom, I love to ride piggy back!" And Mom responds, "Does that make me a pig?"

But the main message is about the animal himself; how he lives and how he feels inside. The books are one dollar postpaid. Write direct to Alda, asking for My Kindness Cookbook, Duck and Chicken, at the $1.

The Kindness Club is a non-profit international group devoted to the welfare of animals. Membership is free.

Events Planned For Residents

The November meeting of the Hastings Manor Auxiliary was held in the library of Hastings Manor on November 15 with the president, Mrs. D. Maclean in charge.



Nine flower bowls were reported sent to residents who were in the hospital.

Mrs. R. Sengard reported that Mrs. Yates requested baby food jars, ribbons, sequins and beads for the craft room. Mrs. Maclean reported that there will be a bingo for the residents on November 30.

A Christmas tea will be held for the residents on November 23. Six hand painted pictures of local scenes were purchased for the Manor and plates are to be attached to each picture to identify them.

The next meeting will be held on December 13.

Mrs. Meale and Mrs. F. Phillips poured tea at the birthday party where Mrs. Catharine Eagleton was the eldest woman and James Cooper, 89 the oldest man.

Shape of Things to Come

This is the shape of things to come on Highway 33 between Picton and Kingston. Exemption for Ontario Hydro's Lennox Generating Station began in August of 1970 and, by 1974, the 120 men now employed on the site will be joined by another 1,200 with another 150 engaged as the permanent operating staff of the plant. This will be Hydro's first oil-fired generating station, which will minimize air pollution, the utility states.

Each of the plant's four generators will produce 575,000 kilowatts and the first unit is scheduled to go into operation in 1974.

Manson Is Subject of Play

TORONTO (CP) — Charles Manson, California cult leader and convicted murderer, may seem an improbable subject around which to write a musical play.

But this is what Fabian Jennings, a 29-year-old writer from Niagara Falls, Ont., has done to make his debut as a Canadian playwright.

His play, Charles Manson A.K.A. Jesus Christ, with music composed by Allan Pree, 28, of Calgary, had its world premiere Friday night at the Theatre Passe Muraille in the heart of downtown Toronto.

Mr. Jennings says he wrote the play, not out of any admiration for Manson, who is currently under sentence of death for the murders of nine persons but because "he's not so atypical as we'd like to believe."

"The whole Manson phenomenon says much more about our North American culture than many of us care to admit."

The play—its title comes from a police booking of Manson with the notation "A.K.A. also known as(Jesus Christ"—traces out Manson's early life and background through his own interviews with reporters and the revelations of his followers, or "family."

Mr Jennings says his character Manson, convincingly portrayed in the Theatre Passe Muraille production by Peter Jobin, "corresponds directly to the real Manson," but the members of the "family' in the play are "kind of composite characters."

The writer says much of his script comes verbatim from courtroom transcripts and actual interviews, with Manson's final speech before the court "an abridged but otherwise unchanged version of his actual courtroom testimony."

Although the program describes it as a rock musical, Mr. Jennings doesn't think this is an accurate description.

"The music is there because it is part of the culture Manson lived in. It is there only because it is part of the story. It's certainly not there to add razz-ma-tazz to the show."

The playwright says he sees Manson as a "symbol" of the times.

"He was a product, very definitely, of two cultures—the straight culture and the freak community at its worst."

He says the most difficult thing in writing the play was "continually resisting pressures to be cheap about it."

"I don't spend a great deal of time in the play criticizing Charley Manson. What he has done is obvious. I've resisted pressure to spend two-thirds of the play to show I felt he was crazy and in defending myself and other people with long hair from being like him.

"There's much more at stake than condemning Charley Manson.

"Here is a man who had genuine insight into good and evil and he went the wrong way.

"I don't know if I understand, with his insight, how he could go so wrong.

"Basically, my play is an attempt to find a sane way of presenting Manson to the public because I think what happened to him has terrible significance, maybe much more than we'd like to admit."

The Globe and Mail's theatre critic Herbert Whittaker said the production "may lack impact as a rock musical but as documentary theatre it has its audience holding on to the scaffolding."

He said director John Palmer "makes each scene count dramatically on the way up to the final defence by the actor playing the first title role.'

Missing Remain Mystery

EDMONTON (CP) — "It just isn't true that there isn't anything worse than death,' says Jake Plett, whose 29-year-old wife Mary Ann vanished more than two months ago.

"Not knowing what's happened to her, this is worse."

Mrs. Plett, a real estate agent, disappeared Sept. 15 after she left her office to show an unidentified male client some land just outside the city.

The Armstrongs, described as "a stable, sane, sensible old couple," waved to some friends along the highway shortly after they started the 300-mile journey. Neither the couple, nor their 1965 white station wagon, have been seen since.

Sunday, Gail McCarthy, 23, caught a bus to go to work at a city hospital and has not shown up anywhere since. She is married and is expecting a baby.

Police say there is no solid evidence to connect the disappearances, but they fear foul play in the Armstrong and Plett cases.

Mrs. Plett, mother of two young boys, had used her own car for the business trip into the country. The car was found parked at an Edmonton used car lot.

Early this month, a briefcase was found in the bush near Fort Assiniboine, 75 miles northwest of here.

Mr. Plett says the briefcase and its contents, found by a hunter, definitely belong to his wife.

RCMP searched the area with dogs but just winter began to close in, but found no further clues.

Rewards, offered by Mr. Plett, the Edmonton Real Estate Board and Mrs. Plett's employer, now total $5,000. Friends of the family have distributed 20,000 letters to rural homes around Edmonton, asking for information.

Mr. Plett says that whoever is responsible for his wife's disappearance should have the "common decency" to say where she is.

"The least he can do, if he's done away with her, is let us know somehow where she can be found so the boys and I can re-establish ourselves as a family."

RCMP say searches for the Armstrong couple have produced "zing nothing."

"We've chased down literally hundreds of suspicious leads," says an RCMP spokesman. "We've done everything humanly possible."

He says it's nonsense to assume the Armstrongs fled to South America or Las Vegas for a fling. They were not that type of people and didn't have the money.

"I don't think there's any doubt that they got tangled up with some poor types."

Strong Effort Still No Help To Junior B's

By ERIC EMERSON
Sports Staff

The Belleville Fairways came up with another fine effort against the Peterborough Lions — and another loss.

The Fairways have played probably their best hockey of the season in the three games they've faced the Eastern Ontario Junior B league leaders but have been unable to come up with as much as a point.

It was the same old story last night as Peterborough erased a 3-2 Belleville lead going into the final period to emerge with a 5-3 win.

"We didn't make many mistakes, but those we did make ended up on the scoreboard," was how Fairway coach Moe Hunter analyzed his team's fifth loss in eight games.

The Bellevillc bench boss was upset over a bench penalty assessed to his team by referee Don Ogden in the third period. "All I said to him was 'You're beautiful' and he slaps a bench penalty on us. I don't know how you could give a bench penalty just for that, but he did it," Hunter related.

Fine two-way hockey from the Belleville forwards and some sharp bluelining by Bill Cormier had helped the Fairways carry a 3-2 lead until the mid point of the second period.

Tim Yohn had opened the scoring at 3.44 of the first by poking in a rebound to offset a later first period marker by Peterborough's Bob Wasson. Goals by Dave Smith on a deflection and Rod Palmer on a 20-foot drive allowed Belleville to take the lead, the margin was cut to one goal when Harry Robeck snapped a 10-foot drive behind Cormier.

Rick Kemp started Peterborough on the comeback trail with his team holding a 5-4 manpower advantage in the third period. The Lion defencemen slapped a point drive behind Cormier to even matters at 3-3.

Robeck scored the winning goal just after returning to the ice from serving a roughing penalty. The Peterborough forward streaked behind the Fairway defence to count a breakaway goal that proved to be the winner. Rick Blewett added an insurance marker with just over a minute left to play in the game.

The contest was cleanly played with Belleville drawing seven of the 10 penalties handed out, including majors to Tim Yohn and Peterborough's Ron Otten for a third period joust.

Dave Smith came up with a sparkling effort on the forward line, scoring one goal checking well and helping in a penalty killing role. Defencemen John Mulvihill and Peter Ackerman saw plenty of ice time, particularly in the third period when penalties reduced Belleville's strength.

Rearguard Kevin Dockrill took a number of shifts on the Fairway blueline, and while he was beaten on a couple of occasions, the third year man also managed to dish out some telling body blows.

The Fairways next game is Sunday when they travel to Picton for an 8 p.m. encounter.

Double Decker

Defenceman John Mulvihill and centre Brian Cousins combine to send Rick Blewett sprawling to the deck of the Memorial Arena ice surface last night. The Peterborough forward had the last laugh however, counting a goal with just over a minute left to play in the game to clinch a 5-3 win for the Lions. The victory by Peterborough was their tenth in 11 games this season. They tied the remaining contest to rank as the only unbeaten squad in the six-team league.

Looped Lion

Belleville Fairway Kevin Dockrill knocks Peterborough's Rick Nobes for a loop, while defence mate John Mulvihill moves in to put the finishing touches on the underdog's job. The Pair ways were unable to maintain. a 3-2 lead in the face of a last period onslaught by the unbeaten Eastern Junior B League leaders. The Lions finally emerged with a well-earned 5-3 victory in the bout at the Belleville Memorial Arena last night.

Napanee Peewees Tie Esso In Last Minute

Napanee almost left things until the last minute, but were still able to come up with a 1-1 OMHA deadlock in their Friday night contest with the Belleville Esso Car Wash peewee minors.

Flyers Grease Skids With 11-3 Senior Rout

BARRIE (Special) — The Barrie Flyers were only too happy to make a bad situation worse for the Belleville Quintes last night as they administered an 11-3 thumping.

The loss was the sixth in a row for the slumping Quintes who have fallen from first place to a seventh place deadlock with the Kingston Aces.

The Flyers skated to a 3-1 lead after the opening 20 minutes, increasing the margin to 8-3 after the middle period.

Corby Adams and Doug Acomb were the only Quinte tormenters as each connected for a pair of counters. Rounding out the scoring parade for coach Darryl Sly's crew were Bob Baird, Pat Monahan, John McMillan, Ron Robinson, Bob Cunningham, Connie Mandala and Jim Thompson.

AL FERGUSON

Right winger Al Ferguson continued to provide the offensive spark for Belleville, netting his 13th and 14th goals of the season. Dave Jones drew assists on both tallies, while the third score by the George Godson.

There was a total of 11 minor penalties dished out in the contest with six of them going to the home team.

Tonight the Quintes will attempt to get back on the winning track, as well as gathering some revenge for Friday's humiliation when they face the Flyers in an 8 p.m. game at the Memorial Arena.

Stargell Feels Slighted

PITTSBURGH (AP) — Willie Stargell, the Pittsburgh Pirate slugger, says he should have been named the Most Valuable Player in baseball's National League this season.

Instead, he finished second in balloting by sports writers to Joe Torre of St. Louis Cardinals.

"I'm baring my thoughts on the fact that I did everything I set out to do and we won the World Series," Stargell said. "I'm not taking anything away from Joe."

Stargell underwent surgery this week on his left knee to repair a misplaced and torn cartilage, and the hospital has been a place for reflection—on his season, the Pirates' comeback-behind World Series victory and possible reactions to the champions.

"Last year, when Billy Williams, Tommy Peres and Johnny Bench had such great years, the reasoning for giving it to Bench was because he helped Cincinnati win the pennant.

"Now, everybody says if the

WILLIE STARGELL

player does well day in and day out, he deserves it.

"I don't know why I didn't win. I thought I had the credentials. And the thing I was fielded most about was scoring 104 runs. Most of the guys who score more than 100 runs are the greyhounds."

Durocher Didn't Doubt

CHICAGO (AP) — Leo Durocher, emphasizing that "controversy will probably always follow me," insisted Friday there never was any doubt in his mind that he would be rehired as Chicago Cubs' manager despite strong rumors that he would be dismissed.

Owner Phil Wrigley rehired the 65-year-old baseball veteran for his seventh season Thursday after a high-level huddle with Leo and general manager John Holland.

Wrigley's decision to give Leo a 1972 contract followed persistent reports that Whitey Lockman, former New York Giant star under Durocher and current Cub director of player development, would replace the manager who was under steady fire the last two seasons by most of Chicago's media.

How long does Leo intend to manage?

"As long as I'm healthy and feel good, and I feel just great right now," Durocher said.

Goolagong Upset

LONDON (AP) — Julie Heldman of the United States upset Evonne Goolagong of Australia, the Wimbledon champion, 6-0, 0-6, 6-1 Friday to gain the women's singles final of the Dewar Cup tennis tournament.

Miss Goolagong was below form. She was off target with her first service and netted a stream of backhands.

In today's final, Miss Heldman will meet Britain's Virginia Wade, who earlier defeated Francoise Durr of France, 6-2, 6-2. The winner is playing for a first prize of $1,250.

In men's singles, Bob Hewitt of South Africa and Gerald Battrick of Britain scored semi-final victories.

Hewitt, the favorite, defeated Britain's John Lloyd, 6-3, 2-6, 6-4, 6-3. Then Battrick overcame the top French player, Georges Goven, 3-6, 6-1, 6-1. First place is worth $1,875.

No Giese Kid Stuff for Colts

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Baltimore Colts will try to keep that Giese kid stuff out of their hair in a key National Football League meeting Sunday with Miami Dolphins.

Along with quarterback Bob Griese, the Colts must also contend with Miami's rampaging runners in this battle for first place in the American Conference East.

"I knew it would come down to our two-game series with Baltimore," said Miami coach Don Shula. "Usually, I don't like this must be settled head-to-head."

The Dolphins hold a nervous, half-game advantage over the defending Super Bowl champs.

Griese, who has reached stardom at a relatively young age, has an ace pass-catcher in Paul Warfield and a pair of dashing running backs in Larry Csonka and Jim Kiick. They'll be dealing with Baltimore's bullish defence, the Colts' strongest suit.

The contest is one of three Sunday involving battles for division leads. Dallas Cowboys visit Washington Redskins in a match for No. 1 in the National Conference East and San Francisco 49ers play in Los Angeles Rams' backyard for the National Conference West lead.

The resurgent Cowboys have won two straight affairs after coach Tom Landry finally settled on one quarterback—Roger Staubach. Previously, Staubach and Craig Morton were used interchangeably. The reeling Redskins, who won their first five games, haven't won in their last three tries.

Roman Gabriel, coming off his top effort of the season, quarterbacks the Los Angeles offence. Gabriel, who completed 17 of 22 passes for 179 yards and two touchdowns against Detroit Lions last week, was benched out early the first time the Rams and 49ers met Oct. 10. Los Angeles won that one 2-13, despite a minus 18 yards passing. The 49ers' head-hunting defence leads the NFC in-sacking the quarterback.

Defence-oriented Minnesota Vikings, the National Conference Central Division leaders, play at New Orleans; San Diego's pass-happy Chargers take on American Conference West pace-setter Oakland; Detroit Lions travel to Chicago in a key Central match and Denver plays at Kansas City, rumoring in the AFC West, in other top games Sunday.

Elsewhere, it's Philadelphia at St. Louis, New York Giants at Pittsburgh, New England at Cleveland, Houston at Cincinnati and New York Jets at Buffalo. In a game Monday night, Green Bay Packers tackle Atlanta Falcons.

Porter Pumps Points In Philadelphia Debut

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Howard Porter, who spearheaded Villanova Wildcats to a successful basketball season last year, returned to Philadelphia Wednesday night with Chicago Bulls and didn't disappoint his fans.

Porter, in a reserve role, poured in 21 points and snared eight rebounds, as the Bulls whipped Philadelphia 76ers 148-104 in National Basketball Association action.

In other NBA contests, Cincinnati Royals shaded Boston Celtics 110-106, Baltimore Bullets beat Buffalo Braves 126-105, Los Angeles Lakers trimmed Houston Rockets 106-9, Milwaukee Bucks edged Seattle Supersonics 108-107, and Portland Trailblazers defeated Cleveland Cavaliers 118-105.

In the American Basketball Association, Pittsburgh nipped Indiana 124-123, Denver beat Virginia 115-113, New York Nets clipped Carolina 129-127 and Kentucky defeated the Floridians 114-102.

The Bulls, who had dropped eight straight contests at Philadelphia, scrambled to a 34-21 lead after the first quarter and widened their margin to as much as 49 points in the final frame. Chet Walker and Bob Love paced the winners with 25 points each.

Baltimore, fired by Jack Marin's 24 points, led throughout the game and erupted for 37 third quarter points for a 92-62 advantage by the end of the period. Jerry Chambers led the Braves with 19 points.

The Royals trailed by 14 points at the half but surged back to take the victory.

The Lakers built up a comfortable 18-point lead and then weathered a Houston rally for the triumph.

The Rockets were behind 80-64 after the third quarter but quickly narrowed the gap to 94-90 with 4:32 remaining.

Jerry West of the Lakers, who had been in a shooting slump, found the range with a series of clutch baskets to seal the victory.

Karem Jabbor sank two free throws in the final six seconds as the Bucks punched out their 10th consecutive victory Jabbar and Seattle's Spencer Haywood each had 36 points.

Stan McKenzie came off the bench in the final quarter to spark the Trail Blazers and regain a career high 31 points.

Ti-Cats Reported Dissension Ridden

TORONTO (CP) — The dissension-ridden Hamilton Tiger-Cats meet today's second game of the Eastern Football Conference final with about as great a morale problem as has wracked a Canadian pro football team in many years.

The Ticats are here today for the second game of the EFC's two-game total-point final, trailing by 15 points following last Sunday's 18-3 loss in Hamilton to Toronto Argonauts.

The game will be televised nationally by CTV starting at 2 p.m. EST with no blackout in the Toronto-Hamilton areas.

Exhibition Stadium's field conditions alarmingly bad under the best conditions, were worsened for today's game by rains that fell through most of Friday. Temperatures were forecast for the mid-40s at game time with gusty winds and the possibility of more rain to complicate passing and kicking.

Rumors that regardless of how far Ticats go, coach Al Dorow will not remain next year to complete the second year of his two-year contract have been prevalent around Hamilton for some days.

Dorow denies it, but several veteran players, who refused to be identified, confirmed that the Tiger-Cat dressingroom attitude is "flat," that the usual team spirit is missing in the workouts.

Dorow and Bob Hanley, Ham. ilton Spectator sports editor, have been engaged in verbal sparring through recent weeks, station through recent weeks.

Hanley's claim that Dorow won't return and that the morale of the team is at its lowest point in more than 10 years was termed "ridiculous" by the Hamilton coach.

The Ticat coach said he had more confidence in management of the Tiger-Cat club than to think they would make a decision one way or another until after the season.

But despite rumors that have circulated, Hamilton general manager Ralph Sazio has yet to give Dorow and his coaching staff a vote of confidence.

Nor has Sazio got around to disclaiming rumors that Dorow will be replaced next year by Jerry Williams, the former Calgary Stampeder coach who was bounced by Philadelphia Eagles of the National Football League earlier in the season and now is an assistant with Cleveland Browns.

College All-Stars Named

TORONTO (CP) — Twelve players from the Ontario conference were named Friday on the 34-man national all star team, the first chosen by Canadian Intercollegiate Athletic Association football coaches.

Eight were from the Western conference, three from the Atlantic conference and one—Jean Quebec.

The Ontario players were headed by University of Toronto quarterback Wayne Dunkley. The others include end Dan Dulmage, middle linebacker George Hill, and fullback Bruce MacRae, all of Western; Cam Innes, centre, Windsor; Keith Johnston, guard, McMaster, Hamilton; John Buda, tackle, Waterloo; Paul Kilgour, tackle, University of Ottawa; Bob Eccles, Carleton University, linebacker; Rick Cheevers, Waterloo, Chris Barker of Carleton, halfbacks; end Juneau Rodrigue, Ottawa.

From the West are halfback Dave Kates, Alberta; end Mac Abraham, Saskatchewan; halfback Dennis Hrycyaiko, Manitoba; linebacker Gil Bramwell, Manitoba; guard Ole Hemmett, Manitoba; slotback, Mel Smith, Alberta; tackle Wayne Carleton, Saskatchewan and linebacker Glen Ponomarenko, Saskatchewan.

The Quebec player named was halfback Larry Smith, of Bishop's.

From the Atlantic conference were end Brian Grewell, Moncton; tackle John Danaher, New Brunswick; and halfback Bill Kincaid, St. Francis Xavier.

Frank Tindall of Queen's University, Kingston, was re-elected president of the coaches; vice-president is Dan Lenzy, St. Francis Xavier. Tim McCuaig of Carleton replaces Ron Murphy of Toronto as secretary-treasurer.

Dorow has disclaimed any knowledge of Hanley's contention that the names of four Canadian veterans and two imports "that would just shock you" had been placed on Hamilton's expendable list for 1972.

Dorow said any trades would be made only after consulting with Sazio.

There are reports, nieanwhile, that several unidentified veterans have been disenchanted with the past season in which the Ticats came alive late in the campaign to grab second place in the EFC standings.

"The team just seems flat," said one player. "These guys are executing their plays but just going through the motions."

"Something seems to have happened in the last two or three days," added another. "The air just seems to be filled with an 'I don't care' attitude."

Another player insisted the "neat dressingroom atmosphere was missing "the usual player pranks" that precede the big games and that "we're not ready. . . . Our attitude is the worst it's been all year."

Both Argos and Hamilton will be gearing their offences and defences to protect against the ground game after rain Friday made the already treacherous sod at Exhibition Stadium.

Dorow's critics claim that the Ticats would concentrate a short passing game into areas protected by Dick Thornton and Dave Rainey didn't have either Toronto player available.

"They've been saying that all year," said Rainey, a convalescing back, whose placement in the Argo secondary has been the subject of open invitation to opposing quarterbacks to infiltrate his zone with passes. "I was a little more alert earlier in the year, but now I'm much more relaxed."

Thornton, one of the Canadian Football League's outstanding passless halfbacks, implied he was unlikely to lose any sleep over the possibility of Ticats' pass receivers overflowing into his area.

"I hope they throw a few passes my way. I can already see that big six on the board," retorted Thornton who picked off seven enemy quarterback passes halfback, implied he was unlikely to lose any sleep over the possibility of Ticats' pass receivers overflowing into his area.

"I hope they throw a few passes my way. I can already see that big six on the board," retorted Thornton who picked off seven enemy quarterback passes this season and returned two for touchdowns.

Ferguson Scores Two for Marlies

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

Don Lever's 22nd goal of the season with 12 seconds remaining at Niagara Falls resulted in a three-way tie for second place in the Ontario Hockey Association Junior standings.

Lever's goal, with the Niagara Falls goaltender lifted in favor of an extra attacker, gave the Flyers a 4-4 tie with Peterborough Petes, who had to settle for a piece of second place with the single point.

Ottawa 67s trounced Hamilton Red Wings 7-2 and Kitchener Rangers downed Ottawa Generals 8-3, pulling the winning clubs into the tie with the Petes. Toronto Marlboros walloped St. Catharines Black Hawks 11-3 in the only other game, moving into a fifth-place tie with the Flyers, each with 32 points, two less than Kitchener, Ottawa and Peterborough.

Oshawa leads the league with 36 points.

Lever's goal came after he won the faceoff in Peterborough's end, then fired a low drive past Pete's goaltender Rollie Kimble.

Terrie Vail got a pair of goals for the Flyers with Steve Stone adding one. Neil Korzack, Jim Parkinson, Bob Lilney and Jim Jones scored for the Petes who overcame a 3-1 first-period deficit to lead 4-3 going into the final 20 minutes.

Godi Tilcomb, Paul Shakes and Dan Blair replied for the Hawks who were outshot 41-26.

Bordeleau was tagged with a misconduct in the final period when he became involved with a fight with Toronto defenceman Larry Goodenough.

No Azalea Money For Bowerman

WILMINGTON, N.C. (AP) — Jim Colbert shot a six-under-par 65 and moved into a three-way tie for the top spot in the second round of the $35,000 Azalea open golf tournament Friday.

The 30-year-old veteran of six years on the pro tour had a 36-hole total of 135 to tie Lanny Wadkins, 24-year-old rookie and former U.S. amateur champion, could do no better than par 71 on the 6,670-yard Cape Fear Country Club course, Sifford had a 67.

They had a one-stroke lead over rookie Tom Watson, club pro Terry Wilcox and four regular Larry Ziegler in this satellite event that offers $7,000 to the winner. Watson, like Wadkins just one month out of the PGA Players School, had a 66. Ziegler took a 67 and Wilcox had a second consecutive 68.

George Knudson of Toronto shot a 70 and was tied with 10 others at 139 and Wilf Homenuik of Winnipeg was among a group eight strokes back at 140. After he shot a 71, Ben Kern of Toronto shot a 72 for a 143 total.

Bob Cole of Montreal and Gary Bowerman of Toronto were both out of the money PGA Players School, had a 66. Ziegler took a 67 and Wilcox had a second consecutive 68.

Aces Call Halt To String by Galt

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

Kingston Aces knocked over Galt Hornets 4-3 Friday night, breaking the first-place Hornets' eight-game winning streak in Ontario Hockey Association Senior A action.

In other games, Orillia Terriers downed Owen Sound Crescents 5-2 and Barrie Flyers defeated Belleville Quintes 11-3.

At Kingston, Al Duncan, Dave Field, Ken Reid and Tom Thurby shared the scoring for the Aces.

Skeeter Teal, Vance Millar and Ron Smith scored Galt goals.

At Owen Sound, Mike Draper scored twice for Orillia and single goals went to Gary Milroy, Grant Moore and Dave Nicholishen. Dave Wignall and Bill Abbott replied for Owen Sound.

Trotters On Strike

TORONTO (CP) — A players' strike has cancelled Harlem Globetrotters' exhibition basketball games Sunday at Maple Leaf Gardens.

The Globetrotters have refused to play since Tuesday, cancelling other engagements in Port Huron, Mich., London, Ont., and Montreal.

The players are requesting higher salaries, a pension plan and a trainer or doctor to travel with the team.

California Coach'

Stasiuk Doesn't Fault Goalies

TORONTO (CP) — Coach Vic Stasiuk believes rookie goaltenders are prone to take a lot of criticism they don't deserve.

"I know a lot of people often point the finger at our club and they aim at the rookie goaltending," said Stasiuk after his California Golden Seals were beaten at Maple Leaf Gardens Friday prior to their National Hockey League engagement with the Leafs tonight.

"And when people start talking like this the goalie starts fretting when it really isn't his fault.

Meloche created a sensation when he started his first game for the Seals at Boston Oct. 28 and kicked out 34 Bruins shots to record a 3-0 shutout.

In the two games before that, Carter made himself known by blasting out 34 shots in a 6-3 win over Detroit Red Wings and another 31 shots in a 6-4 victory over Pittsburgh Penguins.

The Seals acquired Meloche and defenceman Paul Shmyr from Chicago Black Hawks in a trade for goalie Gary Smith, and Stasiuk said he had only seen him in a couple of practices before his shutout against Boston.

Stasiuk said Meloche displayed style and form in the game against Boston, which is unusual in a young goaltender.

"I don't know if it's an acquired gift. God-given or what but he has the knack of playing the shot the way it should be played. He doesn't go chasing the puck when he doesn't have to—he waits for it.

"And he's showed a lot of that since that game. He's a good one and so is Carter—there's a way that a lot of people overlook."

Jack Kent Cooke Keeps Promoting

By BRUCE LEVITT
Canadian Press Sports Editor

Jack Kent Cooke rides again.

The flamboyant owner of Los Angeles Kings, noted for his promotional stunts when he operated a baseball team, is back on his pet experience to pull in the fans to games involving his hockey club.

And the Kings need something besides their on-ice performance going for them—they're in last place in the Western Division of the National Hockey League.

Detroit Red Wings move into Cooke's Coliseum tonight and the Kings have announced that "all ladies 18 years old and up will receive a free pair of glasses," compliments of a soft-drink company.

For his next home fixture—Wednesday against Buffalo Sabres—Cooke feels nothing but diamonds will do. Buffalo is in last place in the Eastern Division with Detroit and Vancouver Canucks.

"All ladies 14 and over will receive a packet containing either a diamond or a rhinestone," his pronouncement reads.

That little promotion, he estimates, will cost him about $3,000.

Any way you look at it, it should be a full weekend in the NHL.

While Detroit is battling Los Angeles to the clink of glasses, Philadelphia Flyers are at Montreal against the Canadiens; California Seals play the Maple Leafs in Toronto, New York Rangers travel to Minnesota to play the North Stars, Chicago Black Hawks go against Boston Bruins in Boston, and St. Louis Blues play Pittsburgh Penguins at Pittsburgh.

Sunday, Toronto is at Buffalo, California at New York, St. Louis at Boston, Detroit at Vancouver against the Canucks in an afternoon game, Pittsburgh at Chicago and Minnesota is at Philadelphia.

Ashe Only American

HOUSTON (AP) — Arthur Ashe remained the only American still in the running for the top money in the World Championship of Tennis Tournament today.

Ashe, Tom Okker of the Netherlands and Australians Rod Laver and Ken Rosewall gained semi-final spots after two nights of action.

After taking today off, Ashe will meet Laver in one semi-final match Sunday and Rosewall and Okker are paired in the other.

Rosewall defeated John Newcombe of Australia 7-5, 6-3, 5-7, 6-3 in their quarter-final Friday night and Okker overpowered American Marty Riessen 6-3, 6-3, 6-0 in the second match.

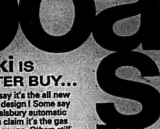
Ashe and Laver advanced to the semi-finals with victories Thursday night.

The losers in the quarter-final matches were eliminated from championship play and each received $3,500. The finals will be played later in Dallas, with the winner receiving $50,000, semi-finalists each will receive $8,000 and the runner-up gets $20,000.

The tournament here matched the top eight players from 20 tournaments.

Sayers Sidelined

CHICAGO (AP) — Gale Sayers, star Chicago Bear running back, is out for the rest of the 1971 National Football League season, the Bears announced Friday.



Sayers, plagued with injures for most of the season, was taken to hospital earlier this week with a boil on his left knee.

Doctors decided Friday to place the knee in a cast to prevent further infection and to speed healing of Sayers' left foot and ankle, injured earlier.

A Bear spokesman said Sayers was put on the reserve list, effective Friday.

boaski IS A BETTER BUY...

Some people say it's the all new aero-dynamic design! Some say it's the new Salsbury automatic drives! Others claim it's the gas tank cap with gauge. Others still maintain it's the longer chassis on the Mark II wide-track. There's something special about Boa Ski all right and that's the people who build it. We put more into Boa Ski so you get more out of it.

Yesterday's Answer

P 30

DAILY CRYPTOQUOTE—Here's how to work it:
A X Y U D L B A A X E
B L O N G F E L L O W
One letter simply stands for another. In this sample A is used for the three L's, X for the two Q's, etc. Single letters, apostrophes, the length and formation of the words are all hints. Each day the code letters are different.

A Cryptogram Quotation

H X Z J V N Y S J V L P C T J K T K C ' S
L P G G A B C S O N J V Q O C K R F Y V Q Q V M S
T K L P G , F C X H X Z J V N Y J O L R S O N N
L K G V O Q J V Q O C K R J V G . — W V C F L O C
S O N N V S S

Mutinous MPs of All Parties Highly Critical of Tax Bill

OTTAWA (CP) — The government faced mutiny in its ranks Friday as it battled continued opposition in the Commons to its proposed new tax system for co-operatives and credit unions.

Attempts by the government to buffer the onslaught with softening amendments appeared fruitless as Eugene Whelen (L—Essex) uttered the ultimate backbencher's threat—resignation.

"If we pass this legislation," he promised, "when this backbencher goes he will go in the damnedest storm you ever saw."

Fellow-Liberals Herb Breau (Gloucester) and Hubert Badanai (Port William), while not going quite that far, made it clear they could not support their leadership on the issue.

It was the second straight day of all-party attack on the measures, contained in the government's all-encompassing tax bill.

Representatives of co-ops and credit unions have been watching the battle from the House galleries, as opposents to the government's clauses commended recent amendments to the original bill, but called them inadequate.

Every MP in the debate cited the mountains of mail arriving on the Hill from businesses, co-ops and credit unions across the country.

Committees would be permitted as a matter of course to act as committees of inquiry, without need of direction from the House.

The point, Mr. Rowland said, was to make the government treat committee reports with some seriousness. Parliament would be protected, because it has a majority on each committee.

James Jerome (L—Sudbury), parliamentary secretary to Finance Minister Trudeau, said "this is probably one of the most important subjects we have had before us in a long time."

Mr. Rowland's thesis was that cabinet's power in relation to Parliament had become excessive, and that Parliament must use every means at its disposal to halt or reverse the trend.

Mr. Rowland said the new Commons committee system instituted in 1968 had been a disappointment.

It created about 28 committees to deal with legislation previously scrutinized by committee of the whole House.

The committee system should be changed, Mr. Rowland said, to allow committees to present resolutions to the House suggesting subject matters for them to examine rather than waiting for government initiative.

Each committee report would require a motion of concurrence in the Commons that would be debatable.

The government would have co-ops and credit unions pay tax on the lesser of at least five per cent of their employed capital, times to ridiculous lengths."

While Mr. Rowland's system would have merit in moving away from the present, it would tend away from the parliamentary system of government responsibility.

John Reid (L—Kenora-Rainy River) said that the system of the current committee system tie its full advantage, because they didn't prepare themselves for committee debate.

They were controlled by committees because they had been used to Commons debate, where they could say anything

Debate Allowed on Restricting Cabinet's Power

OTTAWA (CP) — A private member's motion designed to temper the power of the cabinet by giving Commons committees more independence was given extraordinary treatment by the Commons Friday.

A motion such as the one moved by Doug Rowland (NDP—Selkirk) is usually talked out by a government member and moved to the bottom of the order paper—effectively scrapped.

But in this case the House unanimously agreed to leave the motion at the top of the order paper, allowing debate to continue next week.

James E. Walker, former parliamentary secretary to Prime Minister Trudeau, said "this is probably one of the most important subjects we have had before us in a long time."

Mr. Rowland's thesis was that cabinet's power in relation to Parliament had become excessive, and that Parliament must use every means at its disposal to halt or reverse the trend.

Mr. Rowland said the new Commons committee system instituted in 1968 had been a disappointment.

It created about 28 committees to deal with legislation previously scrutinized by committee of the whole House.

The committee system should be changed, Mr. Rowland said, to allow committees to present resolutions to the House suggesting subject matters for them to examine rather than waiting for government initiative.

Each committee report would require a motion of concurrence in the Commons that would be debatable.

Anyway, the mere presence of fibrocystic disease of the breast is not a contradiction to the use of hormones for menstrual symptoms. They may be used, in other words.

Dear Dr. Thosteson: Is there such a thing as swallowing air causing air pockets that cause gas from my husband? What can be done to relieve this, as it causes constant pressure?— Mrs. A.B.I.

Depends on what you mean by "air." Swallowed air doesn't create any hollows. It's just air that gets swallowed. And air doesn't "cause gas." Air is a gas.

The "gas" from chronic burpers has on various occasions been trapped and analysed and found to be plain air.

An air-swallower seldom realizes he is doing it. If he eats fast, and gulps drinks, he swallows more air than he realizes.

Others have been watched, and found to have a curious habit of taking little gulps of air and swallowing them.

It's really a fairly common thing.

Dear Dr. Thosteson: I recently attended a dinner party, the object of which was to sell stainless steel pans. We were told that aluminum cooking pans caused arthritis.

Is this true? I have cooked in aluminum pans for over 25 years and I do have arthritis. My husband says this is a sales pitch. Please tell us the truth.— Mrs. G.H.

That old wheeze again! Aluminum has been accused of everything from a tonsils to horse cholera in frighten people into throwing out their old stewpans and buying new sets.

As to arthritis, the best research brains in the world have't yet found out what causes arthritis, so I would say that a pot salesman had a lot of nerve trying to tell you that somebody else's pots do it.

As a matter of fact, study of prehistoric bones shows that even the dinosaurs suffered from arthritis among-million years ago, and I think it can safely say that not a single one of them cooked in aluminum pans.

Dear Dr. Thosteson: Our daughter, 25, formed a habit of picking at things with her in. Is this bad for her health?— Mrs. R.C.

Cysts in Breast Are Common; Aren't Precursor of Cancer

By G. C. THOSTESON, MD

Dear Dr. Thosteson: I have fibrocystic disease of the breast. Is this a precursor of cancer? Will this condition improve after menopause? Would it be safe to take hormones for menopause with this condition?—E.M.M.

Fibrocystic disease, or formation of cysts in the breast, is a very common condition. About 25 per cent of women have it, but the degree is quite variable, sometimes severe, sometimes trifling.

Since the breast is a secreting organ—its purpose being to produce milk—it contains countless tiny glands which are influenced by hormone levels. If some of these glands become cystic, there will be varying discomfort because of varying hormone levels in the menstrual cycle. By the same token, fibrocystic disease tends to improve after the menopause because of the decline that occurs then in hormone production.

While fibrocystic disease and cancer of the breast can exist at the same time, the consensus is that fibrocystic disease is NOT a precursor of cancer.

The coexistence of fibrocystic disease and cancer is greater in persons having a family history of cancer, a useful point to remember even though the "why" of it is not understood.

What the Stars Say

By CONSTELLA

Sunday, November 21

Aires (March 21-April 19): Aliens have a chip on their shoulder today, increasing the likelihood of stress in partnership that's not fun to begin with. Stay out of the way.

Taurus (April 20-May 20): There's an undeniable link between your physical condition and the amount of energy you're exposed to. Harsh words with family members today aggravate your ills.

Gemini (May 21-June 21): A chance meeting in an unusual setting can provide all the necessary ingredients to capture your heart. Later, a more commonplace environment can bring out all the flaws. Beware.

Cancer (June 22-July 22): Even though your mood today appears to be on the grouchy side of good nature, you're provided with more than enough justification for blowing your stack. Partners push just too far.

Leo (July 23-Aug. 22): Breakdowns, faulty equipment or appliances create unexpected emergencies. Solutions aren't quick, either, as repairmen are not be reachable until tomorrow.

Virgo (Aug. 23-Sept. 22): Guard against unanticipated losses, mainly due to your own negligence. If possessions are given the care and nurturance they deserve, the threat diminishes.

Libra (Sept. 23-Oct. 22): If things aren't going your way completely in family circles, you can be tempted to make some pretty drastic changes. First weigh the possibility that kin may call your bluff.

Scorpio (Oct. 23-Nov. 21): Transportation delays can bring out an impatient streak that could lead to all sorts of reckless actions. Control your temper and extend reasonable courtesy to others.

Sagittarius (Nov. 22-Dec. 21): Saving wouldn't be such a problem if friends and social ties weren't constantly pushing you to spend on joint amusements. Find a quieter crowd to run with.

Capricorn (Dec. 22-Jan. 19): Though you may be more than sent to head household affairs, that's still not license to play dictator. Loved ones are sensitive, emotional, so use the velvet glove treatment.

Aquarius (Jan. 20-Feb. 18): Private words or gestures can reach the ears of the very party you've been secretly criticizing. That's the reason you get a drop-head response.

Pisces (Feb. 19-March 20): Rainy day funds come in handy now to ease the burdens of a health or job problem affecting loved ones. Provide the best for your children in your care.

TODAY'S BIRTHDAY — There's a powerful ally backing you this year, though the public won't know you're being helped. Its fellowship, a secrets a patience with co-workers, neighbors to prevent major disputes.

Monday, November 22

Aires (March 21-April 19): Cancel plans that become increasingly more difficult to cope with early this week. The best way to live with demanding bosses is to just do your best.

Taurus (April 20-May 20): Folks won't let you get a word in edgewise especially when they've found something to complain about. If some of their criticism is directed at you personally, that may be the last straw.

Gemini (May 21-June 21): You expect more than just a thank you for your financial aid given to partners. The least they could do would be to exhibit more loyalty and support for your plans.

Cancer (June 22-July 22): Close allies are quick to blame any failures on you for not living up to your responsibilities. There is a point, though, when you have to take care of yourself first.

Leo (July 23-Aug. 22): Blame it on the stars, the weather, or just plain boredom, any little aches and pains will be given undue consideration for a few days. Keep busy so you won't complain so much.

Virgo (Aug. 23-Sept. 22): Your feast or famine attitude is currently passing through a phase where everybody plans. Use this dead period to get ready for an active cycle due shortly.

Libra (Sept. 23-Oct. 22): There's a considerable amount of discontent developing where home and family issues are concerned. Your outlook wouldn't seem so dark if you didn't expect so much from those you live with.

Scorpio (Oct. 23-Nov. 21): Given the chance to speak your mind, you certainly won't pass it down. It's about time you let others hear your side of the story for a change.

Sagittarius (Nov. 22-Dec. 21): It's generally wise to shop around for bargains, but this rule should never apply where health is concerned. The best advice or treatment is bound to be expensive.

Capricorn (Dec. 22-Jan. 19): Just when you're ready to take your bows you receive a deserved thank you, someone comes along and steals a bit of your thunder. A close partner takes all the credit.

Aquarius (Jan. 20-Feb. 18): You can always find something going wrong in your life to build a case of the blues. Don't waste a potentially pleasant day looking on the gloomy side.

Pisces (Feb. 19-March 20): You don't need a mob of acquaintances around you to feel wanted or popular. Just one loyal, steady friend is enough. Keep social plans simple.

TODAY'S BIRTHDAY — You have a fine chance this year, especially after March, to become involved in lucrative pursuits that can eventually become an asset to your professional status. Find a hobby.

Opening lead — jack of spades.

Most mistakes by declarer flow from a failure to plan the play—whether at the start of the hand or in the course of it. This tendency to proceed without planning is more a matter of bad training than bad judgment, and all too often this approach leads to a disappointing result.

For example, look at South's method of play in this hand. He won the spade lead with the ace, drew three rounds of trumps, and played a diamond to the queen, which held.

Locked in dummy, there was nothing South could do to salvage the situation. He had to lose a spade, a diamond and two clubs to go down one.

Had he looked for enough ahead, South would have realized that drawing trumps at once was not the proper line of play. He would have known, had he weighed the matter fully, that he could insure the contract if West had the ace of diamonds or if East had the ace of clubs.

Having recognized this, he would have won the spade lead with the ace and immediately played a diamond towards the K-Q. If the queen held, he could then draw trumps before playing a second diamond to the king.

In the actual setting, this course of play would have yielded ten tricks consisting of two spades, six hearts and two diamonds.

The big difference between the two methods of play is that if South temporarily delays the extraction of trumps he can use the trump suit as a source of entries to get over to his own hand, thus enabling him to lead diamonds up towards dummy instead of once. This in turn permits him to establish a trick in dummy while dummy still has an entry to cash the trick.

There is nothing unusual about the correct line of play in this hand; it is merely a matter of making the right plays in the right order.

Nixon Policy Criticized As Alienating Canada

WINDSOR, Ont. (CP) — The policies of U.S. President Richard Nixon may lead to greater alienation between the U.S. and Canada, a former adviser to Mr. Nixon said Friday.

"The thing that motivated the protest movement (in the 1960s) was that the U.S. did not meet the expectations of the protesters within world society," said Joseph Rhodes, a Harvard graduate student.

There is "nothing more dangerous" than Mr. Nixon's move to crush that spirit—the spirit that the U.S. should live up to high expectations in the world, he told a session at the Canada-American relations seminar at the University of Windsor.

"He's trying to find a foe he can legitimately attack. If he isn't an ideological enemy, it will be an economic one. And that means Canada, it means Japan. It means the Common Market."

Mr. Rhodes, an adviser to Mr. Nixon on campus problems, took part in a discussion of future possibilities. If present trends to violence continue...

Others engaged in the discussion were Lloyd Cutler, former executive director of the U.S. National Commission on the Causes and Prevention of Violence, and Monica Blumenthal, a social research professor at the University of Michigan.

Mr. Cutler predicted that terrorism is "going to be our worst serious problem of violence over the next 10 years."

He said that all of the conditions necessary for widespread terrorism in the U.S. already exist except there is no political party committed to the use of violence.

Mrs. Blumenthal said respondents to a 1969 study of 1,300 U.S. males thought that police should use more force in dealing with student demonstrators than with urban rioters.

Ten per cent of the respondents believed protests with much property damage will be needed before social changes needed by blacks can be reduced.

Earlier in the day, a Metis told the conference that white "colonialization" of native peoples has had the effect of alienating them from their own cultures.

Prof. Howard Adams of the University of Saskatchewan, who addressed a session of alienation and the races, said:

"We have been stereotyped as inhuman savages so that the Europeans could develop the 'vacuum theory' that there was no culture or civilization before the white man came," said Prof. Adams.

He said that whites have also developed a caricature of native culture to enforce superiority. He mentioned scalping as an example of cultural traits stressed to "enhance the barbarism of native culture."

More Funds Sought For Family Planning

HALIFAX (CP) — Health Minister John Munro said Friday the federal government will seek parliamentary approval for more funds for family-planning activities in the current and in the next fiscal years.

He gave no indication of the amounts involved in an address to the convention of the Family Planning Federation of Canada.

The federation received a $100,000 grant for family-planning activities across Canada in the year ending next March 31. It has asked for an additional sum.

Federal family-planning grants of $25,000 have been made for the current fiscal year to SERENA, an agency based in Hull, Que., which conducts extensive family-planning activities in Quebec.

Mr. Munro said the government's request for more money for family planning will be placed before Parliament next month.

He added that the government also has approved increases in non-resources for the same purpose in the spending program of the department for the fiscal year starting April 1, 1972.

The intention of federal participation in the area is "to help ensure that every child born in Canada is a wanted child and that its coming into the world is the result of a conscious, responsible decision by its parents."

Orion Backers Haunt Macdonald

OTTAWA (CP) — Defence Minister Donald Macdonald can hardly step out of his office these days without being offered a bit house—by plane.

Wherever he goes, in Canada or abroad, there is Lockheed Aircraft Corp. of California, a closer shadow than if he were undergoing a security check.

Mr. Macdonald, to put it mildly, is getting pretty fed up.

He told the Commons Thursday he has been subjected to "pressure" by Lockheed to buy the Orion long-range patrol plane.

The defence department is looking for a plane to replace the Argus maritime patrol plane about 1975.

For instance, the defence minister went to Abbotsford, B.C., not long ago to open an air show.

There was an Orion on the apron. As Mr. Macdonald passed near it, platoons of Lockheed photographers took his picture—with the Orion in the prominent background.

Any time Mr. Macdonald is planning to visit a Canadian defence establishment, an Orion suddenly materializes at his departure point.

Mr. Macdonald says the United States defence department is not putting pressure on him, though the U.S. government would like to get defence production-sharing, now in Canada's favor by $300 million, more in balance.

But during a recent visit to Washington there were flocks of Lockheed representatives in his vicinity, inviting him to luncheons, dinners and cocktail parties.

Sheaves of literature on the plane have inundated Mr. Macdonald's office.

A short time ago, Mr. Macdonald was on his way to his office in the Parliament buildings when he spotted a Lockheed man peering at him from behind a pillar.

Reports that one Lockheed man followed him into a men's room with the words "another feature of the Orion, sir . . ." are described by officials as exaggerated.

Youth OK; Administration Bad

LONDON, Ont. (CP) — A federally-appointed area citizen's committee released its evaluation of the Opportunities for Youth program Friday, criticizing administration but praising the young people involved.

The report said "administrative beginnings were haphazard and inefficient."

The citizen's committee was never able to obtain a written criteria for selection of the 17 London-area projects and concludes "from the wide variety of projects carried out, and the seemingly random rejection of some other worthy projects, that there were no hard-and-fast rules."

Not only does the report note that "the young people lived up to expectations," but also recommends that if the program is continued next year applicants be allowed to initiate and operate all projects.

"There should be a minimum of agency interference under the guise of consultation."

Surtax Said Increasing Political Problems

WASHINGTON (Reuter) — Canadian Ambassador Marcel Cadieux says Canada has invoked its own "increasingly serious" political problems as a major reason why the United States should remove the 10 per-cent surcharge on imports.

"We have indicated to the United States clearly, and I hope vigorously, that the surcharge is hurting us badly and we do not believe its continued application to Canada is warranted, either in terms of trade objectives or the broader considerations involved," the ambassador said Friday in a speech before the Overseas Writers Club.

"I have in mind—the need not to injure the No. 1 client (Canada), and the desirability of taking into account its increasingly serious political dimensions."

Cadieux did not elaborate on the political problems he was referring to, but observers said one of the things he had in mind was the possibly explosive impact of further heavy unemployment in Quebec on the militant separatist movement there.

The ambassador said the general attitude of the public in each country towards the other is important.

"The continued application of a measure which Canadians regard as grievous and unwarranted could adversely affect their general attitude," he added.

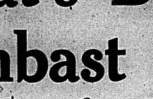
Winter Grips Europe

LONDON (AP) — Blizzards and gales swept Western Europe for the third successive day today as winter settled over the continent.

An unseasonably fierce snowstorm blanketed most of Denmark and southern Sweden, isolating many farms and villages, stranding thousands of motorists and closing several provincial airports.

Children in Denmark got an unexpected holiday when their schools were turned into emergency shelters for stranded motorists. Many children in Sweden were unable to reach school.



Shipping was badly hit. Ferry services to West Germany and Poland were almost at a standstill. The Sweden-to-Finland ferry Viking, which drifted aground in gales Sunday with 200 persons aboard, was tugged afloat today.

Flood alerts were issued along the Dutch and north Belgian coasts and in Kent, southeast England.

Two youths died in Huy, southern Belgium, when their car was buried by snow, only a hundred yards from a group of houses.

Avalanches claimed their first victim of the season in Switzerland when a 48-year-old Swiss skier was killed by a snowslide in the canton of Uri.

Dozens of alpine villages were cut off in the wake of heavy snowfalls. At Val d'Isere, it has been snowing without letup for 36 hours.

Egypt Halts Talks On U.S. Peace Plan

JERUSALEM (AP) — Foreign Minister Abba Eban called on Egyptian President Anwar Sadat Sunday to negotiate a peace settlement with Israel and "stop the public bombast." Israel also named a new military chief of staff.

Eban was referring to Sadat's statement Saturday that "the time for battle has come, there is no more hope." During a tour of Suez canal positions, Sadat urged his troops "to be ferocious in battle, to prove to the world that we are a fighting people who know how to defend our dignity and honor."

Sadat also told pilots at an air base that Egypt had broken off discussions with the United States on U.S. proposals for an agreement with Israel to reopen the Suez canal. He accused Washington of retreating from its declared policy of seeking a peaceful settlement and said it now wants "by all means to achieve Israel's goods."

Egypt's Arab Socialist Union, the government political party, met in Cairo Sunday to discuss defence plans and organization civil defence units.

It urged "Egyptians "to assume your responsibility, determine your own destiny and restore your lost lands," a reference to Arab territory captured by Israel in the 1967 war.

Eban said Sadat's speech to the troops combined "a military threat with political exertion" which "can bring nothing but disaster to his nation and region."

"We shall, of course, not yield to military intimidation or to political pressure," Eban said.

Other government officials accused Sadat of "heightening war hysteria" and said he left Egypt "little way out of a confrontation." But the official said: "Still he does not close the door completely to a political settlement. He leaves a narrow space open. But let's hope it is not too narrow."

The Israeli government also named a new military chief of staff to succeed Lt.-Gen. Haim Bar-Lev, who had served an extra year in the post. His replacement, taking over Jan. 1, is Maj-Gen. David Elazar, 46, who ran the successful anti-guerrilla campaign in northern Israel from 1964 to 1968. For the last two years he has been chief of operations. the No. 2 job in the Israeli military hierarchy.

Bar-Lev, who has been chief of staff since Jan. 1, 1968, will become minister of industry, informed sources reported.

Like Bar-Lev, Elazar was born in Yugoslavia. Brought to Palestine in 1940, as a teen-ager he joined the Jewish underground Palmach fighting the British mandate army.

He commanded the Israeli forces that captured the Gaza Strip both in the 1948 Arab-Israeli war and in the 1956 Sinai campaign.

Hundred Drown In Philippines

MANILA (AP) — A cargo boat with about 200 persons aboard sank Sunday night between Leyte and Cebu islands, a r d between 65 and 106 persons were feared lost.

The coast guard said 94 survivors drifted ashore o. were rescued. Sixteen bodies were recovered, and the coast guard said an estimated 50 to 90 persons were trapped inside the hull of Bethwest II, which sank on a 25-mile run from Palompon, on Leyte, to Bogo, on Cebu.

The coast guard said the boat had been licensed to carry only 11 passengers, and that license had expired in April.

Two coast guard boats were searching for survivors, and officers were negotiating with private companies in the area to raise the hull, which was in shallow water. But they said they had little hope of finding anyone alive inside.

The Bethovrn sank during bad weather between the islands of Capiz and Calanagnan in the Camotes Sea. The weather cleared up today and was not hampering the search.

The Manila Evening News reported that most of the passengers were students returning to schools in Cebu after spending the weekend at their homes on Leyte.

Meany Seeks Showdown With Nixon Over Wages

MIAMI BEACH (AP) — A close aide of AFL-CIO President George Meany said today the labor leader has set a deliberate course designed to force President Nixon to kick him off the pay board or junk federal wage controls altogether.

"It will happen long before next November's presidential election," said the aide, who declined to be quoted by name.

Meany already is committed to trying to oust Nixon from the White House next year.

Asked if this meant Meany will seek to "goad" Nixon into throwing the three AFL-CIO members off the pay board, the aide said: "Yes."

"Meany wants Nixon to kick him off the pay board," said another AFL-CIO source close to labor's pay board strategy.

Meany has accused the Nixon administration of using the five public and five industry members to try to "goad" the five labor members into quitting the board which Nixon created to impose wage controls.

The fight, in which Meany already has announced a policy of non-co-operation with pay board decisions that labor disagrees with, resumes today when the board starts drafting forms on which wage increases must be reported to the board.

"There's bound to be a fight over that," the Meany aide said.

Nixon told some 2,000 AFL-CIO convention delegates last Friday he would press his Phase Two wage-price control program to the fullest whether they co-operated or not.

Before Nixon left the ball, Meany gavelled the convention to order and said: "We will now proceed with Act II." Nixon cancelled plans to spend the weekend in Florida and flew back to Washington amid reports he was angry over his reception by the AFL-CIO, which the White House denied.

The Meany aide said the labor federation's plan is to escalate its opposition to wage controls until Nixon is forced to take action against the AFL-CIO members of the board, or abolish the pay board and put the controls into the hands of the Cost of Living Council, an all-government panel.

Meany Thinks Nixon Weak and Dangerous

LOS ANGELES (AP) — The Los Angeles Times quotes AFL-CIO President George Meany as saying President Nixon's speech to the labor group last week left him convinced Nixon is a weak and dangerous man.

The newspaper says Meany made the comments Saturday to a group of AFL-CIO convention delegates who greeted him in the lobby of his hotel in Miami Beach, Fla.

Nixon received a chilly reception Friday from delegates to the AFL-CIO convention when he spoke about his wage-price policies there.

"He came down here to put on a show and he did," the Times quotes Meany as saying in informal remarks.

"This is a weak man, and a weak man is a dangerous man. He's weak because he's scared. Meany could not be reached for comment Sunday about The Times' report.

Industrial Heads Meet Ministers

OTTAWA (CP) — Industrial leaders and federal cabinet ministers set up a closed-door meeting here today with late additions to the agenda likely to get the lion's share of attention.

U.S. economic protectionist actions and the general state of the Canadian economy were added as conversational topics, in the light of recent developments, to a get-together planned originally to discuss federal legislation concerning management-labor negotiations and business competition.

About 40 captains of industry came for the conversation with Prime Minister Trudeau and such cabinet members as Finance Minister E. J. Benson, Corporate Affairs Minister Ron Basford and Labor Minister Bryce Mackasey.

Both the bills that the businessmen originally wanted to discuss have been stalled at the introductory stage and are likely to die on the order paper when the current parliamentary session ends late this year or early in 1972.

Rhodesia Studies Last Offer

SALISBURY, Rhodesia (AP) — Prime Minister Ian Smith put what are believed to be the final British terms for settlement of the independence dispute before an emergency meeting today of the full Rhodesian cabinet.

The cabinet's review of the week-long negotiations between Smith and British Foreign Secretary Sir Alec Douglas-Home is a vital stage in the bargaining.

Cabinet rejection of the British offer could end the negotiations in failure.

First Air Clash Reported Over India-Pakistan Border

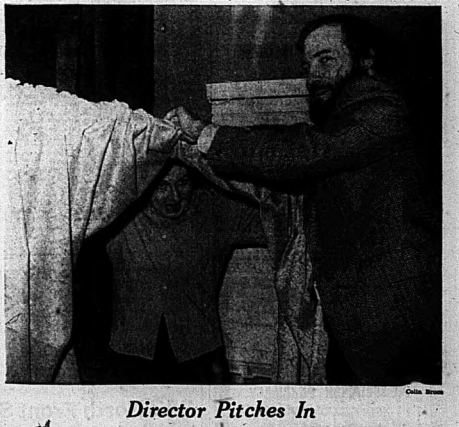
BULLETIN

WASHINGTON (AP) — A Pakistan radio broadcast said today India "has launched an all-out offensive against East Pakistan" without a formal declaration of war.

NEW DELHI (AP) — In the first reported air battle of the India-Pakistan crisis, Indian Air Force Gnat jet fighters fired today on four Pakistani F-86 Sabre jets that intruded across the East-Pakistan border only 65 miles from Calcutta, an Indian government spokesman said.

The spokesman said the Pakistani jet fighters crossed "one to two miles" into Indian territory, near Boyra northeast of Calcutta, and were quickly "engaged by the Indian Gnats and chased away after about a minute or two."

The Pakistani pilots did not return the fire, the Indian spokesman said.



RAWALPINDI, Pakistan (AP) — The Pakistani government radio said today Pakistani troops knocked out seven tanks and killed 90 soldiers in throwing back two brigade-strength attacks by Indian regulars Sunday in northwest Jessore, on the Indian-East Pakistan border.

The Indian radio counterclaimed Bengali rebels, not Indian regulars, were fighting the Pakistanis and that the rebels destroyed several Pakistani tanks. It said the rebels also occupied the town of Chaugacha, less than 15 miles from Jessore.

The clash was the first in which both sides claimed the use of armor. The Pakistanis said the Indians threw in a regiment of tanks which would be a unit of 800 men. The strength of a brigade is about 3,000 men.

Pakistan radio also said four Pakistanis were killed and seven were wounded, the highest number of casualties admitted officially since the border fighting erupted three months ago. The Pakistanis also said they wounded 100 of the enemy.

The Pakistanis also reported attacks by 400 rebels at Comilla on the eastern border with Indian Tripura and said that border areas there were shelled with 5,000 rounds.

Director Pitches In

Director Ted Bairstow, director for the Pinnacle Playhouse, gives Rene Robertson, stage manager, a hand striking the set after the Saturday night, sell-out crowd had seen the finial showing of Harvey. "A great success for both the box office and the cast," said Mr. Bairstow. The company has played for packed audiences for the past few nights and officials are considering reserved seats only for future shows. For story see page 2.

THE WEATHER

Synopsis: A high-pressure system will cross Ontario tonight and Tuesday followed by the approach of a storm over southern Alberta. Today and tonight should continue cold with temperatures not expected to rise above 32 today and likely to drop toward at many locations to the lowest temperatures recorded so far this season. A few flurries will continue today in most communities with snowsquals persistent on the windward shores of Lake Huron and Georgian Bay. Tuesday will be mainly sunny but a chilled wind associated with the Alberta storm will bring the northwestern regions Tuesday afternoon accompanied by milder temperatures and followed by intermittent snow.

Harvey Was Artistic, Box Office Success

The curtain went down for the last time on Harvey, Saturday night, after packing the theatre for almost every performance.

Written by Mary Chase, the the farce and humor of the play seemed to catch just what Belleville theatre goers wanted and for the last three nights of the run, as many as 30 people a night were being turned away at the door.

"The production has been a great success both at the box office and on the stage," said Ted Bairstow, recently appointed director for the Belleville theatre group.

Mr. Bairstow, in an earlier interview claimed, "the play is designed to let people relax, and to bring fun back into the theatre." After the show, laughing with the cast and leaving down the set, he said, "the people here laugh when they want to laugh. And judging from the evening, they wanted to laugh all the way through."

The play Harvey, set in the American west, deals with an imaginary, six-foot rabbit. He is not only big, but magical and he only appears to his friends.

Talking about the cast, Mr. Bairstow says these are some of the best people he has had a chance to work with. "There are no petty quibbles, and everyone works together to make a fine performance."

The box set, built by Ken Graham and Ted Ross, "is one of the best I've seen for this play," he said.

"With these kind of results, theatre goers in the city should anticipate the future, to reserve their seat or take the chance of not having one at all," said Mr. Bairstow.

The group's next production will be 'Dial 'M' for Murder,' which Mr. Bairrow hopes will be an even bigger success than Harvey.

Town Wants Province To Take Over Road

The town of Campbellford, along with the roads committees for Hastings and Northumberland - Durham, is planning another approach to the provincial government to have east-west county roads taken over as a provincial highway link.

To discuss the approach, a joint meeting of the town and municipal bodies has been called for Campbellford on Nov. 29. Area members of provincial parliament have been invited to sit in on the discussion.

The request, if it goes to the province, will be to have the 28 miles of Campbellford road and the Northumberland county road from Campbellford through to Highway 45 taken over as a provincial artery.

The idea would be to have the road standards upgraded to allow a direct highway bus service through Campbellford to Toronto.

Several years ago a similar joint meeting of the two county bodies was held with the same purpose in mind, but no action was taken at the provincial level.

Skatathon Raises $4,750

PICTON (Staff) — The first annual KiwAnnis skatathon ended last weekend by the Kinsmen Club of Picton raised approximately $4,750, for donation toward community service projects.

Approximately 160 skaters representing the Prince Edward Figure Skating Club and the Picton and District Minor Hockey Association flocked to the County Centre, Picton, to complete their appointed rounds of the rink.

Pledges, solicited from November 6 to November 20, were made "per unit" with each unit equal to two laps around the rink.

The skatathon, enthusiastically backed by members of both the Kinsmen and Kinette Clubs, opened Friday evening as members of the Prince Edward Figure Skating Association went around in circles to raise funds.

Figure skaters from the Picton and District Minor Hockey Association were on the ice throughout Saturday to help their tickets to officials each time they completed a lap.

Star of Saturday's fund-raising frolic was four - year - old Jamie Branscombe who completed an hour on ice to earn $70 in pledges.

Jamie's parents are Mrs. Donald Branscombe, RR 4, Picton, this handsome hero pluckily skimmed unassisted around the rink undaunted by occasional tumbles.

One spokesman for the skatathon, Huntsman Edward Rae, noted that financial support of the project was very gratifying. Participation was a low, however, with approximately 28 per cent of all eligible skaters taking part.

Mr. Rae added that the skatathon seemed to enjoy wholehearted support of the Kinsmen and Kinette Clubs. Members of both groups turned out in force to assist during the weekend event.

They really outdid themselves," he remarked.

All money earned through the skatathon will be split on a percentage basis among four community organizations for community service projects.

The Picton and District Minor Hockey Association will receive 50 per cent of the proceeds.

Each hockey team within its division competed for crests and each skater received an opportunity to win NHL hockey tickets within his division.

No Exceptions To No-stud Law

TORONTO — The Highway Traffic Act does not provide for any exception to the ban on the use of studded tires in Ontario this winter, Deputy Minister of Transportation and Communications A. T. C. McNab said in a statement issued today.

"The regulation prohibiting their further use, which was passed last year, makes it an offence for any vehicle to be equipped with studs on Ontario highways, roads and streets," he said.

Drivers using studs may be subject to fines ranging from $20 to $100.

Mr. McNab said the province took the lead in banning studs because research carried out in Ontario on the effectiveness and affects of highway damage was more advanced than other jurisdictions.

"That research, and additional research conducted by the Canada Safety Council an independent organization — during the past two winters supported earlier findings that studs offered only marginal aid in winter driving where icy road conditions existed," he said.

"The tremendous amount of research that has gone into the matter leads safety experts to believe that to a great many instances drivers using studded tires were operating under a false sense of security."

Regular snow tires and the use of steel link chains, where necessary, are not affected by the ban.

"The increasing use of studs was found to be wearing off the skid-resistence texture of paved surfaces, creating extensive ruts and prematurely obliterating the white driving lane guide lines, said Mr. McNab.

"The combination of these results was creating a general hazardous driving condition that could affect all motorists," he added.

He pointed out that the State of Minnesota also has banned the use of studs this winter and a ban has been imposed in the State of Utah, to take effect next April.

Legislation is now going through in Michigan to impose a ban starting in 1973 and other jurisdictions, including the Province of Quebec, are closely examining their situation respecting legislation, said Mr. McNab.

Winter Change Over

The overnight snowfall, which dumped two inches of the fluffy white stuff over the Quinte district, turned this city street sweeper into a snow shoveller. Here public works employee Albert Reid shovels snow from the sidewalk in front of Belleville's city hall.

Snow to Stay

The first snowfall of the winter hit Belleville last night, to the joy of the younger set and the despair of their elders.

And citizens rummaging around for last winter's rubbers will not be encouraged by CFB Trenton's forecast of 15-degree temperatures in store for tonight.

The two inches of snow in Belleville will stay on the ground as temperatures climb to only the freezing mark, a 32 degree high expected Monday and Tuesday afternoon. But Tuesday promises to be sunny, the duty forecaster says.

Trenton got 1.6 inches of snow overnight and Picton got the same amount.

Farther north, the amount of snow on the inches in Tweed, three ground increased to 2.1 inches in Bancroft and about five and one-half inches at Palmer Rapids and Dacre.

Police reported a rash of accidents over the weekend as a result of the storm. In Belleville alone, there were 30 "fender benders" investigated by two police between Friday and Sunday night.

Horticultural Meeting At Queen's University

NAPANEE (Staff) — Philip F. Dodds, president of the Ontario Horticultural Association has been named chairman for the organization's annual convention which will be held at Queen's University, Kingston, next spring.

More than 1,000 delegates are expected to attend the program scheduled on Friday and Saturday, June 16-17, 1972.

Mr. Dodds told delegates at an annual meeting of district three of the Ontario Horticultural Association held here on Saturday that this will be the first time the convention has been held in this part of Ontario.

Delegates who come from all parts of the province will be provided with an opportunity to visit the attractions of Kingston, the Thousand Islands and the entire Bay of Quinte district.

Mr. Dodds noted that many are expected "to come early and stay late" for this purpose.

In his remarks to the 70 members of the 10 horticultural societies meeting in Napanee last weekend, Mr. Dodds stressed the need for pride in such groups. He pointed out that these societies spend $250,000 annually from their own funds for beautification purposes.

This expenditure sets an example for other citizens.

The greater varied investment in matters related to pollution and the preservation and planting of trees.

He commented that changing times demand changing programs and suggested that nursing homes, institutions of various kinds and civic beautification offer a scope for service.

Three Injured Near Tweed

TWEED (Staff) — Three Madoc area residents were taken to Belleville General Hospital last night, suffering from injuries sustained in a two-car pileup on Highway 37 on the outskirts of Tweed.

Andrew Henry, 17, of RR2, Madoc, was admitted to hospital suffering from head injuries, lacerations to his forehead and scalp and shock.

Charles Cassidy, 23, was treated for injuries to to his right shoulder and left foot, and released.

One Dead, 5 Hurt In 401 Accident

NAPANEE (Staff) — One member of a Toronto family is dead and five others injured as the result of a single car accident, seven miles east of this city on Highway 401, at 6.30 p.m. Sunday.

Ivan Tompa, 49, of 15 Coles Court, Downsview, was killed when he was thrown from his 1965 car after the vehicle apparently skidded off the road.

Two of his children; John, 14, and Emilie, 11, were rushed to Kingston General Hospital. Emilie is listed in serious, but confused, suffering from head injuries.

Mrs. Tompa, 42, is listed in satisfactory condition at Lennox and Addington Hospital here. Her daughters, Christina, 13, and Domenic, 9, were both listed in good condition. All are suffering from undetermined multiple injuries.

Ontario Provincial Police Constable Edward Sherwin of Napanee investigated.

New Manager Named For Trenton GE Plant

TRENTON (Staff) — Christman will be brighter this year for Canadian General Electric employees here.

"Business was never so good," said a company spokesman today.

Employment is at a record high for the Trenton plant, with 200 workers on the payroll. This follows a low period for the plant that saw layoffs in April, 1970.

"If the demand continues, there could be more employment at the plant," said the spokesman.

General Electric manufactures motors for home laundry units and is now making small motors for garbage compactors.

A new manager has been appointed at the Trenton plant, it was announced today. Donald Dickie, 41, former supervising engineer of advanced manufacturing and packaging in the Peterborough plant has been moved to Trenton to replace former manager Roy Gogers.

Mr. Roger has been promoted to manager for manufacturing small motors in Peterborough. He will move his wife and five children to that city soon.

The new manager at Trenton has been with the company for 16 years and holds an engineering degree from Dalhousie University and a BE in electrical engineering from Nova Scotia Technical College. He is married and has two children.

Concert Planned For Bancroft

Bancroft area residents will have a chance to hear a concert of classical and modern music Friday, Nov. 26, when the district association for the mentally retarded holds its David White, a well-known Peterborough pianist, to North Hastings High School auditorium.

Sharing the program will be the Soul Reflections, a local group of young gospel singers who have recently made their first LP recording, and the North Hastings concert band, directed by William Hennig. The group of students will try to recapture some of the big band sound.

Proceeds are in aid of the association funding campaign. Advance tickets are $1.50 for adults, $1 for students, and may be obtained from members of the association.

Police Seek Small Theft

Patrol officers at 7.50 p.m., discovered Goodyear Tire Store on North Main Street, had been entered through a 14 by 16-inch window, 10 feet above the ground.

Three stereo player units were stolen . . . value $300.

Little-known Board Settles Land Disputes

TORONTO (Special) — The Ontario Land Compensation Board is a creature of the government but its loyalty is to the law says chairman J. S. Yoerger.

Mr. Yoerger who has headed the nine-member board since its formation a year ago told the Toronto Bureau of The Intelligencer the board functions as a judicial tribunal, hearing the facts against the law, not government policy.

Mr. Yoerger, one of three lawyers on the board, was formerly deputy provincial secretary and deputy minister of citizenship. When he moved from that Queen's Park post to head the new board, he also moved out of Queen's Park.

Mr. Yoerger said the board was offered space in government buildings but chose to locate in the downtown Toronto business quarters to reinforce the image of the board as an independent tribunal, and not an arm of government.

The board was established as a result of recommendations of the McRuer Report on Civil Rights, under legislation passed in 1968, to settle arbitrations of disputes between owners and authorities making expropriations. Expropriation arbitrations were handled previously by the Ontario Municipal Board or by county court judges.

Mr. Yoerger says a major objective of the board is to set uniform procedures and consistency in decision-making in compensation cases across the province.

Since it began hearings late in March the board has issued 14 decisions, ranging from a $700 award for land expropriated by the South Nation River Conservation Authority, to compensation of nearly $80,000 by the City of Sudbury in an expropriation from Ralph Zamonsky.

Mr. Yoerger agrees that the board may be one of strongest defences the "little man" has against a growing government, although he says that is not the primary reason for its existence. But the fact that the board specializes solely in land compensation cases, he said, means a faster hearing and settlement for private citizens who feel they are being injured by a government expropriation.

While Mr. Yoerger and his two vice-chairmen, Ray Grant and Gordon Ferd, are lawyers, the remaining seven members of the board represented a mixed background.

Thomas Conway is a former lumberman and reeve of Barry's Bay. George M. Hobart, of London, Ontario is a former president of a paper company.

The board includes a former career military officer, Colonel G. Per... Oshawa, James McConaghy is a former East York ... man and managing director of a vending machine company, and Donald W. Middleton ... Toronto is a former secretary of the Ontario Federation of Agriculture and a member of the province's special committee on farm assessment and taxation.

Former Port William mayor Ernest Reed was a life insurance underwriter, and Lionel Latulippe of L'Orignal was assessment commissioner for the United Counties of Prescott and Russell.

While their varied backgrounds enriched the board, Mr. Yoerger said it made some intensive training necessary before the board could begin hearing compensation cases.

He put the new members through an eight-month course providing what he calls "a solid background in everything to do with arbitration".

That included a "great parcel of reading material" which included all the available literature, texts and reports on arbitrations, a series of speakers and assignments as observers at arbitration hearings before the Ontario Municipal Board and county courts.

When the board was officially appointed in December, 1970, Mr. Yoerger said it was ready to begin hearings. But, he said, Ontario lawyers apparently were not ready to test the new board. It did not hear its first application until late in March.

From a slow start, attributed by Mr. Yoerger to a "wait and see" attitude on the part of lawyers, the board has moved in eight months to a backlog of cases totalling about 228 applications. More than 180 of these applications fell into the board's lap when legislation was amended last spring making the board responsible for all compensation applications even though they were begun before the board came into existence.

Mr. Yoerger said the board will reduce the total backlog to a "reasonable number of cases" in the next four or five months. He has instructed board members to attempt to issue decisions within one month of hearings, and worked his men through the summer months, usually a vacation period for courts and administrative tribunals.

In the course of hearing more than 20 applications, the board has travelled most of the province. Sittings have been held in most major Ontario cities and towns and the board's schedule to mid-January includes appearances in Thunder Bay, Sarnia, Sudbury and Welland, where it began its career with its first hearing March 30.

Cheese Show Entries Increase

Cheesemaker interest in the British Empire Dairy Show held in conjunction with the annual convention of the Central Ontario Cheese Makers' Association is sharply increased this year.

Entries in the show to be held December 1 and 2 at the former Tip Top Tailor location at the corner of Front and Bridge Streets are up over last year with at least 30 factories expected to enter this year.

The convention sessions will be held at the Sun Valley Motor Inn with annual cheese makers' banquet and dance to be held Thursday evening, Dec. 2 at Club Canara.

Attending the convention sessions will be Ontario Dairy Princess, Miss Nancy Brown, and local dairy princesses, Susan Ray of Hastings, and Barbara Alexander of Prince Edward County.

Highlighting the sessions will be talks by experts in the dairy field and a talk by Miss Barbara Hill, director of home economics for the Department of Agriculture and Food.

A panel discussion Are the Cheese Exhibitors Serving the Industry, will see R. H. Jardine, director, milk products division, as chairman, with R. Chave, Roy Johnson, Harold Elliott and George Wood as members.

The four corners location for this year's cheese show is expected to result in greater than ever over-the-counter sales of quality cheese.

Cheese will be sold at the show from Wednesday, Dec. 1 until noon on Saturday.

Beef Cattle Missing

PICTON (Staff) — A Hillier township farmer has reported five head of Hereford cattle missing from a pasture field near his home.

A spokesman for the Picton Provincial Police said the cows, valued at $625 are owned by R. Dunn, Hillier.

The missing animals weigh 300 to 400 pounds each and were reported missing by the farmer last week.

Constable Ronald Jeffery is investigating the incident.

Woman Injured In 401 Crash

TRENTON (Staff) — Late last night the wife of a Belleville man suffered serious head injuries when a car in which they were riding slithered off Highway 401 at the Stockdale Rd. underpass just west of here, Ontario Provincial Police at Brighton reported.

Mrs. Douglas (Louraine) Fournia, 47, of 226 Pine St., Belleville, was treated in emergency at the Trenton Memorial Hospital, then taken to the special care unit in Kingston General Hospital.

She suffered a fractured skull and cuts on the face. Her husband was unhurt. The Fournia car was damaged to the extent of $1,500.

Brighton OPP reported a rash of accidents throughout the night and early morning, caused by the first heavy fall of snow in the area.

Cow Butchered In Owner's Field

SHANNONVILLE (Staff) — Roast beef will be the order of the day for thieves who killed a two - year - old holstein heifer near here this weekend.

Ronald Graham, of RR2, Shannonville, discovered the heifer in a field on his farm. The beast had been shot through the head by a .22 calibre gun. Its throat was slashed and both hind - quarters removed.

Value of the 1,100 pound animal has been estimated at $300.

Nixon Confronts Unions

No one can accuse President Nixon of indecision. More and more Nixon is showing he is capable of following a course of action without fear or favor.

The latest example of this is in connection with Phase two of the anti-inflation measures which the administration is pursuing. Organized labor does not like the measures, as witness the performance of AFL-CIO leader George Meany in recent days. Meany, in a convention address in the presence of Mr. Nixon, said in effect that if the President did not wish to count on Labor's support "he knows what he can do." Mr. Nixon, good lawyer that he is, countered by saying he knew exactly what he could do and would go ahead and do it. In other words Phase two, (which Meany arrogantly dubbed "Act two" at the close of the conference) will proceed.

There is speculation that President Nixon, for all his strong talk on this occasion, was upset by the hostile reception he received at the AFL-CIO affair, and in this context observers point to the fact he returned to Washington immediately instead of going on to Florida as planned.

Determined as he is to halt the inflationary spiral, it looks as if Mr. Nixon is going to have to do it without Meany's support. The convention raised his salary from $70,000 to $90,000 and if anyone has ever doubted the power of the unions in the United States he has only to note this piece of fiscal arrogance. It is said also that the AFL-CIO will be throwing its weight behind the Democrats in the 1972 election.

But the president has widespread support for his policies and Meany knows this. Perhaps he should stick to union matters and let the politicians run the country — an aspect of latter-day affairs we have been hearing about recently from Prime Minister Trudeau and Regional Economic Expansion Minister Jean Marchand. Union leaders, they have been saying, are too involved in politics and are using the workers for political ends.

Those Shortcuts

The line of least resistance . . . yes, that is the one favored by most of us, unless of course we are lucky enough to live somewhere near Chichester forever seeking new and more arduous worlds to conquer.

At the pedestrian level we have the joggers and that strange breed who walk for pleasure, not to mention that other aggregation, those who must do quite a bit of walking in the course of a work day. To the latter, walking is a necessary evil and they are always looking for the shortest route to take from A to B. So much so that, in Ottawa, National Capital Commission lawns have become rather less than trim from the impact of many feet.

And it has proved impossible to stop the short-cutters. A recent NCC ruling that Douglas Fullerton has decided to go along with it up to a point. They can have their shortcuts, he has indicated, but next spring, when the snow has left the ground, the shortcuts are going to be paved over. No matter that the routes may not be perfectly regular or symmetrical . . . the bikeways meander too, says Mr. Fullerton.

Thus all over town next spring — at the picturesquely-named Tunney's Pasture for instance, on Confederation Heights and in front of the Supreme Court there will be these pathways, yet, blazed by the pedestrians. And then there will be no excuse for walking on the grass. Yes sir, that is the way it is going to be in Ottawa next year.

Worldwide

Many of our most pressing social problems today are world wide. We have been reading for example of trouble relatively near-at-hand, Spain. Drugs apparently are entering the picture and there was a report of the murder of a nightwatchman, one of the caretaker fraternity who are so much a part of the Spanish scene and have contributed in practical measure to its hitherto peaceful image. Drug abuse too is causing concern in the Soviet Union, not to mention a growing incidence of venereal disease in parts of Europe. Affluence in industry is everywhere, to one degree or another.

Snowmobile Report

Snowmobile manufacturers claim their machines are safer this year, that the kind of problems mentioned by Transport Minister Jamieson, based on a study of accidents last year, have been corrected. Be that as it may the fatality figures inevitably must cause snowmobile users to exercise greater caution than in the past. For one thing, the minister says that use of the machines on roads is inadvisable.

'Empty Cannons of Rhetoric'

U.S. Does Turnabout on Chinese Delegate's U.N. Speech

By STEPHEN SCOTT
UNITED NATIONS (CP)
United States President Richard Nixon appears to be using the United Nations as a "whipping boy as he attempts to cope with a difficult situation in Washington.

That seems the only interpretation of a surprising statement issued by the U.S. delegation here Tuesday night in connection with the seating on the mainland given in the general Assembly 24 hours previously by Deputy Foreign Minister Chiao Kuan-hua of China.

The statement mentioned the "intemperate language" of the first Chinese speech here since he admitted to the UN and added:

"What is surprising—and disturbing—was the decision to launch participation in this world body by firing these empty cannons of rhetoric."

The statement contradicted some observers. The consensus in the press corps was that China hands brought over from Hong Kong by the U.S.—was that the American reply was a tough restatement of known position. It was, many believe, temperate—not intemperate.

An informed Western observer said: "It is surprising that there was nothing unexpected in the Chiao speech adding: "Surprises were in store only for those who hoped to be surprised."

Even Bush said immediately after the speech only that it was a forceful and not surprising restatement of positions that the U.S. could not support.

Then 34 hours later, after talking to officials as far away as Washington, he issued the personal statement.

Nicholas King, the U.S. press officer here, was pressed at the daily American briefing for correspondents to give examples of the "intemperate language." He said he would have to check with the ambassador before answering.

The Chiao statement was completely clear of the usual Chinese propaganda insults such as "running dogs of imperialism." Observers said that in some respects it came down harder on the Soviet Union than on the U.S.

The main point Chiao made was that China does not believe that the super powers should run the world or the UN. He did not demand U.S. troop evacuation of Southeast Asia, Taiwan and South Korea as have Soviet and other anti-American statements, but only in the most matter-of-fact manner. It could hardly be expected that a Communist speaker would not make these points.

There too, the Chinese let go by a marvellous chance to slam the U.S. Tuesday when they joined 16 other countries in a demand that President Nixon not approve legislation passed by Congress which calls for the importation of Rhodesian chrome, which is banned by a Security Council embargo.

Never have so many countries voted against the U.S. on a resolution here and when is reflect opening for a Chinese display. But Ambassador Huang Hua, outlined the reasons for saying only the resolution was in line with Chinese policy.

The reason for the statement seems to be that Nixon is protecting his rear from the conservatives in Washington at a difficult time when he is attempting to get foreign aid through Congress and planning his visit to Peking.

Conservatives have been unhappy at the way China has been going here since before the fateful Oct. 25 voting in which the People's Republic of China was admitted to membership and the U.S.-two-China proposals were defeated.

Apparently Nixon was thinking of the conservative feeling when the White House issued a statement Oct. 26 regretting the behavior of some delegations after the voting.

This statement is said to have helped influence the defeat of a foreign aid bill by Congress.

He seems to want to check conservative criticism before it gets strong enough to block passage of aid legislation in Congress more difficult and before it can influence public opinion to the degree that his trip to Peking will be difficult.

Davis' Performance at Provincial Parley

By DON O'HEARN
From The Intelligencer's Queen's Park Bureau
TORONTO — When federal-provincial conferences are held in camera it takes a few days to find out what really went on.

The real atmosphere and character of the conference pretty well always becomes known, but it's a question of adding up a remark here and an observation there before the picture becomes clear.

So it is only now we have some worth-while assessment of Premier Davis at his first major top-level meeting.

(Yes, he was at Victoria but assessments were not to be made on this. He was then very much the new boy, the proceedings were televised and he was building up to an election. There was a politician on stage rather than a leader doing big business.)

It seems that the government leaders and others at the conference saw a Davis that the public in Ontario has yet to observe.

We know a man who has shown us more charm than combat—even in the election campaign—little pugnacity, and more words than reason—some reason has been there, but in the typical Davis statement it has been smothered in words.

At Ottawa, it appears, there was a much more blunt Davis, yes still charming, but also doggedly determined.

And this quite probably was a foretaste of a new Davis that will gradually begin to take shape on our home scene.

An important point about the conference that has been barely overlooked was that the Ontario premier scored significantly over the federal government through a simple though rather bold, and perhaps reckless, tactic.

The premier took along in his official delegation two ministers. This was the first-time municipalities had ever been represented at a federal-provincial conference and gave Davis an important first.

The thought of municipalities having "all representation at future conferences can be horrifying. All other premiers, of course, would have to follow the Ontario lead if municipal representation were to be agreed on in future, and another dozen or so voices would add an extra to the present babel the conferences could become slavish in having full representation at fueling with for years.

The consequences was that in the closing stages of the conference, federal spokesmen announced that agreement to convene a special federal-provincial council meeting.

It is possible this had been in their plan from the start. If it was, Mr. Davis at least gained the advantage of having paid first attention to the municipalities.

If Ottawa hadn't planned on such a conference, then Davis gained even more kudos by forcing its hand.

However the circumstance, he made it evident he will be a power to be reckoned with and could be near the top of the class in the in-fighting of politics.

What Has Happened To Local Talent on Radio And Television Today?

Editor,
The Intelligencer.

I, too, would like to see a television station in Belleville. It would be good for contractors, station personnel as an additional medium, and probably hockey. Also for the city, for taste.

A television station in Belleville would not be very kind to local musical programs. Most would be American tapes and recordings. Peterborough and Kingston don't do much for their local musicians either.

Radio stations do not do much to promote local musicians in Ontario. Records are either American or a very few Canadian, produced in Nashville, Tennessee, some in Toronto and the big production centres.

Years ago I had an oldtime band, The Trent Valley Ramblers. We broadcast live each Saturday from CJBQ Radio station in Belleville. At that time live broadcasts included the Sweet Brothers Band, Walt Taylor's Rhythm Ranch Riders, Grayston Sheldon Oldtimers, The Smith Family, Hammie MacDonald, The Commodores, Bill Arnold Combo, Lionel Zacharia, Danny Ireland and many more. All used to be heard regularly on CJBQ. Local talent was readily in demand then. How many live radio musical shows do you hear in 1971 on local talent? There are a few but not like the good old days.

There certainly is a great amount of excellent musical talent in the Quinte district. I think we should have more radio shows produced locally. Then and only then, would I believe a TV station in Belleville would do much for local talents. What do you think?

JACK McCAUGHEN,
Stirling.

Editor's Note: Only members of the Musician's Union are permitted to perform on local radio stations.

The French-language newspaper Le Canadien was founded by Liberal members of the Lower Canada legislature 165 years ago today—in 1806. Until then French — language newspapers were mostly literary journals or news sheets containing little but translations from the English. Le Canadien published only one edition before it was ordered closed by the government but was revived and closed several times before its stormy career ended early in the 20th century.

1963—United States President John F. Kennedy was assassinated at Dallas, Tex., with the crime attributed to Lee Harvey Oswald.

1943—A conference among Churchill, Roosevelt and Chiang Kai-shek began at Cairo.

1890 — French President Charles de Gaulle was born at Lille, France.

Remembrance, Holiday—Or What?

The Globe and Mail
In official circles, November 11 is seldom referred to as a holiday — a word that implies release from the discipline of work, a chance to have fun and enjoy the lighter side of life. The official concept of Remembrance Day is now so heavily overlaid by other ideas, however, that the original idea is almost totally obscured.

Presumably the intention of marking it specially on the calendar is to permit a large-scale focusing of public sorrow for those who died in battle, expressions of gratitude for their sacrifice, and perhaps rededication to the noble principles they defended with their lives.

It is still possible in good conscience to respect those matters of the human's folly rather than his courage. It stands as evidence of a colossal failure to reconcile differences; it gives rise to unspeakable suffering and, as such, it is not something that any sane person can glory in.

The ceremonies of Remembrance Day have always been vulnerable to a certain amount of hypocrisy — and not just of the bugle-blowing gung-ho variety intended to pump the cheapest brand of patriotic adrenalin through our veins. It is hypocritical for so many public authorities to pretend this is a day of remembrance for employes when plainly it is not.

If it is broadly felt that there is need for a public holiday somewhere between Thanksgiving Day and Christmas, let us by all means declare (or invent) one although we must add that a better case could be made out for breaking up that bleak period between January 1 and Easter. Valentine's Day?

But let us try to break away from the shallow habit of hanging a sort-of-holiday on Remembrance Day. Two minutes of concentration would have far more significance and far more dignity than a day-long suspension of certain services.

The Right and Left in Politics

Editor,
Apropos the Editorial comment to my letter captioned "Is there no Middle Ground in Politics?"

The Editor is right — it becomes increasingly difficult to choose between Left and Right. Each resorts to violence — be it the urban violence of the activist demonstrator or the more subtle violence of the system. The Editor suggests "It is not so much the system that produces this polarization but rather people". With respect, I feel people react to, and reflect the system; in other words they are the product of the atmosphere and environment in which they live.

Millionaire Dr. Morton Shulman (a member of the New Democratic Party) certainly does say "Anyone Can Make A Million" but we all know this is not true. 100 million may be millionaires. This premise is no more valid than the American suggestion of "Anyone can get to be President". It just is not true.

The abhorrent "Burn baby burn" of the extreme Left is no more acceptable than the "Let's go Gook hunting" mentality of many American commanders in Vietnam or the "Kill it in the Cocoa" philosophy of so many whites south of the border. Such comments are frequently aired in the American media, and as I intimated in my letter, one is no better than the other.

As Dr. Shulman's book "Anyone can make a million" suggests, some are more subtle and less crude than others.

WILLIAM C. HOCKLEY

EDITOR'S NOTE: The Right and Left in politics is a fact of political life in the western world at least. If nothing else it is the inspiration behind our parliamentary system. A middle-of-the-road policy, trying to be all things to all people, is just myth.

LOOKING BACKWARD

GLEANINGS FROM OUR FILES OF BYGONE YEARS

25 YEARS AGO

November 22, 1951

According to figures released by Dominion Bureau of Statistics, the populations of Hastings and Prince Edward Counties have shown moderate increases during the past 10 years.

Commissioner Max Matthews of the Belleville Salvation Army has been appointed chairman of the board for the remainder of the year, announced Commissioner Everett Liddle. Mr. Matthews replaces Commissioner Henry N. Becker, who has a moved to London.

The regular monthly meeting of the Bay of Quinte Local, Amalgamated Civil Servants of Canada, was held in the Trenton Town Hall. Special business of the evening was the election of officers which resulted as follows: president Bro. Dave MacDonald; vice-president Sister Irene Labelle; secretary, Bro. North Bay Chamber of Commerce Wants Action on Schools

SUDBURY (CP) — Delegates to the annual meeting of Northeastern Ontario Chamber of Commerce have deferred action to its member chambers on a request for support from the North Bay chamber for resolution urging a bilingual school system for the province.

Jack Helpert, Timmins chamber president and a strong advocate for the deferral, said last weekend it would be difficult to vote on the resolution since the problem is found in only parts of the province.

The regional chamber represents chamber of commerce from the Quebec border west to Nipwa and from Parry Sound to Hudson Bay.

Mr. Helpert said there is no problem over the issue in Timmins nor in the Kapuskasing area where several separate schools have been established.

Bill Groom, Sudbury and district Chamber president, said there are three separate secondary schools in its representative district and there appears to be no problem.

Mr. Helpert added that a vote of support might be interpreted by northeastern Ontario residents as meaning the regional chamber has more wisdom and insight into the matter than local school boards.

He said that school boards are elected by the people, and the Chamber could "start a confrontation" in many communities by voicing an opinion on the subject.

Brian Masson, a North Bay chamber delegate, argued against Mr. Helpert's stand, saying the school issue "is of just as much concern to the NOCC as highway improvements and freight rates".

Joe Plant, also of North Bay, said the present school system belongs in encouraging the separation of Canada's two founding peoples.

Mr. Plant said his chamber has submitted a brief to the Symons commission on French-language education in Ontario.

He said it took the stand that benefits gained by a dual system of education are nothing more than increased costs and the preventing of French-speaking and English-speaking youth from growing up learning and working together.

A North Bay resolution on the Symons' commission did receive the chamber's approval, however.

It was a censure directed at Thomas Symons, Trent University president and commission head. Mr. Plant said the commissioner has yet to attend one of the six meetings the commission staff have held around the province.

He said on such a delicate issue as a question of French-language school rights in Ontario, the North Bay chamber finds it totally unbelievable that a commissioner can't find time to attend a meeting.

Obituaries

JAMES EDGAR DIAMOND

Harlowe, Ont.

Widely known throughout Orange Lodge associations, James Edgar Diamond of Harlowe was buried today from the MacKenzie Funeral Home in Madoc, with interment in Cooper Cemetery. Officiating was Rev. David Sinclair.

The bearers were Donald Miller, Roland Darling, Sidney Brown, Bernard Hollinger, Godfrey Harr and Herb Wallace.

An Orange Memorial service under the auspices of the Queensboro RBP No. 167 was held Sunday evening at the Funeral Home with many lodges from Eastern Ontario represented.

Mr. Diamond died Saturday in Belcrest Nursing Home, following a lengthy illness. He was in his 67th year.

Born in Madoc township, he was the son of Mr. and Mrs. Rufus Diamond and had lived in the Cooper area before moving to Harlowe 15 years ago.

He was a retired carpenter and was a member of St. Mark's Anglican Church at Harlowe.

Mr. Diamond was a past master of LOL No. 1133 at Hazzard's Corners, and was a past district master of No. 2 district Centre Hastings; past commander of the Scarlett Chapter, Centre Hastings; past county master, Centre Hastings; past master of LOL No. 2370 at Harlowe; honorary past master for Eastern Ontario, past precetor of Queensborough RBP 167, past grand committee man and honorary past grand master of the ROYAL Black Institution of Eastern Ontario and a member of the Harlowe LOBA.

Twice married, he is survived by his second wife, the former Arreta Thompson. His first wife was the late Annie May Bird.

Aside from his wife he is survived by two daughters, Mrs. A. (Ruby) Brady of Madoc and Mrs. E. (Alice) Adams of Belleville.

One brother, Allan Diamond of Peterborough, a sister, Mrs. H. (Ella) Moorecroft, RR2, Madoc, two granddaughters, Mrs. J. (Elda) Sopha of Carrying Place and Mrs. T. (Nancy) Frater of Orangeville and four great-grandchildren also survive.

International Show at Synagogue

Have you ever felt a twinge of envy when some lucky friends with plenty of money for globe-trotting, just back from their latest excursion to Paris or Tokyo, show off exotic articles bought in some glamourous local place? The Belleville Chapter of Hadassah has news for all would-be international shoppers.

For the first time the Chapter will present a bazaar on November 23, an international show and sale at the synagogue. From 8 p.m. to 10 p.m. the public can do some shopping in Belleville at a miniature international fair which will include local Dutch art, Canadiana rugs and wall hangings and Italian leather articles such as belts and handbags.

The local Tibetan community will be represented by their handicrafts which include a variety of jewellery made of metal and semi-precious stones. A display from India will include some silk scarves for sale.

West Indian festive candy will be offered for sale as well as the genuine Mohawk Indian handicrafts. The Israeli items for sale and display include authentic Yemenite costumes and Chalish, the special bread eaten on ceremonial occasions. Besides all this, there will be a variety of bootique items for sale.

The show and sale will be a team effort by all the members of Hadassah, under the direction of Mrs. Norman Alpert, president. Admission will be free.

Club Activities

CANNIFTON — CORBYVILLE SEWING CIRCLES

Rather than a buying the usual exchange gifts at Christmas, the Senior Citizens Club of Canniffon and Corbyville decided at its recent meeting to donate money instead to the Pakistan Relief Fund for the children.

President Mrs. Edna Andrews conducted the meeting held in St. Mark's parish hall and welcomed members and visitors. Secretary Mrs. Elsie Brenton read the minutes of the previous meeting and gave the financial report.

Mrs. Hodgins who was in charge of the program read an appropriate poem and a reading was given by Mrs. Marshall. The singing of old favorite songs was enjoyed with piano accompaniment by Mrs. Eagleton and Mrs. Hodgins.

Following the program, bingo and other games were enjoyed, and to conclude the meeting a potluck dinner was served by the men and convened by Mrs. Jessie Howard.

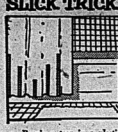
AN and AF AUXILIARY

There was a good turnout for the annual Christmas party of the AN and AF held a little early due to the busy Yuletide season.



At the opening, a time of silence was observed in memory of Aggie Browning, who passed away recently.

Luncheon was served, during which time a birthday cake was presented to honor Florence Fisher who was marking her 53rd birthday. Although taken by surprise the honored guest who has been a long time member of the Auxiliary expressed sincere appreciation to all.

A short business session was conducted and two new members, Jean Smith and Irene Stevens were initiated. It was reported three members were on the sick list.

Each member brought two gifts, one for an exchange of gifts and the other to be donated to the Mental Health Association. In addition canned goods were brought and made up into two hampers which were drawn with the winners of these being Jean Smith and Jean Mawdsley. A bingo game was played when a number of small prizes were given.

SLICK TRICK

Repair a tear in a plastic shower curtain with colorful decoration. Apply bright stripes of self-sticking cloth tape to both sides of the curtain, back-to-back, vertically or horizontally, depending on the tear. No one will know that one stripe is a repair.

UCW Meeting

ST. ANDREW'S UCW UNIT THREE

MADOC — Mrs. A. Clarke was hostess for the November meeting of the St. Andrew's UCW unit three on Wednesday afternoon, November 3.

Mrs. G. Holmes opened the meeting with a few thoughts about armistice.'

The minutes of the last meeting were read and approved. The roll call, a verse containing the word "peace" showed an attendance of 11 adults and three children.

The community friendship roll call was taken by Mrs. A. Clarke. The offering was taken and dedicated.

Highlights of the rally at Tweed were given by Mrs. A. Clarke, Mrs. F. Bailey and Mrs. G. Holmes. The study lights mentioned were the panel on women's lib and the worship service.

Mrs. A. McCoy gave a report on proceeds from the tea, bake sale and bazaar. Mrs. G. Holmes thanked the ladies for making it a success.

The next general meeting is at Queensboro on December 6 at 8 p.m.

Mrs. G. Holmes donated the study book, "Africa" and "Program Helps" to the unit. The value of this was four dollars.

The members were reminded of their gift to the mystery friend to be exchanged at the next meeting at the home of Mrs. Claude Keene. A bake sale will also be held at this meeting.

Mrs. L. Graham had the study book "French and English Relations". She read seeveral passages and a good discussion followed questions which Mrs. Graham asked. She closed with prayer.

Mrs. F. Stein was in charge of the worship service. It was based upon unison of faith and United Churches.

The nominating committee consists of Mrs. R. Rollins, Mrs. G. Holmes, and Mrs. H. Brady.

Lunch was served by the hostess and her assistants. A social half hour was spent.

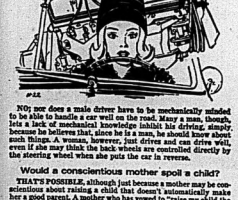
Deseronto Couples Mark 25th Wedding Anniversary

Mr. and Mrs. Roy Stapley of RR 1, Deseronto celebrated their 25th wedding anniversary on Saturday evening, November 6. Their son David Stapley and his wife drove them to the home of Mr. and Mrs. Glen Tucker of RR 6, Napanee where 40 relatives and friends were wait ing to surprise them. The most pleasant surprise of the evening was when their daughter Cathy arrived. She had recently accepted a position in Thunder Bay.

Cathy and David presented their parents with a corsage and boutonniere and invited the happy couple to the seats of honor at the head table which was centred with a white cake shaped like the numeral 25, floral arrangements and silver candles Other head table guests were the attendants at the wedding, Mrs. O. Glass, Jack Dafoe and Glen Tucker, also members of the immediate family.

Betty and Roy were presented with matching luggage sets and other gifts on behalf of those present. A sumptuous smorgasbord supper and social evening were enjoyed by all



Mrs. Stapley is the former Betty Waddington and they were married at Empey Hill on November 3, 1946. They have six children including David of Oshawa, Cathy of Thunder Bay, Jim, Mary, Lynne, Kevin and Sheila at home.

Mr. and Mrs. Stapley were again pleasantly surprised on Monday evening, November 8 when friends and neighbors arrived en masse at their home bearing food, tables, chairs and cards for a social evening. At the close of the evening Mrs. Ken Chadwick presented the couple with a painting on behalf of their neighbors.

Mirror of Your Mind

by JOHN CONWELL

Must a good woman driver be mechanically minded?

NO; nor does a male driver have to be mechanically minded to be able to handle a car well on the road. Many a man, though, lets a lack of mechanical knowledge inhibit his driving, simply because he believes that, since he is a man, he should know about such things. A woman, however, just drives and can drive well, even if she may think the back wheels are controlled directly by the steering wheel when she puts the car in reverse.

Would a conscientious mother spoil a child?

THAT'S POSSIBLE, although just because a mother may be conscientious doesn't mean a child that doesn't automatically make her a good parent. A mother who has vowed to "raise my child the best way I know how" might possibly be troubled by some unresolved emotional conflicts. As a consequence, she might spoil the child just to keep the youngster within range of her aprons trings in order to satisfy some failing in her own emotional or personality make-up.

Does fear of being caught keep us honest?

NO; not seldom. I know anyone honest; and most people are honest, despite the jokes about filling out income tax forms, etc. At random, be any other way, since there wouldn't be enough guards to keep everyone "straight." If there is any one factor that keeps someone honest it is the individual himself. Each person has to face himself, and that reality can be the greatest deterrent against being anything but honest.

UCW Presbyterial Meet

BELLEVILLE PRESBYTERIAL UCW

Once again the executive of Belleville Presbyterial UCW has secured an outstanding speaker for their annual meeting in the person of Dr. Ernest E. Long, BA, BD, DD, LLD, Secretary of General Council of the United Church of Canada. Plans for the event were made at King St. United Church, Trenton, when the executive held its fall meeting. Other details of the annual are: date, January 27, 1972; place, King St. United Church, Trenton; theme, personal involvement. Dr. Long will speak on the theme in the morning. The afternoon feature will follow the same theme using the question, "Are you an inner or an outer?"

Other business at the executive meeting consisted of reports by each officer. Supply and welfare secretary, Miss Helen Sexsmith, stated that parcels are again needed for Angola. Details will be sent to the locals. Year-end reports were also explained and deadlines set.

The devotional for the day was given by Mrs. Gage Smith assisted by Mrs. H. Pierson, President. Mrs. F. Spear closed the meeting with prayer.

Bible Clubs Hold Rally

A missionary speaker, Miss Joan Stapleton, from Hong Kong, was the feature attraction at a rally held for over 145 boys and girls from the local Good News Bible clubs. These clubs are under the auspices of Child Evangelism Fellowship of Ontario. The rally also featured group singing led by Mrs. F. Cummings and a Bible Lesson given by Mrs. J. Hills, a club teacher.

The rally was held November 11 at the Prince of Wales Public School auditorium. The above mentioned clubs meet weekly in a home for an hour right after school and are interdenominational in scope.

Slides Enjoyed by Senior Citizens

MADOC SENIOR CITIZENS

MADOC — An Armistice Day program brought out 36 members and five visitors for the regular meeting of the Madoc and district Senior Citizens' Club held last Thursday, November 11, in the United Church basement here.

President, Mrs. Broadworth, was in the chair and opened the meeting with a moment's silence in memory of the men and women who sacrificed their lives in two wars. This was followed by repeating the Lord's Prayer and the singing of O Canada.

Roll call was taken and the minutes of the previous meeting were read by the secretary, Miss Raney. A satisfactory treasurer's report was given by Mr. Johns.

Plans were made for entertaining the Peterborough Senior Citizens on November 24.

The meeting was then turned over to Mrs. Moorcroft, the program convenor. This portion of the meeting was opened by all singing two songs, with pianist, Mrs. Reid, who also accompanied the ensuing selection by the men's trio, Mr. Carman, Mr. Rutledge and Mr. Williams.

Mrs. Blakely read "why wear a poppy?" Mrs. McCoy read a paper, which had been prepared and sent in by a friend, Mrs. Janet Campbell. She began by reading a short sketch of Harry Lauder's life and told how his only son was killed on the battlefield of France. This was followed by the reading of a poem he had written following the death of his son and told how he had been given courage to carry on afterwards. In conclusion, she asked that the club members present join in singing a chorus of Harry Lauder's famous, "It's Nice to Get Up in the Morning".

The club members were very grateful to Mrs. Campbell for sending this paper along for their enjoyment.

Mr. and Mrs. Carman sang two numbers with accompaniment on the accordion by Mrs. Carman. Their talented presentation was greatly enjoyed.

Guest speaker was Rev. Thompson, who was introduced by Mrs. Broadworth. This was the fourth group to which the minister had spoken in the past two days, and the sentiments appreciated him taking the time to address them, with so fine a message. Mr. Thompson showed a group of slides depicting war scenes in England, which were very familiar to him as he had been a 14 - year - old boy in England at the time. He told about the bombing of his own church and making sand bags for the protection of hospitals, etc.

Mrs. Broadworth expressed the appreciation of the group to Rev. Thompson for coming out to speak to them.

The lunch committee served a bounteous lunch and a social half-hour brought the meeting to a close.

The next meeting will be held November 24 at the usual time and place.

Helpful Tips in Organizing for Working Mother

By DORIS CLARK

Dear Doris: Enclosed please find self-addressed envelope and 20 cents to cover charge for Tips for Harassed Housewives.

Do you have any suggestions for a mother planning part-time employment, concerning (1) organizing meals, and (2) recreation and family outings?—Trying to Swing It

Dear Trying: The "tips" will help some, and they are enclosed.

Casserole recipes are a godsend for the working mother. They can be made ahead and frozen or placed in your automatic oven with the timer set to come on an hour ahead of dinner.

Canned and frozen vegetables were simply made for you. Try instant potatoes, canned gravy, canned fruit, puddings, pies. When baking make double or triple it you have a way of keeping pies or cookies fresh for even a few days.

If you need food on your family outings — and who doesn't? — keep a large hamper perennially packed with plastic dishes, cutlery, salt, pepper, instant coffee, powdered cream, an old coffee pot and two old saucepans. Does your crew like swimming? Include a basket with bathing suits, towels, soap.

And here is something that others tend to forget: Your family not only belongs to you; they all belong to one another. The more they share the meal-getting, house organization, and packing for family outings, the more fun they'll have.

Dear Doris: My son's wife died two years ago and we have had his three boys, ages 12, 10 and eight. He married again two months ago but they have made no move to take the boys because it is so hard to rent a place with children.

My husband goes on pension next year and we just do not have the money. My son pays little for the boys because he just can't.

Sometimes I feel I would just like to run away. I am a — Discouraged Gramma

Dear Gramma: You have been imposed on long enough. A father who has been lucky enough to have his sons cared for by a loving grandmother for two years ought to know when it is time to take over.

Involved in this discussion must be your son, his new wife, your husband and yourself. Either the boys' father throws them all in to live with him, or finds enough money to lighten your load; if your health and spirits are equal to this continuing task.

Your son's new wife is the boys' stepmother and should be taking care of them. Any compromise you are willing to grant ought to be accepted graciously and by making a more than generous financial arrangement.

Dear Doris: I read a letter from a girl who has nearly the same problem as mine. My friend gets mad at me when she loves.

You tell her that "When your best friend threatens to break — deliberately think of something else". I have tried this but my mind always runs back to him.

This girl has been plotting to steal him for some time, I tell myself that if she can do it, then he isn't worth worrying over, but I become so depressed! My mother says to get out and meet other people, but I don't know where to find another boy friend. All I really want is Dick. — Girl in Love

Dear Girl: Funny thing — but others always do turn up — unless you keep yourself locked up in a closet. And if your dilemma runs true to form you'll like the next boy better than this one.

Growing up is enlarging your circle of friends, developing new likes and enthusiasms, until very soon you look back on those earlier desperate crushes with amusement — plus a little sheepish self-pity. Take your mother's advice and mine.

Every day Doris hears from readers who report success after taking her advice on a human dilemma. Let her help you with yours.

Ann Landers

A Thank-you Letter to the Other Woman

Dear Ann Landers: Recently I admitted defeat and turned my 28-year-old husband over to his 18-year-old girl friend. For a while I was miserable and bitter. Now I see things in a different light. Enclosed is my letter to her. She will probably laugh it off, but it might help some other woman who is faced with the agony I just went through.

Dear Friend:

A few months ago I hated you because I was sure you ruined my life. Now I want to thank you for liberating me from hell. You have given me a second chance at happiness. I need no longer rush home from work to prepare supper—in case he decided to come home, which he usually didn't. I need no longer dread going to a public place in the evening with my mate, a co-worker or a friend, for fear of running into you and my husband, which happened too many times. Now I can stop feeling guilty and inferior, blaming myself for failing as a wife, because I realize it was he who failed as a husband. I tried to make our marriage work. He didn't.

So thank you, dear friend. And good luck with the bum. You're going to need it.—Outsville And Glad

Dear Out: Here is your Freedom Song. I'm sure you feel better for having written it. I wonder how many women out there will think it was intended for them?

Dear Ann Landers: My wife called my attention to your reply to "Mr. From Plumfield" in which you stated, with reference to garbage collectors: "Today's title is Sanitation Engineer."

Please be advised that "Sanitation Engineer" is a professional who utilizes science and technology in planning and operating systems for the maintenance and improvement of environmental sanitation. A sanitation engineer spends anywhere from four to 10 years of his life in a university and should not be confused with a person who collects garbage.

I am enclosing a brochure describing a study program which must be followed in order to obtain a doctorate in the fields of environmental engineering. S.E.E., P.E., PhD.—Tulane University

Dear Dr. S: I stand corrected. Several sanitation engineers wrote to set me straight. (Also a few garbage collectors wrote to say thanks.)

Dear Ann Landers: My sister Arleen is 31. She was married for eight years and finally had a baby at age 27. Arleen decided last year to divorce her husband for doing her wrong (which he surely did.) She works downtown and lives with us—mom, dad and me. Arleen dated very little at first, but now she has a steady fellow.

The problem is that I feel sorry for my folks. They waited 22 years to be free of kids and responsibilities, and now they are like raising Arleen's little girl. I think it is very unfair. The folks never go out weekends anymore because they have to babysit.

Should I say something to Arleen?—Family Trouble In Nashville

Dear Fam: If your mom and dad feel imposed on, they should say something to Arleen. Since she is working, she can pay a sitter one evening a week or more — and you can help out now and then as a favor to your folks.

Favorite Dishes For Festive Meal

COLORFUL VEGETABLE dish, Fruited Acorn Squash, filled with calories reduced fruit, makes eating easy on waistline.

By ALICE DENHOFF

For a late fall celebration, make variety the key to menu planning. Fruited acorn squash, for example, is a nice accompaniment to a turkey or roast.

FRUITED ACORN SQUASH
3 acorn squash
1 tablespoon melted butter
1 teaspoon salt
1 can (8-ounces) calories reduced applesauce
¼ teaspoon nutmeg
¼ teaspoon cinnamon
1 can (8-ounce) calories reduced fruit cocktail
1 tablespoon brown sugar

Wash squash; cut in lengthwise halves and remove seeds. Brush cut surfaces lightly with melted butter; sprinkle with salt. Arrange halves, cut side down, in large shallow bakin dish. Surround with ½ inch hot water. Bake at 375 degrees F. for 30 minutes. Pour off excess liquid from dish and turn squash cut side up. Mix applesauce, nutmeg and cinnamon; spoon into squash.

Drain fruit cocktail; blend brown sugar with liquid from fruit. Top applesauce with drained fruit and a spoonful of fruit liquid. Bake about 20 minutes longer, until squash is cooked, basting several times with remaining fruit liquid.

Makes 6 servings, 198 calories per segvin.

Serve this:

PINEAPPLE RELISH
1 can (15½ ounces) calories reduced crushed pineapple
¼ cup minced celery
1 tablespoon cortsarch
1 tablespoon vinegar
2 tablespoons finely chopped, crystalized ginger
2 tablespoons finely chopped maraschino cherries

Place pineapple and celery in a saucepan. Mix cornstarch and vinegar. Gradually stir mixture into pineapple. Cook over low heat, stirring constantly, until thickened. Cool. Fold in ginger and cherries. Chill until ready to serve. Makes 2 cups; 8 servings, 65 calories per serving of a rich relish.

For a turkey leftover that certainly isn't like a turkey leftover, do this:

TURKEY MOUSSE
2 cans (16 ounces each) calories reduced peach halves
3 envelopes unflavored gelatine
1 can (10½ ounces) condensed cream of celery soup
1 can (10½ ounces) condensed cream of mushroom soup
2 cups diced cooked turkey
2 tablespoons cider vinegar
1 cup chopped celery
1 cup cooked peas
1 can (4 ounces) pimiento, drained and sliced

Drain peaches. Mix juice from peaches and gelatine. Stir over low heat until gelatine is dissolved. Stir into soups. Chill until slightly thickened. Arrange some of the peach slices in a pretty pattern on the bottom of a 2½-quart mold. Fold remaining peaches and remaining ingredient into gelatine. Spoon mixture carefully over peaches in mold to keep them from moving. Chill until firm. To unmold, dip mold into luke-warm water, tap to loosen and invert on platter. Nice with a garnish of salad greens.

Makes 10 servings of 204 calories each—a delicious, attractive main-course dish.

UCW MEETINGS

FRANKFORD UCW UNIT 2

FRANKFORD — Unit two of the UCW met at the home of Mrs. Ray Rumney on Tuesday evening, November 9.

Mrs. Rumney, the leader, welcomed the women and read the purpose and function of the United Church Women. The secretarial report was approved as read followed by the treasurer's report given by Mrs. Ken Roote.

Several announcements were read which included the Stockdale bazaar and tea. Wooler bazaar and tea and the Faith festival at the Bridge Street United Church.

The nominating chairman, Mrs. Betty White presented the slate of officers for the coming year.

A successful auction sale was then conducted by Beth Rumney. Following the auction, a skit entitled "Who Me?" was played by Rita Chard, Laurraine Bauer, Joyce Jones, Betty White and Lois Rumney. The skit was followed by an open discussion.

A delicious lunch and the Hebrew benediction brought the meeting to a close.

Nursing Sisters Will Leave For India

HALIFAX (CP)—Two Nova Scotia nursing sisters will spend the next six months looking after lepers, abandoned children and people dying destitute in Calcutta.

Sister Margaret MacDonald of Sydney and Sister Susan Duggan of East Dover, 1971 graduates of the Halifax Infirmary School of Nursing, answered a call for volunteers from Mother Teresa of Calcutta.

Mother Teresa, a Yugoslav nun, won this year's Pope John XXIII Peace Prize for her 20 years of work among the sick and poor in northern India.

In Calcutta she operates a hospital for the dying destitute, a home for abandoned children and a hospital for lepers.

She has decided to take at group of her nursing sisters to East Pakistan to minister to the needs of the homeless and sick in that strife-torn country.

To free her Indian sisters for the Pakistan mission, she asked for 20 North American volunteers to work in Calcutta.

The Nova Scotia sisters expect to spend at least six months and perhaps a year in India. When they return home, they expect to be replaced by two other sisters from Halifax.

PCs In B.C. Chose Leader

VANCOUVER (CP) — Derril Warren, newly-elected leader of the British Columbia Progressive Conservative party, says the fortunes of his party, currently unrepresented in the provincial legislature, are on the upswing.

Social Credit, he said, is going downhill, and Conservative power in Victoria "isn't very far away".

The 33-year-old Vancouver lawyer, who joined the party only last summer, ousted economist John de Wolf, party leader since June, 1969, at Saturday's leadership convention.

Mr. Warren led all the way as 384 delegates took four ballots and more than 2½ hours to make their decision. He had 218 final votes to Mr. de Wolf's 146.

Retired urologist Dr. Magnus Verbrugge of Vancouver dropped out after the third ballot; John Green, publisher of the Agassiz weekly newspaper, was out after two ballots, and Vancouver alderman Art Phillips finished a distant fifth.

Mr. Warren stressed the need for unity among the B.C. Conservatives—one faction of which forced the leadership convention without the support of Mr. de Wolf. At one point Mr. de Wolf threatened to withdraw from the convention.

Mr. Warren said upon his election: "There are no more divisions within this party.

"Today we have a party, and if we can put it all together we can achieve our goal."

He told party members it was their duty to support their leader "in the front lines" instead of trying to split the party apart.

Mr. Warren promised to tour the province extensively, pointing out that of the 55 seats in the legislature, 33 are rural and 22 urban.

The party will "go nowhere," he said, without rural support.

When the Hosts Thank the Guests

The Charles F. Corrigans of Chicago took on as a blood donation project to give blood — the price of a dinner the Corrigans hold semi-annually. The Corrigans and their four sons, plus two grandchildren, are hemophiliacs, necessitating an annual donation of 1,500 pints of blood. The semi-annual dinner parties are the Corrigans' thanks to the 250-plus relatives, friends and neighbors who donate the gift of life to the family.

Abortion Advocates Demonstrate While Opponents March Silently

OTTAWA (CP) — A militant group of young women demanding the repeal of Canada's abortion laws, and a smaller silent group of persons opposed to abortion demonstrated on Parliament Hill Saturday.

Heading the silent counter-protest was a Toronto obstetrician and gynecologist, Dr. Heather Morris, president of the 10,000-member Alliance for Life.

Grace Hargraves, president of Action Life, a newly-formed Ottawa affiliate of the Alliance for Life, presented a statement to MP Ralph Stewart (L—Cochrane) opposing any repeal or relaxation of abortion laws.

To make their point the Alliance and Action Life group carried placards showing a number of 18- to 24-week-old fetuses lying dead in a hospital disposal bag.

The pro-abortion demonstration was staged by the Ontario Women's Abortion Law Repeal Coalition.

Led by Wendy Johnston of Toronto, the coalition group chanted songs and carried signs reading "The Uterus is not government property" and "Law discriminates against some abortions."

There were no incidents.

VANCOUVER (CP) — An anti-abortion rally Saturday attracted more than twice the number of people that took part in a demonstration in favor of liberalizing abortion laws held earlier in the day.

The pro-abortion protest, sponsored by the British Columbia Abortion Law Repeal Coalition, attracted about 75 men and women to a march through downtown Vancouver.

The small turnout heard several speakers call for an end to legal restrictions in favor of abortion on demand.

The anti-abortion demonstration included about 175 demonstrators, police said, on its march from the Vancouver General Hospital to the Pacific Press building, which houses Vancouver's two daily newspapers.

The march, sponsored by the Voice of the Unborn, was addressed by Dr. Calin Harrison, radiologist, and Ross La Brie, an English lecturer at the University of British Columbia.

Meanwhile, Justice Minister John Turner's statement that abortion should be a "private option" in Canada was applauded by the B.C. Women's Abortion Action Coalition.

Mr. Turner made the comment Thursday to a group of students at York University in Toronto.

Deliberately Set Fire Takes Lives of Seven

PONTIAC, Mich. (AP) — A fire which authorities said was deliberately set swept through a house early Sunday, killing seven persons.

The dead included a woman and four of her five children.

Fire Marshal Charles Metz said it appeared that an inflammable fluid had been poured on the wooden porch and ignited, and that the front door had been kicked open and the fluid poured inside the house.

Police Sgt. Herbert Cosley said: "There are no suspects, but it appears we have seven murders on our hands.

Five of the victims were identified as Mrs. Freddie Mae Colsey, 35, her three-year-old son Melton, and three daughters, Cindy, 6, Rosalie, 9, and Dorothy, 16.

A fifth Colsey child, Linda Fae, 12, leaped from her second-storey bedroom window to the ground escaping serious injury.

The other victims were Albert Henderson, 26, and John Brown, 20.

Police revealed that Mrs. Colsey had reported several other fires recently at different houses in which she lived. Officers said they were investigating connections between the fires.

Henderson was identified as a boy-friend of Mrs. Colsey, who police said was long separated from her husband.

Jacky's Aunt Has Dirty Home

EAST HAMPTON, N.Y. (AP) — Health officials have ordered an elderly aunt and cousin of Jacqueline Kennedy Onassis to clean up their 20-room mansion or face eviction.

The house, called Grey Gardens, was said to be filthy with cat and human excrement, piles of empty dog food cans, cobwebs and fleas.

The house has been occupied since 1923 by Edith Bouvier Beale, sister of Mrs. Onassis' late father, and Mrs. Beale's daughter, Edith Bouvier Beale.

Miss Beale conceded that the house "may be a bit untidy" because the handyman had a heart attack last summer and "everything seemed to accumulate after Labor Day."

Employees Win Herd of Cattle

ELMIRA (CP) — Thirty-two head of beef are fattening up at Paul Druish' farm at Erin and Terra Cotta and Dec. 15.

And then Mr. Durish, 35, president of McKee Brothers Ltd., will give the herd to his 120 employees as a Christmas gift. He made the promise last spring on the condition they increase their output by August, and they did.

Each worker at the snowblower manufacturing company should net about 150 pounds of beef for his freezer on Dec. 15, Mr. Durish' birthday.

Palsy Victim Gets BA

TORONTO (CP) — David Freeman got the last, proud, defiant laugh Friday night.

The 25-year-old victim of cerebral palsy, who was expected to spend his life in a workshop for the handicapped, collected his bachelor of arts degree from McMaster University in Hamilton.

Mr. Freeman said in an interview he'd wanted to graduate for only one reason: "Because they said I couldn't do it."

Now he has his degree to wave in the face of all the meatheads, as he calls them, who thought he was kind of a joke around the campus for four years.

"Maybe I just want to prove the joke is on them," he said.

Freeman is a writer whose highly-acclaimed play Creeps is being performed here. He has completed another play and is working on a film script and a book.

Socreds Seeking Young

CALGARY (CP) — The Alberta Social Credit League wound up its 37th annual convention Saturday deciding it needs younger blood and better communication with the public.

"One of the most important functions is to contact people by whatever means required," said Opposition Leader Harry Strom.

The former Alberta premier, whose position as Social Credit leader was unanimously endorsed at a closed meeting earlier in the day, said the other parties have outhustled Social Credit in youth involvement.

Alberta Indian Group To Refuse Federal Aid

OTTAWA (CP) — The Indian Association of Alberta will refuse further federal money for native programs, president Harold Cardinal said Sunday.

Interviewed on the CBC network program Weekend, Mr. Cardinal, a young Alberta Indian organizer, said the association last Thursday decided it could no longer remain independent while continuing to be financed by Ottawa.

The decision means the end of the association in Alberta, Mr. Cardinal said, and 45 persons currently working for the association will be laid off.

Mr. Cardinal had with him what he said was an official cabinet document listing funds that would be made available in the next four years for Indian programs.

The document approved in principle the concept of Indian cultural education centres and would establish a five-year renewable program budged by $10 million for such a program.

Mr. Cardinal said he was unsure how the association received the document but that it might have been leaked in order "the size of the stick" the government held over Indian programs.

Mr. Cardinal said he received the document in September then sent it telegram to Marc Lalonde, principal secretary to Prime Minister Trudeau, Oct. 4 asking why there was a delay in receiving federal funds and suggesting that it was an attempt to break the association.

Mr. Lalonde replied Oct. 5 by telegram, that the association should not make such ridiculous charges.

Mr. Cardinal said he felt the federal government thought the Indian association was responsible for strikes at St.-Paul and Edmonton over the fall and that it had held up the funds promised in the cabinet document in order to buy off the association.

Indians, Eskimos Unsettled in South

INUVIK, N.W.T. (CP) — Indian and Eskimo students become so unsettled attending universities in southern Canada they must return home to learn to be human, a conference studying the feasibility of a University of Canada North was told Sunday.

Addy Tobiak, 28, of Fort Good Hope, N.W.T., a third-year psychology student at the University of Calgary, described the struggle faced by Indian and Eskimo students in 85 delegates in this two-day conference ended.

"Our people have been bombarded by new changes in the last two to five years than in the previous 50 and what happened in the pre-industrial revolution era of Europe is happening in us now."

She said contemporary life on southern Canadian university campuses is so unsettling "you have to come back and learn from the people you left."

"You can get all the academic training down south but you have to come back to your people to learn to be human."

Gordon Duncan, a 17-year-old Whitehorse, Yukon high school student, suggested a program could be established in the territories.

"Send us a professor and 15 students, we will assist them and learn from the professor."

James Arvaluk, 24, of Frobisher Bay, N.W.T., described an experiment in which he and six friends established their own university and asked university graduates working in the area to provide lectures.

All the northern students emphasized they wanted a new style of university, one which would include them "in the role of life."

Rev. Andre Renaud of Saskatoon, chairman of the Indian and northern education program at the University of Saskatchewan, said universities "must now make provision for the descendants of the first Canadians."

"Please grab this opportunity before the new north comes rushing in and it is too late."

He said northern Canadians must ensure they are involved in the concept of the university of the north.

Dr. Louis-Edmond Hamelin, professor of Nordic studies at Laval University, Quebec, said the curriculum of any proposed northern university should be "produced around the things of the north."

He said departments should include Eskimology—which he described as the study of Eskimo history, language, habitat and cultural anthropology—biogeography permafrost engineering, political science and economics.

He also suggested the university should undertake a study of Eskimo and Indian rights.

Lose 5-3 to Barrie

Quintes Give March Performance

By ERIC EMERSON
Sports Staff

The Belleville Quintes gave a March hockey performance in November during their Saturday night meeting with Barrie. They came in like lions and they went out like lambs.

For the first 40 minutes of Saturday's game you had to wonder just how Barrie could have beaten them 11-3 Friday night. For the final 20 you wondered why the score was ONLY 5-3 in the Saturday bout.

In the final period the Flyers scored two unanswered goals while outshooting the hosts team 13-7 and dominating play by an even wider margin than these totals indicated.

It was an almost total turnabout for the Quintes who played well over the first two periods and except for a couple of defensive lapses and missed scoring opportunities, could have been well on their way towards snapping the six-game loss string that they carried into the contest.

Ralph Plane set the tone for the early going when he poke-axed Barrie's standout Corey Adams after only one minute of play. The Mo-Hawk captain received a five minute high sticking penalty, but his Flyer counterpart was forced to miss the entire first period, relying to the dressing room for repairs.

The visitors could manage only one goal out of their five minute manpower advantage. The score came when Pat Monahan was left unchecked in front of the Belleville goal.

Al Ferguson squared matters at 1-1 on a power play effort at 1.23. The big Belleville right winger counted his 15th goal of the season by ramming in a rebound after Barrie goalie Lloyd Vaughan had made three previous stops in the goalmouth scramble.

Lorne O'Donnell whipped a backhander past Vaughn later in the period to send his team to the dressing room with a 2-1 lead. Dave Jones tallied over at centre from George Godson who was unable to make the game because of work commitments, did the spade work on O'Donnell's score.

Jones pulled the home team ahead in the second period once more after Bob Cunningham's tally had knotted the score at 2-2. The former playing - coach banged in his own rebound after Vaughn had made the initial stop on his deflection of O'Donnell's drive.

Monahan squared matters for Barrie with his second goal of the game as for the third time in the game the Quinte defence allowed a virtual free shot by an uncovered opponent.

Jim Thompson scored what proved to be the eventual winner when his low shot from the left wing boards sailed past Rexe. The final Barrie tally came with only seven seconds remaining in the game when Bob Baird, again uncovered near the Belleville goal crease lifted a high shot over Rexe.

Rexe Ready

Goalie Steve Rexe of the Belleville Quintes alertly dives on a loose puck in their Saturday night OHA Senior A bout with the Barrie Flyers. Two unanswered goals in the final period by the second place Barrie entry sent the Quintes tumbling to their seventh consecutive defeat. Rexe was called on to handle 35 shots in the 5-3 Belleville loss.

Finlay "Corky" McCorquodale of the Quinte Curling Club delivers a rock during the OCA competition held in Belleville this weekend. The event was a team competition between members of the Grand National Association of the United States and the Ontario Curling Association. The American group finally emerged with a win for their third victory in the five years that the event has been held.

American Curlers Win

By COLIN BRUCE
Staff Reporter

An international curling meet held in the Belleville Curling Club at the fairgrounds this weekend, showed the American Grand National Curling Association coming out as 201 to 177 winners over the Ontario Curling Association.

This was the fifth such meeting of the American and Canadian groups, and members of both sides agree that this is not a competition for the sake of winning, but an exercise in good fellowship.

Eight teams made the journey from the States to take part in the annual event, motoring from cities such as New York, Rochester, Utica, Winchester and Buffalo. It was the third victory for the Grand National group.

Ontario teams came from Galt, Clinton, Kingston, Orillia and Toronto.

Three games were played each day, beginning at 9 a.m. with the final games being played 9 p.m. Saturday. The games went 10 ends while the next day's games went eight.

The first day's games were close in points showing only a four point differences between the two teams. The final points of Saturday were 108 to 104 for the Grand National Association.

By Sunday, the Grand National had started to increase its lead over the Ontario clubs offering game totals of 31 to 21, 35 to 22 and their final game of 37 to 30.

"As we've said before," said a spokesman for the Belleville Curling Club, "these people are definitely not playing their best game. They are out there to have fun. Every time we go to the States, we win down there. When the Americans come up here they win."

Algonquin Cats Claw Loyalist

The Algonquin basketballers sacked Loyalist 77-41, while the hockey Cats were wracking up a 7-4 victory over the Lancers.

A 21-point effort from Rick Kilfoyle was the major contribution in Algonquin's basketball victory. Despite the victory, winning coach Pete Benedeck felt that "we should do better".

Rookie Hubert Hicks came up with a sparkling 17 point effort for the Cats while Rick Webster counted 16 points.

Algonquin dominated the hockey meeting but were kept in range by the sharp netminding of Bryan Retzer and Ron Cassidy.

Barriage Girls Lose Two

It was double trouble for the Mel Barriage Womens Hockey entry this weekend as they dropped a pair of games.

Sunday Barriages took an 8-0 loss at the hands of Kingston, while the Belleville girls also lost 6-1 in Stirling Saturday.

Cookie Cartwright paced Kingston to their 8-0 Sunday win by potting three goals, while Wanda Gyde posted the shutout. Playing well for Barriages were Nora Flieger, Sue Morton scored the only Belleville goal.

In Saturday's game Sue Morton scored the only Belleville goal.

Keller Proves Golf Killer

Keller proved to be a killer at the Oak Hill golf course this season. Prudent golfer Doug Keller killed off eight opponents in match play en route to the club championship of the Stirling course.

The Bala employee was honored at a banquet Saturday night, receiving a trophy and a donation of $100 from Don Williams. Runner-up for the title was Frank Noble.

Kinsmen Bantams Get Bad Break

It was a bad break in every sense of the word for the Belleville Kinsmen Bantams when Eric Powell slid into the boards during their OMHA bout with Gananoque Sunday.

The Belleville forward suffered a broken arm in the collision opening the door for Gananoque to come back for a 4-4 split. Powell had personally built a 3-1 lead for the Kinsmen with a hat trick goal scoring performance. Bob Thompson scored the other goal for Belleville, who were outscored 3-1 in the final period after Powell was taken from the ice.

The Towers Food City Novices, on the other hand, appeared to be intent on breaking the scoreboard handling Gananoque 13-3 Sunday. Ian Mark Crawford showed the way for Towers with a three goal effort while Kevin Meagher, Darrell Colman and Steve Morina fired two goals each. Also scoring for the winners were John Henry, Billy Rowe, Rick Cartwright and Glenn McQuaid. Towers outshot Gananoque 39-16.

It was a different story Saturday in Gananoque, with Towers emerging with a 3-0 victory. Henry counted twice for Belleville with Tim Soule picking up the other marker. Donald Cook and Garth Scully recorded the shutout.

Rollins peewees also recorded a pair of wins over Gananoque on the weekend, taking a 6-2 decision Saturday and winning 4-1 on home ice Sunday.

Paul Hipkin led the way Saturday with a two goal effort, while Andy Lapenstie and Gary Frederick counted one each. In Sunday's bout the scoring was divided equally among Bob Crawford, Mike Bennett, Frederick, Peter Hall and John Hannigan.

The Blake Kerr Imperial midgets picked up a 4-3 win over perennial Trenton rivals on the strength of two goals by Paul Ackerman and singles by Mike Watt and Steve Kerr.

The Esso Car Wash lost in the last minute when Darrell Townsend scored for Kingston to give them a 4-3 win. Danny Duffy, David Harris and John Armstrong scored for Belleville, while Gary McInroy gave a fine all-round effort.

Fairways Swamp Picton 9-2

The Belleville Fairways, who have had a history of losing the close ones so far this season showed that they can handle the runaway bouts with no trouble as they pasted Picton 9-2 Sunday.

The Belleville B's built up a 4-0 lead over the first two frames and then went on to outscore the new Eastern Ontario Junior B entry 5-3 over the final 20 minutes.

The encounter proved to be a slam bang affair with no less than four fighting and eight roughing penalties being dished out to the two teams.

Left winger Jeff Howard enjoyed his most productive night in a Belleville uniform sinking three goals and adding an assist on the first tally by Bill Jackett.

Jackett came up with a pair of markers to trail Howard for Belleville goalscoring honors. Other Fairway scorers went to Dave Horwood, Peter Ackerman, Tim Yehs and Brian O'Coin.

Bob Harrison had a shutout bid going until 3.33 of the final period when Gary Elliot scored for Picton. Their other goal was scored by Allen Garrison. The lanky Belleville goalie faced 22 shots in the contest, while his Picton counterpart Greg Dafoe was bombarded with 53 drives.

The victory was the fourth in nine outings for the Fairways this season and the second in as many meetings with Picton. Their next game will be Friday night when they journey to Oshawa for an 8 p.m. bout with the second place Crushmen.

Smiths Falls Bears increased their lead to four points in the Central Junior Hockey League Sunday with a 7-4 win over Pembroke Lumber Kings.

The Bears now have 24 points, four ahead of second-place Ottawa Rangers.

In another Sunday game, Hull Volants scored five third-period goals to defeat visiting Brockville Braves 6-3.

Hull's win gave them 16 points. Pembroke has 13 and Brockville nine in the five-team league.

In Pembroke, Shawn Howard scored three goals and Terry Fournier a pair for Smiths Falls while John Gravelle and Al Johnston each scored single goals. Murray Thrasher, Steve Croucher, Gayle Linton and Dave McNeil scored for Pembroke.

Hull got two goals from Dan Moreau and one each from Kelly Rutherford, Bern Duguay, Serge Pruchnome and Steve Desloges. Scoring for Brockville were Dave Dinks, Steve Keech and Dave Wilson.

Ottawa travels to Hull Tuesday to take on the Volants while Smiths Falls meets the Braves in Brockville.

Ferguson Helps Marlies to Win

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

All ten teams in the Ontario Hockey Association Junior A series saw action Sunday and the top four changed places in the standings.

Ottawa 67s defeated Oshawa Generals 8-3 at Oshawa, giving both teams 28 points but leaving Ottawa technically ahead with 13 wins, five losses to Oshawa's 12 wins, four losses and two ties.

Kitchener Rangers dropped an 8-4 game to Toronto Marlboros and slipped to fourth place from second.

Peterborough Petes moved up to third place with 25 points by tying Montreal Junior Canadiens 3-3 in Montreal. The tie marked the 12th consecutive game without a win for the Junior Habs, in last place with five points.

In other games, Hamilton Red Wings defeated London Knights 2-1 at London, and St. Catharines Black Hawks ended a nine-game losing streak by trouncing sixth-place Niagara Falls Flyers 8-2.

In the Oshawa-Ottawa game, Rob Bobbette and Brian McSheffrey each scored twice for Ottawa and Wayne Merrick, Jim Cowell, Blake Dunlop and Paul Shenard scored once each. Nelson Pyatte, Don Selling and Walt Johnson scored for Oshawa.

A Toronto crowd of 8,413 watched the Marlies game with Rangers. The line of Dave Gardner, Steve Shutt and Bill Harris was especially effective. Gardner scoring twice and Shutt once. John Cowan, Kevin Devine, Fred Prosser, Paulin Bordeleau and George Ferguson got singles. Dan Hinton, Bill Barber, Al Blanchard and Chuck Blair scored once each for Kitchener.

Ranger Offence Keeps Burning NHL Opponents

By IAN MacLAINE
Canadian Press Staff Writer

What a difference a year can make.

New York Rangers went through the 1970-71 season steeped in defence but lacking the explosive machinery that zoomed them to chase Boston Bruins throughout the National Hockey League's East Division schedule.

The Rangers have all the defensive strengths again for 1971-72, but a lot more offence through the wheelings and dealings of manager-coach Emile Francis and the sudden emergence of the Jean Ratelle-Vic Hadfield-Rod Gilbert line, fondly referred to around New York as the Big Line.

The New Yorkers had all their shooters on the firing line Sunday night with Ratelle scoring four times in a 12-1 rout of California Golden Seals. The Rangers at one league mark, tied another and rookie Pierre Jarry set a team mark by scoring his first two NHL goals — eight seconds apart.

Two other New York goals were given rookie Gene Carr, obtained in a recent trade with St. Louis Blues.

In the Sunday night action, Boston clipped St. Louis 6-2, Toronto Maple Leafs edged Buffalo Sabres 4-3, Vancouver Canucks and Detroit Red Wings stayed even at 2-2 draw and Chicago Black Hawks reclaimed first place in the West with a 7-3 win over Pittsburgh Penguins while Minnesota North Stars were held to a 1-1 tie by Philadelphia Flyers.

Saturday night Toronto downed California 5-1, Minnesota upset New York 4-1, Boston edged Chicago 3-2, Philadelphia tied Montreal Canadiens 2-2, Los Angeles Kings stopped Detroit 3-1 and St. Louis tripped Pittsburgh 4-2.

The North Stars get an opportunity to take over the West Division lead Tuesday night when they visit Vancouver while St. Louis is at home to Los Angeles.

The Rangers ripped eight goals past California's rookie goaltending tandem of Gilles Meloche and Lyle Carter in the third period en route to establishing one NHL mark—23 scorers in one period—and tying another—eight goals, set by Detroit Red Wings in 1944 and tied two years ago by Boston.

The Red Wings and Bruins shared the previous mark for most points scored by a team in one period—22.

The Rangers was also a team high for the Rangers shone previous high was 11 goals.

Jarry's scores ended a scoring drought of 11 games for the Montreal native who last year led the Central Hockey League with 46 goals and 92 points. His first, at 13:53 of the third period prompted Seals' coach Vic Stasiuk to replace Meloche. He greeted Jarry with his second goal eight seconds later.

Allowed little in the offensive display was goaltender Gilles Villemure's ninth game without a loss, the only unbeaten netminder in the NHL this year, and the eighth straight game in which the 31-year-old sophomore has allowed just one goal.

Hadfield, who picked up a goal and two assists, and Gilbert who assisted on four goals are deadlocked in second place in the scoring race, each with 32 points, two behind Boston's Phil Esposito. Ratelle is just two points behind, trailing Bruin defenceman Bobby Orr by one point.

Hot Line's biggest plus factor is its over-all balance with Hadfield and Ratelle each scoring 14 goals this season to 13 for Gilbert.

Mike Walton led Boston's home ice win with two goals and an assist while Esposito collected one of each. The Bruins broke open the tight game with three second-period goals in the third period by Esposito, Johnny Bucyk and Walton, all within a space of four minutes.

Toronto defenceman Jim Dorey stepped from the penalty box for the Buffalo and took a breakaway pass from Norm Ullman to put Maple Leafs' winning goal at 7:25 of the third period.

The win moved Toronto, fourth in the East, seven points ahead of Vancouver and Detroit and sent the Sabres to the basement.

Dorey's score came just as Leafs successfully killed Gerald Off Buffalo's manpower advantage for two minutes and 50 seconds—including one minute and 10 seconds in which the Sabres had two extra skaters.

The Chicago victory, launched by first period goals by Stan Mikita, his first of two in the game, Bobby Hull, Pit Martin and Andre Lacroix, extended Chicago's win string at home this year to nine without a loss.

Defenceman Joe Watson's first goal of the season early in the third period tied the score at Philadelphia just when the surprising North Stars appeared headed for their 14th win of the season.

But the Minnesotans weren't through and only Flyer goalie Doug Favell's diving save off Ted Harnman on a breakaway midway through the final 20 minutes prevented the Stars from hanging on to a share of first in the West.

Detroit could only find Vancouver goalie George Gardner with 15 shots but took advantage of two defensive lapses to overcome a 2-0 deficit.

Tie Last Game 17-17

Argos Refuse to Fold in Final

TORONTO (CP) — Toronto Argonauts and Joe Theismann proved to critics Saturday they wouldn't fold under pressure by holding Hamilton Tiger-Cats to a 17-17 standoff to win the Eastern Football Conference title.

The Argos had been close several times over the last 19 years, but Saturday's game produced their first tie since 1952 as they took the two-game total-point series 34-33 on the strength of a 23-8 win at Hamilton the previous weekend.

Theismann's critics haven't been around that long. But the 5-foot-10, 180-pound native Ashcroft, B.C., product has had his share of criticism here as well as during his college career.

He lean six-foot frame carries only 175 pounds and he has spent the last four or five years making detractors, who judged him too small to be a good pro quarterback eat their words.

Saturday's game under extreme pressure Saturday not only from Argos' long-time rejuctance to win the big game but from a steamed-up Hamilton defense that appeared ready to make mincemeat of anyone implying dissension on the club and that coach Al Ruffo were finished.

He came through impressively, directing a formidable running game over Exhibition Stadium's mud-covered field for 154 yards—88 by Leon McQuay—and completing 10 of 16 passes for 118 yards.

The six completions weren't an overwhelming statistic in the game, by comparison to Hamilton quarterback Wally Gabler's 19 completions in 35 attempts for 213 yards.

But he didn't have any interceptions, after throwing three in the Hamilton game, and long completions took the Argos out of trouble from the area of their own goal posts.

Another went with needle-like accuracy to tight end Mel Profit for a touchdown, just out of the reach of Hamilton defensive back Garney Henley who had a clear run for the Argo goaline had he made a successful pick-

Mustangs Kick Gives College Bowl Victory

TORONTO (CP) — University of Western Ontario Mustangs of London, Ont., captured the Vanier Trophy in the East Saturday on the toe of kicked Paul Knill.

There were fewer than four minutes remaining in the Canadian College Bowl football game before 12,740 spectators in Varsity Stadium when Knill booted a 37-yard field goal climax between the upstarts to give Western a 15-14 victory over University of Alberta Golden Bears from Edmonton.

It was the first time in the close game that Mustangs were ahead, after trailing the Bears 7-0, 7-5 and 14-12 by quarters.

The contest, which drew the second largest crowd in the seven-year history of College Bowls attempts to televised nationally by the CBC, was locked upon by Jim Dooley, coach of the Bears and Frank Cosentino, coach of the Mustangs, as "a credit to Canadian college football."

Knill, an excellent punter and placement kicker, got seven of the winners' points on the board with two field goals and a convert on a touchdown by Terry Harvey. Western's other two points were counted by Percy Kosak on a safety touch.

Bob McGregor, a powerful fullback who won the Teddy Morris Memorial Trophy as the outstanding player of the game scored two touchdowns for Alberta and both were converted by quarterback Joe Petrone, who alternated with Don Tebbutt.

Knill gave a much of the credit to Western's offensive line as he spoke of his game-winning kick.

"They did some great blocking," he said. "Our strength all season has been the ability to put points on the board when we needed them."

McGregor's first touchdown climaxed a 60-yard drive and came during the dying minutes of the first quarter.

Cosentino admitted that his team had to make some adjustments after that.

"We were too tense, we overreacted when we found they were running inside," he said.

Early in the second quarter Harvey made a spectacular 97-yard pass-and-run play with Fabiani that carried the Mustangs to the Alberta seven-yard line. The defence held, but finally Kosak was forced to concede two points and Knill's first field goal, a 36-yarder, cut the margin to two points a few minutes later.

McGregor's second touchdown capped another short drive in the third quarter, giving Bears a 14-5 edge, but it was offset by the Fabiani-Harvey combination which clicked for a 40-yard pick up Western's second touchdown.

The Bears outrushed the Mustangs 177 yards to 109 but Petrone's 324 to 67 passing edge gave them a net offence of 342 yards to Alberta's 244.

Fabiani completed eight of 15 passes and had two intercepted.Petrone was good on five of 12 and had one picked off.

Outstanding defensive player for the winners was husky Bruce MacRae, who carried 34 times for a total of 89 yards.

Field Judge Ray Morgan suffered a twisted ankle in the first half when he fell on a strip of asphalt encircling the field. He was replaced by stand-by Roger Keeley.

Dorow Appears Safe for Time

HAMILTON (CP) — Hamilton Tiger-Cats ended speculation on the immediate future of coach Al Dorow Sunday by sending him on a scouting tour of United States college teams.

Ralph Sazio, Tiger-Cats general manager, said: "We had a meeting early this afternoon to make some immediate plans for the rebuilding recruitment.

"I can tell you this, that of this day Al Dorow is not fired. If we make any move at all, it will not be for quite a while."

Sazio left Sunday night for Vancouver where Canadian Football League managers were to hold meetings early in Grey Cup week.

The Ticats held Toronto Argonauts to a 17-17 tie in Toronto Saturday but lost the Eastern Football Conference two-game total-point series to Argos on 23-8 here the previous Sunday.

The announcement that Dorow was headed south on a scouting trip ended rumors that dismissal Saturday that the coach had been fired.

Sazio, however, would not comment on one of the most frequently-heard rumors—that Jerry Williams, former coach of Philadelphia Eagles of the National Football League, had been in Hamilton to discuss Dorow's job.

Williams, who once coached Calgary Stampeders of the Western Conference, Argos opponents in the Grey Cup classic at Vancouver next Sunday, was fired by the Eagles earlier this season.

Stampeder Coach Tabs Theisman As Main Calgary Worry In Grey Cup

CALGARY (CP) — Coach Jim Duncan said Sunday Calgary Stampeders will have to contain scrambling Joe Theisman and stop Toronto Argonauts' running attack in this year's Grey Cup battle.

"The Argonauts are quite an explosive team," Duncan said. "They have a lot of weapons offensively with running back Leon McQuay and the big dip of ference.

He also listed Mel Profit, Dave Cranmer, Mike Eben and Bill Symons among Toronto's outstanding offensive players.

Duncan recalled that Theisman, Toronto's brilliant rookie quarterback, got the Stampeders in trouble with his running in a regular-season game earlier this year. The Argonauts won the interlocking game at home 18-7. "They got away with things they won't get away with next time," Duncan said.

The Stampeders, in the Grey Cup for the second successive year, earned the right last week by sweeping the best-of-three Western Football Conference final in straight games from Saskatchewan Roughriders.

Cowboys Quiet Redskin Rivals

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

"We're a pretty good football team," said Coach Tom Landry. "We're still in the race," countered George Allen.

Landry had just watched his Dallas Cowboys vault into the lead in the National Football League East with a 13-6 victory over Washington Redskins, regaining the spot they had been pushed from Sunday's defeat by Allen's Redskins seven weeks ago.

The Cowboys take on Los Angeles Rams Thursday in a Thanksgiving Day clash of National Football League division rivals.

The Rams harassing quarterback John Brodie all afternoon and thrilling patient San Francisco to a pair of field goals, made it a season sweep over the 49ers with a 17-6 triumph that puts them atop the NFC West.

In the Sunday's other big game, Miami Dolphins grabbed a bit of breathing room in the American Conference East by downing previous Miami with the winning cushion.

Len Dawson of the Chiefs threw for three touchdowns and 294 yards.

Daryle Lamonica also threw for three for the Raiders, outdueling Bob Griese. 321-yard aerial display by the Chargers' John Hadl.

"We were good to the last play," said Hadl, who had San Diego on the Oakland one-yard line with 1:11 to play, only to have his potential game-winning pass picked off by Raiders' Dan Conners.

The Lions, limiting Bobby Douglass to six net yards passing, sacked him eight times and intercepted four of his passes.

Vikings quarterback Bob Lee, making his first start of the season, and running back Clint Jones each swept in for touchdowns and Fred Cox kicked three field goals to turn back the Saints.

"It wasn't artistic—but we won," said Pittsburgh coach Chuck Noll, after Steelers kept pace with Cleveland atop the AFC Central Division. John Roesser's 76-yard interception return gave them one touchdown and Preston Pearson set up another with a 77-yard kick-off return in the victory over the Giants.

Lakers Run from Bucks

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Superstar Kareem Jabbar of Milwaukee Bucks poured in 39 points, but Los Angeles Lakers had something extra to beat him, too: Wilt Chamberlain's rebounding and a searing fast break led by Gail Goodrich and Jerry West.

And when the running ended in Sunday's night's National Basketball Association game, the Lakers owned a 113-105 victory over the Bucks.

In other NBA games, Boston Celtics belted Cleveland Cavaliers 128-105, Houston Rockets overhauled Golden State Warriors 115-98 and Seattle Super Sonics turned back Philadelphia 76ers 127-117. In the only American Basketball Association game, the Floridians overpowered Memphis 134-116.

In Saturday night NBA action, New York Knicks beat Baltimore Bullets 118-114, Detroit Pistons topped Buffalo Braves 105-96, Atlanta Hawks whipped Phoenix Suns 115-109, Chicago Bulls downed Boston 123-106, Seattle edged Portland Trailblazers 104-100 and Golden State surprised Milwaukee, 107-100. In the ABA, Pittsburgh beat Memphis, 113-103, Kentucky topped Carolina 120-107, Utah nipped

WILT CHAMBERLAIN

Dallas 103-99 and Denver beat the Floridians 117-97.

"The Lakers are really a running team this year," said Bucks—coach Larry Costello, "and what I mean is that five guys do the running. Last year two or three tried to run but this is the best running team I've seen this year."

Los Angeles kept running away from Milwaukee—but the Bucks kept charging back and trailed by only 94-92 midway in the final quarter.

Then the Lakers pulled away for good with West and Jim McMillian canning a pair of baskets apiece to open a 104-96 lodge. Goodrich's 27 points, McMillian 22 and West 22 for Los Angeles while Bob Dandridge added 21 for Milwaukee.

The Celtics held a slim five-point halftime edge, then broke it open by outscoring the Cavaliers 40-22 in the third period with JO John Havlicek scoring 11 of his game-high 36 points and Dave Cowens and Don Nelson 21 the big Boston frame. Butch Beard led Cleveland with 21.

Houston rookie Mike Newlin led all scorers in the Rockets' victory with 31 points but it was little Johnny Egan, with nine of his 14 points coming in the final period, who knocked down the Warriors, led by Cazzie Russell's 24 points.

Philadelphia trimmed a 15-point deficit to one with 2:12 to go, then SuperSonics centre Don Smith Pumped in 10 of his 27 team-high 26 points to seal Seattle's victory. Billy Cunningham had 32 for the 76ers.

Coughlan Sets Swim Mark

TORONTO (CP) — Swimmer Angela Coughlan of Toronto set a Canadian record for the 1,650-yard free-style Saturday in an Olympic development meet.

The only Olympic swimmer among the 102 competitors, Miss Coughlan won the event in 18:37.5. The previous mark of 18:46.2 was set in 1969 by Jeanne Warren of Vancouver. Miss Coughlan, who won six events, also broke her own Ontario record of 18:52.7. She needed to come from behind to beat Jane Wright of Oakville by 1.4 seconds. Miss Wright represented Canada in the Commonwealth and Pan American Games.

Stanfield Demands PM 'Stop Fooling Around'

MONTREAL (CP) — Conservative Leader Robert Stanfield said Monday Prime Minister Pierre Trudeau Sunday to "stop fooling around" and get down to the business of governing the country.

He said Canadians may have been impressed with the prime minister's style before, but now they want "less style and more substance" and "fewer excuses and more action."

Speaking mostly in French to 1,400 people at a $50-a-plate fund raising dinner held by the Quebec Conservative Association, he said Mr. Trudeau's government has failed since 1968 to create a spirit of confidence in Canadians.

"Because of its errors, its inertia, its tactlessness, let us even say because of its incompetence, the current government has lost the confidence of businessmen, unions and farmers."

The government has failed to curb high unemployment and rising inflation, to stimulate economic growth and has caused worsening relations between Canada and the United States.

Federal-provincial relations were also in bad shape because while Ottawa expects to be consulted by the provinces on proposed fiscal planning, it is ready to push through financial reforms which the provinces are not ready to adopt.

Then and only then, will our federalism become what it should be: a national structure to coordinate provincial needs."

Mr. Stanfield said the Liberal government has made "a system out of incompetence."

He pointed to the recent publication in Canadian Forum of a confidential report on foreign investment prepared by Revenue Minister Herb Gray as one of the most glaring examples of government incompetence.

If Mr. Stanfield were leading this government, consultation and understanding would dominate relations between a Conservative government and Quebec.

"I do not say it will always be possible to conciliate Quebec's aspirations and our national interests, but I do say that a lot of confrontations would be avoided through consultation and understanding should not many problems.

Not All Corsairs Grounded by Crash

TORONTO (CP) — A 1,055-mile search for a project in east Toronto will cost the Toronto board of education an unscheduled $1 million next year because city planners underestimated the number of school-age children in the development, says trustee William Ross.

Mr. Ross said in an interview the planners estimated in 1968 that the project would add about 60 students, 30 of them in elementary grades.

However, he said, the figure, with the four-building project near completion, now has been increased to about 1,000 students, 100 in elementary grades.

Because of this, the board of education has discovered there are not enough classrooms in the area and set aside about $1 million in the 1972 budget for a new elementary school.

The project, originally approved by the city as a private project, later was changed to a co-operatial project with a greater number of multi-bedroom apartments.

It is financed by Central Mortgage and Housing Corp. and managed by Victoria Wood Development Corp. Ltd.

Historic Cars Sold At Auction

NIAGARA FALLS, Ont. (CP) — Mario Abbruzzato, 32, of Niagara Falls, Ont., said he was representing a syndicate, purchased four of the automobiles for $97,000 at an auction sale Saturday.

The four cars, among 43 auctioned, were Al Capone's, Lindbergh's 1927 Packard and former president John Kennedy's 1961 Lincoln Continental, Mussolini's Lancia.

The cars were auctioned by the Niagara Falls Aviation Museum which went out of business last month after its lease expired.

Glen Raechler, sales manager for the auction, said the cars sold for more than $250,000, the figure the museum was aiming at.

"We had buyers from virtually every state and province."

More than 900 persons attended the auction.

Mr. Abbruzzato said he could not name the members of the syndicate and added that he could not disclose what would be done with the four cars he bought.

The late president's car, which he used while in Hyannis Port, sold for $29,000.

Capone's car, equipped with a one-quarter inch boiler plate body, bullet - proof glass and self-sealing tires, sold for $27,000.

Lindbergh drove his flashy touring car after he returned to the United States after making his historic flight across the Atlantic.

The Lancia, owned by former Italian dictator Mussolini, featured a goose-neck reading lamp and direct-controlled rear shocks. It had been driven only 9,000 miles.

Girl Slain After Aid Refused

ROCHESTER, N.Y. (AP) — Thousands of dollars in reward money was offered Sunday for information on the rape slaying last week of a 10-year-old girl who waved for help were ignored by scores of homeward-bound commuters on a busy expressway.

Police said the girl, Carmen Colon, was abducted while on a shopping errand for her mother last Tuesday. She briefly escaped the abductor's car and ran long the roadway semi-nude, waving desperately at passing motorists. None stopped.

At least three persons later reported the incident to police and one of them estimated that more than 100 cars had passed the girl.

Two days later a pair of teenage boys found the girl's body along a rural road in nearby Ogden. She was clad only in a sweatshirt, shoes and socks. A medical examiner said the youngster had been raped and strangled.

The two Rochester daily newspapers, The Journal and Chronicle and The Times-Union, have offered a $2,500 reward and began accepting telephoned information on the case.

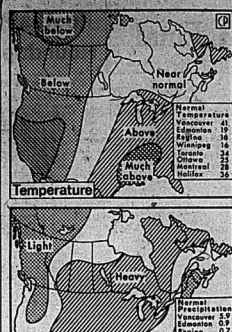
Explaining why he didn't go back, one witness said: "I felt someone behind me was in a better position." It was in the passing lane going 65 to 70 (miles an hour) and there were five or six cars right behind me. I didn't expect it was anything sinister."

Dief Ready To Fight Election

PRINCE ALBERT (CP) — Former prime minister John Diefenbaker described himself Saturday as "fit and ready" to run again in the constituency he has held here in the next federal election.

He was addressing about 200 persons at the annual meeting of the Progressive Conservative Association in the Northern Saskatchewan riding.

"If I'm nominated to contest this seat, I intend to win," he said.



Death Toll 24

RIO DE JANEIRO (Reuter) — At least 24 persons were crushed to death in the partial collapse of an expressway overpass under construction in the Brazilian city Saturday and police said the final death count might be as high as 40.

Rescue workers used cranes to hoist massive blocks of concrete off mangled cars and a bus.

An official inquiry commission of five engineers was set up to investigate the disaster.

Warm Days Ahead

Below-normal temperatures are expected in the next 30 days in most of Western Canada, according to the long-range forecast of the United States weather bureau. In southern and central portions of Ontario, readings will be above normal. Precipitation will be heavy in most of Ontario, western Quebec and the prairies. (CP Photo)

'No Strike' Promise Air Unions

MONTREAL (CP) — Three airline unions negotiating contracts with Air Canada and the federal government move into conciliation within the next few weeks.

However, spokesmen for two of the unions denied reports Saturday that labor disputes could disrupt air traffic at the height of the Christmas holiday season.

"There is no talk of strike action at all," said a spokesman for the Canadian Air Traffic Controllers Association which represents more than 1,000 airport workers.

"The conciliators appointed are top-notch and will await their report before considering any other action."

A conciliation board chaired by Prof. Earl E. Palmer of the University of Western Ontario is to begin hearings Dec. 10. It will have two weeks to submit a report. If no settlement is asked the association could legally call a strike seven days later.

Pierre Lacombe, Montreal chairman of the Canadian Air Line Employees Association which represents ticket agents, confirmed talks are moving into the conciliation stage and no dispute is anticipated.

The International Brotherhood of Electrical Workers is bargaining with the federal transport department for a new contract. Union officials were not available for comment.

Spokesmen for the controllers and the passenger agents said a number of points are at issue. They did not elaborate.

Family Planning Body Meets

HALIFAX (CP) — The once-taboo topics of abortion, contraception and sterilization were brought into the open as the Family Planning Federation of Canada held the largest meeting in its eight-year history Saturday.

No recommendations or resolutions were adopted following 7½ hours of discussion, but the 60 delegates from 28 family planning organizations across Canada discussed all aspects of controlling the human world population that many experts say could double to almost seven billion by the end of the century.

Dr. Lise Fortier, an obstetrician at Nore Dame hospital in Montreal, delivered a blistering attack against male attitudes on sterilization.

Sterilization for the male is relatively painless and can be performed in a doctor's office while a woman must enter hospital, but "men shun it," Dr. Fortier charged "the poor male darling is afraid of needles and afraid of becoming a eunuch, too."

Dr. Otto Schmidt, associate professor of obstetrics and gynecology at the University of Manitoba told the conference the increase in abortions shows that the "message of family planning" has not been delivered.

Abortion should be used as an emergency measure to prevent an unwanted child, Dr. Benjamin Fiel of New York, director-general of the International Planned Parenthood Federation, said. But it should be combined with the offer of contraceptives to prevent further pregnancies.

Dr. Viel, former dean of the medical school at the University of Chile, said it will be difficult to control world population if contraception is not used along with abortion. He cited the case of a 23-year-old Latin American woman who had had 18 abortions.

Dr. George Brown, director of population and health services for the International Development Research Centre in Ottawa, said that a great Canadian myth says Canada is an empty country waiting to be populated.

"It's a false presentation of the problems to say there is so much space in Canada. Seventy persons say the North is already over-populated in view of the limited economic opportunities there."

Heavy Snowfall Hits New York State Areas

BUFFALO, N.Y. (AP) — A Canadian cold-air mass sweeping across the Great Lakes dumped as much as three feet of snow on parts of western New York and covered most of central and eastern New York with a mixture of snow and rain.

The seven inches were reported in sections of Cattaraugus and Chautauqua counties in southwestern New York.

Although snow fall was not generally heavy, road conditions deteriorated rapidly as temperatures fell below the freezing mark and made ice from slush left from the first hours of the storm.

Cold unstable Arctic air was moving into the state today behind a low pressure system. The National Weather Service reported that the cold unstable air would continue to pour through the state all day.

Squall areas, mostly to the lee of Lake Erie and Ontario, were hardest hit by the storm. The Syracuse area reported hazardous driving conditions on major roads.

Four Controversial Tax Clauses Get Day Each

OTTAWA (CP) — The government, in what seems undue optimism after recent experience, has allowed a day each for debate this week of four of the most controversial features of its tax legislation.

Today, the House is scheduled to deal with 21 sub-clauses covering taxation of international income—profits received by Canadians from foreign enterprises or income sent out of Canada to foreign investors.

Those measures, which would toughen the system of calculating income from abroad and increase withholding tax on income going abroad, have been under fire outside the Commons.

The government program assigns Tuesday to discuss taxation of mining and petroleum. Among other things, these sections would require such companies to carry special tax exemptions by investing in exploration and development.

The slightly-depleted tax regime for mineral enterprises has aroused criticism from mining and oil companies and their supporters.

On the list for Wednesday and Thursday are taxation of corporations and their shareholders and systems of taxing business and property income.

The hopes of running through approval of these four features in as many days seems remote, reported a week in which MPs completed work on only four of the 1971 tax amendments.

MPs of all parties strenuously resisted proposals last week to toughen taxation of credit unions and co-operatives.

Those clauses were left for future consideration after two days of argument, as were sections on taxing capital gains realized a day each the week. Among other sections debated at length but still awaiting approval were those covering taxation of farms.

In all, the Commons has spent 33 sitting days on the bill and has completed committee-style study and approval on only 75 of its 233 sections.

The government still wants to complete passage in Commons and Senate by Christmas, 25 sitting days away and Jan. 1 implementation of the bill.

Apartment Project Costly to Board

NORFOLK, Va. (AP) — Atlantic Fleet headquarters issued a revised statement Saturday that said not all of its A-7 Corsair fa-jet fighter-bombers were grounded and that the United States Navy did not attempt to cover up an investigation begun after a fatal accident, Nov. 1 aboard the aircraft carrier Oriskany off Vietnam.

The A-7 is described as the navy's main line of aerial attack. The plane makes up 40 to 50 per cent of the aircraft common aboard carriers.

The latest statement said the planes were "temporarily grounded" from normal operations earlier this month, but "flights from shore bases were not affected" and the A-7's aboard carriers could have been flown for urgent operations if required by commanders.

Friday, a fleet spokesman had said that all the A-7s were grounded and that the groundings were never officially announced because the navy "didn't want the world to know about our decreased capability."

Saturday's statement, however, said the information was available to the news media but not volunteered "because it was merely a precautionary step . . .

The investigation was launched after Cmdr. Frank P. Ault was killed when his plane's nose landing gear collapsed as it was being catapulted off the Oriskany.

"The Atlantic Fleet said Saturday that all the other carrier-based A-7s were grounded "to permit a detailed engineering analysis of the aircraft's strut in the landing gear. . . ."

Gas Export Ban Won't Harm Firms

TORONTO (CP) — James Kerr, chairman of TransCanada Pipelines, said Sunday the national energy board's decision to limit the export of 2.66 trillion cubic feet of natural gas to the United States will not adversely affect the Canadian industry.

He said in a statement issued in Toronto that all reserves earmarked for the proposed exports can be immediately placed under contract to the Canadian market.

The board's decision was announced Friday.

JFK Paid Tribute At Dallas

DALLAS, Tex. (AP) — Wreath-placing ceremonies and brief remarks were to highlight the eighth anniversary Monday of the assassination here of former president John F. Kennedy.

Mayor Wes Wise, accompanied by a Roman Catholic bishop, a rabbi and a Baptist minister, will place a wreath at the Kennedy memorial located about a block from the building from which Texas Book Depository. The old brick building has since been closed.

It was from that point that the Warren Commission concluded that Lee Harvey Oswald shot Kennedy.

Today May Decide Mailmen's Strategy

OTTAWA (CP) — Canadian letter carriers could find out today whether they will be following their appointed rounds on schedule or walking picket lines instead.

The Letter Carriers Union of Canada has scheduled a meeting here to consider the next move in the dispute between the union and Postmaster-General Jean-Pierre Cote over the use of casual workers by the service.

Roger Decarie, union president, accused Mr. Cote and his department Thursday of unionbusting in the dispute, and Mr. Cote Friday threatened prosecutions or any other court actions to recover the damages of a series of unauthorized work stoppages by letter carriers in southern Ontario and parts of the Maritimes.

It all started when three letter carriers complained of the department practice of hiring casual workers to man mail routes unserviced because of illness or some other cause.

They asked that union members be called in on overtime to cover all such shifts and were supported by an adjudicator.

The government since has paid the three men the overtime they claimed, but Mr. Cote says there is no way his department can draw up schedules that have no casual workers included.

The union says the adjudicator's decision and the government payments of the overtime means this principle must be applied throughout the service, but Mr. Cote says it applies only in the cases of the three specific applicants.

In calling today's meeting, Mr. Decarie noted that a full strike of Canadian letter carriers could easily be a result of the meeting.

An alternative would be more rotating strikes, work stoppages, working-to-rule procedures and other forms of disruption.

DAILY CRYPTOQUOTE—Here's how to work it:
A X Y D L B A A X E
B L O N G F E L L O W
One letter simply stands for another. In this sample A is used for the three L's, X for the two O's, etc. Single letters, apostrophes, the length and formation of the words are all hints. Each day the code letters are different.

Stars Recall Winger

CLEVELAND (AP) — Minnesota North Stars of the National Hockey League recalled Billy Heindl Sunday from Cleveland Barons of the American Hockey League.

Heindle was recalled to play with the NHL club at Philadelphia Sunday night, but was expected to return to Cleveland in time for an AHL game against Springfield Wednesday.

Leo Has Happy Dreams

TORONTO (CP) — "I've been dreaming the last two weeks of bowling won and woke up finding we hadn't," Leo Cahill said Saturday after his Toronto Argonauts tied Hamilton Tiger-Cats 17-17 to win the two-game Eastern Football Conference playoff 40-25.

"Now I'll probably wake up this week after dreaming we'd lost and find out we're champs."

The Argo victory ended a 19-year absence from the Grey Cup for Toronto, a fact many of them were aware of and voiced in the emotion-packed dressing room.

"I'm so happy for everybody here," said veteran Dick Thornton, who tasted Grey Cup championship with Winnipeg Blue Bombers before joining Argos five years ago.

The outstanding defensive halfback and wide receiver had tears streaming down his face as he explained the Argo frustrations of nearly two decades.

"Everybody counted us out—they said we didn't have the guts to win," continued the 32-year-old from Chicago. "We just went out there and showed them we could win."

Ellison Kelly, the offensive tackle who put in 10 years with Ticats before being traded to Toronto prior to this season, said it felt great to win.

Kelly was a member of Ticat championship clubs of 1961, 1963, 1964, 1965 and 1967, winning the national crown in '53, '56 and '67.

He said the outcome of Saturday's game was in doubt even as late as halftime, with Toronto leading the game 14-10 and the series 37-18.

"We have a young ball club and the Hamilton ball club is good, no question about it, I don't think I've ever seen them try harder".

Rosewall Meets Old Nemesis

HOUSTON, Tex. (AP) — Australians Rod Laver and Ken Rosewall, two of the old-timers on the pro tennis tour, will meet at high noon in Dallas Friday in a showdown for the richest prize in pro tennis history—$50,000.

And even the loser will be able to leave town in style. He'll get a check for $20,000.

Laver, who has earned more than $1 million since he turned pro in 1962, defeated American Arthur Ashe 6-3, 6-3, 6-3 Sunday and Rosewall downed Tom Okker of the Netherlands in straight sets, 6-3, 6-3, 6-1 to earn the finals berths in the World Championship of Tennis play-offs.

Rosewall, 37 and Laver, 33, probably won't be strangers when they meet. Laver estimated the pair have met more than 100 times in competition.

"We played each other about 25 times the first year I turned pro," Laver said.

"If you look at the record, it looks like an uphill fight for me," Rosewall said of his opponent with Laver. "It is really depend on how I react to Rod's game.

"He's beaten me a lot and I think it's about time I turned from a second-set lapse to defeat Ashe for the 12th straight time. Ashe gave up all of nine breaking Laver's service twice in winning the match.

Rosewall broke Okker's service three times in the first set and seven times in the match.

Senators To Get New Name

ARLINGTON, Tex. (AP) — The baseball world will learn Tuesday the new name of the former Washington Senators.

American League president and manager Ted Williams will appear at a luncheon here—the Joe Cronin, owner Bob Short coming out party for the club which moved its AL franchise to the Dallas Fort Worth area from the United States capital.

Short and club vice-president Jim Burke have completed negotiations with area banking firms for financing to move the club.

"With these matters settled, we will now be able to move ahead with promotion and publicity for our team," said Arlington Mayor Tommy Vandergriff, who spearheaded the drive for transfer of the franchise to Turnpike Stadium.

Negro Golfer Wins Azalea Open

WILMINGTON, N.C. (AP) — George Johnson, 32, rolled in a 20-foot birdie putt on the first playoff hole and won the Azalea open golf tournament Sunday, becoming only the fourth Negro to win on the pro tour.

Johnson, in his third year on the tour, defeated Hubby Johnston, a rookie, after both had finished the regulation 72 holes in 274, 14 under par on the 6,575-yard Cape Fear Country Club course.

Johnson had a final round 70 and Johnston a 63. Each managed his first victory.

The victory was worth $7,000 from the total purse of $35,000 to Johnson, pushing his total for the year to $35,213.

Veteran Rod Funseth and club pro Terry Wilcox tied for third at 275, but Funseth takes a GF and Wilcox managing a 69 in the chilly, windy waggler.

George Knudsen of Toronto shot a final-round 70 for a 283 total, worth $635.

Two other Canadians finished well down among the money winners.

Wilf Hemenuik, of Winnipeg had a 292 total and won $90, while Toronto's Ben Kern collected $61 for his 297 score.

School Language Problem Stirs Debate Among Quebec Liberals

QUEBEC (CP) — Delegates tinted the bitterness of Quebec's language conflict at a provincial Liberal convention during the weekend when a contentious resolution at odds with the government's legislative plans was introduced.

The resolution, defeated at a plenary session Sunday after some heated exchanges, called for separate English and French school boards on Montreal Island, where the government plans to eliminate linguistic and religious divisions in school administration.

During a workshop session on the resolution Saturday night, debate was suddenly cut off when 39 or 40 delegates walked in, called for an immediate vote and suspended proceedings.

Party organizers were known to be using walkie-talkie communication with spotters in various workshops and some English-speaking supporters of the contentious resolution charged that their workshops were suddenly packed.

Phyllis Mass of Robert Baldwin riding turned in her party card after the incident and told reporters later:

"I just feel democracy is dead in this party. This room was packed with people for these motions were coming up."

A French-speaking delegate who voted to defer debate on the resolution Saturday said he did so because he felt the issue was too important to be debated by a small group.

English-speaking delegates spoke heatedly in favor of optional English courses for Grade 1 French-speaking students. French is compulsory for English-speaking students in Grade 1.

But on Sunday, presentations by Education Minister Guy Saint-Pierre and two English-speaking cabinet ministers from Montreal calmed the atmosphere.

Mr. Saint-Pierre said power over direct educational issues would remain in the hands of 11 regional boards under the legislation, with the central board controlling only finances and long-term planning.

William Tetley, financial institutions minister, and Victor Goldbloom, minister responsible for the environment, both spoke in favor of unified boards as planned in Mr. Saint-Pierre's bill.

Workshop sessions defeated both sides' proposed resolutions. One would have national lead all foreign-owned mines in Quebec without compensation to their owners. It was submitted by the Young Liberals at the University of Quebec in Montreal.

In his wrap-up speech to the convention, Finance Minister Bourassa said 34,000 jobs have been created in Quebec this year while only 3,000 jobs had been created in 1966 under the former Union Nationale government.

Despite economic difficulties and a limited "margin for manoeuvering" in the North American economy, the government had negotiated loans in New York and Germany.

In his first 18 months in power, his government had settled such thorny problems as the introduction of medical insurance and the kidnap crisis.

Premier Bourassa also reaffirmed his commitment to decentralism, but said Quebec wants it decentralized.

First Woman President of Quebec Liberals Had Busy Year

QUEBEC (CP) — The first woman president of the Quebec Liberal party says she looks back on a year which disrupted her family life and private career, brought astonishment from the traditionally-minded but results for the party.

Lise Bacon looks forward to another year of the same because "I feel that I have not finished all I want to do in the party."

Unruffled by the fanfare when at 36 she assumed the post in September, 1970, she also sees her acceptance of a second term as "a logical step" after 20 years of political activity.

In an interview following her re-election at the Liberals' 18th annual convention during the weekend, Miss Bacon expressed the irony attendant on involvement in a party committed to change but surrounded with an electorate hung up on material and nationalist banners.

"Organizing for a is a constant negotiation," she said of the province, "and on this point all Quebecers are a little too tuned."

Her own role is to serve the best interests of Quebec.

She comes from a politically-active Trois - Rivieres family. Both parents were provincial members and her brother Guy now is a Liberal party member in the Quebec national assembly for Trois-Rivieres. Politics has been a way of life for her since the early age.

Simple membership, was not enough.

"Those who want to venture into constructive politics cannot be present, must take on responsibility at the level of collective action," she says. "I arrived at the presidency step by step.

Those steps included posts as treasurer of the women's wing of the party in the Trois-Rivieres riding in 1952, provincial director of the Young Liberals in 1954, president of her riding's women's association in 1961, president of the Quebec Women's Liberal Federation in 1967 with membership on the national executive and secretary of the Quebec Liberal party and member of the advisory committee in 1969.

When she took over as party president in 1970 after the Liberal's sweeping success in the Quebec general election the previous spring, Miss Bacon found a hibernating tendency developing.

"I want the federation to be championing all the time, keeping people informed, being politically active," she says. "You don't prepare for an election just

Refugees Reach Tampa In Hijacked Vessel

TAMPA, Fla. (Reuter) — A group of refugees who journeyed through such trials as a tropical storm, hunger, thirst and childbirth ended Saturday when a small hijacked lobster boat docked here.

Aboard were 47 refugees who fled Cuba for Florida in early September on a commandeered fishing boat, but were blown off course when the boat ran out of fuel. They landed instead in Honduras and then hijacked the 60-foot lobster boat Coral Rock III for the voyage to the United States.

They consisted of 22 men, 13 women and 12 children, one of whom was born in Honduras Oct. 2.

More Cysts Or Rapid Aging Alternatives Woman Is Facing

By G. C. THOSTESON, MD

Dear Dr. Thosteson: I have had three surgically removed cysts in my breast. I am now 49 and have symptoms of menopause.

A doctor recently told me I should be given hormones. However, he also said this could cause more cyst activity. Yet he also said if I do not take hormones, I will age noticeably in that my skin will become loose and wrinkled, my bones will become brittle, etc.

It seems to think I should take the hormones even though I may be faced with more cysts. I don't much like either alternative, and really don't know what to do.—Mrs. M.A.

None of those predictions is a guarantee that trouble will occur. All are things that might, but it is at least as possible that they might not.

Your doctor was honest enough to tell you that you might have more trouble with cysts. It is fair that patients should know what possibilities lie ahead for medication, surgery, or any type of treatment.

But right there is another problem. How do you tell people what may happen without making them think that it will? It is, I assure you, a real problem in practicing medicine—and a real problem to a patient, as you realize.

It is true that breast tissues respond to female hormone, but keep this thing in mind: a small dose, but enough to control your menopausal symptoms (hot flashes, etc.) may not stimulate cysts to form. A large dose might.

Likewise keep in mind that skin and tissue degeneration does not automatically take place if you do not take hormones, any more than taking hormones will necessarily prevent them. Both are "average" prospects.

It is true that at menopause a considerable adjustment takes place in the body's production of hormones, particularly estrogen, the female hormone. This does not mean that the hormone ceases entirely, but the amount is reduced. Some still is produced.

Therefore, the administration of hormones at menopause is aimed at replacing enough of them to prevent objectionable symptoms. The amount may not be enough to affect cyst production in your case.

Your doctor, knowing of your tendency toward cysts, still recommends hormones, so I would be very much inclined to follow his advice. Perhaps the hormones may give you all the benefits and none of the possible disadvantages.

Dear Dr. Thosteson: My single daughter, 22, went to a doctor for irregular periods and he has given a prescription for birth control pills. When I was her age and single, I had the same problem, but was given estrogen which was all I needed to bring regular periods. Can you answer this in your column? I am amazed at these pills being given.—Mrs. J.K.

Don't be amazed. The pills are a combination of estrogen and progesterone, and are very commonly used to regulate periods. Being single has nothing to do with it.

Dear Dr. Thosteson: How can I loosen the phlegm in my throat? I have tried gargling, coughing, etc.—Mrs. E.G.

A gargle with a quite warm solution of baking soda is one effective means of loosening phlegm. A teaspoon of soda to a glass of water will do. Potassium iodide and some other medications also are prescribed for some cases.

But better still, find out why this excessive phlegm accumulates. Obstruction in the nose from polyps or deviated (twisted septum) can cause this. So can a chronic sinus infection. Excessive smoking is another fault. It may be an allergic condition.

CONTRACT BRIDGE

By B. Jay Becker

(Top Record-Holder in Masters' Individual Championship Play)

East dealer. Neither side vulnerable.

	NORTH ♠ Q75543 ♥ 987 ♦ 4 ♣ Q72
WEST ♠ 93 ♥ 10 6 5 4 3 ♦ A3 ♣ 8 6 4 3		EAST ♠ 2 ♥ Q2 ♦ J 8 6 ♣ A K J 10 9 5
	SOUTH ♠ A K 10 8 ♥ A 5 ♦ K Q 10 9 7 3 2 ♣ —

The bidding:

East	South	West	North
1 ♦	2 ♣	Pass	Pass
Pass

Opening lead — ace of diamonds.

Partnership misunderstandings are a dime a dozen, even in the best of company. Consider this deal from the match between Penance and Mandelin-Cist China in the 1969 world championship.

With Boehinger North and Svare South for France at the first table, the bidding went as shown and South became declarer at two clubs! Svare went down three tricks—he scored were a diamond, a diamond ruff, a spade and two hearts.

Whether Svare was at fault in bidding two clubs—which he obviously thought portrayed a huge hand including a void in clubs—or whether Boehinger was at fault in assuming that two clubs showed clubs and the normal values for an overcall in the two level, I have no way of knowing. All one can say is that Svare and Boehinger, generally regarded as France's best pair, had a partnership misunderstanding of the first magnitude.

At the second table there was no such difficulty, even though the bids made by the Chinese North-South pair—P. Huang and M. Tai—are hardly typical of the (generally artificial) bidding went:

East	South	West	North
1 ♣	1 NT	Pass	4 ♥
4 ♠	5 ♥	Pass	6 ♥
Pass	6 NT	Pass	6 ♠
Pass	6 ♣

Without a double the Chinese pair must have been trying something right, for they arrived at the excellent contract of 6 spades. It led to trouble at all making the slam; the only trick he lost was a diamond.

What the Stars Say

By CONSTELLA

Tuesday, November 23

Aires (March 21-April 19): For once you may decide to forego a temporary success in order to aim at a more durable but greater goal. Give careful consideration to opportunities that may take a year or more to mature.

Taurus (April 20-May 20): While a raise may not be in order, there's nothing in the stars to rule out a promotion. You may have to prove yourself before your superiors decide on this career boost.

Gemini (May 21-June 21): People around you shouldn't be fooled into thinking that today's somber mood is just bad temper. You are quite preoccupied as extensive fillings planning.

Cancer (June 22-July 22): The best time to start to lick a bad habit is now, while determination is at its peak. Don't let your thrifty nature let you finish the pack (or the pie).

Leo (July 23-Aug. 22): The sources of your present irritance with a partner should be shoved under the rug and the original reasons that brought you together should be emphasized.

Virgo (Aug. 23-Sept. 22): The only simple way to avoid criticism from a higher-up today is to do the job you're told to do. Let co-workers solve their own problems for a change.

Libra (Sept. 23-Oct. 22): Evening-hour entertainments will be the big day money-makers. Old friends, old lovers, sentimental journeys are just a few of the sources of tonight's joy.

Scorpio (Oct. 23-Nov. 21): After months of complaining that older folks at home won't let you live your own life, you can suddenly find yourself facing a major decision all alone. Mom refuses to interfere.

Sagittarius (Nov. 22-Dec. 21): Ask advice of those who have a few more years experience than you in coping with an immediate problem. Remember, there are certain points of office protocol that must be observed.

Capricorn (Dec. 22-Jan. 19): The luxury of sitting back and letting someone else do your chores, even if you have to pay for help, can be the way you pamper yourself today.

Aquarius (Jan. 20-Feb. 18): Don't let your romantic or platonic, that have withstood the test of the years can provide the perfect environment for any social plans today. Avoid crowds.

Pisces (Feb. 19-March 20): If you can coax everybody out of the house early, this can be a highly productive day. Otherwise, you'll be easily tempted to waste time in idle chatter.

BORN TODAY: Actress — The strongest focus this year falls on spiritual development, rather than material goals. Through January and after July, values and beliefs are due for a shakeup.

Schreyer Prevents NDP Split on Abortion, Separate Schools

BRANDON (CP) — Manitoba New Democrats steered a middle course on the touchy issues of abortion and aid to separate schools at their weekend annual convention at this western Manitoba city.

It took firm oratory and veiled ultimatums from Premier Ed Schreyer to keep the party on the course.

The party voting delegates bowed to the premier's wish to avoid a direct confrontation at the convention on the years-old question of aid to private and parochial schools and rebuffed an attempt to liberalize abortion policy.

In doing so the delegates helped keep fiery Joe Borowski in the party and heeded the whisperedthreat that Mr. Schreyer would consider stepping down as leader if he did not get his way on the separate school issue.

Mr. Borowski, a former highways minister, left the cabinet two months ago in a disagreement over continued financial aid to a Winnipeg clinic which occasionally acted as an abortion referral service for patients.

He threatened to quit the party altogether if it relaxed its stand on abortion.

Mr. Schreyer, like Mr. Borowski a Catholic, has been a strong supporter of aid to private and parochial schools for many years.

He acknowledged to reporters he had had to "reassess my position as leader" in light of the aid issue.

The party leader prevailed at the convention by persuading delegates to put aside a resolution calling for no extension of aid to such schools and getting their acquiescence for a free vote on the matter in the legislature.

The premier is expected to introduce a bill himself at the next session of the legislature, and with members freed from party discipline a number of cabinet ministers are expected to oppose the measure.

One of those cabinet opponents, Mines Minister Sidney Green, told reporters: "I believe that if it hadn't been for the personalities involved the convention would have unanimously rejected any aid to private and parochial schools."

When the convention appeared to be on the point of approving the anti-aid resolution, Mr. Schreyer told delegates it was a matter of conscience to be decided by individual members of the legislature and he would not be bound by a resolution.

He later told reporters he does not expect the issue to be a major one in the provincial election campaign "but maybe I'll have to fight the next leadership battle on it."

Manitoba is one of the few Canadian provinces without a publically-supported separate school system since aid to parochial schools was cut off in the 1890s. In recent years, however, private and parochial schools have had access to some textbooks and other equipment from the public school system.

Debate on both abortion and school aid was spirited with reasoned argument often giving way to raging rhetoric.

It was the premier's concluding speech that put the end to several hours of debate on abortion and provided the impetus for a 155 to 117 vote against a resolution urging that abortion law be removed from the Criminal Code.

Mr. Schreyer pleaded with the delegates to give the new federal abortion law a proper chance and then thrash out their views at federal policy conventions.

The federal party already is on record as favoring the removal of abortion from the provisions of the Criminal Code.

Royal Winter Fair Closes

TORONTO (CP) — The barn door was closed Saturday on Canada's largest country fair, leaving John Moles convinced that big-city entertainment and the sport of kings both lure crowds down to the farm.

Mr. Moles, general manager of the Royal Winter Fair, said the introduction of live entertainment at the fair and big name performers at the nightly Royal Horse Show attracted large crowds during the nine-day event.

Sunday night, the fair's fleet of accountants still were figuring out how many people wandered down to the fair ground for a glimpse at the country.

But at a rough estimate, said Mr. Moles, this year's attendance was up about six per cent over the 1970 total of 300,000 persons.

Attendance at the horse show increased at least as much on most nights, said the general manager, and more on others. The horse show seats were sold out on four nights, and for the final performance all tickets had been purchased two months in advance.

"We got all sorts of publicity out of the Canadian equestrian team," said Mr. Moles, referring to the riders who represented Canada in jumping competitions against be United States and Argentina.

The four-man Canadian team, after leading throughout most of the show, lost to the United States by a three-point margin in a jump-off event Saturday night.

Moffat Dunlap, Jim Day, Tom Cochy Millar and Bertalan Simpson, who represented Canada at the horse show, will be among candidates to represent Canada in equestrian events at the Olympics next year.

Mr. Moles said the four riders, who attracted attention to jumping events across the country in the months prior to the Royal, were instrumental in attracting crowds to the fair.

But part of the credit also goes to the "brightened-up" image of the 49-year-old fair, he added. Organizers spent $3,000 to augment the thundering of hoofs and the lowing of prize cattle with the sound of music.

For the first time this year, as cattle contentedly munched hay in the judging stalls and wooden tanked but still smelly soft drinks off the main arena, the new sensations of the Ontario Place Singers wooed the crowds at the winter fair.

Fair-goers who were entertained by the winners of last year's Junior Farmers' Music Festival, as well as a couple of folk-singers specially imported from other parts of Ontario.

The result, says Mr. Moles, was a larger crowd of young people, in the 16-25 age group, than in any previous year.

Boycott Grows

EDMONTON (CP) — National Farmers Union members from 16 centres east and north of here Saturday joined a boycott against Kraft Foods Ltd. products.

The members asked shoppers at 21 Edmonton stores to stop buying Kraft products to back a move to "obtain a fair price and some income security for dairy farmers."

The boycott started about two months ago in Ontario and was extended to the Prairies last week.

Blakeney Opposes 'Amerimart' Plan

OTTAWA (CP) — Premier Allan Blakeney of Saskatchewan says a Canada-United States common market would mean a "truncated kind of independence" for Canada.

Such an economic union was proposed at the recent federal-provincial conference of first ministers by Premier W. A. C. Bennett of British Columbia.

Premier Blakeney said in an interview abolition of tariffs between Canada and the U.S. would lead shortly to a common tariff wall around the two countries.

However, it wouldn't necessarily lead to political union because, in his view, the American people do not have any particular desire for political union with Canada.

"But for all practical purposes, Canada would no longer be independent since every major decision, economic or political, would be taken either by the major American corporations or by the American government.

"So it would be a truncated kind of independence which we would enjoy in that sort of setup".

The interview was taped Wednesday for viewers Sunday on the CTV program Question Period.

Hellyer Distrusts Red Lands

WINDSOR, Ont. (CP) — The Canadian government is placing too much emphasis on its relationships with Communist dictatorships, Paul Hellyer told a Ukrainian audience Saturday.

Referring to Soviet Premier Alexei Kosygin's recent visit to Canada, Mr. Hellyer said: "I'm for the increased friendship with the U.S.S.R., but it may be at the expense of our traditional allies."

Communist governments are subsidizing revolutionary movements all over the world, "and as much as right here in North America," he said.

A former Liberal cabinet minister now leading Action Canada, Mr. Hellyer was addressing a banquet sponsored by the Canadian League for the Liberation of the Ukraine.

Political Rally Plan Of Blacks

ASHINGTON (AP) — A proclamation calling for the first national political convention ever held by American blacks was issued Saturday night by the 13 black members of the United States House of Representatives.

The House Black Caucus issued the call after two days of private and closed meetings with about 200 black elected officials from around the country.

They said it will be held in April or early May and will be directed to "developing a national black agenda and the crystalization of a national black strategy for the 1972 presidential elections and beyond."

Representative Charles Diggs (Dem. Mich.), chairmar. of the House Black Caucus, said the proclamation includes one provisions possible endorsement of a black presidential candidate.

Vasectomy Auctioned At Bazaar

SEATTLE, ash. (AP) — The bidding started out in secretary. At first the crowd of about 150 persons was silent.

"It's not necessarily for yourself or your spouse, maybe it's for a friend, a very special Christmas present," pleaded auctioneer Michael Rosen, a Seattle lawyer and state executive director of the American Civil Liberties Union.

Rosen and John Junker, a University of Washington criminal law professor, called for the bids Saturday night for a Seattle ACLU benefit auction which drew only a few more persons than there were donated items.

The bidding rose to $30 for the voluntary male sterilization operation, which Rosen said usually costs $125. When a man's voice rose in mock protest: "Why is it the women who are doing all the suffering!"

The vasectomy finally went for $50.

A year's supply of birth control pills went for $10. A session of a will for $20, three hours of psychotherapy for $25, a section of an intrauterine contraceptive device for $10 and a dinner for two on a houseboat for $35. No one bid on "a non-contested divorce." The entire auction brought about $1,500 to the Seattle ACLU.

Pilot Flies Over Poles

CHRISTCHURCH, New Zealand (AP) — American pilot Elgin L. Long flew over the South Pole today and became the first man in history to make solo flights over both the North and South poles.

The 45-year-old aviator from Woodside, Calif., left Punta Arenas, Chile, Sunday and after crossing the pole headed for the U.S. Navy station at McMurdo Sound.

The Christchurch headquarters of Operation Deep Freeze, the U.S. scientific program in the Antarctic, said a headwind slowed Long's twin-engined Piper Navaho turboprop aircraft on the flight from the pole to McMurdo.

Long left San Francisco Nov. 5 and flew over the North Pole to Stockholm. Then he flew south to London, Africa, Brazil and on to Punta Arenas.

From the Antarctic, he plans to fly to Australia, the Fiji Islands, Wake Island, Japan, Honolulu and back to San Francisco.

Doctor Chokes To Death

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

A Montreal physician choked to death while eating at a restaurant this weekend, one of at least 20 Canadians to die accidentally.

Another doctor eating at a nearby table performed a tracheotomy on the victim, a 58-year-old chief of radiology at St. Luc Hospital, using a carving knife to open his throat and clear the windpipe. But Dr. Gallelee was dead on arrival at hospital.

A Canadian Press survey from 6 p.m. Friday to midnight Sunday local times showed that 20 persons died in fires, one child drowned, two young persons died of carbon monoxide poisoning and 24 persons were victims of traffic accidents.

Two cousins were killed near Brampton, Ont., when their cars collided head-on on an ice-covered highway. Dead on arrival were Mr. and Mrs. Bruce Lyon of Caledon, and Mr. and Mrs. James Mason of Orillia, Ont.

Ontario reported 20 other traffic fatalities, a fire death, a drowning and the suspected carbon monoxide poisoning of Barbara Baumgartner, 18, and Gino Pivot, 21, of Hamilton, Ont. Their bodies were found Sunday in a car with its motor running in a garage.

In Quebec there were 22 highway deaths, two fire deaths and the choking fatality.

Newfoundland and Manitoba reported no fatalities.

New Brunswick reported three traffic deaths, Nova Scotia two and Prince Edward Island one.

Saskatchewan, British Columbia and Alberta reported one death each in traffic.

The survey does not include known suicides, homicides or industrial accidents.

The 55 traffic fatalities on the Ontario highways during the week bring the estimated total for the year on the roads to 2,365.

Jet Vanishes Over China Sea

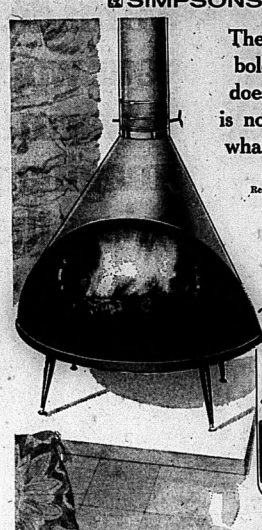
HONG KONG (AP) — A jet airliner disappeared Saturday night over the South China Sea with 25 persons aboard, Hong Kong's Civil Aviation Authority asked China whether it knew anything about the plane. Chinese aviation officials said no.

The request to China was made as search headquarters in this British colony began questioning a Manila report that had started a search in an area about 50 miles southeast of Hong Kong.

The China Air Lines Caravelle took off from Taipei Airport in Nationalist China, made a routine radio check 21 minutes later as it headed for the Chinese mainland, and then disappeared.

An airline spokesman said the plane carried 17 passengers and eight crew members.

Search headquarters here received a report from Manila just after midnight Saturday night that a "beeper" distress signal had been heard from an area between 45 and 50 miles southeast of Hong Kong.



Hong Kong authorities began a search, but nothing was found.

Subsequently, Manila air-sea search rescue headquarters reported that the "beeper" signal was on a maritime frequency and that it believed the broadcast was an "unrelated incident."

Hastings School Board Halves Top Administrative Staff

By LENNY WILLIAMSON
Staff Reporter

In a dramatic move Monday night, Hastings county board of education cut its top academic administrative staff from 10 to five men.

The cutback in personnel will take place over a one-year period, with two administrators retiring at the end of 1971 and two more at the end of 1972.

The resulting saving will amount to $40,000 in 1972 and $72,500 by 1973.

The move said director of education Eric Ramacres, is in line with the goal of the board when it was created 1½ years ago — to develop self-sufficient schools, each operating within its community with a minimum of administrative superstructure.

By 1973, academic administration will consist of the director and four superintendents. The business administration will remain unchanged.

Reduction of staff will be accomplished by attrition as retirements occur. Executive assistance Roy Dulmage and associate superintendent J. M. Scully will retire at the end of 1971.

Superintendents D. C. Skilling and L. F. Reid will retire at the end of 1972.

The new administrative setup, effective immediately, is based on the associated school group. Eight have been formed in the county, each consisting of a second ary school and its feeder elementary schools.

One superintendent will be assigned to two associated school groups. Frank Tate will be responsible for North Hastings and Centre Hastings. Glen Watson will be in charge of BCI and Trenton. Robert Horwood will be in charge of Quinte and Moira. Centennial and Bayside will be shared by D. C. Stirling and T. E. Morris until Mr. Stirling's retirement in Dec. 1972.

In the year before his retirement, superintendent L. F. Reid will be special assistant to the director of education, will retain responsibility for professional development of teachers and will take on a new position in public relations.

In a joke statement at noon today, board chairman Donald Williams said the director of education said the parting of administrators was possible because of the performance of incumbent officials and the leadership of school trustees.

The cutbacks are unique to Hastings county, said Mr. Ramacres and result from unique circumstances in the educational system here.

"The potential of the principals here is higher than in other places I have worked and the effectiveness of the business branch is outstanding," he said, citing in particular a saving of $50,000 in 1½ years through use of computer services.

The co-operation and awareness of the general public is a major factor, Mr. Ramacres added.

"The people of Hastings county are aware, concerned, and anxious to support a good educational system. They ask questions and demand answers as people in other places do not."

Ad hoc, task - oriented groups is the way administrations will operate in the future, and the educational system in this county is in the vanguard of the changeover, the director indicated.

Library Plans Still Unsettled

Extension Vs. Branch

By ROY PEACOCK
Staff Reporter

Despite discussion lasting for more than an hour, Bellevile city council still hasn't given approval for the construction of a new library addition.

Cost of the two-storey extension planned for the city's downtown main library is estimated at $250,000 but there is a feeling on the part of at least some council members that the new facility should be in the form of a branch library preferably on the Centennial Secondary School property.

Also entering into the problem is where the city would find the funds in its capital works program for construction of the facility in 1972.

Council decision yesterday was to table the matter for a report from the city manager at the next meeting of council.

The library question was before council two weeks ago but was tabled to allow board representatives to state their case in favor of an extension at the downtown facility rather than a second branch library.

Board chairman Merritt Hackett outlined the plans for the proposed two-storey extension with 8282 square feet of floor space.

He admitted the cost estimate of $30 per square foot was high but said site problems and the fact that the structure would be attached to the existing building were contributing factors.

Mr. Hackett said consideration had been given to the possibility of a branch library in the city's west end or at the Quinte Mall.

But site costs would be high and two branch libraries would be required.

India Claims Planes Bagged

By The Associated Press

India said three Pakistani jet fighter planes were shot down in a dogfight near Calcutta Monday as both the Indians and Pakistanis reported heavy fighting along East Pakistan's borders.

A cabinet minister told a cheering Indian Parliament in New Delhi today that the U.S.-built F-86 Sabre jets were shot down by four Indian-built British Gnat jets 30 miles northeast of Calcutta. A fourth Pakistani fighter escaped, said V. C. Shukla, minister of defence production.

Shukla said the Indian flyers intercepted the Pakistanis three miles inside India. He reported that the Pakistani pilots bailed out of their shot-up planes and two of the three were captured.

The minister said all four Indian planes returned safely to their base.

Radio Pakistan reported that President Agha Mohammed Yahya Khan ordered a state of emergency throughout Pakistan because of a "threat of foreign aggression." The reason for his proclamation was not clear since Pakistan has been under martial law since March, 1969.

Pakistani broadcasts charged that India had launched an all-out offensive into East Pakistan at four scattered points.

The Indians said East Pakistan's Bengali rebels made large strikes across the border and denied that Indian troops were involved.

"I see the crime figures are up again, Brutus!"

Mailmen Decide Against Strike

OTTAWA (CP) — Letter carriers have ruled out immediate strike action in favor of further last-ditch talks with the government on post office use of casual labor.

The decision announced today ruled out, at least temporarily, further rotating walkouts such as recent ones in Ontario and the Maritimes after the department refused to extend throughout the service an adjudicator's decision in support of three union members who complained of lost overtime because casual workers had been used on unmanned delivery walks.

In a telegram to Postmaster-General Jean-Pierre Cote, the union leaders set one condition for continuing talks. If an adjudication decision, now being appealed by the government, is upheld, the government must agree to apply it to all union members.

There was no immediate response by the post office or treasury board, the government branch which handles contract matters with public servants.

The letter carriers union says categorically that it does not object in any way to the normal hiring of additional labor to help at the post office during the Christmas rush.

Corporation Chieftains Pleased By Conference with Trudeau

OTTAWA (CP) — The leaders of Canada's wealthiest and most powerful corporations emerged satisfied after a three-hour meeting Monday with Prime Minister Trudeau and half his cabinet.

Both government and business leaders expressed satisfaction with the meeting, held behind closed doors in the Parliament Buildings. The businessmen had requested the meeting in a September letter to the prime minister.

V. W. Scully of the Steel Co. of Canada Ltd., Hamilton, told reporters the 36 businessmen present were a little bit worried that they weren't paying enough attention to us and our views.

Mr. Scully, spokesman for the businessmen, said they received no concessions from the government and no assurances of specific changes in planned government legislation affecting business. The businessmen had not sought such concessions—all they wanted was a frank exchange of views.

Despite leading questions, he repeatedly declined to express dissatisfaction with government policies.

"We accomplished exactly what we hoped to," Mr. Scully said. Both sides agreed in principle to further such meetings.

St. Clair Balfour, president of Southam Press Ltd., said the next such meeting would probably be held within two months.

A similar meeting of cabinet ministers with top labor officials has tentatively been set for December but no date has been picked.

Yves Pratte, chairman and chief executive officer of Air Canada, said the meeting was "pleasant." There were no harsh words spoken—"none whatsoever."

Mr. Trudeau said the businessmen had asked for a meeting specifically to discuss proposed changes in labor relations legislation that would give unions negotiating rights in the field of technological change but the government broadened the meeting to include the proposed new Competition Act and the economy in general.

Mr. Scully said the meeting did not discuss the possibility of wage and price controls, the concept of a screening agency to control foreign investment, possible further aid to industries hit by the United States surtax on imports, or government measures announced Oct. 14 to stimulate the economy.

Industry had "no real complaint" to present. But the businessmen were disturbed by the enormous volume of complex and difficult legislation before Parliament affecting industry.

Without commenting on the merit of the proposed legislation, Mr. Scully suggested that implementing all of it at once would have the effect of "smothering us."

Part of the businessmen's reassurance may have been due to the fact that some of the government's legislation appears likely to be withdrawn and substantially revised.

Labor Minister Bryce Mackasey's bill to make technological change a matter for labor-management negotiation is stalled at the introductory stage and likely to die on the order paper.

Ron Basford, minister of consumer and corporate affairs, has said his proposed competition act, which would modernize existing legislation restricting mergers and unfair trade practices, will die this session and be reintroduced with changes.

M. Scully said that the businessmen were not given "the faintest idea" what changes would be made in the competition bill.

British Doctors' Advice

Eat What the Hell You Like

LONDON (AP) — An inexpensive package tour of the alimentary tract that came out today says burping isn't good for you after all.

The little red book, published by the British Medical Association and written by Dr. Clifford Hawkins, aims to demolish some myths of bygone days" about indigestion, constipation, hangover, ulcers, piles and stomach pains.

There is no such thing as indigestible food, says the book.

When someone finds that lots of different foods "upset the stomach," he or she is more likely to be suffering from nervous indigestion than any disease of the stomach itself."

For the ulcer-stricken executive, the book has definite advice:

"Don't worry about your ulcer—it is likely to heal and will never become malignant."

Worry and stress and strain is unlikely to cause an ulcer, but it may make an ulcer worse once it has developed."

The little book recognizes that its prescription of "never worry" is easier to give than to follow.

"This, to be effective, ought to be accompanied by a gift of a suitable income, a carefree occupation and the provision of a different spouse, if indicated," the book admits.

"Eat what the hell you like," is wise counsel and should be proffered more often, it adds.

Board Okays Administration Pay Increases

Hastings County board of education last night approved a salary hike for top academic administrators and business, secretarial and clerical staff.

The director of education's salary was raised from $30,000 to $32,000 annually. Superintendents D. C. Sinkling and L. F. Reid will drew $25,500 during their last year with the board, an increase of $1,000 over their former salaries.

The remaining superintendents also received an increase of $1,000 a year, from $23,000 to $24,000.

"These salaries are related to secondary school principal's salaries of $20,500 and are in line with the average salary for similar officials in other counties and below the level paid by most industries of this size and scope of operation," said the chairman of the academic and business committees in a release today.

All other non-school academic staff was granted an adjustment in line with the 5.5 to 6.5 per cent previously granted to the teaching staff.

Business, secretarial and clerical employees received over-all percentage increases of about 6.5 per cent.

City to Receive Bigger Subsidy

City council will seek immediate senior government approval for two provincial-municipal employment incentive projects with a total cost of approximately $23,000.

The projects would be to hire additional workers to catch up on a backlog of office work in the city's public works and police departments.

Council okay for the two projects was given yesterday with a request for provincial approval to be sought immediately.

The city has an allotment of approximately $20,000 under the provincial-municipal employment incentive program.

At the same time, however, council tabled a recommendation from the Recreation-Arena Committee asking acceptance of a program under the Youth Employment Project 500.

The idea would be to employ six unemployed students for the next five months to do a community survey of senior citizens, the purpose of which would be to collect information to assist in program planning.

But as it turns out, the initial deadline for Project Seven is planning a similar program and Alderman Robert Jeffrey suggested there would be overlapping.

The matter was tabled for two weeks to allow committee officials to confer with the PUCs.

Mayor J. R. Scott suggested that maybe a little more liaison between the two bodies was needed.

Approval Sought For Two Projects

The Ontario government has changed its mind on the amount of subsidy payment it will allow on last summer's widening of North Front Street and the city stands to benefit by something like $16,500.

Originally Queen's Park refused the city's request for a 75 per cent payment on subsidizable portions of the road widening project, pointing out that it had already contributed when the street was rebuilt a few years ago.

But the city didn't take no for an answer and renewed its request with the result that the government will now allow the 75 per cent subsidy payment on $63,000 of the project cost, as well as 50 per cent on another $21,218.

As a result, the city will receive about $58,763 subsidy for the project instead of $42,125.

"We are very grateful," commented Mayor J. R. Scott as he announced the increased subsidy payment to council.

Signs Warn Trespassers Away from Sandbanks Property

Banks Sand Being Stockpiled

Bruce Price, vice - president of operations at the cement plant, said yesterday that sand now is being stockpiled in preparation for the temporary summer halt of haulage.

This step is viewed as a co-operative gesture toward Mrs R.. F. Barratt, who with her husband, operates Sandbanks Beach Resort adjacent to Sandbanks Provincial Park.

Mr. Price explained summer visitors at the Barratts' holiday resort use land near the quarry site for parking facilities and a temporary cessation of quarry-operation would interfere.

Mrs. Barratt observed yesterday that last summer trucks roared past her resort as early as three a.m. and added that bulldozer spotlights disturbed campers vacationing at Sandbanks Beach resort.

In protest, she said that she and her husband contacted several municipal officials and spoke with Mr. Price.

Night quarrying was stopped but trucks moved into the sandbanks at 5 a.m. each day.

Mrs. Barrett noted that several summer visitors told her that they would vacation at her resort longer if not for being awakened at 6 a.m.

Mrs. Barratt, for several weeks, has contended publicly that the cement plant is hauling away increasing amounts of sand.

She remarked yesterday that the quarrying has increased in the past year and said the number of loads seems to have tripled in recent months.

Mrs. Barratt added that the cement plant is stock-piling this winter for the first time.

The resort operator said regular summer visitors were "astounded" this year by the levelling of the dunes.

Mr. Price denied the company is hauling more sand than it has previously drawn and emphasized there is an annual requirement of 60,000 tons.

He said haulage could not be viewed accurately in truck-loads per day due to varying daily demands. The plant spokesman described haulage as "an irregular thing".

Stock-piling is being done to omit the necessity of haulage "in periods of time when it is inconvenient to haul".

Mr. Price commented that an alternate sand source remains "a very vague thing still" although a government has indicated other sites have been considered.

He said that three or four alternate sources were examined last year but none was feasible.

Mr. Price, who asserted he is personally interested in ecology, noted the cement company has a legal right to quarry at the Sandbanks and will continue to do so until an alternate site is found.

Mr. Price explained he does not feel the plant's operations will affect the Sandbanks significantly.

He suggested that photographs of the Sandbanks taken in the early 1930s indicate the dunes have risen in the West Lake area by several hundred feet. For this reason it seems difficult to rationalize that present quarry operations are affecting the Sandbanks to any marked degree.

The plant spokesman added that unhampered encroachment of the sand on West Lake and fringe lands would have allowed the dunes to creep three to four feet a year over private property.

Mr. Price agreed that the thing has been distorted so badly it's disturbing to us." He referred to recent protests of quarrying at the Sandbanks and its predicted effects.

"As an individual I am very concerned with ecology" he added. He asserted the cement plant is interested in this issue and said it does not wish "to leave scars over the face of the earth."

Mr. Price noted however that until man inhabits a world where cement is no longer demanded it will be impossible to close down cement plant operations. A harmonious co-existence between industry and its neighbors was suggested.

The cement plant according to Mr. Price, has spent millions of dollars to protect the environment.

He remarked that concerned citizens can visit the cement plant near Picton to see for themselves the tonnage of sand required in operations and to observe that there has been really no appreciable changes and perhaps even a slight reduction in the amount of sand extracted.

Mrs. Barratt yesterday emphasized the importance of tourism to Prince Edward, and speculated that some stores might not survive without the tourist trade.

She said many visitors here are disillusioned when they visit Sandbanks Provincial Park and do not see the sand dunes so often mentioned. It is necessary to cross private property to reach them.

The resort operator complained that many persons do trespass to reach the dunes, breaking bottles and cutting trees on their treks.

"If it were controlled it would be great," she ventured.

She added the area of quarry operation is dangerous because of the vertical cliff of the sand and mentioned that a youngster died while playing nearby two or three years ago.

Mrs. Barratt said an inquest was held and a coroner's jury recommended guard at that site or a high fence surrounding operations.

She said neither precaution was taken and commented operations don't seem to be carried out with full co-operation toward public safety.

The gates leading to the quarry site are marked with signs reading "Do Not Enter" "No Trespassing" and "Private Property".

Beauty Contest, Parade Plans Near Completion

This year's Santa Claus Parade may turn out to be one of the most widely distributed parades in Belleville's parade history.

Through the co-operation of Loyalist Cablevision, the video of the parade will be made, complete with sound, and the tape will be shown at the Belleville General Hospital.

The idea of taping the taping caught the attention of other area hospitals, and so far Trenton Memorial Hospital and the Prince Edward County Memorial Hospital have indicated that they would be interested in a showing of the film.

The idea of taping the event sprung from the fact "if the kids can't get to see the parade by going to it, then the parade should be brought to them. That's what parades are for."

Besides the videotape coverage, a three - man camera crew also from Loyalist College, will be situated on the parade route, recording on movie film highlights of the parade to be shown one week later on the Kingston television station, CKWS.

This showing of the film is being sponsored by Maurice H. Rollins Limited, and will be shown at 7 p.m. Saturday, Dec. 11," said Frank Foley, chairman of the parade committee.

"Judging from the number of phone calls," said Mr. Foley, "it might become necessary to show this videotape or film at various other locations, perhaps homes for the aged."

A committee member, reporting on the progress of the Miss Santa Claus Parade beauty contest to be held this Friday, said: "all is going fint. Most of the entrants have formally approached the committee from the area schools and all the technicalities have been ironed out."

Miss Santa Claus Parade, to be chosen in the Centennial Secondary School theatre, will participate in the parade and later travel to the hospital with Santa to visit with the children and pass out candy.

In the evening she and her escort will be the guests of the Four Seasons Hotel for dinner and music. She will also be accompanied by Mr. and Mrs. Foley.

To get also the spirit of the season all are invited to attend the Friday evening beauty pageant at 7:45 p.m. Representatives will be coming from most schools in the area to compete for the crown and the title of Miss Santa Claus Parade.

Entertainment for the evening will be supplied by the Centennial Secondary School Concert Orchestra.

"The Zoo" 6 parade itself is shaping up to be at least as big as last year" say representatives of the committee.

There will be at least 50 units floating in the parade as well as nine marching bands, four majorette groups, the Quinte Western Cloggers Party and the Highlands of Hastings Pipe Band.

To highlight the parade, Bobby Gimby will lead a choir of sixty-strong in the singing of his now famous work, C-a-n-a-d-a.

The parade committee also reminds any children who want to take part in the parade they may obtain costumer Friday, Dec. 3 after 4 p.m. at the police department. An they would also remind anyone interested that this Thursday marks the last day for registration for floats and large groups in the parade.

Weekend Hunters Wear Out Welcome

AMELIABURG (Staff) — Weekend hunters from surrounding centres have worn out their welcome in this township.

Residents on the Roxmore to Carrying Place Road, west of Ockerdonk's Hill complain about strangers with guns driving up in their cars and entering upon private property without first seeking the owner's permission.

Apartment Broken Into

Sandra Finkle, a resident of apartment two, 64 Charlotte Street, returned home shortly before 5 p.m. yesterday and discovered a thief had slipped her door lock.

A quantity of silver and several items of clothing, valued at $50, had been removed.

The break-in occurred sometime between 8.30 a.m. and 4.50 p.m.

City Council Delays Decision on Library

He stressed the need for a strong central library and said that anything less than the proposed $1.5 million would be a "mediocre arrangement."

The new extention, providing an enlarged reference room, art gallery and meeting room together with expanded film library facilities, would take care of the city's needs for the next 20 years, he said.

Chief librarian Miss Olive Delaney said construction of more branch libraries rather than the planned facility would weaken the library position by dividing the available book collection.

Linton Read, former library board chairman, said the library is the "heart and soul" of the city.

He asked that the library extension be kept downtown where it would best serve the needs of the people.

He said the location of libraries near schools was not as important as formerly as more emphasis was now being placed on new school libraries.

Alderman Donald Sudster made a strong appeal for consideration of the Centennial Secondary School property as the site for a branch library instead of the downtown extension.

He claimed a branch library at the old school would provide a valuable after school facility for the school area recreational complex.

"A library should be one facility in a multi-use complex," the alderman intisted.

He felt there was justification for changing library hours to allow evening use or even opening on Sundays.

The $30 per square foot cost estimate for the proposed downtown library extension was of concern to the alderman, who said this was at least one third higher than the rate for new schools.

In answer to the possible high site costs for branch libraries mentioned by Mr. Sudster, Mr. Alderman said the school site cost would be minimal.

Alderman Ben Corke and Jack Ireland wondered about financing of the library extension, the former asking where the additional $125,000 would come from when there was only half this amount in the capital works budget.

City Manager J. R. Reynolds said the 1972 capital works program would be up for review in the near future.

Library Extension Still Up in Air

The parking lot off Campbell St. behind the Belleville Public Library is the site proposed by the library board for extension of present Pinnacle St. facilities. City council yesterday failed to reach agreement on the $250,000 project, contenting a west end branch should have priority.

Bicycle Licences to Return

In an effort to curb the rising incidence of bicycle thefts the city of Belleville will reintroduce a system of licensing which was dropped some years ago.

Approval for the licensing was given by city council yesterday on the recommendation of Police Chief Douglas T. Crosbie.

Chief Crosbie said his department was concerned over the increase in bicycle thefts, which to the end of October this year had seen no less than 389 bikes disappear.

Of these, 123 had been recovered and only 17 persons had been charged as a result of the thefts.

Comparing Belleville's record with other municipalities the chief said that in centres where licensing was in effect, fewer thefts were recorded and there was a higher recovery rate.

The chief recommended a system of perpetual licensing which would see the same plate remain with the bike as long as it was under the same ownership. Cost of the licence would be $1.

Chief Crosbie said bicycles were no longer a $25-$30 item with some of the more elaborate mag-speed machines now selling for as much as $150. Some of the imported machines did not carry serial numbers.

Under the new regulations it would be an offense to operate a bicycle without a licence or a serial number.

Also on the recommendation of the police chief, council approved the licensing of driver training schools in the city.

Report Lease Signed Lifts Council Eyebrows

A report that Hastings County Social Services committee has renewed the lease for the city's day care centre on Fahey Street without Belleville's approval resulted in raised eyebrows at city council yesterday.

The matter was raised as result of a letter from Hon. Thomas L. Wells, minister of Social and Family Services, who advised that provincial assistance for construction or renovation of day care centres was available through the province's winter works incentive program.

The question was raised whether Belleville might be able to take advantage of the provincial program but council was told that the lease for the rented day care centre accommodation had already been renewed for another five years.

The Belleville day care centre is run by the Hastings Social Services Department with the city paying the bills for the operation.

Alderman Jean Smith quoted a social service department official as saying that the lease renewal for the Fahey Street quarters had already been signed and that it was doubtful if advantage could be taken of the provincial offer.

Alderman Smith added that the Belleville YMCA was asking for funds to open a day care centre in the east end of the city.

Mayor J. Russell Scott said he was concerned that the county body would sign the lease on behalf of Belleville without coming to city council for approval.

"We make all payments and I, do not think they are empowered to lease," he said.

Alderman Jack Ireland, one of the city's two representatives on the county committee said he and committee chairman Mrs. Steve Barbara Allen had discussed the lease renewal with the owner and recommended it be signed.

Today, however, county administrator Carl Bateman said the day care centre lease was not signed.

Student Tour Not Approved

BLOOMFIELD, (Staff) — Prince Edward school trustees have not yet approved a student tour of Rome planned while classes are still in session at Prince Edward Collegiate Institute.

Jeffery York, a grade 12 student at PECI, spoke with board members last night to ask if a decision had been reached concerning permission for the 45 pupils involved to make the brief trip.

James Plomer, vice-chairman of the board noted the tour, if approved, would represent the first trans-Atlantic trek by students and described it as a "pioneering thing."

Director of Education John McNeil observed there are 365 days a year, with 185 instructional days and 180 days without instruction. He said he considered travel educational but asked why the tour could not be made when school is not in session.

The student seeking the board's decision explained that planes are filled in holiday seasons.

It was agreed to further discuss the proposed trip.

Canning Industry Story Told

By MARGARET HAYLOCK
Staff Reporter

PICTON (Rural) — When understanding supplied the topic for Prince Edward County fruit and vegetable specialist Robert Cobbledick as he discussed farming past and present with members of the Picton Kiwanis Club last night.

A native of Essex County, Mr. Cobbledick expressed his interest in "the history behind the roadsides" in Prince Edward.

He referred to a number of old canning factories scattered through the county and remarked that a factory opened in Picton in 1882 by Wellington Booker became the second in Ontario. By 1890 the county boasted eight factories which amalgamated to form Canadian Canners and by 1909 the count dwindled eight factories which amalgamated to form Canadian Canners and by 1923 this organization controlled 49 Ontario factories.

Because of a lack of co-operation between growers and the larger canners in the 1930s, Independents began to appear. Hallowell Canners was established in 1925 and dissolved after only one year of operation was 45 per cent.

By 1950 the canning boom was on and in the village of Bloomfield 11 factories were operating. At that time Prince Edward grew 30,000 acres of processing crops and canned 70 per cent of Canada's total pack.

"The hardest blow at our canning industry," said Mr. Cobbledick, "was in 1957 when Canadian Canners was sold to California Packing Co., you likely know of it as Del-Monte."

The speaker added he did not feel an autopsy on the agony of the canning industry that died at this point offered much value.

"It's not all doom and gloom, Prince Edward County still grows more peas than any other county in Ontario and her six processing companies are canning or freezing 23 per cent of Ontario's peas.

This year, for the first time, Prince Edward could boast of completely mechanized harvest. None of the stationary pea vines is used any longer; the entire pea crop is harvested with mobile viners.

The tomato industry in Prince Edward is supported by 17 factories in the Quinte district, 14 of which process wholepack tomatoes.

"We survive so far," said the speaker, "because no one has perfected a machine or a process which will peel tomatoes as effectively as women, so where labor is at a premium they should wholepack tomatoes and concentrate on tomato products like catsup, juice, ketchup and tomato soup.

"If the wholepack becomes mechanized, can we adjust?" he asked.

Mechanization has a companion problem in imports, according to Mr. Cobbledick. He noted that Ontario produces 350,000 tons of tomatoes for processing yet 36 per cent of this present production is imported as processed puree sauce from Italy and Portugal. Approximately 70 per cent of the imported sauce comes into Ontario.

Large international canning companies travel to undeveloped countries like Portugal and buy tomatoes at a fraction of the cost paid in Ontario. Labor costs are minimal.

Portugal then exports 95 per cent of her paste to countries like Canada.

Mr. Cobbledick suggested Canada might attempt to reduce growers' cost of production, employ time-saving techniques or purchase plants cheaply from Georgia in an effort to combat low cost imports.

The fruit and vegetable specialist discussed alternate crops considered by some small canners fearing the inevitable loss of tomato processing.

Raspberries became the obvious choice but could not compete in price with other canned fruits such as apple sauce, peaches or pineapple.

The outlook brightened with the successful trial of a raspberry harvester at the farm of Elmer McFaul in Prince Edward County. A second harvester later was purchased by East Lake Canners. These two mechanical raspberry harvesters are the only ones in Ontario.

White beans and asparagus also have been considered as alternate crops in the county.

Mr. Cobbledick noted Ontario's problem is marketing, not production and said the Canadian farmer's marketing problem is in a nutshell, is lack of government concern for our industry.

The speaker noted that Canada in 1970 imported $95 million more agricultural products that it exported.

He discussed trade barriers between Canada and other countries and noted it seems unfair to farmers that the Canadian government is using agriculture as a pawn in international trade.

He said Canadian farmers are subsidized less than any other economically comparable country in the world — approximately $250 per farmer in comparison with $1,200 in the United States.

"All we want is for you to understand our problem: we don't need heavy trade barriers. I feel we'd actually benefit agriculturally and industrially if we had free trade with the U.S. because we'd be right in the middle of the market," he commented.

Mr. Cobbledick addressed Picton Kiwanians during the farm-city week included in their program.

Bayside Opening Deadline Moved

The possibility of getting students into Bayside Secondary School by Jan. 1 is growing more remote every day.

Sidewalk superintendents have predicted since construction began that the school would never be finished by the target date.

But board of education administrators have insisted that the contractor would make good on his promise.

Monday night administration admitted defeat, and presented a full report at the next meeting on what to do with Bayside's $15 students.

They are now accommodated on a three - day - a - week shift basis at Trenton High School.

"Lots of dividends have come out of it (the shared facilities) due to the patience of staffs and students," commented director of education Eric Banacres.

He added that the question now for the board is to decide what use to make of the space available to accommodate the students.

"It's best to let them stay where they are until the end of the school year," said Raymond Rowe, who represents the ward of Bayside, while most Bayside students come.

Downtown Rowdies Annoy Alderman

A notice of motion calling for more police action against vandalism and for stiffer penalties for offenders will be before city council at its next meeting.

Alderman Jack Ireland told council yesterday that many residents were refusing to come downtown because of rowdyism, flying bottles and foul language being used on the streets.

The alderman didn't fault the police, who he said were doing an "excellent job," but said stringent regulations resulted in force members being cautious about their conduct.

"Maybe police regulations are too stringent," he said.

Alderman Ireland also asked what council could to do get stiffer penalties for offenders so they won't do the same thing the next night.

He also felt something should be done to speed up court cases so that stolen property could be returned sooner to owners.

He noted one case where a television set had been stolen some months ago and the culprit was still before the courts.

Mayor J. Russell Scott admitted that the police commission was concerned over the problem and was taking action to come up with an answer.

That answer, he said, was not providing more police officers.

"What the police need is more support," he said. "It's okay if the police get pounded (by young offenders) but if they use force there is a great outcry.

"The pendulum has swung too far," he said.

Mayor Scott said when the police commission has the answer to the problem a report will be made to council.

The Special Employment Plan:
Canada works
when we work together.

There's work to be done and the Federal Government's Special Employment Plan is putting $498 million to work to help create more jobs for Canadians.

Your community can benefit by creating a project that will bring more employment and improve the community through the Local Initiatives Program.

Workers may improve their skills or learn new ones through the extended Canada Manpower Training Program.

People with little work experience can receive training because the government will assist employers financially through the Training-on-the-Job Program.

Sandbanks

In advising that an alternative source of quarrying must be found before cessation of commercial operations at the Sandbanks, Ontario Premier Davis does not give any hint of what efforts the government (whose responsibility he admits it is) is making to find such a source.

All he says is, "we shall continue our efforts . . . but I cannot hold out hope at the immediate cessation of the sand removal."

We know there are jobs at stake, and these must come first, but the government should not lose sight of the need to find an alternative supply. Just where such a supply might exist is another matter. We find it strange that environmental authorities, conservationists and the like, seem to be silent on this issue. If such a source of supply does in fact exist, whether in Hastings or Prince Edward, we should think attention would be drawn to it swiftly.

If it does not exist then it is bad news for the future of the Sandbanks. The tone of Premier Davis' letter to a Sandbanks beach operator is not promising. Indeed the letter may be no more than a polite way of saying there is little or no hope of an alternative supply.

First Snow

The first snowfall of any consequence as we get into the winter season has brought treacherous driving conditions and a number of accidents in its train. There was one fatal mishap on 401, a man being killed and his wife seriously injured. Three of their children were reported less seriously hurt.

Such are the kind of tragedies that may be expected when weather conditions deteriorate suddenly. Drivers often fail to allow sufficiently for the conditions or are unaware of icy patches on the road ahead. We heard of one narrow escape on 401 when a light European import was thrown momentarily out of control by a wind gust on a slippy surface. Frightening also are the fast speeds maintained by drivers of heavier vehicles in these circumstances. Sometimes it appears as if drivers are inviting trouble.

So far we've seen nothing yet of course, as far as winter is concerned; nothing that is, compared with last year's surfeit. Still, this last weekend has been a warning to begin adjusting our driving habits to the conditions.

Incidentally we saw a couple of Belleville's new mini snowploughs out doing their thing. They are small tracked vehicles with enclosed cabins and very nifty looking.

Egyptians Threaten

Either Egyptian President Sadat is just putting on the dog again, or else he is being monumentally naive in his estimation of what his country is ready to march against Israel.

Admittedly, it must be frustrating for the Egyptians and other Arab nations to be laboring under the continuing humiliation of previous defeats by the Israelis, as well as the appropriation of territory in the same confrontation. But this is something Egyptians have to live with.

Unless the Egyptians have grown stronger in equipment and in the resolution and skill of their armed forces, the outcome of another war with the Israelis is likely to be further defeat.

Another thing, is Sadat counting on the support of the Arab neighbors? They were of little help during the six-day war of 1967, and there is no guarantee that a united Arab front would be any more effective in another confrontation. As for giving the Israelis advance warning Mr. Sadat, as we have suggested, becomes even less believeable.

Peking Image

That life under Communism seems to encourage a rather spartan atmosphere, as well as a disregard for such decadent western interests as fashions, trips to the hairdressers for the women and that sort of thing, is reflected by the return of the Peking delegation to the United Nations.

The male and female members of the delegation, as we have come to recognize from stories and pictures emanating from China in the past, all wear the same type of uniform garb. Two women members moreover, pictured during a recent UN dialogue on disarmament, exhibited the sort of devastatingly plain hair stylings last seen in the Western World around the 1920s.

We wonder if Peking will find it necessary to rotate its women delegates rather often, lest they become corrupted by the sinful Western ways. For example, what if alternate delegate Miss Wang Hai-yung or interpreter Miss Tan Wun-shong show up one day wearing wigs?

Private Bill Brought Both Together
Diefenbaker and NDP's Max Saltsman Hit It Off

By RICHARD JACKSON

OTTAWA — Think of two more "un-likes" on the parliamentary scene than Max Saltsman and John Diefenbaker.

Difficult, if not impossible, eh?

There is Max; 50, trendy with moustached, hair a bit on the longish side, mod suit, wild shirt, wide tie, habitually a grinning good humor and high so-titled hopes, sipping with the old go-go, the seventh year New Democratic MP for Ontario's Waterloo riding.

And there is Dief, 76, square, clean-shaven and shorn, straight suit, white shirt, dark tie, agloaming with dire predictions of "frustrasters" and socialistic calamities, still a quietly humming generator of human power for 31 years Conservative MP for Saskatchewan's Lake Centre and Prince Albert.

Two totally different parliamentarians they could not find.

Yet there is Max Saltsman, laughing and talking non-stop and leaning over Dief's desk, and there is the Old Chief talking back as non-stop, and both are getting through to each other.

There is an odd empathy between these two, each of character.

Initially they met when Max Saltsman, running in the by-election that brought him into Parliament, entered the old Irregular Hotel to attend a campaign committee meeting, found Dief planted there in a big leather chair, spark-dab in the centre of the lobby.

And, of course, the Chief was the focus of attention.

There was no way Max Saltsman could make an end - run around Dief, so up he strode, and leading into an introduction, allowed, a bit timidly, "I guess you don't know who I am, but . . ."

"Indeed I do, young man," growled the Chief. "You are Max Saltsman and we are going to beat the trousers off you."

But they did not, and have not managed to since.

The first time their House of Commons paths—at first glance so wildly divergent — crossed was when Max Saltsman had written a Private Member's Bill which, if passed by Parliament, would have exempted Indians from tax-payments into the Canada Pension Plan.

A sect strong in Max Saltsman's rich and beautiful agricultural - industrial corner of Central Ontario, they were objecting to Pension Plan inclusion on religious grounds.

It was a good bill, soundly drafted, ruled the Law Clerk of the Commons on scrutinizing it for technical imperfections.

Only catch was Max Saltsman did not have a seconder.

Not one MP in the New Democratic Caucus would support the bill because, he suspected, they all demurred on grounds there should be no — repeat no — exemptions from the Canada Pension Plan.

The NDP was locked tightly into the principle of universality.

So Max Saltsman, well knowing that the Old Chief was always a great defender of the rights and privileges of minorities, approached Dief in his office, asking whether he might consider seconding the bill.

With the signature of the Old Chief on the bill, it would carry a parliamentary guarantee of a respectful hearing if it got passage.

"Having trouble getting somebody in your Caucus to second it, young man?" grinned Dief, his feet on back in them and left them that Dief is willing to be your seconder and see what happens."

So Max Saltsman did.

And on hearing the news that the Tory Chief was waiting in the wings to sign the bill, Max Saltsman was all but bowled over by the rush of New Democratic MP's suddenly anxious to co-sponsor it.

Their third encounter came in the Winnipeg airport at the beginning of a four-hour layover waiting for the next flight to Ottawa.

Both had come in from the West and there was Dief swamped by worshipping partisans happily pressing autograph pens around him until take-off.

Dief was dead beat, and for once, showed it in the grey lines of fatigue etched in his drawn face, and the droop of the tall, usually ramrod straight figure.

Max Saltsman could see that Dief secretly was wishing the worshipping throng would disperse and leave him alone.

So in he sailed to the Old Chief's left ear, and told them that Dief is willing to be your seconder and see what happens."

So Max Saltsman did.

So in he sailed to the Old Chief's left ear, and told them: "I guess we'll make ready to go on board now, Mr. Diefenbaker."

"Ah yes, I suppose so," replied Dief, beginning to rise to his stand of 6'3" height, shrinking with the local Tories who wondered who Max Saltsman was.

"Our MP," Dief told them, straight-faced, "from out of the Old Ontario Hideout."

And so they left the Chief to repose in peace and quiet until he and "our MP" went aboard.

Father and son? Matt and Jeff? Snoopy and the Red Baron?

All of these things, maybe, but most of all two politicians of wildly different philosophies but a mutual love of life and laughs.

Senate Committee's Report on Poverty
Well-ordered Life of A Wolf

The Globe and Mail

The basic problem of the poor is that they are poor. This may not seem like a revolutionary discovery by the Senate Committee on Poverty, whose report Senator David Croll tabled recently, but it is.

It is revolutionary because Canada's welfare programs, at a cost of $6-billion a year are not directed to aiding the poor. They are directed to providing a minimum income for those who do not work, and to providing universal programs — oldage pensions, family allowances — for those who do not need help as well as those who do.

But 60 per cent of the poor are working, often for wages that give them a smaller income than welfare would. These poor moreover, incredibly — pay a higher percentage of their income in taxes than middle- and upper-income taxpayers. For instance, 60 per cent of the incomes of those earning less than $2,000 a year is drained off in taxes, while those with $7,000 comes over $10,000 with 27 per cent in taxes.

The poor receive smaller incomes, pay more taxes, and have less access to services which could improve their productivity and therefore their lot — health, economic and education services. It is late but one example: 64 per cent of boys in prosperous Saskatchewan and British Columbia stay in school until Grades 11 and 12 — improving their capacity to earn — compared with only 29 per cent in impoverished Nova Scotia. A lifetime of poverty is thus built into youth from the beginning.

It is an immense program, and a decade for its completion is probably an underestimate.

There will be many who will find many aspects of the program.

Yet it cannot be dismissed, because it is Canada's first honest approach to poverty. It would throw away the principle of the handout. It would recognize and tackle the real causes of poverty. It would aim at putting the poor to productive work instead of tempting them to stop work and go on the dole. It would recognize who the poor really are — all those millions who are poor, not because they can't work or won't work, but because they are paid slave wages or are insufficiently skilled to do work that commands a living wage. It would recognize the need of those who genuinely can't work. It would reserve indignity for those who can work and won't.

We Can Learn from It

By Gordon C. Haber in The Globe and Mail

(Mr. Haber, a doctoral candidate in zoology at the University of British Columbia, is conducting long - term studies of wolves and their prey in Mount McKinley National Park, Alaska.)

Wolves are perhaps the most social of all sub-human vertebrates. A pack of wolves is not a snarling aggregation of fighting beasts, each bent on feeding only for itself, but a highly organized, well disciplined group of related individuals or family units, all working together in a remarkably amicable, efficient manner.

One pack, in Alaska's Mount McKinley National Park, whose behavior I have followed closely for six years, typifies the highly social nature of Canis lupus.

The members of this pack are ranked according to the strict convention of a dominance hierarchy — a kind of pecking order — in which each adult knows its position of authority and there are few if any instances of overt strife (in some 900 hours of watching wolves in the wild I have yet to see a case of all-out fighting within an established pack).

Most important, however, this highly developed social organization seems to result in a very efficient division of labor within the pack, with the top-ranking adults assuming the most important responsibilities. The pack leader or "alpha" male — the strongest, fastest, wisest, most experienced wolf in the pack — has the ultimate decision-making power and his authority is unquestioned. He sires the young of the pack and the pack relies on him in critical situations. His mood usually dictates the mood of the pack, and his behavior usually reflects his authority in a variety of ritualized ceremonials.

It is the second - ranking (beta) male, however, who directs most of the routine activities of the group almost as a kind of co-leader or strong assistant to the alpha male. The beta male often takes the initiative when the pack is on the hunt and during the early part of the denning season when all the whelping female even more closely than does her own mate. The alpha male — although all individuals participate to some extent in the duties of hunting and caring for the mother and young.

Perhaps by more intensively studying — not persecuting — species so similar in behavior to that of our ancestors, we can learn much more about ourselves.

Aid for U. S. Subsidiary

Editor,
The Intelligencer:

In view of Prime Minister Trudeau's petulant complaints while in the USSR about the plight of the "mouse" Canada being in bed with an "elephant (the USA)-I find it incongruous that whereas the Regional Development Plan, the Federal Government is giving a $236,000 grant to Aerovex Canada Limited in order that they might move their plant from Hamilton to Amherst "where wages are from 25 to 30 per cent lower).

Significantly, the firm (which makes electrical components and air conditioning systems) employs 45 workers and is a subsidiary of Aerovex Corporation of the USA — which made a profit of $750,000 in 1970.

The idiocy of the "mouse" financing the "elephant" while the mouse community goes hungry shows sheer lunacy and would signall even a grade 9 economist. In fact, any housewife handles her budget a lot better than our current "experts" in Ottawa. Come to think of it, no housewife would be tegg and board would tolerate the bulez taking over the house in the first place!

Smiths Falls Fire Loss

Ottawa Journal

The magnitude of Smiths Falls' million dollar fire loss is made clear by a return look at the 1970 report of the Fire Marshal of Ontario that year the largest single fire in the province caused $956,000 damage. Only eight municipalities had a total yearly loss from all fires in excess of $1 million. From 1961 to 1970 inclusive, with 50 times the population of Smiths Falls, had an average total loss per year of $2.7 million. Smiths Falls in the same period had an average of 31 fires a year with an average loss of $18,000 a year.

But the tragedy goes beyond figures. The services provided by 13 businesses cannot be in a city be easily and automatically provided by other business men. Fifty people are temporarily without jobs and another 50 without a place to live in a town where accommodation is not plentiful.

Self-Care Praised

Editor,
The Intelligencer

We wish to direct your attention to the commendable experiment in patient care presently being conducted under the auspices of the Belleville General Hospital.

Many don't require the expensive bed care provided by the hospital yet are not physically capable of returning to an active home life.

Under the surveillance of our surgeons, family physicians, and nursing staff, we encourage each other and this co-operation results in a speedy return to self-sufficiency.

Being treated like a guest, not a patient, trusted to take your own medication, and permitted to select your meals from a menu in a restaurant atmosphere, convinces us we are well on the road to recovery. This allays the fears of our families.

We suggest that anyone whose doctor recommends a stay here follow this stimulating home, take advantage of the opportunity.

THREE GRATEFUL PATIENTS

Ottawa Le Droit: From within or without, or maybe both, something is trying to destroy the Parti Quebecois. The manoeuvre is dangerous and could end in total disturbing.

As much as it is to be wished that the separatism of Quebec from Canada be averse be realized, it is also to be hoped that it will be accomplished by democratic means if it has to happen.

Certainly we do not wish it, let there be no mistake. The impossible must be attempted to avert it. But impossible we began doing everything to satisfy the legitimate aspirations of Quebec, democratically, within Confederation.

It could happen, unfortunately, that we are unable to stop it . . . but should happen, secession should be accomplished in peace and order to minimize the damage suffered at the break.

At the moment, the Parti Quebecois has the desired guarantees of peace and order. If it loses them . . .

Because of that, it is vital that the Parti Quebecois survives to channel discontent until the federal government and Quebec find the appealing formulas to end it.

TODAY IN HISTORY

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

Nov. 23, 1971 . . .

The third worst train wreck in India's history occurred when a train plunged into a river 170 miles south of Madras 15 years ago today — 1956 — with a loss of 141 lives. Rescue teams worked for days to retrieve bodies from the river bed, India's worst train wreck took 171 lives in 1947.

Successful Living

Mother Shooed Off to Meetings Many Years Ago

By DORIS CLARK

Speaking of babysitting 20 years ago, (were we?) a certain father I know encouraged Mother to have a part in public affairs. Gradually he sent her off to meetings of WCTU (a la grandmother, what that means), considering this his chance to be with the kids.

He loved these unscheduled playtimes and talk times, and so did they. If he discussed the politicians' latest plan for home bungalo or manifest rendors or new street lights, the kids decided it all up and added their own rare opinions.

We don't know what we can do and we try. Why not involve our junior types in more than ten to ten activity — in at least some of the things which go on at city council meetings?

Dear Doris: It's like this. The father marries again and the second wife gets property, bank account and all that the first wife worked and slaved for.

A woman told me how hard her mother worked up until she was 65 when she died. Her father married a year later and the second wife got everything. The daughter didn't get a bean.

When a father marries again should that part of what the first wife earned go automatically to the children? — Heartsick and she leave a will saying so?

I suppose since a wife gets no wages they would claim

Ann Landers

Must Apologize for False Rumor

Dear Ann Landers: Our 16-year-old daughter Betty looked depressed and seemed unusually quiet all through dinner. She ate almost nothing. I knew something was wrong and I hoped she'd tell me. She didn't, so at bedtime I went to her room and asked what was the matter. She broke down and confessed terrible thing she had done a terrible thing. She started a rumor that a girl in her class who had been absent from school two weeks was having an abortion.

The absent girl returned today and someone told her about the rumor. She became so upset she had to be taken home. Betty is a wreck. She says she doesn't know why she did it. She will do anything to get it off her conscience. What can she do? You know how hard it is to put down a false rumor once it gets started. Please advise.—Need Counsel

Dear N.C.: There is only one way to get this matter straightened around. Betty should go at once to the girl and her parents, confess that it was she who started the rumor and ask them if they can possibly forgive her. She should then go to each person to whom she told the lie and confess that she made up the story. I agree, false rumors die hard—because people who start them rarely have the courage to confess. I hope your daughter learns a lesson that will stay with her the rest of her life.

Dear Ann Landers: I'm a good cook but I'm no magician. I can't wave a magic wand over a four-pound roast and make it big enough for a family of six plus three extra people. Why can't my husband get this through his head?

Clyde works for a big company and someone is always in town, either a customer or a purchasing agent. He also has a couple of free-loading brothers who have a habit of dropping by Clyde's office just as he is leaving for home. They tag along and of course I have to ask them to stay with us. What else can I do at six o'clock?

What's more, Clyde doesn't open up another can of beans and add more potatoes to the stew, but when it's a customer or a purchasing agent I have to give the kids peanut butter sandwiches in the kitchen. I think this is very unfair.

Is it unreasonable to ask a husband to phone first? Even a half hour's notice would help. It would at least give me a chance to comb my hair. I've asked him a dozen times. Maybe if he sees himself in the paper he'll get the message. Thanks, friend.—Sue Prized

Dear Sue: From now on put the burden on Clyde. Tell him if he brings home unexpected guests you aren't going to do one thing different—the meal will be served as planned and the kids will stay at the table. No apologies, either. Just a small announcement, "Smaller portions, everybody. We have unexpected guests." But about your hair, Kiddo. You could comb it just for him, couldn't you?

Dear Ann: My boyfriend, age 17 and a high school senior, is very proud of the fact that he can drink six bottles of beer and not show it. He also says he would never become an alcoholic because he doesn't like alcohol. He loves beer and has to have at least three bottles every night. I'm worried. Should I be? —The Nag

Dear Friend: A high school kid who prides himself on his capacity for beer consumption is heading for trouble. Drinking beer exclusively will not insure him against alcoholism. Some alcoholics drink nothing but beer. They are called "beer drunks."

Quinte Medical Secretaries Hear Talk Dealing with 'Self Care' Unit

Dr. Reg Anderson, area coordinator of the Self Care Unit at the Queen's Motel was guest speaker at the regular meeting of the Quinte Medical Secretaries' Association held at Education Hall.

A short business period conducted by the president Mrs. Diane Maxwell, who also welcomed members and guests, dealt with plans for the Christmas dinner to be held at the Four Seasons Hotel. Each member was reminded to bring an unwrapped gift to be donated to the Prince Edward Health Association for distribution to patients in the Trenton memorial. Mrs. Joyce Hyde spoke briefly on the importance of QMSA as a means of planning a bake sale to be held at Simpsons-Sears.

Mrs. Mae Cathcart accompanied Mrs. Beth Cunningham on the observer's tour of Ontario Medical Secretaries Association' House of Representatives' meeting in Toronto when various topics were discussed including membership eligibility. The 1972 convention is to be held at the Skyline Hotel in Toronto and plans for this event are well under way. At this time it was also noted that local secretaries writing the correspondence course were advised that papers must be mailed by the 25th of the month to reach the markers in time, and if these were not mailed on time there would be a penalty imposed.

In his opening remarks Dr. Anderson explained the intention and purpose of this most recent advancement of health service. He stressed that organization and good relationships between the key note to total health care services and that health service is considered the key to the most largest industry in the province. There appears to be a lack of proper distribution of medical personnel and demands for health services are dramatically increased because of the increase in population.

Since World War II there has been an ever-increasing need to obtain adequate health services. The final factor was the complete adoption of universal coverage throughout the various provinces. It was considered that the doctor's workload has increased since the inception of OHSIP.

Dr. Anderson continued by saying that in 1964, Dr. Matthew Dymond, Minister of Health, formed a Council of Health, which included as members, presidents of universities, deans of medicine, dentists and nurses, to act as a senior advisory body to the Minister in all matters pertaining to health. By 1975 the cost of health care is rising.

It is intended that "self care unit" will relieve the facilities such as home care program and extended care units at hospital, and to be mobilized out when the patient, whether recovering from acute illness, surgery, medical or psychiatric illness, is not quite ready for discharge from hospital, will be discharged to the "self care unit". This is a research project sponsored by the Provincial Government and this the only community in Ontario offering such a system.

A question and answer period followed.

Dr. Anderson was thanked by Mrs. Mae Cathcart.

A few days after this meeting a surprise "farewell" party was held in honor of Mrs. Mae Cathcart for Mrs. Beth Cunningham, who is leaving for Australia for an extended visit with her daughter and family. Mrs. Cunningham has been associated in the medical secretarial field for the past 12 years, having spent this time as medical secretary to Dr. D. Horne.

The next regular meeting of the QMSA will be held Jan. 12, 1972.

Deaf Taught by Computer

EDMONTON (CP) — A computer has worked well in a test to teach deaf children how to read.

Vic Muller, director of the pilot project, said he is pleased with the results.

The 39-year-old graduate student in education received an $8,000 grant under the Opportunities for Youth program to develop a reading experiment for the deaf using the computer.

Mr. Muller, who has his master's degree in education and now is working on a PhD, was joined in the project by seven other students.

The aim of the program is to complement the present schooling for deaf children by giving them more creative language experience and by helping them develop better skills in reading, Mr. Muller said.

"It is too complex to describe in 50 words. Essentially it is pairing words with pictures."

Two television screens are used to teach the deaf to attach word meanings to pictures. One screen shows the image, the other the words.

For example, a picture of a cat flashes on one screen with the word symbolizing that picture. The second screen flashes up to four words, one of which is cat. Using a light pen the child points to the appropriate word.

If a child's choice is incorrect the next picture still appears but the computer is programmed to tally the result.

If the child has not learned the material at the end of the series, the computer will take him through a program reviewing the material.

The computer decides on the basis of each individual child's response how rapidly he will move through the series.

The next step is basic language structures—an advance from words to simple sentences to more complex sentences.

"At present, we are developing the program so students can read simple sentences," Mr. Muller said.

"We are teaching the older ones (eight years old) and if it works, we will proceed to the younger ones (six years old)."

Eight Edmonton eight-year-olds were given the course this summer. The course now is available to the Alberta School for the Deaf.

GIRL GUIDE, BROWNIE NEWS

1st CARMEL GIRL GUIDES

The 1st Carmel Girl Guides began its year at Harmony Public School with Miss Pat Matthews in the capacity of Captain and Mrs. Dorothy Kozak as Lieutenant. Patrols were formed and emblems chosen. Patrol leaders elected were: Bonnie Parks, blue bird; Debbie Donaldson, Kingfisher; Sandra Hamilton, scarlet tanager; Debbie Lawday, swallows, and Tammy Reid, orioles.

A number of happy events have taken place since the beginning of guide year, some of which included a Hallowe'en party held jointly with the First Carmel Brownie Pack, a camping weekend at Waupoos, and the Company attended a Junior B hockey game.

On November 17, enrolment ceremonies were held with Mrs. Alta Schieder, Division Commissioner enrolling Marjorie Peck, Elain McWilliams, Lori Reid, Kim Kozak, Angela Haynes, Barbara Beaudrie and Debbie Holgate into Guiding. Receiving badges were: Tammy Reid, swimmers and athletes; Debbie Donaldson, athletes; Guides and swimmers; and Sandra Hamilton, swimmers. Service stars were presented to Debbie Donaldson, 2-yr.; Bonnie Parks, 1-yr.; Debbie Webber, 1-yr.; Susan McMurter, 1-yr.; Janice Meeks, 1-yr.; and Debbie Lawday, 1-yr.

A gift was presented to Mrs. Pat Howell the retiring 1970 Captain, as well as one to Mrs. Dorothy Kozak, who has moved to Napanee.

A special thanks is extended at this time to Mrs. Denise Porter, Miss Susan Payne and Mr. Dennis Atkins, who have volunteered their time to assist the Company in various projects — Miss Payne for her assistance in stalking and tracking exercises; Mrs. Porter for an educational presentation in first aid, and Mr. Atkins for his assistance in drug and alcohol education.

Master of Your Mind

by JOHN CONNELL

Can only a topnotcher provide a 'spark'?

NO, someone doesn't have to be the best in his or her field to fire up his or her associates to do their best. Take John "Blondy" Brown, a rather soft-spoken second baseman of the old New York Giants. In 1933, when the club was slumping and he was ready to rejoin his teammates, after being shelved, he said this writer: "It's the can't-lose. I'm on my way." Ryan set off a burst of enthusiasm that carried the Giants in the pennant and on to World Series victory.

When will a couple know they need counseling?

ALMOST IRRESISTABLY, A couple doesn't need a big blowup. The first named a husband in the divorce action. He complained to his wife; the instant a wife experiences a sense of uneasiness when she hears the first on the receiving end of a complaint, she knows a confrontation they derive from forceful control of their children, and they are dispelling their youngsters of the chance to regard other human beings as complete persons not as rivals for or obstacles to their goals.

© 1971 King Features Syndicate, Inc.

Does toughness make kids accept reality?

NO. Parents who think stem tactics in rearing their children will help them accept the hard facts of life are merely deluding themselves. They are using that excuse to justify the satisfaction they derive from forceful control of their children, and they are depriving their youngsters of the chance to regard other human beings as complete persons not as rivals for or obstacles to their goals.

Laurel Rebekah Lodge Marks 51st Birthday

A roast pork dinner with all the trimmings was served by the UCW of Mount Pleasant to the members and guests of Laurel Rebekah Lodge 311 on the occasion of the 51st birthday of the Lodge at the IOOF Temple, Stirling. The invitation was given by the Chaplain, Sister Betty Johnson.

Following the toast to the Queen, Sisters Alice Sine PNG and Gladys Elliott PNG were invited to light the 51 candles on the attractively decorated birthday cake. Sister Kathleen McMullen, Jr. PNG introduced the head table guests. The past Noble Grands and Past District Deputy Presidents were introduced by Sister Gladys Sine PNG. The toast to the Past Noble Grands was given by Sister Dorothy McCaughan and responded to by Sister Isobel Good PNG. Solos were rendered by Sister Verna Woodbeck PNG, Sister Kathleen McMullen, Jr. PNG presented the Lodge with a coat-rack, to be used in the banquet hall. Appreciation to the women of Mount Pleasant was voiced by Sister Nora Wannamaker PNG.

The Noble Grand, Sister Madeline Walker, welcomed 75 members plus Sister Betty Campbell, Noble Grand of Tweed Lodge. Sister Campbell presented a birthday gift from her Lodge and Sister Walker thanked her on behalf of Laurel Lodge. Sister Cora Bailey of Peterborough was also welcomed. Sister Ruth Jardine, District Deputy President of district 4, was escorted to her chair through a guard of honor formed by Sisters Isobel Good PNG; Ada Keating; Lillian Johnson PNG; Verna Woodbeck PNG; Eileen Woodcox PNG and Irene Hogle PNG.

The vice Grand, Sister Marjorie Stapely, reported cards and visits had been sent and made to sick members. Brother Charles Carter PNG reported on the work of the CP and P Committee.

Sister Marion Heath, PDDP, reported that the Masonic banquet for the Grand Master W. R. Bailey was very successful and thanked all who helped in any way. Sisters Cora and Evelyn Bailey each thanked the members on behalf of Laurel Lodge in honor of their brother.

All were sorry to hear of the resignation of Sister Mildred Sharpe from the office and Sister Ruth Jardine, DDP installed Sister Margaret Sine as Inside Guardian. Sister Ruth thanked Laurel Lodge for the invitation extended her to attend the birthday party and wished the Lodge every success for the future.

Various Office Problems Discussed at NSA Meet

The November meeting of the National Secretaries Association, Bay of Quinte Chapter, was held at the Hotel Quinte, Nov. 16 with five guests present — Anna Kay, Trenton, Katie Brickman, AOCO Ltd., Belleville, Peggy Thistel, AOCO Ltd., Belleville, Mary Squire, Mead Johnson, Belleville, Edie Griffiths, secretary to Paul Smith, a lawyer in Campbellford.

The program for the evening was in the form of a general discussion group with social guest, J. N. (Nels) McKibbon, vice-president of Manufacturing, AOCO Ltd., Belleville, present to give management's view on some of the public relations issues. Mr. McKibbon was introduced by June Attfield.

Some of the problems under discussion were 1-a person assuming the role of supervisor; 2-dealing with a domineering co-worker; 3-employers misconstruing lateness of secretaries; 4-the beginner trying shortcut methods; 5-selling the boss on a dictating machine and 6-requests for donations or collections in the office. Hypothetical situations were presented in each case, discussed thoroughly and given Mr. McKibbon's viewpoint.

Mr. McKibbon closed the discussions saying that all the points covered were people problems for which there is never just one solution. He said "We must establish goals for accomplishing what the group is aiming for, not the personal accomplishments.

He sees the manager - secretary relationship as a personal one - to - one relationship with no pat answers on how a secretary can best assist her boss. Three basic rules Mr. McKibbon feels are important are loyalty and honesty — or telling it the way it is. He said "It is a time for the communication of ideas and expressing yourself concisely in all walks of life.

He feels a secretary should not be hesitant in saying what she means and telling her boss what she thinks is wrong. He hastened to add that the secretary may not always be right and the boss may not always agree that there is a problem but there is the communication of ideas.

The third rule he called The Golden Rule. He suggested you put yourself in the other persons shoes and try and determine why he acts the way he does; and treat others the way you would like to be treated. Mr. McKibbon felt that this rule more than any other was the key to dealing with all the problems discussed earlier.

He said that perhaps a good secretary should be measured by her ability to relate to people and not entirely on her technical qualifications which could help to eliminate some of the problems with relationships with bosses.

Mr. McKibbon was thanked by his former secretary, Miss Thelma Schlievert.

President, Gabrielle Watkins presided over the business meeting. A nominating committee was selected with Sherry Meldrum, chairman, and Cathy Ellis and Marjory Cross as members. Committee reports were received with the program chairman reminding that the December meeting was being held earlier in the month with the guest speaker, Ronald Cass, Q.C.

Registrations were taken for the speakers bureau classes on public speaking.

The lucky draw for the evening was won by Mrs. Evelyn McIlquham.

MR. AND MRS. WALTER ISAAC VANDERLAAN

Vanderlaan – Oosting

Maranatha Christian Reformed Church was the setting for the November 6 wedding of Roelofje Lubertha Oosting, daughter of Mrs. F. Oosting and the late Mr. F. Oosting of Stirling and of Walter Isaac Vanderlaan, son of Mr. and Mrs. M. Vanderlaan. Rev. E. Gritter was the officiating minister while Wayne McCurdy, organist and Lana La Chappelle, soloist provided music for the occasion.

Given in marriage by her brother, Jan Roelof Oosting, the bride wore an Elizabethan style gown of satin peau featuring a wedding band collar, full skirted sleeves gathered by wide cuffs and frills at the wrists. A wide frill adorned the hem of the full length skirt while the whole gown was enhanced by an overall trimming of chantilly lace roses. A chantilly lace edged cathedral length veil of pure silk illusion was held in place by a Juliet cap trimmed with seed pearls and rhinestones. She carried a cascade bouquet of red sweetheart roses.

The matron of honor Mrs. Harry Vreugdenhil, the bride's sister wore a full length empire style gown with a bone colored bodice and brown skirt of fancy jacquard crimplene. She wore a brown crocheted floppy hat and carried a continental crescent of gold daisy 'mums and bronze tinted 'mums.

The bridesmaids Rebecca Fell and Ingrid Vanderlaan were dressed identically to the matron of honor except that their skirts were gold colored. They wore floppy hats and carried similar bouquets.

The flower girl Tanya Vanderlaan the bridegroom's niece was dressed almost identically to the matron of honor. She wore small orange velvet bows in her hair and carried a basket of yellow daisies and bronze-red 'mums with a background of fern and ivy.

The best man was Andy de Vries while guests were ushered by Dick Vreugdenhil and Tony Vanderlaan.

The reception was held at Batawa Community Centre. Guests were greeted by the bride's mother in a three-piece orange knit suit with black accessories and a corsage of bronze and yellow tinted 'mums.

Assisting her was the bridegroom's mother in a two piece crimplene suit consisting of a gold dress and green jacket with black accessories and a corsage of bronze tinted 'mums.

For the wedding trip to Florida the bride and bridegroom left in identical outfits consisting of a purple suede vest printed purple and white shirt and black slacks. The bride wore a corsage of yellow daisies and orange-red 'mums.

Upon return the couple will live in Peterborough.

SOCIAL and PERSONAL

Prior to her recent marriage Mrs. Walter Vanderlaan (nee Roelofje Oosting) was honored at a shower given by her class mates at the home of Jane Bush; at the home of Mrs. M. Vreugdenhil and at the home of Mrs. H. Scholten.

Party Held For Couple Wed 40 Years

Mr. and Mrs. Allen Browning were honored recently at the Elk's Hall to mark the occasion of their 40th wedding anniversary.

Members of the family, who were hosts for the party were all present and these include Bert of Belleville, Marlene Lloyd of Shannonville and Donald of Ottawa. There are also nine grandchildren.

A fine program was enjoyed with Charlie Savills of Stirling as master of ceremonies. Music was provided by Evelyn Bush "Smokey" Nelson with several numbers contributed by Carmen Lloyd of Ottawa and played the electric guitar.

Tasty refreshments were served and the couple received many lovely gifts.

Guests were present from Frankford, Stirling, Trenton, German's Landing, Toronto and Ottawa.

Church Groups

FRANKFORD CWL

FRANKFORD — The November meeting of the Frankford Catholic Women's League was held in the parish hall on Wednesday.

Father McGarvey opened the meeting. Mrs. McKeown, the president expressed her thanks for a very successful tea and bazaar and to all who worked.

Mrs. McKeown gave a report on th eregional meeting held in Marmora on November 7. A number from the parish attended. A cheque was presented to Father McGarvey for the parish.

The next meeting will be December 8. This will be the Christmas party and each member is asked to bring along a lady of the parish and a small gift.

The meeting was adjourned and two tape recordings were played.

Lunch was served and a social time enjoyed.

Trudeau Confirms Leak Of New Cabinet Paper

OTTAWA (CP) — Prime Minister Trudeau confirmed in the Commons Monday that his government has sprung another leak.

He told Opposition Leader Robert Stanfield an investigation is going on to determine how a cabinet paper on aid for Indian education and cultural centres got into the hands of Harold Cardinal, president of the Alberta Indian Association.

Mr. Cardinal produced the document Sunday on the CBC-TV program Weekend to back up his charges that Indian Affairs Minister Jean Chretien is holding back money for a proposed Alberta Indian cultural centre.

According to the confidentiall paper, dated July 29, the Alberta project was to be the first Indian cultural centre financed by the federal government. Mr. Cardinal raised the suggestion that the money was being held because of a current boycott of federal schools by children from Alberta reserves.

Mr. Chretien, who was said to be Commons Monday when the issue was raised, said in an interview that he will answer all questions today in the House.

But he denied the charges that Ottawa was holding back any money from the Alberta group. It took time after a cabinet decision was made to put it into force, he said.

The cabinet paper on Indians was the third such secret document to become public without the government's blessing.

A report by Revenue Minister Herb Gray—or a draft of it—on foreign ownership was the first; the second was a cabinet minute which said cabinet agreed in principle on a screening process to keep foreign ownership under control.

Opposition spokesmen assailed the government both on its inability to keep secret decisions secret and the contents of the paper itself.

Mr. Trudeau at first declined to discuss the matter, saying it wasn't constitutionally proper for a minister to discuss contents of any alleged cabinet document.

But he conceded under later questioning that he had asked for an investigation into the matter.

Lewis Wins

TORONTO (CP) — A judicial recount in the Toronto-area Ward riding has given Stephen Lewis, leader of the Ontario New Democratic Party, four more votes than were reported election night, Oct. 21.

Richard Kirkup, Progressive Conservative party candidate who asked for the recount, came second with 12,922 votes —170 behind Mr. Lewis.

Liberal Frank Flaubert had 7,594.

10 Provincial Ministers Draft Agriculture Plan

OTTAWA (CP) — Canada's 10 provincial agriculture ministers joined forces Monday in an apparent solid bloc to present federal Agriculture Minister H. A. Olson with an extended substitute plan to current federal agriculture policies.

The plan was released during the two-day annual federal-provincial farm outlook conference.

But while about 200 representatives of farm organizations and lobby groups discussed economic and commodity outlooks, the provincial ministers huddled all day in closed session with Mr. Olson trying to harmonize their ideas with federal farm policy.

The 29-page provincial plan results from discontent with federal agricultural development that surfaced during an Edmonton meeting with Mr. Olson in July. The ministers met in Toronto Saturday to work out the final draft.

The provincial leaders disagreed with the federal plan to ease unsuccessful farmers into other jobs, or retirement or force them to build up a better operation.

Their plan calls for controlled development of agriculture, improved farm subsidy programs, plans to keep alive small family farms, ideas for marketing farm goods and stabilizing income and prices, a new federal-provincial system of farm credit, plans for the sharing of farm markets by farmers producing the same goods and a new policy for grain.

It urges an immediate program to help farmers hit by the U.S. surcharge on dutiable imports—most pressed of farm products—and government action to offset the adverse effects on Canadian agriculture of Britain's entry into the European Economic Community. Entry would mean additional tariffs on most imported farm goods.

It suggests import controls to protect Canadian producers against other countries attempting to penetrate Canadian markets, and other measures to "alleviate the major problems created by the free market economy."

It asks that domestic wheat prices be raised to $3.00 a bushel from current prices of about $1.70; that an agricultural export development corporation be set up to encourage agricultural trade; that the government pay the storage costs of wheat over 400 million, rather than 178 million bushels under the Temporary Wheat Reserves Act; that farmers help plan government agriculture policy.

Agriculture Minister Samuel Uskiw of Manitoba recently said proposals—then in the drafting stage—would be aimed at taking the "ball out of the federal arena." The provinces, he said, wanted the right to determine, with producers, Canadian agriculture policy.

There was no immediate reaction to the proposals—the ministers refused comment and farm leaders asked for time to study the document—but it brings to a head matters that have festered within the industry for some time.

On three major areas—marketing, grain policy and credit —the federal government is known to have conflicting ideas with those in the document.

In marketing, there is agreement that an orderly system for commodities needs to be developed. In fact, market-sharing agreements among egg producers followed a Supreme Court decision last spring that ruled unconstitutional a plan by Manitoba that would have restricted free interprovincial trade in eggs.

Similar market-sharing agreements have been reached by Ontario and Quebec milk producers with the Canadian dairy commission and national agreements are being drafted by broiler and turkey producers.

But, while the federal government wants co-ordinated marketing of farm goods under six farm products marketing legislation, the provinces want a committee to be responsible for the marketing of each commodity, and they want representatives from both levels of government and producers on the committee.

Producers and government agencies also would enter into a signed agreement when producers decided to set up a marketing agency under the provincial plan.

The provincial plan is at variance with the federal feed grain freight assistance policy, which is handling system and with a plan to stabilize grains incomes proposed by Otto Lang, minister responsible for the Canadian wheat board, but withdrawn after prolonged Commons opposition.

The provincial system would allow B.C. and eastern livestock producers to buy western feed grain at the same price foreign buyers pay. The foreign price now is lower, since the domestic price of feed grain is related to the price of U.S. corn.

The ministers want a stabilization plan with greater federal contribution to a joint government-farmer fund from which grain growers could draw in lean years.

'Heart Attack' Foiled Robbers

GALT (CP) — Harry Curtis feigned a heart attack Monday and foiled two masked men who tried to rob his supermarket.

Mr. Curtis, 42, said the men, one carrying a shotgun, forced their way into his office in the store shortly before noon and demanded money.

"I stood up and then I just slumped forward and collapsed to the floor, he said.

and Mr. Curtis groaned.

The pair fled empty-handed.

Western Canada Party Plans Membership Drive

EDMONTON (CP) — With most of its policies settled, the fledgling Western Canada party is turning its attention to a membership drive and a leadership convention, Roy Stephenson said Monday.

Mr. Stephenson, the party's public relations chairman, said in an interview the method for starting the membership drive now is being worked out and, because the "kitty is low, it may be necessary to launch a simultaneous fund drive.

"Up to now weve been concentrating on policy formulation and now we're set to go on a membership drive."

He said a leadership convention is planned for late January in Vancouver and while no specific dates have been set so far, "we expect to have at least four candidates.

The membership drive will be concentrated in the partys main area of concern, from Thunder Bay, Ont., to British Columbia, with pamphlets outlining the aims and policies.

So far, the party has declined to provide information on its membership numbers.

"We also want to take advantage of radio and television interview programs and will make party speakers available for interested groups and organizations. Mr. Stephenson said.

The party has vice-presidents in each of the four western provinces; they form the executive with President Douglas Ligertwood of Winnipeg.

Its main policy is to promote a united voice for Western Canada in Parliament, a voice now fragmented by MPs with differing political views tied to party policies and leaders who are "eastern oriented.

Conceived about three years ago, the party didnt really get rolling until nine or 10 months ago and "I think you could consider it a party of alienation, not separation, Mr. Stephenson said.

As policy, the party says the monarchy should be retained, English should be the official language in Western Canada and discriminatory freight rates and tariffs affecting Western Canada should be removed.

A firm booster of increasing the use of the northern Manitoba port of Churchill, the party also advocates tight control of immigration during periods of high unemployment, strict antidumping laws and fixed election dates and terms of office.

Two Prairie PCs Back Trade Union with U.S.

OTTAWA (CP) — British Columbia Premier W. A. C. Bennett's proposal for economic union between Canada and the United States was taken up in the Commons Monday by two Prairie Conservatives.

Gordon Ritchie (Dauphin) and Jack Bigg (Pembina) said the trade link severed by British entry into the European Common Market must turn Canadian eyes southward.

"There is no greater obvious fact than that Canada is situated on the North American continent and the flow of trade will increasingly revert to north and south," Mr. Ritchie said.

"Especially in Western Canada, the north-south pull is enormous."

Mr. Bigg said Canada will be in serious trouble if a trading bloc isn't developed in North America as a counter-balance to the European Common Market and "Soviet and Chinese influence in trade."

Conservatives clashed heavily with New Democrats as the debate on government tax proposals focussed, often finally, on international corporate income.

Perry Ryan (Toronto Spadina) and other Conservatives warned that higher taxes on dividends received by foreign affiliates would drive home-based multinational corporations such as Massey-Ferguson and Alcan into other countries.

New Democrats led by Max Saltzman (Waterloo) said overseas investment should be taxed the same as domestic investment. Otherwise, money would be driven out of the country.

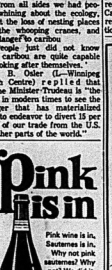
Canada shouldn't depend on international corporations, which were creating serious problems around the world. Seldom did they represent the interests of their own or other countries.

Grant Horner (PC—Crowfoot) said the Canadian corporation should "reach out and grab and make its place in the world."

He said government policy is that Canada's been the road of "creeping, seeping, luddites socialism."

Mr. Bigg lashed out at conservationists whose outcry, he said, had stalled or prevented construction of an oil pipeline from Prudhoe Bay, on Alaska's North Slope, through Canada to U.S. markets.

"From all sides we hear people whining about the ecology, about the loss of nesting places for the whooping cranes, and the danger to caribou.



"People just did not know that caribou are quite capable of looking after themselves.'

E. B. Osler (L—Winnipeg South) said Chrietien told that Prime Minister Trudeau is "the first in modern times to see the danger that has materialized and to endeavor to divert 15 per cent of our trade from the U.S. to other parts of the world."

But even Mr. Osler criticized the proposed clauses on home-based international corporations, saying the corporations might be discouraged from establishing foreign subsidiaries.

"By establishing in other countries, sometimes firms can protect and even create technical and non-technical jobs for Canadians," he said. "This could help protect tax revenue in Canada and even help our balance-of-payments position."

Patrick Nowlan (PC—Annapolis) said that while the U.S. is encouraging multinational corporations, as a means of correcting its trade imbalance, Canada seems to be doing the reverse through its tax legislation.

West Can Crow Come Sunday

Eric Emerson
Staff
Sports Writer

CROW FEATHERS. Yuk! Crow sandwiches. Blah! Even crow casserole! As you may have already gathered, I've been eating a bit of crow lately.

Yes, I picked the Toronto Argonauts to—pull their annual test act in this year's Eastern play-offs and yes, I had even picked the (shudder) Hamilton Tiger Cats to be in the Grey Cup. And, all right, I was the guy who knew that the Alouettes would make the playoffs and that Saskatchewan would win the Grey Cup.

AFTER ALL, everybody's entitled to a few minor mistakes. Didn't Sam Etcheverry cut George Springate because he knew Wally Highamith could handle the kicking chores (remember those five missed field goals) and wasn't it Jack Gotta who just knew that Gary Wood (Gary who?) would solve his quarterback problems this season?

How was I to know that some play-off time the only thing that Tommy Joe Coffey might be capable of kicking would be dogs and kids? Who could have guessed that Ed Tureski would handle punt returns like a man strangling snakes? And really, did anyone actually believe that one team could incur ALL of those roughing penalties?

I'M NOT A SORE LOSER, HOWEVER. Toronto is not going to choke next Sunday. They're not going to blow the big one. They won't play beneath their potential. They'll just lose.

O.K. doctor, just give me a few paragraphs to explain and then I'll go quietly.

THE ARGONAUT win over Hamilton wasn't really that impressive. In the second and early in the third quarter the Ti-Cats handily contained the potent Toronto offence. The Argos can't be stopped completely, but they can be contained. Calgary is the team to do it.

No one except swim wear advertisers can put the knock on Joe Theismann. He throws the ball a few times when he maybe shouldn't, but what a first year quarterback doesn't? The Notre Dame graduate has given the Boatmen something they've needed for a long time — a winner.

TORONTO'S other double blue chip performer is Bill Symons. The fullback is a solid, versatile ballplayer upon whom a team can count every game. The same certainly can't be said for Leon "Brand X" McQuay. The rookie started the season like a rocket and ended a wreck. If he can come up with a standout showing against Wayne Harris and Co., he probably deserves his rating as the East's best football player. I, for one, don't believe that he can.

PASSING could be the solution for the Argo offence but for four slight drawbacks. Their names are Helton, James, Suderman and Kolman and they compose as fine a defensive line as there is in the CFL. Theismann can throw if he has time but Helton and his playmates didn't allow Ron Lancaster that luxury and it's highly unlikely that the Toronto offensive unit can provide better protection than the Roughriders managed.

Offensively, Wally Gabler managed to move the ball against the Argos and no one as yet has accused Wally of being in Jerry Keeling's class as a signal caller. Hamilton showed in the first half that you can run against the Argos. If Kenny has his ground game working then his passing will be that much more effective. Look for the Stamps to test Dave Raimey, who was switched to Cahill from a superb offensive back to a suspect corner back.

IT'S AS SIMPLE AS THAT — crow today, pheasant on Sunday. Calgary can rest assured that they've joined the long line of winners that I've chosen over the years: this year's Blue Bombers, this year's New York Jets, the 1970 Montreal Canadiens. Edsel . . .

Jim's Lose Ground

Jim's Pizzeria tied their only Gas House Hockey League game this week, but lost rather than gained a point in the league standings.

The reason for the league leader's drop was a successful protest lodged by Mead Johnson against Jim's for the use of a player under the age of 21 years. Jim's had won the contest 6-3.

In action last night, the pizza makers were held to a 1-1 deadlock by Wilson Concrete, who have now managed a win and two ties in their three Gas House outings.

Dave Middleton scored the only goal of the game for Jim's with Chuck Rowbotham countering for the cementmen. Wilsons drew seven of the game's 18 penalties.

Cassidy Electric managed to nip Mead Johnson 3-2 in the other game played Monday. Boulter, Belnap and Thompson scored for the winners with Stewart and Adams replying for Mead Johnson. The losers were assessed four penalties while Cassidy drew three.

Murphy's Law Holds True

Murphy's law states that, "If anything can go wrong, it will." That law could well be applied to owner Ken Murphy's hockey team at the present moment, with his Belleville Quinte Senior A club mired in a seven game losing streak.

GEORGE GODSON

"When you're going bad like this it seems like everything is working against you," related coach Gene Poirier, "the other night against Barrie we hit the cross bar instead of scoring and you can't come much closer than that. These things- happen when you're in a slump."

The Quinte coach felt that his team was showing signs of shaking their loss string despite the fact that they dropped a 5-3 verdict to the second place Flyers — "We pretty well have to win six of a possible eight points in our next few games," he theorizes, "it's a tall order, I know, but I think that we can do it."

The Belleville team is expected to be at full strength for their 8 p.m. bout in Kingston tonight, with the exception of defenceman Pete Stoutenburg who has been transferred to Newmarket from his Peterborough job.

The team will have the services of George Godson, one of the top performers for the local this year. The smooth skating centre missed Saturday's game because of work commitments.

Western Wins

Western Tire Juveniles took a 6-2 decision from Gananoque in OMHA action Sunday.

Two-way standout Rob Potter and Mike Coogan each counted a pair of goals for the Belleville all-stars with Rick Meagher and Jim Richardson getting one each. Kevin Joudrey drew two assists.

Rangers Aided By Alex Bell

NEW YORK (AP) — New York Rangers, hottest team in town, would be nowhere without Alexander Graham Bell.

Emile Francis, general manager and coach of the Rangers, spends a good portion of Madison Square Garden, treasury each week on the telephone, talking to other National Hockey League teams. Sometimes the conversations pay off in trades.

Last une when the Ranger brass gathered for the amateur draft, Francis set his sights on Gene Carr, a hot shot who scored 106 points for Flin Flon Bombers in the Western Canada Hockey League. But he figured the youngster would be grabbed before New York's draft turn came up so he got on the phone.

"I started with Detroit," said Francis. "I figured Montreal would pick Guy Lafleur first and Detroit had second pick. I couldn't get their choice so then I tried Vancouver. I couldn't get that so then I went to St. Louis."

Enter Lynn Pittsburgh Penguins' first-round draft choice via an earlier trade and were holding on to it. St. Louis did deal their own first-round choice—No. 9 in the draft—to the Rangers, but the Blues grabbed Carr with their earlier pick. That didn't deter Francis.

"If you have your mind made up about what you want," Francis explained, "Once you want something, you just go after it."

So Francis went after Carr. The Blues started slowly and that helped the Ranger general manager's assault.

"You talk to just about everybody every day," said Francis. "And when a team is having problems, why you might call more often.

"You know who's looking for what. The Blues in no way would consider dealing Carr except that they were having troubles winning."

Francis wasn't the only one shopping for Carr, a 20-year-old centre.

"I knew there were other clubs bidding for him but I had confidence that we had the most to offer."

The Rangers put together a four-man package including hard-shooting Jack Egers and defenceman Andre Dupont to complete the trade.

Sid Abel, St. Louis' general manager, called Carr last Monday to inform him of the deal.

"He said 'we couldn't wait for you any longer,' " said Carr, recalling his conversation with Abel. So, after 14 games and three goals with the Blues, Carr became a Ranger.

Less than one week later, Carr scored two goals and two assists in his first game in New York and had the crowd buzzing.

"For his debut in Madison Square Garden," said Francis, "he was very impressive. I had hoped to say that back in May but it took us till November to get him."

Francis could afford to wait for Carr, even if Abel couldn't.

Seven Argos Picked

OTTAWA (CP) — Joe Theismann, rookie quarterback from Notre Dame who directed Toronto Argonauts to their first Grey Cup berth in 19 years, has led 10 of his team-mates on to the Eastern Football Conference all-star list.

Of the seven Argos named to the all-star offensive roster, Theismann and halfback Leon McQuay were unanimous choices of the Football Reporters of Canada who picked the squad.

The roster was announced Monday night by Jack Kelfman of Ottawa, FRC president. The voting was done prior to the EFC playoffs.

Hamiltor. Tiger-Cats, who lost to Toronto in the division final, were shut out from the offensive team, but placed three men on defence. Montreal Alouettes, last year's Grey Cup champions, won four offensive spots and three on defence. Ottawa Rough Riders put one man on offence and two on defence. ?

The teams:

OFFENCE

Quarterback—Joe Theismann, Toronto.

Running backs—Leon McQuay, Toronto; Peter Dalla Riva, Montreal; Dennis Duncan, Ottawa.

Flanker—Mike Eben, Toronto.

Centre—Paul Desjardins, Toronto.

Guards—Justin Canale, Montreal; Charlie Otto, Toronto.

Tackles—Ed George, Montreal; Ellison Kelly, Toronto.

Tight end—Mel Profit, Toronto.

Split end—Terry Evanshen, Montreal.

DEFENCE

Tackles—Jim Sullwagon, Toronto; Rudy Sims, Ottawa.

Ends—Jim Corrigall, Toronto; Tom Lapuka, Ottawa.

Middle linebacker—Steve Smear, Montreal.

Outside linebackers—Mark Kosmos, Montreal; Mike Blum, Hamilton.

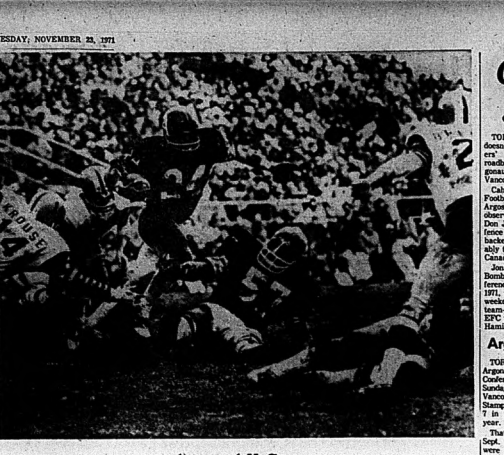
Theismann got all the votes at quarterback, the spot won last year by Gary Wood of Ottawa. For the 16 years before that, only three men had held the post—Sam Etcheverry of Montreal; Bernie Faloney, Hamilton, and Russ Jackson, Ottawa, Alouettes, and Faloney and Etcheverry, now coach of the Alouettes, and Faloney were all-star quarterbacks five years each; Jackson ruled for six years.

McQuay, a rookie, won unanimous approval at running back. Joining him in the all-star backfield is newcomer Van Ness and Duncan who was an all-star in 1969.

Eben won the distinction of taking all-star flanker honors in both conferences. He won the same spot on the WFC squad with Edmonton Eskimos last year.



Place-kicking guard Canale is a newcomer to the list, but Bray made it for a third consecutive year, edging Bill Danychuk of Hamilton, who had been an all-star for three of the last four years. Danychuk was shifted to tackle and picked up some votes there, although not enough to make the team.

Both offensive tackles are repeaters. George for a second year and Kelly back for a fourth time. Kelly won all-star status three years with Hamilton. He was traded to Toronto just before the 1971 season.

Profit, back for a fourth year in a row at tight end, took all but four votes at that position.

For Evanshen, it was his first EFC all-star selection, although he won the distinction four times as a split end with Calgary Stampeders of the WFC.

All but one of the defensive backs were veterans—Henley winning his ninth selection in a row, Luster back for a sixth consecutive year and Thornton for his second time in three years. Williams is the rookie of the squad with Gaines in for a fourth time—he won in 1966-66-67.

Beat Green Bay 28-21

Falcons Join NFL Title Fight

ATLANTA (AP) — It's a three-team race in the National Football League's West Division now and Atlanta Falcons feel that anyt ing can happen.

The Falcons jumped right into the fight with a 28-21 victory over Green Bay Packers in Monday night's NFL game televised nationally in the United States. They now trail the division-leading Los Angeles Rams by one game and the second place San Francisco 49ers by just a half-game.

"Anything can happen now," said Atlanta's defensive end John Zook, who along with the rest of Atlanta's front four made it bad for Green Bay quarterback Scott Hunter all night in the 31-degree weather.

Zook, end Claude Humphrey, and tackles Glen Condren and John Small each sacked Hunter once for a total of 31 yards and then Zook hit him in the end zone with just over a minute to go. Hunter fumbled out of the end zone for a safety, icing the Falcons' victory.

However, Falcon mistakes, especially in the kicking game, kept the Packers in the contest. Green Bay tackle Bob Brown blocked two placement attempts by Bill Bell, one on the first Atlanta extra-point try and the other on a 37-yard field goal attempt. Cornerback Doug Hart picked up the ball and raced 57 yards for a touchdown to give Green Bay a 7-6 lead in the second quarter.

With Atlanta leading 28-14 in the final period, Art Malone fumbled and Ray Nitschke recovered for the Packers at the Atlanta 24. On the next play John Brockington raced around the right side for 24 yards to put Green Bay right back in the game, 26-21.

But the Falcons' Tony Plum mer knocked a Billy Lothridge punt out of bounds on the Packer one-yard line with 1:04 remaining and on the next play Zook hit Hunter for the safety.

The Packers led 14-12 at half-time, but Jim Cannonball Butler returned the second half kickoff 82 yards to the Green Bay 19. Four plays later quarterback Bob Berry hit tight end Jim Mitchell for three yards and the go-ahead touchdown.

Billter got the second Atlanta touchdown on a two-yard run and Malone got the other two on one-yard plunges.

Hunter hit Donny Anderson for a 14-yard Green Bay score in the second quarter, set up by his 49-yard pass to Carroll Dale.

The loss dropped the Packers, now 3-6-1, deeper into the Central Division cellar. Atlanta now is 5-4-1.

Cahill Disagrees With Jonas on Stampeders

TORONTO (CP) — Leo Cahill doesn't see Calgary Stampeders' defence being a major roadblock between Toronto Argonauts and the Grey Cup at Vancouver next Sunday.

Cahill, coach of the Eastern Football Conference champion Argos, was replying Monday to observations by quarterback Don Jonas that the Calgary defence built around middle linebacker Wayne Harris was probably the most formidable in the Canadian Football League.

Jonas, of Winnipeg Blue Bombers and the Western Conference's outstanding player in 1971, was in Toronto during the weekend to see his former team-mates capture their first EFC title since 1952 by downing Hamilton Tiger-Cats 40-25 in the two-game eastern series.

"Argos will have to figure out Wayne Harris," said Jonas.

WAYNE HARRIS

"Most linebackers have a tendency you can spot, but if Harris has one I don't know what it is.

"Some things he does are uncanny. He moves around and he's great at reading what is coming at him. He's definitely the key to their defence."

Later he offered the suggestion that Toronto's success in the championship game will depend on the offensive line's ability to contain the Stampeders' front four—John Helton, Fred James, Dick Suderman and Craig Koltzan—as well as Harris.

Cahill admitted Calgary defensive line was one of the strongest in the CFL, but he doubts they'll have changed that much for the showdown.

"Calgary may make one or two adjustments in their defence, but I doubt it," said the Toronto coach while formulating his game plans as Argos took a day off before today's full-scale workout.

Argos Won Regular Season Game

TORONTO (CP) — Toronto Argonauts, the Eastern Football Conference representative in Sunday's Grey Cup game at Vancouver, defeated Calgary Stampeders, the WFC entry, 18-7 in their only encounter this year.

That game was played here Sept. 25, when the Stampeders were still hurting from a 26-11 mauling three days earlier in Montreal.

Calgary quarterback Jerry Keeling suffered a shoulder separation in the Montreal game and rookie Jim Lindsey called the signals all the way against Toronto.

The Argos this season won the EFC title for the first time since 1960 finishing with 10 wins and four losses.

Calgary finished first in the WFC with nine wins, six losses and a tie.

Following is a statistical comparison of the Stampeders and Argos, based on official statistics of regular-season play. Averages per game are bracketed.

Esposito Matches Pace But Pack Catches Up

MONTREAL (CP) — Centre Phil Esposito of Boston Bruins is only one point behind his pace of last season, but he doesn't hold nearly as comfortable a margin as individual leader in the National Hockey League's list of scorers today as he did one year ago.

Esposito, who recorded an all-time, 152-point high last season on 76 goals and 76 assists, has 15 goals and 19 assists for 34 points so far this season. That' one more goal than he had after the same number of games—19—in the 1970-71 schedule.

But last season he held a seven-point edge over team-mate Ken Hodge after 19 games. Today he has only a slim two-point lead over Vic Hadfield of New York Rangers. In fact, the entire line of Hadfield, centre Jean Ratelle and right winger Rod Gilbert, is engaged in a close race with Esposito.

PHIL ESPOSITO

Ratelle and Gilbert are tied with Boston defenceman Bobby Orr for third place with 31 points each, five more than Richard Martin, Buffalo left-winger who is a sensation. Buffalo's Gilbert Perreault, last season's NHL Rookie of the Year, is seventh with 25 points.

Esposito and Frank Mahovlich of Montreal Canadiens share the goal-scoring lead with 15 goals each, one more than Hadfield, Ratelle, Martin and Montreal's Marc Tardif. Orr is the assist leader with 22.

Ratelle, incidentally, became the first player to score four goals in one game this season when he led the Rangers to a 12-1 rout over California Golden Seals Sunday. He was the 14th player to score at least three goals in one game this season. There were only two three-goal games at this time one year ago.

While the battle goes on in the scoring race, there is an equally tough fight among the leading goaltenders.

The Chicago pair of Tony Esposito—who leads in shutouts with three—and Gary Smith has a combined goals-against average of 1.65. Right behind is the Minnesota combination of Gump Worsley and Cesare Maniago with 1.70, while the best personal record belongs to Gilles Villemure of New York with 1.22 in nine games. Villemure has not lost a game this season, but is still looking for his first shutout.

Whips Strike Out

WINNIPEG (CP) — Montreal Expos send Winnipeg into baseball's AAA International League hoping for a walk—all the way to the American Association. But the Whips were called out on strikes, and next year no one from either league will tread the Winnipeg turf.

"We had two strikes against us before we even got to Winnipeg," Jim Fanning, Expos general manager, said at a news conference Monday.

Fanning and Danny Menendez, Expos director of farm personnel, called the conference to explain reasons for the shift of the franchise, after just 1½ years, to the Newport News-Hampton area of Virginia. The Expos announced Monday the club will operate the team in Virginia as its class AAA affiliate.

The third strike was the American Association's refusal to admit Winnipeg into its league. The American Association is centred in the mid-west United States, a much more accessible area to Winnipeg than the International League which operates mainly in the East.

When the Expos purchased a faltering Buffalo franchise and moved it to Winnipeg, the move was, Fanning said, "with the idea of getting into the American Association."

"It was a gamble . . . we had no favorable reaction from the American Association and had been rejected by them earlier. But we figured if we could get a AAA club here and get it established, we could get into the American Association.

"We couldn't tell the American Association like we thought we could . . . we just struck out."

Fanning said the Expos "would have and could have" remained in Winnipeg another year, paying travel subsidy, but the International League "said we should consider moving now."

"They would have absolutely refused to come here in 1973."

The Montreal organization was paying three-quarters of the travel costs for all teams to Winnipeg from Toledo and back, a $137,000 tab in 1971. The Expos' major league travel costs for the year were $155,000.

Cleveland Has Top AL Rookie

NEW YORK (AP) — Chris Chambliss of Cleveland Indians was named the Rookie of the Year in the American League Monday by the Baseball Writers Association of America.

Chambliss, a left-handed hitting first baseman, received 11 of the 24 votes cast, outdistancing Milwaukee Brewers pitcher Bill Parsons, the runner-up with five votes. Oakland Athletics outfielder Angel Mangual was third with four votes.

Chambliss was ticketed for duty at Wichita in the American Association after pulling a hamstring muscle during spring training. But when the injury lingered, the Indians brought him to Cleveland May 17 for tests to determine the exact extent of the problem.

Ken Harrelson at that time announced his decision to quit baseball and try his hand at golf, leaving Chambliss in the right place at the right time. Without a first baseman, the Indians quickly put Chambliss to work and he responded by hitting .275 with nine homers and 48 runs batted in for 111 games.

The National League's top rookie will be announced Wednesday.

Maple Leafs Way Ahead Of Last Year's Pace

TORONTO (CP) — Johnny McLellan only has to point to the record to show any detractors his Toronto Maple Leafs are in a far healthier position today than they were a year ago.

The Leafs, currently on a three-game win streak and unbeaten in five games, are a solid fourth in the National Hockey League's East Division.

While the team had previously not won two in a row this year, let alone three, McLellan was more concerned that "those people who were doing so much criticizing when we were tying a lot of games oughta take a look where the seven (tie) points have put us."

The Leafs, with a 7-6-7 won-lost-tie mark, are seven points ahead of Detroit Red Wings and Vancouver Canucks and six behind third-place Boston Bruins.

Last year after 20 games, they were 5-14-1.

McLellan said Monday the biggest problem Leafs have to work on is the power-play facet of their game. Toronto has allowed 24 short-handed goals this season while scoring just nine with a manpower advantage.

The first step in this direction was pairing Denis Dupere and Mike Pelyk, Nov. 14, at Philadelphia. The effects were almost instantaneous.

"This way Kosa isn't overworked. He's on the ice for 20 to 25 minutes every game as is." Kosa, the veteran Leaf captain, also works the left point on Toronto's power play.

TWO CANUCKS MOVE

VANCOUVER (CP) — Mike Corrigan and Danny Johnson, both placed on waivers last week by Vancouver Canucks of the National Hockey League, were claimed Monday by other NHL teams. Detroit Red Wings picked up Johnson and Los Angeles Kings claimed Corrigan.

WHA Picks Hamilton

HAMILTON (CP) — Toronto businessmen Doug Michel and Jim McCreath told Hamilton board of control Monday they have obtained a franchise in the new World Hockey Association for $2 million and plan to base the team here.

Michel said he and McCreath had planned to invest in build an arena in Hamilton but now are relying on St. Catharines businessman Basil A. Griffis for an arena.

Griffis has purchased land in the city's east end and said he is confident he can get the necessary financial backing to build a 10,000-seat arena.

"And all I want the city to do is to support it with junior hockey, minor hockey and other events," said Griffis.

"We'll be the prime tenant in the arena," said Michel. "The city would have control over what goes in the arena.

"Things like ice shows and other events would be possibilities, things they can't get now.

"We've been doing studies and we're told that in Kitchener they make a $1 million-a-year profit on the arena without a pro hockey team. We're told that whenever the Ice Capades are at the Kitchener arena, they bring in 200 bus loads for the show from Hamilton."

Michel, 38, and McCreath, 23, are co-owners of the Toronto Young Nationals minor hockey team. Michel is also president of an engineering firm and McCreath vice-president of a property development company.

The WHA plans to open competition with a 12-team league next fall. Franchises already have been awarded to Winnipeg, Calgary, Edmonton, New York, Chicago, San Francisco, Miami, Los Angeles, Dayton, Ohio, and St. Paul, Minn.

Finley Wants Deal Cancelled

CHICAGO (AP) — Owner Charles O. Finley of Oakland Seals said Monday he expected an "amiable" settlement of a dispute over ailing winger Ron Webster, obtained in an early-season trade from Detroit Red Wings.

"I have not made any public comment whatsoever in regard to the condition of Webster," said Finley in reply to a report that he wanted the deal voided because Webster has a back injury.

Stable Prices Needed

HAMILTON (CP) — Efforts to regulate farm over-production resulted in one of the "most divisive" issues ever to face Canadian farmers, Gordon Hill, president of the Ontario Federation of Agriculture said Monday.

"National marketing legislation became a barrier separating the farmers of this land into hostile factions," he told about 400 delegates to the federation's three-day convention.

"Political opportunists used the legislation to misinform and mislead farmers, to fan farmers' discontent and to embarrass the federal government," he said.

"Perhaps mercifully," he added, "the government slid the bill under the carpet, allowing farmers to patch up their differences."

He predicted that the family farm will be destroyed unless farmers can control the violent swings in production and prices.

"Violent ups and downs" in production and prices can destroy the most efficient manager, Mr. Hill said.

Companies that buy from farmers do not like the unstable flow of products any more than farmers like the unstable prices this produces, he said.

Such companies do not want to get into the business of farming, he said, but they will be forced to do so if farmers "continue to bungle our marketing in the future the way we've done in the past.

"And that's the end of the family farm."

The federation voted for licensing of farmers and control of all farm land in the province by licensed farmers.

It approved a resolution calling for the organization to develop a system "for licensing farmers based on experience, training and or management ability."

When the federation had developed suitable means of defining who is a farmer, it would "seek provincial legislation to carry this out."

Six Freeze In Scottish Highlands

AVIEMORE, Scotland (AP) — A weekend adventure trek in the wild Scottish Highlands ended in tragedy Monday. Searchers found five school children and their teen-age girl teacher frozen to death and buried in six-foot snowdrifts.

The dead youngsters were found huddled together 2,000 feet up in the Cairngorm Mountains, only a few hundred yards from a shelter hut.

A rescue team, dropped from a helicopter during a raging storm, found two of the eight adventurers still alive, suffering from severe exposure in the sub-zero weather.

Edinburgh education officials began in inquiry into why the school party of eight set off in the frozen wilderness Saturday despite weather forecasts of storms and heavy snow.

No Royalty On Singing 'O Canada'

OTTAWA (CP) — An annoyed Lloyd Francis (L—Ottawa West) had the record set straight Monday when State Secretary Gerard Pelletier assured him that the government holds the copyright on O Canada.

Mr. Francis was fuming over a statement Friday by John Diefenbaker (PC—Prince Albert) that the Authors, Publishers and Composers Association of Canada collects royalties from the playing of O Canada because it holds the copyright.

Mr. Francis told a reporter Monday that Mr. Diefenbakers statement was "preposterous, and in the Commons he asked Mr. Pelletier whether he was aware that the government holds the copyright. Yes, replied the minister.

Doctors Dodge Discipline

TORONTO (CP) — Some doctors move from one hospital to another when there is a threat that their privileges will be reduced or cancelled, the president of the College of Physicians and Surgeons said Monday.

Dr. Andrew Bruce of Kingston told a provincial inquiry into hospital privileges that if the doctor stays and disciplinary action is taken, the college keeps a register of the information open to the public.

But if he moves to avoid action, the college knows nothing about it, Dr. Bruce said.

Yesterday's Answer

DAILY CRYPTOQUOTE—Here's how to work it:
L O N G F E L L O W

One letter simply stands for another. In this sample A is used for the three L's, X for the two O's, etc. Single letters, apostrophes, the length and formation of the words are all hints. Each day the code letters are different.

A Cryptogram Quotation

U A O S B O O F D R T E P , U A O M O T F D R . V O S O O Y U A O G O I O Y U A O I D Y Z T , U A O X Y G E U O Y U A O B Y D G P U . —

Toronto Stocks

TORONTO (CP) — Western oil issues plunged sharply lower for the second consecutive session as prices in all major sectors of the Toronto stock market moved lower in moderate mid-morning trading today.

The western oil index was down 2.33 to 184.54. Industrials .85 to 162.11, golds .35 to 149.13 and base metals .20 to 70.36.

Volume by 11 a.m. was 412,000 shares, up from 392,000 at the same time Monday.

Banking, merchandising, oil refining and steel issues drifted lower as thirteen of the industrial index's 17 sub-groups posted declines.

Communications, trust and loans and food processing issues edged fractionally higher.

Declines outnumbered 4-d-vances by about three-to-one, 155 to 53 with 144 issues unchanged.

Bow Valley dropped 1¼ to $22, Noranda ¼ to $26¼, Pacific Petroleum ¼ to $25¼, Imperial Oil ¼ to $28 and-Peel-Elder ¼ to $13.

Steel Canada fell ¼ to $33¾, Numac ¼ to $10⅝, Bethlehem to $14¼, Canadian Tire A ¼ to $33¼, Canadian Superior Oil ¼ to $35¼ and Husky Oil ¼ to $15.

Canada Cement was up ¼ to $43½, CIL ¼ to $12¾, Consumers Glass ¼ to $19¾, Federal Grain ¼ to $7¾, Industrim ¼ to $10¼ and Greyhound Lines ¼ to $14¼.

Western oils stocks also tumbled Monday, apparently in response to last week's refusal of the National Energy Board to allow increased natural gas exports to the United States.

Burning Rectal Itch Relieved In Minutes

This Special Hemorrhoid Remedy Contains a Unique Healing Substance That Relieves Pain As It Shrinks Hemorrhoids

One of the most common afflictions is a condition known as "Fiery Piles". It is most embarrassing for the sufferer during the day and especially aggravating at night.

If you want satisfactory relief — and a good news. A renowned research laboratory has found a unique healing substance with the ability to promptly relieve the burning itch and pain. It actually shrinks hemorrhoids. This substance has been shown to produce a most effective rate of healing. In germ-killing properties also help prevent infection.

In one hemorr'oid case after another "very striking improvement" was reported. This improvement was maintained over a period of months! Always these sufferers were a wide variety of hemorrhoid conditions — even cases of long standing.

This was accomplished by a new healing substance (Bio-Dyne)—developed by a world-renowned research institution. This substance is now obtainable in ointment or suppository form known as Preparation H. Ask for Preparation H Suppositories (convenient to carry if away from home) or Preparation H Ointment with special applicator. Available at all drug counters. Satisfaction or your money refunded.

SANTA MONICA, Calif. (AP) — Singer Peggy Lee is suffering from viral pneumonia and will be in hospital for a week, her manager says.

Brian Hamilla said Miss Lee became sick while performing in New Orleans and entered hospital here Saturday. He said Monday that the singer will rest two weeks at home before returning to work.

CHICAGO (AP) — Freddie Guy, 72, who played banjo and guitar with the Duke Ellington band for nearly 30 years, shot himself fatally Monday, police said.

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Ernest Borgnine's estranged wife says the actor threatened to kill her, their two children and himself.

Mrs. Borgnine appeared in Superior Court accompanied by two guards. Asked by Judge Joseph Wapner why she had the guards, Mrs. Borgnine replied: "Because Mr. Borgnine had threatened to kill me, the children and himself."

Judge Wapner allowed her to retain custody of the children, Christopher, 5, and Sharon, 6. He ordered Borgnine to pay his ex-wife $1,000 a month in temporary support.

Bolger Going Strong at 67

BEVERLEY HILLS, Calif. (AP) — The sweat rolled down Ray Bolger's face as he worked out in his backyard studio.

Hands clapping, body twisting, he stomped, pressed, mugged, sang. He did a graceful soft shoe, a breezy-and-toe barrage, a Charleston, conga, frug, Watusi. One foot flew up and touched his upraised palm.

Normal rehearsal for any dancer—until you realize that Bolger is 67.

He seems as agile and limber and lithe as when he played the scarecrow in The Wizard of Oz 32 years ago.

"People ask how I do it at my age," Bolger said, panting slightly, mopping his head with a bath towel.

Mitzi Getting Double Exposure

NEW YORK (AP) — There will be a regular Mitzi Gaynor festival on television during the next couple of weeks: the singing and dancing star will be seen on two specials. That's a lot—Mitzi likes to limit her TV exposures to once every year or so.

First there will be ABC's three-hour broadcast of the 1956 film version of Rodgers and Hammerstein's musical South Pacific, Wednesday night. Then Dec. 9 she will be a guest star on Perry Como's Winter Show for NBC.

South Pacific, Mitzi says, was the greatest single break in her movie career. Very actress who could sing and dance yearned for the role of Nellie Forbush, which Mary Martin had played on Broadway.

Mitzi moved into television with a couple of well-received specials. Her husband-manager, Jack Bean, now is planning another, maybe even two.

"We have a one-woman show that plays theatres," said Mitzi. "It takes about 45 people to put on a one-woman show. We don't play Las Vegas. It works out nicely. I work about 18 weeks out of the year unless there is something in films or television I want to do. Most of the time I live like a housewife in Beverly Hills. I keep in shape by jogging. Television is fine, but I won't make my appearances seem very special, so I space them. You last longer."

Name-calling Started By Rival IRA Factions

BELFAST (AP) — The bitter feud between rival wings of the outlawed Irish Republican Army flared into the open today with militant provisionals accusing leftist officials of treachery.

The cause of the outburst was a statement by official leader Cahal Goulding charging that the IRA's campaign to end British control of Northern Ireland is doomed to failure.

Goulding told reporters in Dublin: "The physical force phase was developed prematurely by the provisionals. No revolution can succeed if you set up a "workers and farmers state on the Communist pattern."

A statement from the rival provisionals, guerrillers in the current wave of bombings and ambush attacks, charged that Goulding's forecast of failure was "nothing less than an acto of collaboration with the enemy."

The statement added: "It is a stab in the back for the men and women who daily risk Irish life, limb and liberty to continue the struggle against British imperialism.

"The leadership and members of the resistance movement are determined that, come what may, the present struggle will be successful and accordingly it will continue until British rule has been overthrown."

Goulding admitted that both wings of the IRA have suffered from the Northern Ireland government's use of internment without trial. About 500 men are held under emergency powers and about 350 under ordinary laws against arms and explosives.

Security forces believe internment has at last produced a decline in the IRA's deadly campaign.

In the only fatal incident of the last 24 hours, a man was killed by a bomb in a bar at Lurgan, 20 miles southeast of Belfast. The barkeeper previously had been threatened for serving off-duty British soldiers.

Police said the dead man may have been one of two who planted the bomb. A pistol was found in his jacket. Nine persons were injured in the blast, none seriously.

The last victim was the 100th person killed in Northern Ireland's 27 months of violence.

Terrorist bombers also destroyed a hotel in Dungannon, 25 miles west of Belfast. The armed IRA guerrillas gave customers and staff of the newly-rebuilt three-storey Northland Arms four minutes to clear the building and then blew it up. The building burst into flames.

Arms searches by British troops continued, with 14 persons detained. A 16-year-old boy was tarred and feathered by the IRA in Belfast.

Meanwhile, William Heath, 32-year-old father of Britain's prime minister, said his home is under police guard because of a threat from the IRA.

"The police have been keeping a watchful eye on us since a threat which I understand came from the IRA," the retired lumegate builder said Monday. Police have been stationed at the Heath home in Broadstairs, Kent, for a week.

Rhodesians Arrest English Reporter

— Colin Smith, a staff reporter of the London Observer, was arrested late Monday by Rhodesian police in the remote Gwelo udzingwa area, about 200 miles south of Salisbury, reliable police sources said.

The reports said Smith was found uncaccompanied in the virtually uninhabitable bush area which has been declared a prohibited area by the Rhodesian government.

Villages were established in the area—which teems with game—about five years ago to house African nationalists restricted without trial by the Ian Smith regime for alleged subversive activities.

Among those living in the area is Joshua Nkomo, leader of the outlawed Zimbabwe African People's Union, who had a meeting Saturday with visiting British Foreign Secretary Sir Alec Douglas-Home.

The Observer has been unpopular with the Smith government. It was reported that the government refused to allow the paper's chief foreign correspondent, Colin Legum, to cover the Home-Smith talks in Salisbury. And several years ago it declared Roy Perrott, another senior member of the paper's foreign staff, a prohibited immigrant.

No details of the charges laid against Smith were immediately available, but it is considered likely he will be deported at an early date.

The Good Guys and th Hornets used the same numbers game as Eastern Waterloo Electric Hockey wins Sunday. The Good Guys stopped the Dukes 3-2 while the Hornets nipped the No-Stars by the same score.

Larry Lupenette, Gary Rutherford and Rob McMurter scored for the Good Guys, while Rick Rosebush and John Brunette tallied for the Dukes.

In the other contest Jim Haggerty scored twice to provide the winning margin for the Hornets. Wayne Wood counted the other goal with Tom McDonald and Bob Baitley scoring for the No Stars.

Moliere Comedy Playing Kingston

In 1669, Louis XIV wanted an amusing, gay spectacle for a court festival; thus Lully was commissioned to write the music and Moliere the text. At the time, Turkish affairs were fashionable as just the year before an extraordinary Turkish diplomatic mission had come to Paris and been received with special honors. But the Envoy of the Sublime Porte had shown scornful indifference towards the splendors of the French court. It is said that the King himself to avenge this scorn took the occasion to suggest to Moliere the idea of composing a Turkish ballet and to draw from the occasion an amusing buffonnerie. A Turkish "expert" was assigned to Moliere and Lully to supply them with Turkish words or so-called Turkish words, to teach them the sabir spoken by the Mufti, to teach them dances and gestures of the dervishes and to show them how to make bonnets and turbans.

Following his natural genius, Moliere was led to transform the requested masquerade into a subtle and profound comedy directly reflecting the customs of Louis XIV. Monsieur Jourdain, Mme. Jourdain, the maid Nicole, the parasitic gentleman are now all world-famous characters bordered from-life by Moliere. He only had to draw upon his own experiences to delineate these portraits of bourgeois parvenu, overdemed by mingling with gentlehommes and of the impoverished nobleman who to recover his fortunes becomes a baxee.

The Treteau de Paris after a superb production of Camus' Caligula last year, is delighted at this opportunity to return to gaiety and fun in the theatre with this charming new production of Le Bourgeois Gentilhomme. with Les Comediens des Champs Elysees staged by the famous Maurice Jacquement in this the Treteau's 14th season of North American university touring.

Charges Against Eleven Convicts Reduced to Manslaughter

KINGSTON, Ont. (CP) — The violence terror and despair of a prison riot, with armed soldiers standing ready to invade, were emphasized Monday by an Ontario Supreme Court judge before 11 convicts were sentenced on reduced charges of manslaughter in the beating deaths of two fellow prisoners.

They got terms ranging from two to 15 years. Another who also pleaded guilty to manslaughter will be sentenced next May along with one who pleaded guilty to assault.

Mr. Justice William Henderson in his summary told the jury it must consider the charged emotional atmosphere that existed in Kingston penitentiary at the time the deaths occurred last April when large sections of the prison were in the hands of rioters.

He directed the jury to accept the reduced pleas from the 13, who had been charged jointly with non-capital murder.

The judge said the accused men were acting under conditions that would have deprived ordinary men of their self-control when Brian Reginald Ensor, 28, of Hamilton, a child rapist, and Bertrand Henry Robert, 34, of Chatham, Ont., who burned his children on a stove, were beaten fatally with iron bars.

The judge painted a picture, based on the evidence of the month-long trial, of the emotion that gripped the cellblock as a group of 13 to 15 "undesirables" were tied to chairs in a circle in the centre of the prison before 500 prisoners.

The group, regarded as police informers, sexual offenders and child molesters, were to be used as decoys in case armed riot troops stormed the prison.

Placing them on view would induce a very emotional and irrational response from some of those present and particularly the accused, the judge said.

When rumors of an army invasion coming within minutes flashed through the cell block "things got out of hand," the judge said.

"The mental makeup of the accused is not to be taken into consideration," said Mr. Justice Henderson. He said there was no indication from the evidence that killing was intended. The undesirables "were a despised group."

Many of the sentences were concurrent—meaning in most cases the men could serve from two to five years beyond the expiration of their present sentences. The maximum penalty for manslaughter is life imprisonment.

Eight were sentenced in Robert's death and three in Ensor's.

The sentences for Robert:

1. Glenn Morris, 25, Staunton, Va., sentenced in 1970 to eight years for robbery, 11 years concurrent;

2. James Ogg, 25, London, Ont., sentenced in 1968 to life for non-capital murder, eight years concurrent;

3. Donald Ong, 21, of London, brother of James, who in 1969 began a six-year sentence for robbery, three years consecutive;

4. David Birt, 25, Charlottetown, sentenced in 1969 to three years for breaking, entering and theft, three years consecutive;

5. Brian Dodge, 28, Petrolia, Ont., who started a four-year sentence for breaking and entering in 1970 and who was convicted in August of forcible seizure of the guards and sentenced to three years consecutive, three years consecutive;

6. Ernest Rufus Thomas, Ont., sentenced in 1968 to life for non-capital murder, three years concurrent;

7. Wayne McGurgin, 24 of Toronto, with 3 1-3 years more to serve on a number of charges including theft, two years concurrent;

8. Harold St. Amour, 39, Pembroke, Ont., sentenced in 1964 to life for rape, two years concurrent.

Sentenced for Ensor:

1. David Shepley, 25, Windsor, Ont., who in 1970 began a 12-year sentence for armed robbery, 15 years concurrent;

2. Edward Lewis, 19, Toronto, sentenced in 1969 to five years for robbery, seven years concurrent;

3. Edward Johnston, 22, Toronto, sentenced in 1969 and 1970 to four years for breaking and entering and convicted in August of forcible seizure and sentenced to three years consecutive, three years consecutive.

The two other accused, Brian Beaucage, 24, of London, who pleaded guilty to manslaughter in the Ensor's death, and Robert Robidoux, 19, of Toronto, who pleaded guilty to manslaughter in Robert's death, appeared Monday.

Their reduced pleas were accepted by the 12-man jury after it left the court room twice to question them. Finnies and Crown-Attorney Alan Newell concurred that the "ends of justice" were met by the acceptance of the pleas.

A total of nine Crown witnesses, seven of them prisoners during the four-day trial, were called during the trial. Shepley received the harshest penalty as evidence indicated he was a key figure in the beatings while he was serving time at the prison.

Before they surrendered, releasing unharmed the last of nine guard hostages, the main rioters had destroyed with damage unofficially estimated at $5 million. They surrendered to 550 Canadian Forces troops.

CTV Must Submit to CRTC Plan for Canadian Programs

OTTAWA (CP) — The CTV Television Network Ltd. must submit a plan to the Canadian Radio-Television Commission by Jan. 31 which will ensure that the network fulfils Canadian programming and other commission requirements, it was announced Monday.

The commission said it recognizes the need for the private network to "reorganize its financial, programming, production responsibility and organizational structure to meet its Canadian program obligations."

But the CRTC said it wants CTV to submit a proposal for a new corporate organization and program plan which would allow the network to extend its service, increase its ability to produce significant Canadian programs and "improve the decision-making process of the network."

Murray Chercover, CTV president, has publically told the CRTC on several occasions that the network is financially hard-pressed to extend service to new areas in Canada while its existing Canadian content in programming.

At separate hearings in Toronto, Mr. Chercover and other private broadcasters suggested the government delay implementing the requirement for 60-per-cent Canadian content which is to take effect Oct. 1, 1972.

The CRTC and CTV have both carried out studies on the financial implications of the network which is organized along co-operative lines with member stations having a share in ownership.

Mr. Chercover said at the Toronto hearing that CTV has reorganized itself to lift some of the financial burden from the smaller stations in the network. The network and the CRTC have made public the findings of their studies.

The commission's Monday announcement said the CRTC agrees with those who say there should be greater efforts to produce Canadian programs.

But the commission saw the need for time to allow the network to reorganize. Because of this the commission had recently announced amendments to its television regulations.

"These amendments maintained the present content requirement effective next Oct. 1, but changed the time period for calculating Canadian content.

Canadian content may be calculated over 12 months from Oct. 1, 1972, instead of every three months.

The Association of Canadian Television and Radio Artists has said this could water down the content regulations as it would allow private broadcasters to show their Canadian programs into the summer 'season when fewer viewers tune in.

The commission also announced last week it would allow CTV to count some Commonwealth programming as a "Canadian" during this summer's cast season.

The commission said Monday that it has not changed its mind about Canadian programming and that in the public interest CTV should resolve its problems soon.

You Can Get in Big Trouble By Piercing Your Own Ears

By G. C. THOSTESEUN, MD

Dear Dr. Thosteseus: I am 15 and would like to get my ears pierced, but my mother doesn't think it is a very good idea. Is it safer to get them pierced by a doctor or can I use self-piercers?—D.G.B.

Girls have been piercing holes in their ear lobes for a long time, and so have a few of the boys. I guess it doesn't matter that I don't understand the appeal of this. All I can do is answer the question as best I can.

A recent survey of 100 student nurses found that 75 had pierced ears, and only a third of them had been pierced by physicians.

The study also showed that the do-it-yourself piercers were more of the girls into a mess of trouble—the troubles being inflammation, drainage of a bleeding, crusting, and allergy due to contact with the metal in the gadget used to keep the hole open.

Another less frequent but probably more troublesome complication is the formation of a keloid—that is a thick, bumpy mass of scar tissue. If a girl has had a previous reaction of any kind and such a thickened scar has formed, she should be wary of having her ears pierced even by a doctor. That is to age at which she is subject to keloid formation and others aren't.

Anyway, if you insist on having your ears pierced and can get the approval of your parents, by all means have a doctor do it for you. Dermatologists are usually equipped for this procedure.

Dear Dr. Thosteseus: Is peptic ulcer a serious condition? Can it be fatal? Are there certain foods one should not eat?—Mrs. J.M.

It can be serious if the ulcer starts bleeding, and even more serious if the ulcer perforates—that is, if the ulcer eats through the intestine.

These situations are not the usual ones, however. For the most part, the principal problem is the pain of the ulcer. Yes, proper diet is important.

Dear Dr. Thosteseus: My 10-year-old daughter is nearsighted and can't see the blackboard well in school. Shall I take her to an optometrist or an ophthalmologist?

A seven-year-old neighbor boy goes to an ophthalmologist who gave him drops to relax the eye muscles. The drops are put in each morning for the next seven years (bifocals). This is to continue until he reaches his teens. Would you say this is an opinion of such a drastic process?—Mrs. J.M.

Preferably take her to an ophthalmologist, since he is a doctor of medicine who, on top of that, has specialized in eye care, covering any type of eye problem.

However, I do not mean to short-change optometrists, who are not physicians. Optometrists are trained primarily in fitting glasses to correct visual defects, although they also have considerable training in recognizing medical problems, so they can refer people to ophthalmologists if that is necessary.

If your daughter's sole eye problem is nearsightedness, then an optometrist can do all that is necessary.

As to the boy you mentioned—he obviously has some rather severe eye problem and there is no reason to think that your daughter would be given the same treatment. If her whole problem is nearsightedness, and that's a common condition, as needs glasses, not a complicated treatment program.

Public Health Leader Assails Tobacco Firms

OTTAWA (CP) — The Canadian Public Health Association accused tobacco manufacturers Monday of seeking to circumvent essential health legislation by a voluntary ban on cigarette advertising.

Dr. V. L. Matthews, association president, says in a letter to Health Minister John Munro that the ban, which takes effect Jan. 1 in broadcasting, and a total ban starting Jan. 1 in forms what is required."

"This must be a total ban on cigarette advertising," Dr. Matthews says.

Because the $25-million-a-year tobacco advertising budget will not be diverted to other forms of advertising and promotion.

Dr. Matthews says it would be better to have no warning on cigarette packages than one stating only that "excessive smoking may be hazardous to your health."

"This statement, rather than publicizing the danger of the product in all circumstances, subtly implies it may be used moderately or reasonably with out risk."

Dr. Matthews says "the tobacco industry's voluntary proposal to cease advertising on radio and television and to print a cautionary notice on cigarette packages must be interpreted first and foremost as an attempt to circumvent essential health legislation.

What the Stars Say

By CONSTELLA

Wednesday, November 24

Aries (March 21-April 19): Keep your ears and eyes open, for what you hear or read may provide some vital data needed to reach decisions. The complex becomes simple.

Taurus (April 20-May 20): The first of several life-changing changes where you work may start about now. Labor saving devices, automated systems should be viewed as a help, not a threat.

Gemini (May 21-June 21): For the unmarried, the solitary state may be quickly changed to an end. Those with a likely partner should definitely not should start to drop a few hints.

Cancer (June 22-July 22): Changes in your living quarters or relocations are strongly tied to health and well-being. For children of youngsters, parents also play an important part in your decisions.

Leo (July 23-Aug. 22): A new creative avenue opens up where you'd least expect it—possibly linked with a casual chat where you work or in your neighborhood. Accept the opportunity to socialize or meet others.

Virgo (Aug. 23-Sept. 22): Any money spent to perfect a security and stable home would certainly be a wise investment. You may have time to go out of your locale to look.

Libra (Sept. 23-Oct. 22): It's time you announced your intentions, especially if your plans tend toward the drastic. Friends and family won't appreciate any big surprises later on.

Scorpio (Oct. 23-Nov. 21): Your generosity is likely to extend beyond means, so hold off promising large sums if asked to contribute to a worthy cause. Be extra generous, too, in always give again.

Sagittarius (Nov. 22-Dec. 21): While a plan-for-a-rainy-day approach can't be quarrelled with under most circumstances, be conservative an outlook can spoil a growing streak of luck.

Capricorn (Dec. 22-Jan. 19): What you're planning at on the job is certainly not more limelight. For a change, opportunities to work independently are out of sight are the ones that appeal.

Aquarius (Jan. 20-Feb. 18): Previously uncooperative allies are very susceptible to flattery right now, so turn on the charm if you want to solicit their support. They won't be able to say no.

Pisces (Feb. 19-March 20): You're coming to the point in career matters where a big decision has to be made. Choose between two equally promising offers. Don't be fooled by the glamorous.

TODAY'S BIRTHDAY

Make sure that any promises you receive are properly kept or at least backed by an ironclad contract. Unless you take precautions, allies could reverse their thinking by April, leaving you empty-handed.

Opening lead—king of diamonds.

The number 13, regarded by many as unlucky, is viewed with great favor by the skillful declarer. Hardly a hand goes by where he does not take advantage of the fact that each contains 13 cards and each player is dealt 13 cards.

South put this knowledge to good use when he became declarer at four notrump after North had jubilied a slam. The raise to four asked South to bid a slam if his opening notrump was based on maximum values — namely, 18 points.

West led the king of diamonds, East playing the jack, and continued with the queen, won by South with the ace.

Undisturbed by this development, South proceeded to make the contract anyhow. He cashed the A-K-Q of spades and A-K of hearts, forcing West to come down to the 10-6 of diamonds and 7-3 of clubs. South's last four cards were a trump, a diamond and the K-10 of clubs.

South now able to play a diamond in com.ort and forced West to win a club from the 7-3 to the K-10. As a result of the calculated endplay, South made four notrump.

West's distribution had become a open book after six tricks were played. At trick seven, declarer discovered that West had started with six diamonds. At trick four South learned that West had started with four clubs, and at trick five he had started with one spade. West's two unknown cards had to be hearts, and all East-South had to do from this point on to insure the contract was watch West's discards.

Civil Strife in North Ireland Cuts Heavily Into Business

BELFAST (CP) — The bullets and the bombs that have been killing and maiming soldiers and civilians in c..se..s..o..r..a Northern Ireland h... also put a pall of doom over commerce in Ulster and given thousands of Ulstermen a bellyful of the Big Bitters.

It all forms part of what's turned out to be a war of nerves, as well as of direct physical attack, by the underground Irish Republican Army, an organization dedicated to making Ulster ungovernable in its present form.

The British Army is claiming substantial gains in its battle against the guerrillas.

Predictably, the IRA, or at least the organization's militant "provisional" wing, dismisses the confident sounding pronouncements of the security forces with contempt.

But skepticism about the claims of progress against the guerrillas is found among Protestants too, despite their eagerness to see the IRA crushed.

Groups such as Rev. Ian Paisley's Democratic Unionist party insist that IRA tactics are daily becoming more sophisticated, proof in Paisleyite eyes that Ulster guerrillas are receiving help and advice from sinister revolutionary forces outside Northern Ireland.

The militant Protestants cite worries of this kind in urging an increase in the number of civilian police and steps to have them fully armed again.

Paisleyites credit themselves with playing a restraining role inside the Protestant majority, prevailing on it to hold back from direct retaliation against guerrillas in Catholic areas while at the same time putting pressure on the Unionist government for radically intensified security measures.

But Paisley's men add ominously that the Protestants can't be expected to wait indefinitely for such stepped-up government action and that they have thousands of guns and much military know-how ready for use in the event of a "spontaneous uprising against the terrorists."

The extreme Protestants have recently had scouring to gloat over in the form of the alleged involvement of priests belonging to a Catholic monastery in the escape of terrorist suspects from a Belfast prison.

This and the searches of the monastery and of a convent by security forces were swiftly cited by Paisleyites as proof of their perennial contentions about a "clerical conspiracy" in Ulster.

On the IRA side there are signs of embarrassment in high places over an incident certain to give the "papist plot" theory a new and explosive appeal among Protestants.

A Dublin spokesman reflecting the views of IRA provisionals told a Canadian reporter that the "sacrilegious" monastery search really serves the "republican" cause by provoking more anti-Unionist hatred among Catholics.

This in turn would bolster mass Catholic support for the IRA's campaign of violence against the security forces.

But of the disclosure about the alleged help given by priests to the Belfast escapees, the spokesman said:

"I'd prefer it hadn't happened .I'd prefer it if clerics weren't openly associated with the movement."

Nevertheless some, though by no means all of the Catholic clergy in Ireland, have declared their support of the IRA and the security forces in the North are constantly complaining about what they call the acquiescence of other clergy in the violence perpetrated by the provisionals.

The provisionals themselves, however, say the united Irish republic they would establish if their anti-British fight succeeds would provide for a rigid separation of church and state.

This and other "progressive" planks in their political platform, such as the nationalization of key industries, are being highlighted by the provisionals to prove they are not—as selfdescribed enemies of violence on the Irish left have branded them—"green fascists."

Moreover the provisionals say their present tactic of sniping at British soldiers and blasting selected businesses in central Belfast is the sort of war-of-nerves approach they prefer to any all-out battle with the well-equipped troops patrolling Ulster's main city.

Contradicting the British claims of anti-guerrilla success, the IRA says that even now its attacks on "economic targets" are causing Ulster businessmen to begin frantically lobbying Unionist Prime Minister Faulkner for an eventual deal with the seemingly determined elements in Northern Ireland fighting for merger with the independent south.

The IRA denies British claims that its battalions in Belfast have been virtually crippled by troops in recent months.

The IRA also contends that British efforts to hamper illicit border crossings into the North have not stopped the flow of guerrilla arms and personnel and have, on the contrary, prompted more Catholic civilians into active support for "the cause"—at least to the extent that border-area residents are pitching in to re-fill the road blocking craters blasted by British Army engineers.

Diseases Viet Cong's Worst Foes

BENTRE, Vietnam (AP) — Typhoid and cholera are the Viet Cong's worst enemies in the Mekong Delta.

That is the report of a former guerrilla doctor, Nguyen Van Bay, who defected to the government side last week.

He says the two diseases cause more casualties than combat in the fertile rice bowl south of Saigon. But he claims cholera can be cured by acupuncture, a Chinese type of treatment.

"You insert a needle through the base of the backbone," he explained through an interpreter at the Chieu Hoi or Open Arms centre here. "We have no proper needles so we used guitar string wire.

"I personally treated 300 cholera cases this way and none of them died.

"But acupuncture is no good for typhoid. For that we used American medicines, antibiotics with a penicillin base. This was purchased for us in Saigon. I don't know how."

A quiet-spoken little man in neat white pajamas, 34-year-old Bay joined the Viet Cong as a male nurse in 1965. He became a "doctor" in 1970 after eight months of training in a secret jungle school, and treated the sick and wounded at hidden hospitals in the coconut groves of Vinh Long and Kien Hoa provinces.

He defected when South Vietnamese troops built a permanent outpost right next to the Viet Cong hospital.

"I bawled enough," he said simply. "I want to go home to my wife and four children."

PCs Name Broker As Director

TORONTO (CP) — W. Ross DeGeer, 35-year-old Toronto stockbroker, was appointed executive director Monday of the Ontario Progressive Conservative party, replacing Arthur Harnett who resigned last week.

Mr. DeGeer is one of the new group of organizers brought into the party by Premier William Davis. He was Mr. Davis's tour manager during the recent election campaign.

Mr. DeGeer was campaign manager for Allan Lawrence, now attorney-general, who lost the leadership bid in a close fight with Mr. Davis during the party's leadership convention last winter.

Mr. DeGeers new post was announced in a statement by party president Alan Eagleson who described the new director as a man with "an outstanding record of commitment to the party."

In the same statement, Mr. Davis expressed delight at the appointment, saying Mr. DeGeer would bring to administration "the same kind of skill, responsibility and commitment that has made him so successful in his previous activities.

Mr. Harnett, 45, said he had resigned to accept new challenges and would wait until the new year to decide on a "number of job offers he had received.

'Bigoted' Judges Under Fire

TORONTO (CP) — The Ontario Federation of Labor has sent a letter to Justice Minister John Turner demanding that judges who are "bigots" be removed from the bench.

The letter, written by federation vice-president Iona Samis, refers to district court Judge George Collins of Sudbury, who earlier this month criticized Indians on the Whitefish Lake reserve before giving one a suspended sentence for assault.

The federation's letter said such comments have no place in a court of law.

"We are certain that, had they been uttered by a witness appearing before an unbiased judge, they would have been stricken from the court records," the letter said.

"If we are ever to attain a just society, one of the initial steps should be removal of bigots from the bench."

Britain and Rhodesia Have Drafted Accord

'Acceptability' Tests Planned

SALISBURY, Rhodesia (AP) — The British and Rhodesian governments agreed today on terms for the secessionist Rhodesian Republic to return to the Commonwealth and end a six-year rebellion to preserve white-minority rule.

Terms of the agreement will not be made public until they are announced to the Rhodesian and British parliaments Thursday afternoon, a joint announcement said. But there was speculation that they provide for continuation of white control and advancement of the black majority toward political control some day.

The agreement was signed at 4 a.m. EST by Sir Alec Douglas-Home, the British foreign secretary, and Prime Minister Ian Smith of Rhodesia after nine days of talks. After a session Tuesday night, informants reported little remained to be discussed except formalities.

The announcement said the terms will be submitted to the Rhodesian people in a "test of acceptability" that would be organized as soon as possible.

Final terms of the agreement were expected to sanction Rhodesia's independence as a republic. In exchange, the white-minority government in Salisbury was reported to have promised concessions to improve the political and economic position of the country's five million blacks.

The Anglo-Rhodesian package deal is likely to be bitterly criticized by militant blacks. They demand nothing less than "one man one vote" and no independence whatsoever until an African majority is in control.

Last week, some Rhodesian blacks were suggesting that the negotiations were "nothing but a charade because a secret sell-out settlement"—already had been arranged. Likewise, there

Bengal Rebels Make Gains

NEW DELHI (AP) — Pakistan called some of its military reserves to active duty today, as Prime Minister Indira Gandhi of India reported Bengali rebels had seized large parts of East Pakistan and inflicted heavy casualties on the Pakistani army.

Radio Pakistan said all reserve officers and officers on leave before retirement were being asked to report for duty immediately. The broadcast said some men from the ranks also were affected, but details were not given.

India had a partial mobilization of its reserves in mid-October.

A government spokesman said today Pakistan troops have orders permitting them to cross into Pakistan at any time and any place in self-defence.

The spokesman reported local commanders had been given the authority to make a border crossing if under attack.

Mrs. Gandhi told the Indian Parliament that the Indian troops were fighting inside East Pakistan, but she did acknowledge that Indian troops entered East Pakistan after a tank battle near the border Sunday.

She said Pakistani infantry, supported by tanks and artillery, launched an offensive on the Mukti Bahini—the East Pakistan liberation army—who she said had liberated an area around Boyra, five miles from India's border.

"Pakistani armor, under heavy artillery cover, advanced to our border threatening our defensive positions," she said.

"Their shells fell in our territory, wounding a number of our men.

"The local Indian military commander took appropriate action to repulse the Pakistani attack. In this action, 13 Pakistani Chafee tanks were destroyed."

The Boyra area, about 45 miles northeast of Calcutta, borders the Jessore district of East Pakistan, where the Pakistan government announced Monday that 130 Tarbels were killed and an estimated 1,500 wounded in fighting that involved tanks.

Boyra also is across the border from the area where India claims it shot down three Pakistani F-86 Sabre Jets Monday. Pakistan said it lost two Sabres but insisted the battle with Indian Gnat fighters took place over East Pakistan, not over India as claimed by New Delhi.

The Pakistanis claimed two Indian jets were downed. Mrs. Gandhi called the air battle a

Foreign Missions Evacuate Nationals

RAWALPINDI, West Pakistan (AP) — Foreign missions here were making arrangements today to evacuate their nationals from West Pakistan's border areas with India, it was reported.

The evacuation is centred on Lahore, West Pakistan's second city and capital of Punjab province, which is only 20 miles from the border with India.

The British and West German diplomatic authorities have, advised their nationals to leave the city, and Swedish authorities have ordered their aid technicians to leave for Rawalpindi, 170 miles to the west.

The Japanese have meanwhile ordered the removal of their families to Karachi 900 miles south, and United States officials were planning to bring their nationals out of Lahore and from the giant Tarbela dam project north of Rawalpindi.

In Ottawa, an external affairs department spokesman said Canadians in West Pakistan and those in India living near Pakistani borders have been advised to leave, Canadians in East Pakistan are under the authority of the British High Commission in Dacca and Canadian officials had no information about advice or notices given them.

Guerrilla Wounded

Cote Studies Offer Of Mailmen's Union

OTTAWA (CP) — Postmaster-General Jean-Pierre Cote said Tuesday he is studying a proposal for further talks with union leaders about the letter carriers dispute with the post office.

The minister, who received the proposal from the Letter Carriers Union of Canada, Tuesday, said outside the Commons that he intended to give the union an answer today.

Earlier in the day, the unions called on its members to refrain from taking any action until it is called for nationally, thus averting fears of an immediate strike.

The union had expressed its willingness to resume discussions provided one condition is met.

The condition hinges on an Oct. 15 mediation decision on a grievance procedure initiated by three letter carriers. They contended they should be compensated for overtime lost because the post office hired casual workers to fill mail routes left unmanned because of vacations or illness.

The adjudication was in favor of the letter carriers.

The union says that as a condition of further talks, it wants an assurance that the post office will agree to apply the adjudicator's decision to all letter carriers should this decision stand in spite of appeal.

Mr. Cote says he is "open to discussion but we're looking at their interpretation of the word "appeal."

Operators And Bell In Accord

MONTREAL (CP) — Agreement in principle on a new labor contract between Bell Canada and 8,500 telephone operators in Ontario and Quebec was announced today.

Mary Lennox, chief negotiator for the Traffic Employees Association, told a news conference it does not give parity with Vancouver operators which would have meant a $30 weekly increase.

Under terms of the previous contract, which expired Aug. 24, the Ontario and Quebec operators earned an average of $104.75 a week. They had sought a $30-a-week increase in a two-year agreement to give them parity with Vancouver operators.

A major change in the agreement reached early today is elimination of zone pay scales over the life of the contract. The zone scales provided that operators in small towns, for example, earned less than operators in large cities.

A Tune Out of the Past

Back on Feb. 14, 1950, CJBQ's J. H. 'Hamie' MacDonald was a regular pianist. On that day the radio station raised between $6,000 and $7,000 in its first March of Dimes fund-raising campaign. Soldiers Raid Housing Development

BELFAST (AP) — Four hundred British troops raided a housing development today in switch of tactics against the outlawed Irish Republican Army.

Every man in a block of 116 apartments in Belfast's New Lodge area was asked for proof of identity. Those who couldn't supply it were taken off for questioning as IRA sump ects.

The army stressed the raid was not a full-scale arms search of the kind which has become commonplace in Belfast's Roman Catholic districts.

Since early August, more than 1,100 men have been held in arms swoops directed against the IRA's campaign to unite Northern Ireland with the Irish Republic. About 500 still are held either for investigation or for indefinite internment without trial.

In Londonderry, Northern Ireland's second city, troops came under bomb and sniper attack in the Catholic Bogside district. The army said it suffered no casualties.

Earlier troops fired rubber bullets and CS nausea gas to drive about 50 youngsters across the border into Lifford, the main town of Donegal in the Irish Republic.

The crowd had marched into North rn Ireland near Strabane, County Londonderry, to dig up a road ramp which troops had built to assist border security. Lifford residents complained to the republic's authorities that the town was saturated with CS gas.

A civilian died of a terrorist bullet, raising the death toll in 27 months of violence in Northern Ireland to 161. Bridget Carr, 24 year-old waitress from Donegal, died in a Belfast hospital from wounds she received last week.

Sale of Electronic Controls Is Expected This Afternoon

By BRIAN AMARON
Staff Reporter

Electronic Controls, a firm begun in Belleville 14 years ago and now Canada's largest manufacturer of educational electronic machinery will be taken over by American interests.

The factory which employs 73 persons, has been in severe financial difficulties for some time and last month was forced to go into receivership.

Under the terms of the new agreement, expected to be signed today in Toronto, New Jersey financier Olaf Muten will assume 80 per cent of the company's stock. In return, he will invest approximately $500,000 to pay back creditors and purchase new materials and equipment.

"I like what I see here," said Mr. Muten who was at the Hanna Street plant Tuesday to look over operations. He noted in particular the high quality of workmanship and spirited degree of enthusiasm.

As principal owner of Digiac Corporation, a U.S. concern dealing in computer technology, Mr. Muten called the marriage with Electronic Controls "a real fit for both companies." Each firm's product line complements the other's and both companies have common representatives in the United States.

Digiac produces demonstration equipment in the fields of fluids, hydraulics and pneumatics while Electronic Controls builds machinery designed to teach basic electricity, refrigeration, heating and air conditioning.

When asked about marketing procedures, Mr. Muten said, "There will be a co-ordinated effort whereby Electronic Controls can use Digiac's strength in the United States. In return, Digiac will make use of Electronic Controls' connections in Canada and overseas."

He described Ken Laine, the Belleville firm's national and overseas sales manager, as "excellent," adding that he intends to take full advantage of the company's existing middle management staff.

In the past, Electronic Controls has exported more than half of its finished output, mostly south of the border. Problems arose when budget restrictions led to material shortages, thereby creating difficulties meeting order requirements. With additional financing now available, the company expects to be competitive on a much larger scale than it was previously.

Mr. Muten said he expects the United States 10 per cent surtax on imported goods to be lifted shortly and anticipates a healthy trade between the two countries.

Company president Al Revill also sees reason for optimism. Citing the benefits of the merger, he said, "There is an advantage to a school if it can deal with one supplier who has a broad range of products. There is also an advantage for the supplier who saves on cost."

Mr. Revill said that he had met with Mr. Muten several times during the past year and that they had discussed the possibility of refinancing. "Neither of us had felt a great sense of urgency," he noted, adding that it was circumstance which led to the takeover immediately after the company went into receivership.

Discussing the question of American control of Canadian business, Mr. Revill pointed out that his prime concern was to save the positions of the firm's employees. He called the takeover "the most palatable alternative arising from a bad set of circumstances."

Long - range forecasts for Electronic Controls look very bright and expansion is a definite possibility at some point, according to both men. As for the immediate future, Mr. Revill predicted "continuity of employment, stability and growth of the enterprise."

Community College Teachers' Dispute Goes to Arbitration

The dispute between Ontario's 3,500 community college teachers and their employer, the Ontario Council of Regents has gone into arbitration.

Ross Rachar, chief spokesman for the college teachers, said in an interview in London, Ont., that teachers are frustrated over contract bargaining which is going "nowhere".

"The real problem is that we do not know who we are bargaining with," said Mr. Rachar of Fanshawe College.

The teachers are represented by the Civil Service Association of Ontario. Their main dispute centres on wages and working hours.

The spokesman for teachers at Loyalist College here said today that the struggle to gain recognition and then go into negotiations has taken three years.

"We had hoped for action but with the situation now in arbitration, it will be some time before settlement is reached," said Ray Michol this morning.

Mr. Rachar said it is difficult to determine a base rate for all teachers, but he estimated the average rate at $10,000 a year.

"We are not making as much as high school teachers and want about a 20 per cent increase," he said.

"The council is supposed to set guidelines for the 20 colleges in the province, but we find that after we deal with the council we have to go back and deal again with each college," said Mr. Rachar.

"It does not make much sense."

But in Belleville, Mr. Michol commented that the colleges were set up in 1967 as autonomous institutions, each responsive to the peculiar needs of its own community.

"Bargaining is difficult due to this fact," said Mr. Michol.

Lands and Forests Plans No Nearby Trailer Park

The Ontario Department of Lands and Forests has no immediate plans for establishing a tent-trailer park facility in the immediate proximity of Belleville.

This is indicated in a letter to city council from the department which appeared on this week's council agenda.

The letter said the department had no current plans for a park facility within 18 miles of Belleville. The nearest provincial parks were said to be at North Beach and Presqu'ile, about 20 miles away and at the Outlet-Sandbanks area 30 miles from the city.

Department policy will be to complete plans in these areas before launching any new programs elsewhere in the region.

The request for the tent-trailer park was made following discussions in city parks board regarding the possibility of establishing such a facility.

It was decided to ascertain provincial plans before further action was taken by the city toward establishing a trailer park.

Belleville city is not to allow its quest for a provincial park in the Belleville area to go dormant.

Also at this week's meeting, council approved a resolution from its resolutions committee asking that the Ontario government speed up as speedily as possible additional funds for municipal parks and public recreational purposes along the north shore of Lake Ontario and along the Bay of Quinte.

Revolt Is Settled

were believed to be some disgruntled white Rhodesians in the far right wing of Smith's Rhodesian Front party. Some advocated no negotiations whatsoever and a racial pattern similar to rigid South African-style apartheid.

Sir Alec and Smith needed nine plenary sessions over a five-day period to come to terms.

However, it appeared that much spadework was accomplished by Lord Goodman in five previous visits to Salisbury this year. Goodman left Tuesday for London.

Conference sources say the deal probably will keep the Rhodesian government in white hands for more than 25 years. British funds would help underwrite black political advancement which would be based both on education and taxes alone as at present.

Rhodesia, a self-governing colony, broke away from Britain and declared its independence in November, 1965, refusing to go along with British demands for black majority rule in a country of only 250,000 whites.

Britain refused to recognize Rhodesia's independence as it mounted an economic blockade, under UN auspices, in an attempt to force Smith toward a settlement. The four-year air and sea blockade prevents tankers from unloading oil for Rhodesia in the nearby port of Beira in Portuguese Mozambique, but in general the sanctions have been circumvented and have proved ineffective.

An official British spokesman said Smith and Sir Alec actually signed two documents today. He called one "proposal for a settlement" and the other "an exchange of letters on certain financial matters."

As far as Britain is concerned the settlement is subject to the test of acceptance by the fifth of the five minimum British proposals—by the Rhodesian population as a whole and approval by the House of Commons.

The British terms for settlement are based on five principles first put forth by Douglas-Home in another preparatory government in 1963: unimpeded progress toward majority rule by blacks; guarantees against changing the constitution to reverse the process; demonstrable improvement in the political status of the blacks, progress toward ending racial discrimination, and acceptance by the Rhodesian people as a whole of any independence agreement.

Details of the acceptability test will be announced in the parliaments in Salisbury and London Thursday. The test will take place "early in the new year," the spokesman said.

Bylaw Would Silence Train Whistles, Bells

Some day in the future the blowing of train whistles and the ringing of train bells may be a thing of the past in Belleville.

At least, that is the aim of a bylaw given two readings at city council this week.

The bylaw applies to both the CNR and the CPR but Mayor J. R. Scott felt the first step should be to control whistles only on the line where currently there is the only one unprotected pedestrian crossing at Frank Street.

Otherwise, he said, the bylaw could be held void.

But City Solicitor John Miller felt two readings for the bylaw covering both railways was the better way of handling the problem.

He said the procedure would be to forward the bylaw to the Canadian Transport Commission and the railways concerned asking for approval.

The CTC then notifies council for each railway who arrange inspections following which the CTC ultimately has a hearing and makes its order.

He said the CTC frequently will suggest certain changes in the bylaw and possibly appendices listing the crossings.

The bylaw would prohibit train whistles and bells at protected level crossings although a clause would allow warning signals in an emergency.

Unique Seminar Here Tomorrow

Hastings county has been chosen for another educational "first," a seminar for teachers, administrators and trustees to improve communications within the system.

All teachers' federations including those for male and female elementary teachers and secondary school teachers, will be represented.

The all-day session will take place at the Four Seasons Hotel on Thursday.

Topics to be discussed include staff - board relations, teacher tenure, curriculum planning and development, the role of principals and administration, the role of the teachers' federation and budget procedures and policy formation.

This is believed to be the first time in Ontario that teachers and trustees have met to thrash out, in the words of the seminar notice, "why we act the way we do" and "where do we go from here?"

Mayor on CBC

Belleville Mayor J. Russell Scott will be a member of a panel discussion on Great Lakes pollution which will be broadcast over CBC Thursday commencing at 1.15 p.m.

Other members of the planel are Mayor Joe Fabbro of Sudbury and Mayor Peter of Etobicoke. The broadcast will run approximately one half hour.

Obituaries and Funerals

GERALD ROBERT CURRY
Trenton

Employed with Canadian General Electric in Trenton, Gerald Robert Curry of 14 South Murray St. died Tuesday, Nov. 16, in Kingston General Hospital following a brief illness.

Born in Boulter, Ont., he had lived in Trenton for the last 45 years.

He was an active member of the Royal Canadian Legion Branch 113 in Trenton and served on the St. John Ambulance Brigade and worked for Russell Ambulance Service.

During World War II, he belonged to the Royal Canadian Air Force.

He is survived by his mother, Mrs. Florence Curry, and his wife, the former Olive Wannamaker. His father, William Curry, predeceased him.

A daughter, Barbara, is still living at home while a son, Robert, is in the Canadian Armed Forces at Petawawa.

Two brothers, William of Trenton and Melvin of Toronto, also survive.

The funeral was held Friday afternoon in the chapel of Rushnell Funeral Centre. Officiating was Rev. Cecil James Johnson.

Interment took place in Carrying Place Cemetery.

Active bearers were K. K. Kenny, Albert Cunnel, Bill Snelling, Ken Wannamaker, Tom Allore and Ernie Flind Jr.

An honorary guard was comprised of St. John Ambulance brigade, the staff of Rushnell Ambulance Service, Insley Secretarial Series Trumble, and Frank Lozo.

LORNE W. BUCK
Trenton

The funeral of Lorne W. Buck, 21 Ferry Street, Trenton, was held Tuesday afternoon from the Weaver Funeral Home where service was conducted by Rev. F. H. Hobbs of Grace United Church. Interment was in Mount Evergreen Cemetery.

Bearers were grandsons Donald Bailey, Lewis Istead Jr., Robert Istead, Daniel Evans, Gene Gunter and James Johnson.

A retired employee of Dominator Ltd. in Trenton, Mr. Buck died Saturday in Kingston following a year's illness. He was in his 71st year.

Son of the late Mr. and Mrs. William Buck, he was born in Murray township and was a lifetime resident of the Trenton area. He was a member of the United Church.

He is survived by his wife, the former Aletha Ellis, five daughters, Mrs. Ivy (Mildred) Bailey of Wooler, Mrs. Lewis (Dorothy) Istead of Consecon, Mrs. Lewis (Jean) Istead, Mrs. M. A. (Freda) Gunter and Mrs. Roy (Laura) Curran, and one son, Ronald, all of Trenton.

Also surviving are three sisters, Mrs. Harry (Gladys) Bailey of Frankford, Mrs. Bertha Faul, Trenton and Mrs. Leigh Stewart, Schomberg, and four brothers, Richard and Kenneth of Trenton, Everett of Consecon, and Donald of Carrying Place.

There are 16 grandchildren and six great-grandchildren.

One brother, Walter Buck, predeceased him.

IN MEMORIAM

BAIDE — In loving memory of Ann Murray Baide who died one year ago today, Nov. 24, 1971.
Just a year since God and time
To show dear sister we think of you,
Memories are dear, no scenes have been
Time rolls on but memories last.
Sadly missed and treasured by sisters and brother.

DAFOE — In loving memory of a dear mother and grandmother, Sarah Dafoe, who passed away November 24, 1970.
And while she lies in peaceful sleep,
Fond memories we will always keep.
—Lovingly remembered by daughter Myrtle and family.

Consultants Hired On City Hall Job

Engineering Consultants Totten, Sims, Hubicki and Associates will be retained to draw specifications for the installation of air conditioning and new heating at city hall.

The firm has given a preliminary estimate of $50,000 for the installation of the system plus engineering costs, which could run as high as 10 per cent.

The agreement with the firm calls for engineering fees to be double the payroll cost of the engineer, plus reimbursement for expenses.

The most likely system for city hall would be a basement-located, multi-zone forced air combination heating - cooling unit.

Design work will take approximately six weeks and some inside work is expected to commence before spring. Hopes would be for completion of the installation before the hot summer months.

Highland Avenue Parking Revised

Changing traffic patterns are to ease the parking problem for residents along Highland Ave.

On the recommendation of the traffic committee, city council this week voted to allow parking along the north side of Highland from 50 feet west of Burton Street to just east of Parker.

Parking on the south side of the street will continue to be prohibited, however.

Reason for partial lifting of the parking ban is that through traffic along Highway 2 is now diverted along the West Dundas Street bypass and as a result, Highland Ave. now has only local traffic.

Council also approved another traffic committee recommendation that a request be submitted to the Quinte Planning Board to consider the need for the extension of Bridge Street West to Wallbridge-Loyalist Road due to the future need of supplying services to the area west of the city.

Dinner Honors Grand Knights

Past Grand Knights received plaques and pins as mementos of their service with the council. These men were Past Grand Knight Ed Nicholson, Don Blaind and Jack Lumsdan.

Spokesman for the all - male club said, "the highlight of the evening was the attendance of two women in the group." These two, Mrs. Veronica Fox and Mrs. George Whalen, attended the meeting to accept the awards for their late husbands.

All plaques were presented by District Deputy Harry Alvey of Trenton.

Also in attendance were Past State Deputy and Past Grand Knight A. B. Collins, Past Grand Knights Frank Domenico and Stephen Garvin.

Warden's Banquet Friday Night

The annual Hastings County warden's banquet will be held Friday evening Nov. 26 at the new Royal Canadian Legion hall on Pinnacle St.

Hosts for the banquet attended by county councillors and their wives, clerk with county department heads and area municipal officials will be Warden Kenneth Smith of Elzevir Township and Mrs. Smith.

City Hall Repairs

Repairs and renovations at Belleville's century-old city hall are continuing apace. In the fall new steel supporting beams were installed in the basement and currently roof repairs are under way. Next year new air conditioning and heating will be installed. Picture shows scaffolding placed in preparation for reshingling the mansard roof area of the city hall's third storey attic.

PE Council Discusses Registry Office Move

PICTON (Staff) — Relocation of the Prince Edward County registry office necessitated because the building is "antiquated and unsuitable to carry its functions" should not fragment the services provided by the department of justice.

County councillors last night passed a recommendation incorporating four silles for consideration.

It was suggested an addition could be built to the existing registry office owned by the county or the basement of the new building now under construction for the department of agriculture and foods might be implemented.

Other proposals included renovation of the former county jail building attached to the present court house and construction of a new registry office following demolition of the old jail.

These latter suggestions generally were thought most feasible since an addition to the existing registry office would cramp its adjacent parking lot used by municipal officials.

If the registry office were to be located in the new building near Picton, which will house the agricultural offices, it would be inconvenient and "fragment" services.

Copies of the recommendation offering possible sites for the registry building will be forwarded to minister of justice Allan Lawrence, James Taylor, MPP, Prince Edward-Lennox, and other municipal officials involved with the decision.

Picton reeve Albert Piroth, who introduced the recommendation, said he feels there is "a strong case" for having the registry and the sheriff's offices in the same location.

He asked if any member of county council had been approached by a representative of town council concerning use of the registry office.

The reeve explained that Picton mayor Margaret Ackerman recently called a special meeting to discuss the possible use of the registry office as a police lockup. Jail cells at the former county jail are being used temporarily by the town.

He added that if the registry officials relocated in the former county jail, the town will be forced to forfeit its lockup facilities.

Mr. Piroth pointed out that no member of county council's property and supply committee attended the meeting called by Mayor Ackerman and county warden Allan Anderson was not invited.

It was noted that as a result of the meeting the county, the town and the local bar association will forward similar recommendations for relocation of the registry office.

Support also is being sought from the Belleville bar society.

"Picton wants to rent the registry as a 'lockup'" asked North Marysburg reeve Harold Harrison.

"Her worship didn't take me into her confidence," said reeve Piroth.

Language Courses for Civil Servants Continue

Quebec Le Soleil: Language courses for federal civil servants, started by Lester Pearson in 1964, continue to attract a growing number of civil servants.

The wish now is that the teaching of a second language be better adapted to the Canadian reality . . . because despite results which have not always been conclusive, the government is obstinately continuing its objective of a bilingual public service by 1975.

The public service commission has just launched a program called Dialogue Canada. As much by its depth as by its format, the program figures to be an improvement. It is the result of two years of study by the language bureau in Ottawa.

The new method is better for improved teaching of French than the method it replaces, called Voix et Images de France. . . . It will involve the Canadian personality in its audio-visual courses. As well as teaching better French, it will better acquaint English-Canadians with French Canada. . . . It is equivalent to 20 senior civil servants spending a year in Quebec City to learn the language and life of French-Canadians.

The English courses for French-Canadian civil servants will also be modified. It goes without saying that French courses for English-Canadians must receive the most attention. Indeed, 85 per cent of those enrolled are learning French courses. . . . What is the necessity of French courses if not to fill existing gaps.

It is estimated that some 9,000 federal civil servants are studying a second language this year. One is right in thinking that . . . it is one of the most extensive and best-organized courses in the world for the teaching of a second language to adults.

This, to be sure, is an initiative of which Canada should be proud and which may eventually serve as a model elsewhere.

In the interdependent and increasingly unsheltered world in which we live, communications have become vital. Methods of transport and of rapid diffusion of thought permit and encourage communications between peoples of different languages. Thus it becomes necessary to master a second language.

In our age, cultural isolation, withdrawal into one culture, signifies asphyxiation, the withdrawal of great lines of communication.

We in Canada have the advantage of possessing two official languages which are the most widely-used in the Western world, whereas they have also played a predominant role in the shaping of history.

A nation such as ours would be wrong not to exploit to the full the cultural heritage of our two languages, and their extraordinary means of communication. The civil service must concern itself with the country's citizens in their mother tongue. It must, then, follow the path already begun.

—Gilles Beyer (Nov. 15)

Street Incidents

Downtown Belleville is exhibiting further signs of being an unsavory area at night. Council has been told of incidents involving youths bothering citizens and since its Monday meeting other episodes have been brought to light. There is the case for example of a woman out window shopping who was followed along Front Street by a group of youths. When she returned to her car they were still behind her and others were sitting on the vehicle. In another incident two teenage girls were surrounded by youths.

This kind of conduct is absolutely intolerable and why it is in fact permitted is beyond comprehension. For one thing a bylaw was passed a year or two ago, when there were problems of a similar nature, to forbid loitering. If the police require further powers to deal with this situation they should be given them forthwith.

This is the pre-Christmas shopping period and some people may wish to window shop as well, including the hours after the normal 9 p.m. closing time. The main street in particular should be well-policed during evening hours. Moreover, the youth groups which frequent Front Street at such times must be kept in check.

India's Dilemma

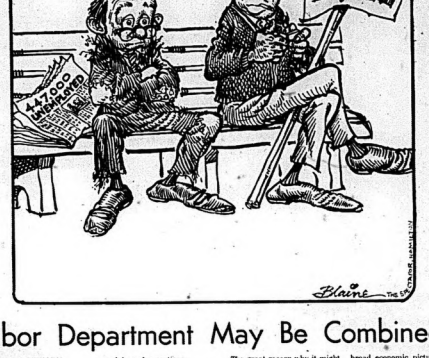
In the present circumstances of Indian-Pakistani relations signs of open hostility are not surprising. Relations between the two countries, at no time cordial, have deteriorated under the mounting pressure on India of Pakistani refugees arriving in the country following the uprising in East Pakistan.

However, if there are hostilities (and if they prove, incidentally, as fruitless as did the earlier confrontation over Kashmir), it should be remembered that the fighting currently involves only one belligerent. India is a huge land mass with a population of some 500 million ,so that only a small part of the country has a part in such a confrontation. Life — and death in a famine where the starving perish where they lie on the streets — continues its ageless cycle.

India actually has been showing many signs of encouraging economic progress and the current issue of Indian and Foreign Review is indicative of this trend. One of the dominant features of Indian progress in the past decade for instance has been the community development program. This covers a wide range of industrial and agricultural activity with the emphasis on self-help and local initiative.

Great strides have been made in wheat cultivation, as manifested by the fact that last year the Ludhiana district of Punjab set a world production record. Here are some other aspects of material progress in India of late: coffee exports last year earned the country more than 220 million rupees, foreign exchange earnings by the woollen industry have crossed the 300 million rupee mark; export of radio sets rose sharply to 40 million rupees, and a Madras plant completed construction of 118 passenger coaches for Taiwan Railways. This concern has also secured an order from Zambia where, incidentally, former Canadian National executive Harry Fast of this city is engaged in an advisory capacity.

India faces tremendous problems, aggravated by the refugee problem on its eastern border with Pakistan. It is wrong however to suppose that the entire sub-continent is in turmoil. Activities cited here are a measure of India's contemporary progress.



Travel Scene

Of 126,469 persons who left Canada during the second quarter of the year no fewer than 100,115 visited Europe, mainly Britain, 13,842 visited Caribbean and Mexican points, while mainland United States attracted only 11,770, a further 702 travelling to Hawaii.

During the same period 36,214 charter passengers arrived in Canada on flights from foreign points, the majority of them, 31,344, being from Britain.

All this says a lot about the travel habits of Canadians and Britons. Canadians, it is clear, are on the move across the Atlantic in greater numbers than Britons coming here. For some reason — maybe because of the breakdown of law and order in many cities — the U.S. attracts fewer visitors. Or it could be via very proximity, and the preference of many people for the historic European scene. Then again much of the movement across the Atlantic to Britain and Europe is by immigrants on trips home.

Labor Department May Be Combined

By DON O'HEARN

Toronto — There is an inside tip around here these days that the labor department is to be broken up.

The department, according to the story, would be combined with another department, as the transport department was recently absorbed by the highways department and the two retitled department of transportation and communications.

Mind you, this very definitely is still just a rumor. But as a rumor it can make considerable sense.

The labor department now is a grab-bag of operations.

Its biggest day-to-day function is policing industrial standards and employment laws such as vacations with pay.

Then it has its conciliation and mediation services and attached to it the labor relations board.

It also has responsibility for apprenticeship and industrial training. It speaks to the legislature for the workmen's compensation board and the human rights commission. And there is a women's bureau, which does something or other.

Then finally, of course, it is responsible for the laws on labor-management relations.

The great reason why it might make sense to meld this department in with another is that except for its conciliation and mediation functions, other departments are doing similar work.

The public works department has industrial inspectors. Financial and commercial affairs, municipal affairs and various other departments all have tribunals attached to them of more or less the same order as the labor relations board.

With industrial training, both education and university affairs are involved in this field, and in fact the uncertain authority has resulted in a big of a mishmash.

When you go through the list of its various activities there are few areas where some other branch of government doesn't have some responsibility and expertise in at least related fields.

The conciliation and the labor-law functions are the only responsibilities exclusive to it.

And you can question whether these require a ministry of their own, or even whether i is ideal that they have one.

Conciliation is an expert function but administratively it probably could be run effectively by an assistant deputy minister in another department.

As for law-making it might be better if the minister concerned didn't have to deal exclusively with labor matters.

Under the present system of a labor ministry, thinking tends to be short-term. There is little evidence that labor policies are considered in terms of our broad economic picture, which, of course, they should be.

There also is the constant suspicion that policy thinking tends to be weighted in favor of the big labor line.

That is after all really to be expected, because strongest and most constant pressure on the minister comes from big labor.

We well might have more mature thinking and policies if the minister responsible was involved in a wider sphere of our life and through this would apply a better perspective to industrial relations developments.

'Souvenir' Hunters

Kennedy Arts Centre Big Temptation For Society's Adult Looters

Watertown (N.Y.) Times

The $66,400,000 Kennedy Centre for performing arts open ed two months ago. Since that time souvenir hunters among the thousands of tourists and concert - goers have been stripping the Centre of just about everything that isn't fastened down — and many things which are. The loss already runs into the thousands of dollars. Some of it irreplaceable or unrepairable.

There has been some vandalism, but for the most part the damage has been the result of pure- and simple looting and stealing. And the culprits are not children, either, who have been reported "most respectful" of the Centre. The looters are adults — both men and women.

Workers' Interests Secondary

Unions Are Too Involved in Politics Says P.M.

Quebec L'Action: Prime Minister Trudeau and Jean Marchand, regional economic expansion minister, spoke on a common subject at a Liberal gathering here recently, saying that union leaders are too involved in politics and use the workers for political ends.

They raised a thorny issue which has bothered a lot of people for several years because of the definite orientation of certain union leaderations toward the political field.

Most collective agreements leave a worker no choice of one union over another. When a person finds work in an industry where everyone belongs to the union, and that is the situation in most cases, he must belong to and support the union to maintain his job. Some workers do so with enthusiasm because they wholeheartedly support all the aims and policies of the union; others do so with indifference so they can work regularly; while still others do so with bitterness. . . .

The theory that everyone must belong has brought security and well-being to unions.

It is rather curious that in a time when everyone is demanding liberties in racial, religious, matrimonial and other areas, few people are protesting a practice which requires a free man to join one union rather than another.

Many unionized workers are not in agreement with the great decisions taken by their union federations . . . but this does not disturb certain leaders who base their statements by saying they represent and are supported by a considerable number of workers whether or not the workers have been asked.

How can a union leader count on support of a candidate in an election and back that candidate in the name of the union? If a poll were to be conducted among the workers, quite often a non-candidate would receive union support.

We admit that unionism can play a constructive role in making the public aware and improving the lot of the workers . . . but many unions risk forgetting their first objective : the defence of the workers' common interests.

The remarks of Mr. Trudeau and Mr. Marchand will probably not change the current situation much, but they may make people reflect—as whether certain union leaders should respect the majority opinion of their members a little more.

Corruption of Public Bodies Is Reason Behind Some Of The Troubles of Quebec

Sherbrooke La Tribune: Many people have an opinion on the causes of the climate of violence Quebec has known for several years.

Guy Marcil, president of the Montreal Policemen's Brotherhood, has added his opinion to those already expressed on the subject. In an article published in the Police Review, Mr Marcil says the system of elected authorities to "grant favors" to a small minority of criminals, to the detriment of the great majority who respect the law.

Mr. Marcil's opinion is severe, but it holds a great deal of truth.

He speaks of "ridiculously light" sentences imposed on criminals by courts to be dangerous, terms of bail which can only be described as a "farce" and a system of no role used in a "ridiculous" way.

It is not the first time that such abuses have been denounced, but governments come and go without finding permits

Board Disagrees on Shuffle

A reshuffling of school board administration offices was deferred Monday night in a move that could bring a new administration centre closer to reality.

The reshuffling would have involved centralizing the academic administrators at 208 Bridge St. East and the business administrators at Avondale School.

At present, the administrative staff is scattered around among offices at College St. adjacent to Quinte Secondary School, 208 Bridge St. East, and Trenton, with some plant and maintenance personnel using Avondale.

A proposal to build an administration centre to bring all personnel together in one building was turned down by trustees some months ago when they found the government would not give grants for office construction.

But the board decided to take a second look at the situation after director of education Eric Runacres sought approval for redistribution of personnel in an effort to increase efficiency.

Under his scheme, Avondale would be renovated for business personnel at a cost of about $10,500, academic personnel would continue to use 208 Bridge St. and the co-ordinators of visual media, outdoor education and community schools would continue to use the Trenton office.

The College St. office should be so'd as quickly as possible and the money put toward an eventual administration building, the director said.

But Robertson Collins objected on the grounds that the proposed setup might not be adequate for any length of time and the board would not get much value from its expenditure for renovations.

James Clarke agreed, adding that under the proposed reshuffling the board would end up with "an old, patched up building and academic and business departments separated".

"Is this a wise expenditure, or should we be proceeding with a new administration building immediately?" he asked. "With administration scattered we have duplication of services, such as receptionists and telephones, at each building. We have penalties buried in our operating costs each year because of these hutments we are lodged in."

But trustee Milford Waller said the annual charges on a new building would be in excess of the cost of renovating Avondale.

Trustees finally decided to ask for another report on the feasibility of a new administration building, to be presented at the next board meeting. The separate school board trustees' association is making representation to the department of education regarding grants for administration buildings, they were" told. Coupled with an earlier request from the public school trustees, this might get government action, MacDonald Smith suggested.

The Special Employment Plan:
Canada works

There's work to be done and the Federal Government's Special Employment Plan is putting $498 million to work to help create more jobs for Canadians.

Your community can benefit by creating a project that will bring more employment and improve the community through the Local Initiatives Program.

Workers may improve their skills or learn new ones through the extended Canada Manpower Training Program.
